EAMSHIP LANE.

[illegible] of the steamer were of [illegible] that the under-water craft had been lurking in the steamship lane between Halifax, St. Lawrence River ports and Europe. They thought it likely, also, that the submersible reported today as attacking a steamer off Nantucket might have been the one sighted previously in northern waters. It was probable, they said, that she had been driven off the northern course and had worked to the southward in hope of catching unawares, vessels from American ports.

The American tanker's captain confirmed the British skipper's report, but added no details. Following the new rule of the sea established since German submarine warfare began, neither vessel went to the assistance of the submarine's victim.

Reports of the sighting of submarines or periscopes in American waters have been frequent since the United States entered the war, but the fact that in this case wireless messages telling of an attack by shell fire were picked up by two steamships gave today's reports the color of truth, in the opinion of shipping men.

Furthermore, the captain of a third incoming vessel reported he had been instructed to watch out for submarines in western Atlantic

CROP OF BUCKWHEAT IS VERY PROMISING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Canada's buckwheat crop promises to be the largest for many years, according to reports to the food administration. Previously it had been reported that the crop would probably be about 30 per cent. short. The food administration is urging a more general use of buckwheat to conserve wheat flour.

SHOOTING HONORS ARE WON BY WOMAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Sept. 15. —Mrs. J. D. Dalton of Warsaw, Ind., was today crowned the new ladies' champion of the Westy Hogans. She smashed forty-eight in the fifty target title race, winning her first major event in the concluding programme of the eleventh annual shoot.

W. A. Simonton of Wilmington, Del., won the Wesley Hogan handicap for amateurs.

NEW CREDIT COLOSSAL.

Eleven Billions to Finance War.

Greatest Budget in World's History Passes the Senate Unanimously.

Measure is Likely to go to Wilson for His Signature Early this Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The war credits bill, authorizing new bonds and certificates aggregating $11,538,000,000 and the largest measure of its kind in world history, was passed by the Senate late today without a roll call or dissenting vote. It has already passed the House and will go to conference Monday. Senators Stone, Smith of Georgia and Smoot were named the Senate conferees.

Few changes were made in the bill by the Senate. The most important Senate amendment was that of the Finance Committee in increasing from one-seventh to one-fourth of 1 per cent. of the bonds and war savings certificates authorized, the expense allowance for their flotation, and decreasing the allowance for the indebtedness certificates from one-tenth to one-twentieth of 1 per cent.

CANNOT BE CHANGED.

As the Senate did not revise the amount of security issues proposed, they cannot be changed in conference. They are $7,538,945,460 of convertible 4 per cent. bonds, subject to income surtaxes and war excess profits taxes, and $2,000,000,000 each of war savings certificates and temporary certificates of indebtedness.

The Senate late today adopted an amendment by Senator La Follette limiting the interest rate on the savings certificates to 4 per cent., but the rate on the certificates of indebtedness is left to the Secretary of the Treasury. Other amendments by Senator La Follette were rejected.

Of the new bonds authorized, $3,000,000,000 are to convert the 3½ per cent. Liberty Loan securities at the new 4 per cent. rate and the remainder, excluding the new $4,000,000,000 for the Allies, are to take up the outstanding Danish West Indies, Alaska Railroad, naval bases and Panama Canal bonds.

LA FOLLETTE'S KICK.

Terms of the Liberty Loan made to run thirty years without privilege of redemption under fifteen were assailed by Senator La Follette, who declared millionaires made heavy subscriptions because, with the taxation exemption, the bonds would yield them 9½ per cent.

"We have drifted into the habit of divesting Congress of all responsibility," he said, "excepting to vote for measures put forth by executive heads of the administration. The Liberty Loan ties the government's hands for fifteen years and the people will have to pay its interest by consumption taxes, long after the war is over."

GOV. COX IS MARRIED.

Executive of Ohio Weds Miss Margaretta Blair at Chicago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 15. — Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio and Miss Margaretta Blair of Chicago were married today in the Erskine Wilder residence in Elmhurst. The Governor's party were Adjt.-Gen. George Wood of Ohio and Col. Jabez Hull of Columbus. He also was attended by his son, James M. Cox, Jr., and his daughter, Miss Helen.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Washington Gladden of Columbus, O., of whose congregation Gov. Cox is a member. Miss Blair was attended by Mrs. Parker Blair and Miss Eleanor Ogden West. Gov. and Mrs. Cox will go for a short honeymoon, then will return to Dayton and Columbus for the winter activities.

Gov. Cox was re-elected last fall to a second term, and he is said to be constructing a $300,000 residence in Dayton.

KENTUCKY MINERS TO HOLD MASS MEETING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Sept. 15.—Word was received here today that a great mass meeting of the striking miners in the Southeastern Kentucky and Northeastern Tennessee coal fields will be held at Pineville, Ky., tomorrow. The question of continuing the strike or accepting the terms offered by the operators is expected to come before the meeting. Between 17,000 and 18,000 men are on strike in the district. All demands made by the men have been met by the operators, with the exception of recognition of the union.

Provost Regulations.

AMERICAN ARMY MAKES NECESSARY NEW RULES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Sept. 11 (delayed.)—Notwithstanding the increased size of the American army, together with necessary changes in the rules and regulations of the provost marshal's department, the principal duty of the department will consist as heretofore in traffic control, maintenance of discipline and the care of prisoners of war.

Traffic control, which consists of regulation of the movements of the troops, munitions and supplies in the war zone and surrounding territory, has become of prime importance in this war because the field of operations is limited and speedy and orderly troop and transport movements are necessary to insure the success of huge armies. The American system of traffic control will be patterned largely after that of the British.

The maintenance of discipline in the American army involves the use of military police, who also are under the control of the provost marshal. The provost marshal of the Allied armies has been of great assistance to the Americans in formulating new rules and to avoid the mistakes made by the Allies early in the war.

AIRPLANE MILLIONS FOR CALIFORNIA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—In an address before the Commonwealth Club here today, Lieut. J. B. Howell, U.S.N., predicted that California concerns would secure $180,000,000 of the $650,000,000 appropriated by Congress for airplane construction. Lieut. Howell declared that there were many facilities for airplane construction in California. It was said that one contract has already been secured by a San Francisco firm.

The contract will require ten months to complete, it was said today.

ANSWER OF GERMANY MAY BE UNFAVORABLE

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—From an authoritative source, it is learned that the reply of the German government to Argentina's demand for an explanation of Count Luxburg's action in sending secret code messages to Berlin through the Swedish Legation has been received here. It is indicated that the reply probably is unfavorable.

The Argentine Foreign Minister does not deny the German answer has been received, although he refused to admit the fact.

PRICE OF CUBAN SUGAR.

SMALL CONSUMERS TO GET SPOT COAL.

REQUISITION PLAN REVEALED BY GARFIELD.

State Fuel Administrators, Soon to be Named, will Ascertain the Exact Requirements Above Amounts Contracted for Throughout Country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Plans for taking care of the small consumers' coal needs this winter by requisitioning so-called spot coal at the mines and directing its sale through local dealers, at government-fixed prices, were disclosed tonight by Dr. H. A. Garfield, the fuel administrator.

The first move under this arrangement, Dr. Garfield explained, will be to ascertain through State fuel administrators, soon to be named, the exact requirements of each State above the amounts that have been contracted for. These will be assembled and the total supply required will be apportioned among the country's mines. Operators will be required to trim their contracts enough to enable them to supply the necessary amount of spot coal.

SOLD SOLDIERS BOOZE; TEN MONTHS IN JAIL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—The heaviest sentence yet imposed here for violation of the law prohibiting sale of liquor to soldiers and sailors in uniform was given to Frank Leroy today by United States Judge William C. Van Fleet. Leroy, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced to ten months in the County Jail.

Dangerous Tasks.

LINE REGIMENT BUSY NEAR FRENCH FRONT.

Veterans Getting Ready to Lay Their Entanglements, Bore Mine Saps and Dig Trenches.

BY LINCOLN EYRE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 15. — I am permitted now to state that American engineers are in France and at work here. A regiment of engineers is established in the Americans' training area. This regiment, which arrived here only a few days ago, is a regular line unit, whereas the forces employed in the French and British sectors are railroad engineers.

A Chicago unit was the first to begin work with the French, having been assigned August 18 to assist in the construction of certain strategic railroads behind a scene of battle. Of the other engineer regiments in France one, at least, will join the bulk of Gen. Pershing's army in a short time, while the others are likely to remain with the French until need of their services arises on the American front, which, probably, will be some months from now.

The line engineers now attached to the first infantry contingent will begin training as soon as their equipment reaches camp. With few exceptions, all of them, officers and men alike, are veterans, most having been with the colors several years. To them will fall the dangerous task of laying barbed wire entanglements at night in No Man's Land, boring saps for mines and directing the infantry in digging trenches. At the front they will be stationed in dugouts behind the firing line, but, as Gen. Sibert put it, they will "go over the top with the doughboys" and play a large and perilous part in consolidating any position won from the enemy. The railroad engineers, on the other hand, are exposed to shell fire only at fairly long range and, of course, to airplane bombing.

When I visited their camp today the engineers were still getting settled. They seemed to be in the best of spirits and health, their only complaint being the comparative idleness forced upon them by the absence of the tools of their trade, which, however, are due to arrive in a day or so. Their officers are kept busy attending classes in up-to-the-minute field fortifications, meaning trenches, fortlets, bombproofs and all the other subterranean enterprises engendered by trench warfare. Their instructor is an American engineering officer who has just been transferred to the United States Army from the Royal Engineering Corps, in which he served two years at the British front.

"Our fellows know as much as I do about the technique of this business," he told me. "All they need is practice and lots of it."

Official Reports.

BRITISH TROOPS ADVANCE ALONG FRONT IN BELGIUM

French Eject Germans from Trenches Occupied Earlier in the Day.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—British troops last night made a slight advance on the Belgian front east of Westhoek and improved their position, it was announced today. The statement adds:

"A strong party of the enemy yesterday attacked the ground gained by us during the day northeast of St. Julien. As they advanced to attack the Germans were caught in our artillery barrage and were dispersed.

"Considerable activity continues to be shown by hostile artillery north of Langemarck."

FRENCH RETAKE TRENCHES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Sept. 15.—French forces after a battle last night ejected the Germans from a greater part of the trenches which they had occupied earlier in the day north of Caurieres wood, in the Verdun sector, the French War Office announced today. Two surprise attacks launched by the Germans north of Prosnes, in the Champagne region, were repulsed by the French.

RUSSIANS DEFEAT GERMANS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—Russian forces yesterday defeated the German troops on the road to Pskoff, on the Riga front, and occupied the small town of Kronberg, the Russian War Office announced today. The Russians also occupied the towns of Keitzen and Sisseral, which had been held by the Germans.

VIENNA REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—"Heavy artillery fighting continues against our positions on Monte San Gabriele and east of Gorizia," says today's War Office statement.

"While clearing our trenches on the northwest slope of Monte San Gabriele we brought in yesterday during desperate engagements twenty-three officers, 535 men and twelve machine guns.

"In the Tyrol and in the Carina district torrential rains are hampering the activity."

BERLIN REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) Sept. 15.—Artillery preparation which attained drum fire intensity this morning on the battle front in Flanders was followed by a British attack on the German positions at St. Julien, the German General Staff reported today. The attackers were frustrated by a German counter-attack and a number of Englishmen were taken prisoners.

RUMANIA FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (via London.) —Today's statement by army headquarters says the situation along the Russian and Rumanian fronts and in Rumania is unchanged and that there was only slight military activity.

SEATTLE I.W.W. CALL STRIKE OFF.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Sept. 15.—Seattle I.W.W. local No. 500, which includes practically all the Western Washington territory, has voted to call off the strike in the lumber mills and logging camps, giving the strikers liberty to return to work, it was announced here tonight.

The Shingle Weavers and the Timber Workers Union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor is not affected and is expected to continue the fight at the shipyards and other plants against the use of lumber cut in ten-hour mills.

The strike of the I.W.W. began July 16 and took men from all the mills and camps of the State.

Reward.

GERMAN WHO KILLS FIRST AMERICAN TO GET CROSS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Sept. 15.—German military authorities on the western front have shown concern about the imminence of the American army's entry into the fighting by offering rewards for the production of the first American prisoners. The general commanding the Eleventh Reserve Division recently put the price of 400 marks on the first American soldier brought, dead or alive, into his lines.

This information has been disclosed by the diary of a Prussian sergeant of the Twenty-third Reserve Infantry Regiment. He wrote at the end of July:

"We are supposed to have had Americans opposite us for some time now, and two divisions of Portuguese on our right. The man who brings in the first American, dead or alive, to headquarters has been promised the Iron Cross of the first class, 400 marks and fourteen days' leave."

Graphic Report of German Bombardment of American Base Hospital on French Front.

Premeditated.

GERMAN AIR BOMBS KILL FIRST FOUR AMERICANS.

Attack in Which Lieut. Fitzsimmons Lost His Life Occurred Just Before Wounded Came In.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept 15.—A graphic description of the German aerial bombing of the American army base hospital which resulted in the killing of Lieut. Fitzsimmons and three privates is contained in a report received today by Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Red Cross war council from Maj. Grayson M. P. Murphy, Red Cross commissioner to Europe.

"The airplane attack occurred at 11 o'clock at night," says the report. "Just at that time fortunately no convoy of wounded was being received or the list of casualties would have been far greater, as one of the bombs fell into the center of the large reception tent to which the wounded are first borne for examination. Ten seconds sufficed for the dropping of the bombs from the first flying plane, and within less than a minute afterward the surgeons of the hospital were at the task of collecting and attending those who had been struck down, and for twenty hours they were at work in the operating room, one surgeon relieving another when the latter from simple exhaustion could work no longer.

CARE FOR WOUNDED.

"And the very same day, just as if nothing had happened, these same surgeons were called upon to receive and care for 200 wounded sent in from the trenches of the British expeditionary force. The hospital, which is on the French coast, has 1800 beds under canvas in a quadrangle 800 feet square, is in a district where there are many similar institutions and is unmistakable as a hospital.

"At the time the aviators flew over it most of the surgical staff was engaged in making rounds of the wards. Lieut. Fitzsimmons, however, was standing at the door of the lap of his tent. There had been a brief warning of the presence of a bombing airplane in the neighborhood, because a quarter of a minute before the sound of exploding bombs were heard from a point perhaps 200 yards from the hospital. This warning sufficed to cause all lights in the tents to be extinguished immediately, and those who had been under fire before threw themselves face down on the ground. Then came five explosions in rapid succession in the hospital itself. The first two were directly in front of Lieut. Fitzsimmons's tent—he probably never knew what happened to him, as his body was torn to shreds. The next two fell a hundred feet beyond in a five marquee ward in which there were many patients and these last struck the reception tent.

NO SOUND OVERHEAD.

"Overhead there was no sound. The German aviator flew too high to be heard, but he left his identity behind him, not only in the bombs he dropped, but in the derisive handful of pfenigs he scattered upon the hospital as he whirled away.

"So severely was Private Aubrey S. McLeod injured that it was necessary to amputate both of his legs that night. Many patients had been blown from their cots, several outside of their tents, where they were found tangled up in the tent ropes. The American nurse, although struck in the face by a fragment of steel from the bomb, refused to leave and remained at her task courageously to the end. A hospital orderly who worked untiringly was found later to have been struck in the head by a fragment and injured. He had just tied up his head and worked on.

"Latest reports are that the condition of the wounded is progressing satisfactorily."

Accident.

UNITED STATES DIVER SINKS AT HER DOCK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — A United States submarine sank at her dock at an Atlantic port yesterday morning, the Navy Department announced tonight, but there was no loss of life. The cause has not yet been determined.

The announcement said it was expected that the submersible would be raised within a few days, when a full report of the accident would be made to the department. For military reasons, the name of the submarine and the port were withheld.

GOVERNMENT BOARD SAVES HALF MILLION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Senator Fletcher told the Senate yesterday that the joint Congressional committee on printing had saved the government half a million dollars by close supervision of paper purchases and its refusal to become panicky when others, scared by the false cry of shortage, were buying paper at excessive prices. "I am hopeful," said the Senator, "that in view of the President's order fixing the price of news print paper at two and one-half cents as found by the Federal Trade Commission to be a fair compensation, the news print paper manufacturers will at once recognize the justice of such an act and make their product available to the publishers of the country at this figure without further action by the government."

THE MOONEY QUESTION AGITATES MOLDERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Sept. 15.—The International Molders' Union of North America in convention here today decided to put the question of old-age pensions to a referendum of the organization.

The Mooney question is again agitating the delegates. The westerners interested in the condemned man are insisting upon action on the question of pledging the International's assistance in the case. Officers and other delegates hold that while they are not unfriendly to the condemned man, it would be inimical to the interests of the organization to take official action.

HAD STOLEN GEMS?

Third Man Arrested in Connection with Robbery of Woman at San Diego.

The recent sensational San Diego "chloroform hold-up" case, in which Mrs. Belle Quinlin was robbed of $2800 worth of diamonds, was echoed in Los Angeles last night when Constable Roger Woodbury and Detective George R. Cooley of the San Diego department arrested "Bill" Levinson in an apartment near Thirty-sixth and Main streets and booked him on the charge of receiving stolen property.

The arrest, the police declare, is the outcome of two previous arrests when a man named Bourchard and another named Dye were taken into custody and charged with being the hold-up men. From them, the detectives say, came confessions that implicated Levinson in the alleged securing of the stolen gems and the payment to Bourchard and Dye of $700 for the stones said to belong to Mrs. Quinlin. A bail of $5000 was set in Levinson's case. He denies the charges.

EASTERN MINERS WANT HIGHER WAGES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Sept. 15.—John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, tonight issued a call for an interstate conference of coal operators and miners in what is known as the central competitive field, to meet in Washington September 25 "for the purpose of considering an increase in wages." The central competitive field comprises the States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

FIVE NEWSPAPERMEN UNDER INDICTMENT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—The five men arrested in connection with the raid by the government on the Tageblatt, a German daily newspaper published in this city, were today indicted by the Federal grand jury. The men are Peter Schaefer, president; Louis Werner, editor-in-chief; Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor; Herman Lemke, business manager, and Paul Vogel, treasurer. They will be tried for conspiring to print false reports in violation of the espionage law.

There were nine additional counts in an indictment of Werner and Darkow on the charge of treason.

WHEAT SHIPMENTS HAVE PREFERENCE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Sept. 15.—As a result of a conference here by members of the St. Louis Car Commission of the Railroad War Board and Edward M. Flesh, agent for the Federal food administration, shipments of wheat and rye in the nine States under the St. Louis office of the food control will have preferential treatment by the railroads.

Wheat and flour shipments will be kept moving, even though this involves a car shortage for other classes of freight.

BUILDS HIGH FENCE TO KEEP ELK AWAY.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

DEER LODGE (Mont.) Sept. 10. Charles McDaniels is not a parsimonious man, but when it comes to furnishing hay all winter for some 150 elk, he considers that is a bit of an imposition on his liberality.

Mr. McDaniels has built a high pole fence about his hay stacks, near the top of a mountain west of here, and hopes to save his hay for his domesticated stock.

waters. It was realized, however, that it was possible the messages were a hoax.

The place where the attack was reported is in the steamship lane of trans-Atlantic ships calling at New York, and in the vicinity in which last October the German submarine U-53 sank five steamships, sparing an American ship, as the United States was not then in the war.

Confirming the statement of the captain of the British ship that the S.O.S. call had been received, a representative of R. Lawrence Smith, Inc., agents of the vessel making the report, announced that the captain has stated that an American tank ship which arrived today and an American radio station also received the signals of distress.

CAPT. GOODWIN'S REPORT.

"Capt. Goodwin reported to us," the representative of the agents said, "that at 8 o'clock a.m. yesterday, when the ship was about thirty miles off the coast of Nantucket, she heard a wireless call in the British code from a ship about thirty miles away that the ship was being attacked by a submarine. The message continued for several minutes and then was followed by the S.O.S., after which no further calls were received. Owing to a ruling by the British Admiralty that no ships may go to the aid of a ship under attack by a submarine, as protection to herself, the ship continued on her course.

"The captain further stated that an American tank ship which arrived at an American port today also received the calls, as did an American radio station. At the time the messages were received the vessels were about thirty miles apart, but the captain was unable to give the name of the vessel signaling distress."

The captain of the American tanker, interviewed by a naval lieutenant, confirmed the statement, it was learned, that his ship also heard the distress calls. His vessel, he said, was less than twenty miles from the ship that was being shelled, but he, likewise, following the new rule of the sea, did not go to her aid.

VIEW IN WASHINGTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Navy Department tonight had no confirmation of reports of a hostile submarine off the North Atlantic coast. The only information it had was the statement of a British merchant captain that his ship had received a "S.O.S." call from another vessel saying she was attacked by a U-boat, as forwarded by naval officers to whom the captain reported. Naval stations and patrol boats were instructed to keep a close watch for any raider.

In the absence of confirmation, navy officers were inclined to think the wireless call might have been a hoax sent by some amateur operator.

In the upper panel is shown Gunner W. G. Clancy of the British E. F. A. the first American to carry the Stars and Stripes into battle on the French fighting front. When the Canadians in their great victory of Vimy Ridge charged over the top and into the German line Clancy tied the American flag to his bayonet and went with the van attackers. He was severely wounded Upon his recovery in a British hospital he was congratulated by Ambassador Page. As a mark of special distinction in recognition of his bravery he is allowed to wear on his left arm a small American flag. Clancy is a native Texan and joined the Canadian contingent that won undying glory and renown by their victory of Vimy Ridge. In the lower panel is shown boys of Section 18, of the American Ambulance, at the French front. Left to right: Chester Carson of Evanston, Ill., a Princeton student, and Albert Gilmore of Madison, Wis.

PENCIL EXPLODES.

Child at Green Bay, Wis., is Maimed when Examining a Peculiar Device.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GREEN BAY (Wis.) Sept. 15.—For the second time this summer a child here has been maimed by an exploding pencil. Saturday Charles Johnson, aged 11, found a metal pencil while on his way home from the Norwood school. He picked it up and when he went to examine it, two pellets came out of the inside, one of them exploding in his hand. Three fingers on his right hand were torn off.

The first accident of the kind occurred on July 23, when Ludvina Rosloski found a similar pencil, which exploded in her hand, causing the loss of two fingers. Police spent several weeks investigating to no purpose and the story was not given much credence. The second occurrence compels the citizens to take the affair more seriously, and a strict surveillance of all doubtful characters is being kept.

The unexploded pellet and pencil are in the hands of officers.

The Japanese is suffering from a fracture of the skull and other injuries.

DISCOVERS MAN WITH TWO HEARTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLARKSBURG (W. Va.) Sept. 15.—A man with two separate and distinct hearts has been discovered in Barbour county as the result of examinations conducted for the military draft, according to word received here today. He is Smith Strader, a youth of Union district, that county, who was examined for the draft. Members of the board and Dr. Monsell Hoff of Philippi vouch for the fact that Strader has two different hearts, each of which beats independently of the other.

JAPS ON WAY TO AN UNDERSTANDING.

MISSION EXPECTS TO EFFECT A NEW AGREEMENT.

Tokio and American Co-operation to Assist Russia in Every Possible Way, is One of the Objects Aimed at South Sea Islands Involved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 15.—Despite reiterations at the State Department that conversations with the Japanese war mission will relate to no questions extraneous to co-operation in the war, the Japanese press insists that the chief business of Viscount Ishii in coming to America is threefold as follows:

First, perfect understanding between the two nations, to be brought about concerning the South Sea Islands.

Second, economic alliance between Japan and the United States to be effected concerning enterprises in China.

Third, Japanese-American co-operation in assisting Russia in every possible way.

The editor of the Sekai believed Viscount Ishii would make no requests of the United States, but would seek to remove any misunderstanding that might exist in the American mind, and he predicted that what Viscount Ishii would take back to Japan with him from the United States would be a new Japanese-American agreement which would constitute an extension of the existing Root-Takahira agreement.

ANOTHER JAP MISSION DUE.

Distinguished Members of Parliament Coming.

Pick of Five Parties will Visit United States.

Economics, Social Conditions to be Studied.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—The first Parliamentary mission in the history of Japan officially to visit America is that of the five members of the Imperial Japanese Diet, which sails Tuesday next for a two months' trip of investigation of political economics and social conditions in the United States. Mr. Tokichi Masao, former political adviser to the Siamese government, has been formally chosen leader of the five representatives of the political parties represented in the Diet. The mission will return from America December 7.

It will be one of the most important missions ever recorded in Japanese history. Intellectually, it is the pick of the empire. Mr. Masao, the leader of the mission, is a member of the Seiyukia party, as is Mr. Tshimada, another member of the party. The Kenseikai member is K. Mochizuki, who is well known to the foreigners in Japan.

MOCHIZUKI'S PROPOSAL.

He is one of the three early Haikaras. In the last session of the Imperial Diet, Mr. Mochizuki attracted the attention of America by his proposal that an exchange of South Sea islands, now under Japan occupation, for the Philippines be made by Japan and the United States.

The Kokominto is represented by Mr. Uyehara, an advanced thinker and author of the "Political and Social Development of Japan." He is a graduate of the University of the State of Washington in America, is a former student of Oxford and was elected to the Diet this spring for the first time. Mr. Uyehara is an authority on legislative matters and is a professor in St. Paul's College, and the Meiji University. He is a frequent contributor to magazines and newspapers on political subjects.

The Ishinkai is represented by Dr. Yaman, who is as well known in the medical world as in politics. He is an ardent supporter of the Terauchi ministry. He was educated in Germany.

DELEGATE'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Mochizuki, when seen by a correspondent, said:

"The long and uninterrupted friendly relations with the United States and our desire to extend our efforts in a common cause against a common enemy, besides our desire to study conditions in the United States so that the two countries may be drawn more closely together in friendly relationship, make this an opportune time for a commission to visit the United States."

Dr. Maseo was made leader and Mr. Uyehara, the assistant leader of the mission at a meeting of the members held at the House of Representatives. Later the members of the party were entertained at tiffin by Mr. Oooka, president of the House. The Mikado and other members of the imperial family as well as high officials of the government are interested greatly in the work of this history-making parliamentary mission to the United States. They are anxious that the war shall bring about better relations between the two nations and that control of the Pacific may be amicably met. The party will touch at Honolulu en route home for a few days stop and will reach an American port at the earliest date.

RUSSIAN CABINET CRISIS IS SOLVED.

CONSTITUTIONAL DEMOCRATS MAY BECOME MEMBERS.

Korniloff's Revolt has Effect of Quickening Interest in the War and Convincing Public that Only a Well-disciplined Army Can Save the Country.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—Russia's political crisis has been solved after an all-night conference, it was announced today by the Russian official news agency. A new Cabinet has been formed and its composition will be made public tomorrow.

Both parties accept the principle of a coalition Cabinet and have no objection to Constitutional Democrats becoming Ministers on condition that they immediately leave that party. The ground for this decision is the view of the parties that the Constitutional Democrats as a whole, although there is no evidence of their complicity in the rebellion and in the demonstrations at Moscow, sided with and encouraged Gen. Korniloff. The parties further demand the convocation of a new Congress on the lines of that held in Moscow, from which, however, the members of all four Dumas would be excluded. It is suggested that the Congress meet not later than September 23 and sit until the meeting of the constituent assembly.

Secretary Soskice added that Premier Kerensky now is in excellent health, despite the fact that throughout the recent crisis he has worked eighteen hours daily.

Judging from the tone of press comments, party and individual expressions of opinion which are raining in, the Korniloff episode has had the effect of quickening interest in the war and convincing the public that only a well-disciplined army with a vigorous fighting programme can save Russia. Gen. Palchinsky, the new commander of the troops in the Petrograd district, in an interview assures the public that the revolt "has had not the slightest unfavorable influence on the fighting capacity of our troops."

Telegrams from the front announce that the spirit of the soldiers is good, while an official dispatch refers to the devoted bravery displayed by the soldiers fighting at Okia. It is stated that the revolting troops everywhere are returning to their positions.

Gen. Stcherbatcheff, the commander on the Rumanian front, has issued a stirring appeal, declaring that it is the supreme duty of the soldiers to defend the fatherland against the foreign foe.

BOXER INDEMNITY WAIVED FIVE YEARS.

ENTENTE ADVISES CHINA OF THEIR ACTION.

Russia will Give up Only One-third, as She Needs Money, While United States will Hold Out Enough to Pay Board of Chinese Students.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PEKING (Monday) Sept. 10. (Delayed.)—Ministers of the Entente Powers at Peking have advised the Chinese Foreign Office that their governments are willing to waive the Boxer indemnity payments for five years. Russia waives only one-third of the first portion of the indemnity, requiring the remainder because of her financial straits. The United States, it is said, probably will ratify the action of the Entente nations, but will not waive its portion of the indemnity which is necessary to maintain the Chinese students in America.

The Entente countries also will grant to China the privilege of increasing her tariff to an effective 5 per cent., which will represent something like a 2 per cent. rise. They will concede to China the right to send troops through the foreign concessions at Tien-tsin, if necessary. The Italian Minister has withdrawn his request that Italy be given the right to the Austrian concessions at Tien-tsin.

Preparations are under way for the formation of a tariff commission composed of Chinese and representatives of the Entente Allies, to arrange a new schedule.

President Feng Kwo Chang and members of the Chinese Cabinet are considering what concessions they will make to the Entente Allies in consideration for their liberality. It is believed in well-informed circles that China probably will agree to intern Germans and Austro-Hungarians, place enemy ship in the hands of the Entente Allies for the duration of the war, enact a higher tariff against the Central Powers and offer laborers or soldiers if they are desired.

The sentiment in official circles is in favor of China joining the Entente governments in signing the London conference agreement against a separate peace, and the Paris economic compact.

Herr Cordes, the German manager at Peking of the Deutsche-Asiatische Bank, has been arrested by the Chinese on the charge of obstructing the government by destroying the records of the bank.

Dr. A. Von Rosthorn, the Austro-Hungarian Minister to China, the members of the Legation staff and the Austrian Consuls have been granted safe conducts. The party will leave Shanghai for Holland by way of San Francisco on September 15.

JAPAN WITH AMERICA IN FIGHT FOR LIBERT

Ishii Mission Assures Philadelphia [illegible] will Welcome Righteous Peace.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—"Japan stands with the United States throughout the struggle for liberty and freedom and will rejoice with America when the Liberty Bell shall again ring the proclamation of a righteous peace," declared Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, Ambassador extraordinary and head of the Japanese war mission in this country in an address today at Independence Hall.

"The force that moved this great bell to sound the alarm in 1776 is the same human force that brings the call to us today. It was and is the force that rings in the right and rings out the wrong. It seems to me that there could be no more fitting opportunity that this to assure you that Japan's hopes and ideals run parallel to America's."

The ceremonies at Liberty Shrine marked the beginning of a whirlwind tour and reception to the mission which will last until [illegible] when the party departs for [illegible] port.

Speaking at the luncheon [illegible] count Ishii paid tribute to [illegible] S. Morris, successor of [illegible] Guthrie, late American Ambassador to Japan. GERMAN COMMENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 15.—The three cablegrams sent by Count Luxburg, German Minister to Argentina, to the German Foreign Office, through the Swedish Legation have finally been permitted to be published in the German press.

The Koelnische Zeitung says that it is easy to understand that the publication of these dispatches in Argentina has made an unpleasant impression and that President Wilson has so far probably been successful with his maneuver, but adds that they only can be rightly judged if it is not forgotten that they were secret messages in code and if the dispatches of Entente diplomacy could be read still more drastic expressions would be encountered. Regarding the phrase in one of Count Luxburg's dispatches about sinking steamships without leaving a trace, the newspaper lamely argues that the expression does not mean sinking a ship with all hands, but so sinking her that military mishaps might be avoided, as for example, concealing the fact from other ships that she was sunk by a submarine and not a mine.

"It is self-evident," says the Koelnische Zeitung, "that the German government cannot be held responsible for the opinions of any one of its ministers. If, on the other hand, the Entente press attempts on the strength of the contents of these dispatches to accuse German politics of duplicity, or the German navy of atrocities, such conclusions must impress the unbiased mind as willful exaggeration."

SWEDISH MINISTER LEAVES LONDON.

GOES ON CONTINENTAD TRIP FOR A FEW WEEKS.

Count Wrangel has Long Conference with Lord Robert Cecil, Presumably on Subject of Argentine Disclosures—Whole Diplomatic Service Under Suspicion.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Count A. Wrangel, the Swedish Minister to Great Britain, and the Countesss Wrangel left London today for the continent on a few weeks' leave of absence. Count Wrangel yesterday had a long conference with Lord Robert Cecil, the British Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, presumably on the subject of the Swedish-Argentinian disclosures. W. F. Bostroem, counselor of the Swedish Legation, here, will take charge during Count Wrangel's absence.

Count Wrangel's departure from London, while not in the nature of a dismissal, is generally taken as an indication that the British government is dissatisfied with the explanations thus far made and the steps thus far taken by Sweden in reply to the British representations regarding the Luxburg affair.

A statement made to the Associated Press today through a reliable source says:

"The additional revelations made in the United States yesterday afford further proof that the practices brought to light are something more than individual action and are an organized practice affecting very largely Swedish diplomacy in all neutral countries.

"The removal of a single subsidiary official from the Swedish Foreign Office cannot remove blame from the Swedish diplomatic service at large. The steps so far taken by Sweden both in respect of their official explanation and the removal of Secretary Ewerloef of the Swedish Foreign Office show a failure to appreciate the seriousness of the situation. Up to the present Sweden has only made a rather poor attempt to excuse the past and has given no promise for the future."

At the Swedish Legation is was said today that Count Wrangel's departure had nothing to do with the Washington revelations. The Minister with his wife, who is a French woman, it was added, usually spends a few weeks in France every year. They probably will be away until the end of October.

VON ECKHARDT DENIES IT ALL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—Heinrich von Eckhardt, the German Minister to Mexico, tonight made a statement denying everything in connection with the disclosures from Washington that he had been employing a former Swedish charge d'affaires to convey information to the Berlin Foreign Office. Von Eckhardt declared that he had never sent any communication through Folke Cronholm and that he never wrote any communication recommending Cronholm for a decoration for his services.

Von Eckhart further declared that he did not know Cronholm personally, only having met him at diplomatic receptions. Von Eckhardt makes a formal denial of everything in connection with the Washington disclosures and in reply to an assertion that Washington had full proof of his complicity declared that this was merely an American intrigue for casting discredit on the representatives of Germany.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—German Minister von Eckhardt's denial that he used the Swedish charge d'affaires in Mexico City for transmitting messages to Germany or that he had written a letter recommending an award for these services arouses no anxiety at the State Department, where officials, although surprised at the sweeping denial, consider that their investigation determined the authenticity of the disclosures and that Von Eckhardt's letter speaks for itself.

Prof. John H. Austin' of Chicago Makes a Remarkable Discovery.

—For thirty-eight years Prof. Austin, bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist of Chicago, who is now at Hamburger's, has been experimenting and searching the depths of science for a preparation that would restore the natural color of the hair. At last he has succeeded in compounding a perfect hair color restorer, which he has named—

Co-Lo Hair Restorer

—It is a scientific achievement. In this remedy Prof. Austin has discovered a process for developing the natural color of the hair in a similar manner to that of developing the photographic negative. It is positively the only satisfactory and lasting treatment for restoring color to the hair in a mild, healthful manner.

—Co-Lo Hair Restorer is absolutely harmless and will not injure either the hair or scalp; contains no lead or sulphur; has no sediment—and is as clear as water—a pleasing and simple remedy to apply.

—You yourself may tell which shade you need—it has been proven that when judging the color of hair every man or woman is his or her own best judge. Co-Lo Hair Restorer comes in—

—A6—for Black and all Dark Shades of Brown.

—A7—Extra Strong, for Jet Black Hair only.

—A8—for all Medium Brown Shades.

—A9—for all very Light Brown, Drab and Auburn Shades.

—During the past year Hamburger's has sold hundreds of bottles of Prof. Austin's Co-Lo Hair Restorer at the Drug Dept. on the Main Floor. It has given universal satisfaction.

—Co-Lo Hair Restorer, on sale at Hamburger's, Main and Second Floors.

—If Your Hair is Oily—have a free microscopic examination made, to determine the exact cause. Hours 10 to 12 and 2 to 4—Hamburger's—Second Floor.

MINERS, OPERATORS, STILL IN DEADLOCK.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

KENNETT (Cal.) Sept. 15.—The deadlock between striking miners and the operators of mines in the Shasta county copper belt, caused by the refusal of the strikers to return to work so long as armed guards were at the mines and the belief of the operators that the miners are not acting in good faith, still is in effect. Walter G. Mathewson, representing Gov. Stephens in endeavoring to effect a settlement, left here last night after failing in his purpose. When asked by Mathewson why they had repudiated the agreement of their committee, which agreed that the strikers should return to work leaving the wage controversy to arbitration, the miners said they were ready to return to work when the armed guards were removed. Supt. G. W. Metcalf, of the Mammoth Copper Company, declared he did not believe the strikers were acting in good faith. He said the operators had lived up to their part of the agreement and armed guards would not be removed. The companies still are trying to operate with as many miners as they can obtain.

POSSE FIGHTS BANDITS.

Three Bank Robbers Hold Off Kansans Four Hours, Then Escape.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUNCTION CITY (Kas.) Sept. 15.—After engaging with citizens in rifle, revolver and shotgun fire for approximately four hours early today, three men who were attempting to blow the safe of the State Bank of Milford, Kas., escaped uninjured and without any spoils.

The alarm was given by a night telephone operator who was working in a building opposite the bank after the men in the bank had fired one shot of an explosive. The men of the town assembled with arms and the shooting began. Two of the robbers held off the men outside the bank while the third man fired seven more shots in the door of the safe.

The discovery was made at midnight, and four hours later the robbers escaped from the bank building and fled on a railway gasoline section car.

MOVE TO CONSERVE THE "HOBO" POWER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The conservation of the "hobo" power of the United States with an annual registration was advocated today by John A. Gray of New York, speaking at the opening session of the fifteenth annual convention of the International Lyceum Association.

"There are millions of hoboes in the country," he declared, "thousands of whom are of the draft age and would profit from military training. Round them up each year, train those who are fit and put the others at work in various institutions."

Other speakers will be Henry P. Davison, chairman of the American Red Cross Council, and George Creel, chairman of the Bureau of Public Information.

The Draft.

MAY EXAMINE AT ONCE EVERY REGISTERED MAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—If a large part of the Governors of the States approve a suggestion by the Provost Marshal General an immediate examination of the 7,000,000 men registered for military service and not yet called for duty will be begun. The suggestion was made with a view to satisfying the great number of young men as to what they may expect.

Telegrams asking opinions on the advisability of such action were sent to all States and it is expected that all replies will be received early next week. To secure the 687,000 men already called for service it was found necessary to examine approximately 3,000,000.

Under the plan considered, candidates would know whether they are to be selected and could make plans accordingly.

FLOOD TAKES LIVES IN NORTH CAROLINA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RALEIGH (N. C.) Sept. 15.—Three deaths and property damage estimated at many thousands of dollars were known results tonight of the floods in Eastern North Carolina caused by last night's torrential rainfall. Two trainmen were killed when an Atlantic Coast line train was wrecked by a washout near Goldsboro.

Dams have broken at several points carrying away buildings and several mills in Greene county are threatened by high water.

RED CROSS TENNIS; RESULTS OF PLAYS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—National tennis players touring for Red Cross benefit met Chicago players today. In the men's singles contest, Walter T. Hayes of Chicago, western patriotic champion, defeated Harold Throckmorton of Elizabeth, N. J., the score being 6-2, 4-6, 8-6.

In the mixed doubles, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the holdover woman's champion from 1916, and Fred B. Alexander of New York defeated Miss Carrie Neely and Sam Hardie of Chicago, 9-7, 6-2.

MILK SITUATION IN KANSAS CITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 15.—Fewer than one hundred persons took advantage of the city's sale of milk today despite the shortage that has existed here for three days, because of the refusal of the seven largest distributors to deliver their product without police protection from strikers.

Resumption of deliveries by the seven distributors will start tomorrow morning, according to announcements today. Use of canned milk was given as the reason for the few sales.

WAR TAX BILL COMPROMISED.

Conferees in Clash Over the Senate Eliminations.

Amusement Levy Discussed; Final Vote Delayed.

Excess Profits and Postal Rates will Come Up.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Conferees on the war tax bill clashed today over Senate eliminations from the measure of the manufacturers' gross sales taxes and others, totaling about $70,000,000, and a compromise by which half this amount will be raised from these sources finally resulted.

House conferees, led by Democratic Leader Kitchin, declined to agree to the Senate proposal to strike out the 5 per cent. manufacturers' tax provided in the House bill. The compromise agreement is understood to have restored a tax of somewhat less than this amount on musical instruments and jewelry, and revision of the automobile tax sections, with increases of 2 per cent. on the gross sales taxes of patent medicines, cosmetics, perfumery and other toilet articles is probable. The compromise section is being drafted for presentation to the committee next week, and it is expected that it will be adopted as drawn.

AMUSEMENT TAX.

On other Senate changes the conferees did not fare so well. The amusement tax, reduced by the Senate from $60,000,000 to $19,000,000, aroused much discussion and a final vote on it probably will not be reached for several days.

Approximately two-thirds of the bill had been disposed of when adjournment was taken tonight. It was expected that a report would be ready next Thursday for presentation to both houses. The excess profits tax and postal rates sections will be the last considered.

Unexpected objection to the tobacco tax section which promises to delay final agreement suddenly appeared today. Mr. Kitchin is understood to oppose the Senate increase in tobacco tax from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Sections covered today included automobiles and motorcycles, tires and tubes, musical instruments, motion picture films, jewelry, sporting goods, yachts and pleasure boats, perfumes and cosmetics, proprietary medicines, chewing gum, cameras, amusements, club dues, stamp taxes and parcel-post packages. The total taxes for these articles proposed by the House were $143,000,000 and the Senate lowered them to $99,000,000. Forecasts are that half this reduction will be restored.

WORK KEPT SECRET.

Much of today's session was devoted to discussing whether the public should be informed of the progress of the conference, with Mr. Kitchin again leading a successful fight against official publicity. Publication of results of yesterday's conference was pointed to by some conferees as proof that it was impossible to keep the deliberations secret, but finally the pledge of secrecy was renewed, and several members threatened to urge official investigation of further publication of the proceedings. Desire to keep lobbyists away from the conferees is the reason given for opposition to publicity.

AMERICAN LICENSE AFFECTS CANADA.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Shipments of wheat, wheat flour, butter and sugar to Canada and Newfoundland hereafter will be permitted only under the same form of license necessary for their export to other countries, according to a new ruling of the exports administrative board. The new requirement, it is understood, is not intended as a step to restrict exports to Canada. Shipments in small lots, under certain conditions, are excepted from the order.

ALLIED LEGISLATURES PLAN CO-OPERATION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Co-operation of the legislative bodies of the Allies and the United States was discussed today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Henry Franklin Bouillon, President of the French Chamber of Deputies, presented his plan for a Congressional commission of twenty-five to an inter-parliamentary council to hold quarterly meetings.

JOY REIGNS AS CHILDREN FROLIC.

YOUNGSTERS ARE GUESTS OF CHURCH WORKERS.

Five Hundred "Kiddies" of Catholic Institutions Given Outing at Venice by Queen's Daughters' Society—Beach Concessions Opened to Visitors.

Five hundred hearts beat with joy yesterday morning when that many children of the Old Plaza Church and various other Catholic churches of this city arrived in Venice as the guests of the Queen's Daughters, assisted by the women of the Old Plaza Church and St. Mary's Church.

The children were from the Plaza, St. Isabel, Boyle Heights and Palo Verde churches and Sotello-street Chapel. When they arrived in Venice, through the courtesy of the Pacific Electric in furnishing six coaches, the amusement concessions, from the miniature railway to the Funny House, were bombarded, as the children were made welcome.

The youngsters were accompanied by Rev. Father Alfonso Pugol, C.M.F; Rev. Father Joseph M. Preciada, C.M.F. of the Immaculate Heart Order of the Plaza Church; and Mrs. McGrath, Mrs. Dolores Lugo, Mrs. H. Casey, Mrs. G. W. Meeker, Mrs. George H. Williams, Miss R. Nogus, Miss J. Garcia, Miss J. Rodriguez, Mrs. Coyne2and Benjamin Pico.

MARINES TURN OUT IN RECORD TIME.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—What is believed to have been a record in "lashing" and "stowing" was made by the United States Marines serving on board a superdreadnaught of the Atlantic fleet recently, according to reports received here. When the call, "Up all hammocks!" was sounded shortly after midnight the sea-soldiers were sleeping in their hammocks. In just five minutes and twelve seconds they "turned out," "lashed and stowed" their hammocks in the nettings, dressed themselves and were at attention on the quarterdeck ready for any duty which might have been required of them.

FIND GROUND GLASS IN BREAKFAST FOOD.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15.—Federal agents are seeking the persons responsible for ground glass which has been found in a certain brand of breakfast food. The investigation was begun after Alfred Meyer, 14 years old, had been made ill by the food.

Examination of a package of the food in the Meyer home showed that it contained more than a tablespoonful of ground glass.

Federal authorities are working on the theory that the glass might have been placed in the food by German plotters.

AUSTRIA PLANS TO FREE POLAND.

EMPEROR CHARLES OUTLINES HIS INTENTIONS.

In Letter to Archbishop of Lemberg He Declares He will Steadfastly Continue Consolidation of State in Accordance with Manifesto of April 5, 1916.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA, Sept. 15. — Emperor Charles of Austria has addressed the following autograph letter to Count Szeptyce-Szeptycki, the archbishop of Lemberg, who is expected to be the chairman of the new Polish Regency Council:

"In agreement with the German Emperor, I intend steadfastly to continue the consolidation of the Polish state in accordance with the manifesto of April 5, 1916, so that country may be liberated from its heavy yoke, and may attain, so far as the war situation permits, the development of the generous cultural and economic forces necessary to its political structure.

"Owing to the hard war times it has not yet been possible for a Polish king as bearer of the old, honorable and glorious crown of the Jagellons again to enter the country's capital, and for the people's representatives, founded on democratic principles, to meet at Warsaw. But now, according to the wishes of the nation, the organs of the Polish state will be created and endowed with legislative and executive power."

The consent of the occupying powers, the decree provides, is necessary for all governmental affairs the administration of which has not yet been handed over to the Polish authorities. The right to appoint international representatives and conclude international agreements may be exercised by the Polish authorities only after termination of the occupation.

The Polish proclamation, the Vienna advices state, says the first task of the council will be the appointment of a Premier which must be sanctioned by the Allied powers. The Premier will immediately organize the Ministries transferred to the Polish authorities. The state council will be revived with increased authority. It will be the forerunner of a landtag. Its task will be a legislative one and its voice in this respect will be decisive.

FORTUNE IN GOLD REMOVED FROM SHIP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

A GULF PORT, Sept. 15.—Customs officials today removed from a Spanish steamer approximately $50,000 in gold coin secreted in a large quantity of ship stores. The seizure was made a few minutes before the vessel was scheduled to depart for a Spanish port. An investigation now is in progress.

At 10:15 o'clock tonight the investigation still was under way. E. Sevilla (steamship agent,) the cook and the storekeeper of the ship and other members of the crew were before the officials. It was expected that the hearing would result in arrests being made soon on a charge of conspiring to evade the President's proclamation on exports.

CONTRIBUTES HORSES TO THE RED CROSS.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

MALTA (Mont.) Sept. 10.—The fact that Thomas J. Canty, who has passed the three score and ten mark, was short of surplus funds during a recent Red Cross campaign here did not prevent his helping to provide comfort for the United States forces in France. Mr. Canty gave two fine young horses, which are to be sold at public auction here to help the fund.

EX-CZAR'S BROTHER SEEMS GOING CRAZY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—Since the transfer of Nicholas Romanoff, the former Emperor, to Tobolsk, according to Birjeviya, former Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, his brother, has been showing signs of mental derangement and has been bombarding the government with requests for various privileges.

The Grand Duke now asks permission to go abroad to take a cure and demands the trial of two officers on whose evidence he is accused of complicity in the Hitrovo monarchist conspiracy.

HUGE SUM FOR SHIPPING PROGRAMME IS APPROVED.

House Passes Amendment to Urgent Deficiency Bill.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — Without objection, the House today approved the Appropriation Committee's amendment to the $7,000,000,000 urgent deficiency bill authorizing an aggregate of $1,234,000,000 for the administration's merchant marine programme. Of this sum, $635,000,000 is made immediately available.

The amendment carries appropriations of $200,000,000 for purchasing, requisitioning or otherwise acquiring plants, material, charters, or ships now constructed, or being constructed; $250,000,000 for the cost of building ships authorized in the bill; $150,000,000 for the purchase of ships other than those now or previously specifically authorized, and $35,000,000 for purchasing, building or enlarging shipbuilding plants.

Discussing the amendment, Representative Cannon of Illinois said that, although he favored the huge appropriation as a war emergency measure, he would not favor anything of the kind in peace times.

Representative Fess of Ohio said that everyone wanted the government to build the ships as they would serve as the foundation for a great merchant marine. He predicted that the time would come when the government would own or operate all ships engaged in coastwise trade of the country.

Rapid progress was made on the bill today and leaders were hopeful of passing it late Monday.

Debate covered a wide range, with Representative Sisson of Mississippi attacking the War Department's contract plan of manufacturers' furnishing material at cost plus a percentage of profit. He charged that the plan was extravagant and dangerous to the economical conduct of the war, and he dwelt particularly on a contract for a million rifles given manufacturers on a basis of cost plus 10 per cent. profit.

UNIONS READY FOR BIG STRIKE.

Iron Workers Remove All Personal Effects.

Twenty-five Thousand to Quit Tomorrow.

United Railroads Expect to Resume Service.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 15.—An undefined atmosphere of unrest hovers about San Francisco tonight as the time for the proposed strike of the 25,000 union employees of the twenty-five unions affiliated with the Ironworkers' Council approaches.

All overtures between employers and the unions have ceased. The walking delegates are holding out for a flat increase of 50 per cent. in wages. The employers assert that such an increase would force them to operate at so great a loss that they would be bankrupt in a few months.

That the union men expect to go on strike Monday was evidenced today when the night crews of the Scott and Moore Ironworks removed all their personal belongings from the lockers in the iron mills. Hundreds of these left the city this afternoon for trips out in the country. The date set for the general strike is noon Monday.

Outgoing trains and boats were filled this afternoon with San Franciscans and their families leaving for somewhere outside the city. Some are going to Oakland and Alameda, others to State points where they have relatives. Nearly all the big wholesale and manufacturing plants are employing extra watchmen.

HOPE OF GOVERNMENT.

While some are hoping that the government will interfere in some way to prevent the strike, the general concensus of opinion is that the ironworkers will go out in a body Monday.

"Blackjack" McGuire, walking delegate of the Boilermakers' Union, also chairman of the Strike Committee of the carmen, is reported to have advised all his lieutenants to "be ready for something big" Monday afternoon and Monday night. There are 4000 members of the Boilermakers' Union. They are pledged to accept nothing less than a 50 per cent. increase in wages. If they should be refused permission to strike as a union, they are ready to quit as individuals.

McGuire has asserted in an open meeting that if the ironworkers go out the cars of the United Railroads will come to a sudden stop until they are operated by union men.

Mayor Rolph adheres to his profession of faith in the "reasonableness" of the union laborites. He asserts that under no conditions will he permit State troops to be called into the aid of the police and it is well known that the police will not make any strenuous effort to stop a disturbance started by union men.

ATTITUDE OF MAYOR.

This attitude of the Mayor gives encouragement to the lawless element of the unions. The Law and Order Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the executive officers of the twenty-four independent civil and commercial organizations have been discussing in private the general labor situation. Their one desire is that there shall be no lawlessness and no pillage. They are taking no active part in the wage conferences between employers and employees, but are asking that all differences shall be settled within the law.

While every one is trying to take a hopeful view of the situation there is no disguising the fact that tomorrow will be the gloomiest Sunday in San Francisco since the one following the earthquake and fire eleven years ago. The appetite of the lawless element for violence has been whetted by the lax methods of the police during the street car strike. If 25,000 irresponsibles go out on a strike Monday, there is likely to be war as Gen. Sherman saw it in San Francisco until aid comes from the outside to restore peace. Mayor Rolph has been dubbed "The assassin of law and order." He is playing his part well.

UNITED RAILROADS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Resumption of normal night service on the street car lines of the United Railroads, employees of which are on strike for recognition of their union, a wage increase, and shorter hours, will become effective here Monday night, it was announced today by William von Phul, general manager of the corporation.

The decision was reached after a conference between Mr. von Phul, and Chief of Police D. A. White. The Chief of Police has instructed all members of his department to give the corporation's present platform employees the maximum of protection against acts of violence. Service for the last three weeks has been stopped at 8 o'clock each night.

There has been a noticeable decrease in violence during the last few days, the police said.

The striking platform men will hold a mass meeting Thursday night, it was announced today, for the purpose of presenting their side of the conflict before the public.

PRIVATE CONVICTED OF SLAYING SERGEANT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Sept. 15.—Private Thomas Bradley of an artillery regiment stationed here was convicted of manslaughter by a jury at Tombstone, Ariz., yesterday. He was accused of killing Artillery Sergeant Alexander Brown on August 29 ,last, while both were members of an automobile party bound for Bisbee.

BUCKING BULL RIDER AT THE STATE FAIR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 15. — A sham battle, stock parade, harness races and a special programme of events by the United Commercial Travelers, featured the closing ceremonies of the State Fair today. Novelty horse races and four-round boxing bouts were to be staged by the travelers. Live-stock judging, several band concerts, bucking bull riding, infantry drill and a special horse show and fireworks at night also were on the programme. The fair has surpassed all previous records for attendance.

PATHETIC LETTER OF AN OFFICER.

LIEUT.-COL. ROBERT, SUICIDE, DEPLORED CONDITION.

Declares in His Situation He Would be More of a Menace than Help to His Regiment—Regretted He Could not go to the Front.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VANCOUVER BARRACKS (Wash.) Sept. 15—Lieut.-Col. H. H. Robert, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, who was found dead in bed on August 31, at Vancouver Barracks, Wash., as a result of a gunshot wound, self-inflicted, left a pathetically patriotic letter which came to light today. He wrote:

"Realizing after consultation with the surgeon without my request that I am in a state of mental and nervous exhaustion, I believe that I am more of a menace than a help to the regiment. The doctor says that I am a nervous mental wreck from intensive work and worry for the past four years or more. God knows I hate to leave such a position as I have, but I must think of my country, my corps and my regiment even at the expense of my own life and my family's welfare. The surgeons have ordered a change for me. I am sure in my own interest, and I have tried to collect and muster together my nerves and energy with a view to reach the goal of my ambition—active service at the front—and, oh God how I regret to lose it. But I cannot bear to give up and remain behind when others go to the front.

"I want all effects and my estate to go to my darling wife for herself and the boy.

"God help my precious family.

[Signed] "HENRY H. ROBERT."

State Superintendent of Weights and Measures Warns Fuel Dealers Against Cheating.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 12.—Charles G. Johnson, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures has issued instructions to all weights and measures officials in California, with a view to protecting fuel buyers this winter against unscrupulous dealers. As a protection to the public in the estimation of quantity the department has permanently fixed the standard cord of 128 cubic feet as a legal measure for wood.

"I intend rigidly to enforce the measures now taken," said Johnson, "and I will ask a prison sentence for every fuel dealer who is not absolutely on the square with his patrons, in so far as my authority extends."

The public, in purchasing firewood, should carefully estimate the cost per cord, Johnson declares, as this is the only system of measurement under which his department can make inspections and verify delivery. The sale of wood by the tier, rick, pile or basketful provides a convenient opportunity for deception. The buyer should insist upon the dealer quoting his price per cord, half or quarter-cord. In the purchase of coal, each sack must contain 100 pounds net weight, which does not include the weight of the sack. There is no tolerance allowed in the weight of a ton of coal, which must weight a full 2000 pounds.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 15.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, replying in a message to the Cologne Chamber of Commerce to one or more of a series of anti-Wilson protests from German organizations of all sorts that continue to be announced in the German press is quoted in a telegram received by the Dutch News Agency, as saying:

"By his attempt to create disunity, President Wilson has succeeded in uniting the German people. I don't doubt that Mr. Wilson will receive a clear answer by the seventh war loan. May Mr. Wilson continue in future to be a part of the force which ever intends evil and does good."

GERMAN TORTURES TOLD BY RUSSIAN.

HORRORS OF PRISON CAMP GRAPHICALLY DESCRIBED.

One Labor Battalion on Western Front, Consisting of 2000 Men, Reduced by Starvation, Exposure and Beatings to Less than 500, Washington Hears.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Another chapter is added to the story of the tortures of German prison camps by a Russian soldier who escaped by tunneling with a knife under the electrically-charged fence along the Antwerp-Rosendaal line. It has been forwarded to the State Department from Petrograd.

Brutal treatment and poor and insufficient food have cost Germany the labor of thousands of prisoners, he says. One labor battalion on the western front consisting of 2000 men has been reduced by starvation, exposure, beatings and death to less than 500. The daily rations for a prisoner, he reported, consisted of a small amount of bread and turnip soup, the soup enriched occasionally by a bit of horse meat.

The unfit, the wounded and those who have lost members of their bodies were kept in invalid camps until they died, but never, he says, returned to camps in Germany because the officers in command feared the psychological effect upon the people of the sight of the maimed men, often little more than animated skeletons.

Stern and implacable methods were used to compel prisoners to work. Ingenious tortures that ended only short of death were inflicted on some, while others were shot outright. Punishments varied from enforced standing at attention for a day at a time without food to beatings with rifle butts and to hours of suspension in the air with ropes being tied to the wrists while prisoners' hands were held behind the bodies, the result being to throw the weight on the unnaturally twisted muscles of the arms and shoulders. Such methods in his own battalion, once 2000 strong, had reduced it to 350 at the time he escaped.

NORWAY'S SHIPPING ONE-THIRD DESTROYED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—More than one-third of Norway's commercial fleet has been destroyed by Germany and prospects are that if the present situation continues long the remainder will be sent to the bottom, according to Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, of the Norweigan mission, now in this country. He was one of the principal speakers at last night's session of the national conference of the world's food supply being held here under the auspices of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"Our shipping between Great Britain and her allies was not considered with friendly eyes by the Germans," said Dr. Nansen, "and their U-boat warfare has to a great extent been directed against our shipping and our losses have therefore been heavier than those of any other neutral nation and I believe one-third of our commercial fleet has been destroyed."

Economics.

SWISS DEPEND ON US TO LIVE.

Plight of Tiny Republic is Told by Professor.

Receive Coal and Iron from the Central Powers.

Berlin Makes Strong Efforts to Gain Sympathies.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—Little Switzerland's plight in the midst of the great war and her dependence upon America for her means of existence were pictured here today by Prof. William E. Rappard of the University of Geneva, a member of the Swiss economic delegation to the United States, in an address before the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Prof. Rappard declared his people's sympathy is with the champions of democracy against autocracy, as becomes the citizens of the oldest republic of the world, but that neutrality was a fundamental element in their national life and their word "not a scrap of paper."

"Since 1914," he said, "Switzerland has become entirely dependent on the Allies in general and on the United States in particular for many essential commodities, the most important of which is grain. On the other hand, Switzerland has become equally dependent on the Central Powers in general and on Germany in particular, for equally essential commodities, the most important of which are coal, iron, chemical fertilizers and potatoes. That the Central Powers should not supply us gratuitously with coal and iron is as natural as it is natural that the Allies should not allow us to pay for them with the foodstuffs they export to us.

ALLIES' UNDERSTANDING.

"The Allies have recognized that our economic relations with the Central Powers have been limited as far as is compatible with the necessity of our national existence. In order to live we must import some cereal foodstuffs from the Allies and export some products of our grazing industry to the Central Powers that is the price exacted for the coal and iron which no one but they can furnish us. To deny us the right to import or to make it dependent upon the refusal to export would, therefore, be to deny us the right to live.

"In her efforts to hold and to gain the sympathies of Switzerland, Germany has used two tools, one intellectual and the other economic. The first has failed her. A bad cause poorly defended, such is the Swiss opinion of the German propaganda. The other tool which Germany has has been much more effective.

"In spite of our contrary sympathies, or, perhaps, on account of them, she has been generous towards us. Burning exclusively German coal, the Swiss people suffered less from last winter's cold than the German people themselves. Last year three-fourths of our imported potatoes were furnished us by Germany. Our own crop had failed and this spring, when we were in dire need of potato seeds, Germany, in spite of her own shortage, supplied us liberally.

AMERICAN EMBARGO.

"When the rumors of the threatening American embargo on food for neutrals reached Europe, rumors which provoked still more rejoicing in Berlin than anxiety in Berne, it was intimated that if the Allies failed us we might rely on Germany even for our cereal foodstuffs.

"In her present situation, there are few economic sacrifices which Germany would not make if they were fruitful of political advantage. Fortunately, the Allies have also treated us fairly thus far. The allurements of unlimited German generosity have, therefore, not been too effective. But they are dangerous and they might become fatal for our people if we were not certain of your people's and of your government's sympathetic interest and support.

"The United States government has it in its power to serve Switzerland or to ruin her. For America to serve Switzerland in the present crisis is to clear the way for a realization of the American peace idea, by convincing the most hardened of German skeptics and cynics of its absolute sincerity and of its moderation. For America to let Switzerland perish or to allow her to be served through the shrewd and calculating generosity of the German autocracy would be to abandon the most ancient and the firmest foothold of liberal and federative democracy on the continent of Europe."

BERLIN PEACE RUMOR DENIED IN LONDON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 14.—The interviews that Dr. Michaelis, the German imperial Chancellor, and other leaders have had with the German Emperor, the Deutsches Tages Zeitung of Berlin, believes, are connected with an English peace offer, "rumors of which assume from hour to hour a more definite form."

THE DENIAL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—It is only stated that any suggestion that such a peace offer has been made by the British government is totally devoid of foundation.

GEN. KORNILOFF UNDER ARREST.

Fate of Leader of Rebellion is Agitating Russia.

Government not Revengeful, but Must Stand Firm.

Rebel's Brilliant Services Make Him a Hero.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—Gen. Korniloff, leader of the recent rebellion against the provisional government, and Gen. Tokomsky, the commander of the northern front, who refused to take command of the Russian armies after Korniloff was deposed, have been arrested.

The question of the probable fate of Gen. Korniloff is exciting public opinion. Indications are that the government must face serious difficulties over the matter.

A feature of the conflict is the creditable absence of bitter feeling and clamor for vengeance. Having re-established capital punishment at the front, however, the government, if it spares the rebel commander, must face the reproach that it executed common soldiers for less serious offenses and it would be virtually impossible to impose the death penalty in the future.

KORNILOFF'S SERVICES.

Against this are the facts of Gen. Korniloff's brilliant services, his chivalrous and personal character and the happy circumstances that there has been no bloodshed so far.

There are indications that the government is seeking a way out. As an instance M. Mishkin, the Minister of the Interior, declares that the government has decided not to take extreme measures against Korniloff, as it does not wish to appear revengeful.

"The story," M. Mishkin said, "is so tangled that only an inquiry by a commission can elucidate the truth. Meantime we have reason to believe that the revolt was due to a misunderstanding with Korniloff's emissary to Kerensky, Vladimir Lvoff, who has not the reputation of being a responsible man."

The newly - completed Cabinet again is a melting pot. The newspapers report that representatives of the Social Democrats and the Social Revolutionists visited Premier Kerensky and announced their parties would withdraw if the Constitutional Democrats were taken back into the ministry.

News of the arrest of Gen. Korniloff was first conveyed in a telegram received by Premier Kerensky from Gen. Alexieff, the Chief of Staff. So far only the following details have been received:

"At 10 o'clock last night Gen. Korniloff and Gens. Tokomsky and Romanovsky and Col. Pleustchevsky-Plieuskhen were arrested.

"The members of the commission of inquiry are due at Mohilev at midnight and the arrested persons will be given into their hands. Such other officers as the commission selects also will be arrested.

"All the troops at Mohilev are true to the provisional government and recognize my authority."

GOMPERS FOR KERENSKY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WOODEN SHIP YARDS CLOSED.

Eight-hour Day Insisted on by the Strikers.

Union Predicts Trouble will Spread in the State.

Seattle Unions Hopeful that Government will Aid.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Sept. 15.—The committee managing the strike of all the wood workers employed in the Seattle shipyards, said to number 4000, insist that the strike can only be ended by action of the government that will establish the eight-hour day in the lumber industry in that State. The shipyards men are on strike against handling ten-hour lumber and the building carpenters of Seattle also are on strike against such lumber. Most of the wooden shipyards of Seattle are closed by the strike.

Chairman Jagg Brown of the general strike committee said the committee held several conferences today with employers who were willing to sign agreements to stop the use of "unfair" lumber and who asked the help of the committee in getting eight-hour lumber. Several members of the committee expressed the belief that the government in the end would be forced to commandeer a few of the largest mills of the Puget Sound, Gray's Harbor and Willapa Harbor districts in order to obtain material for shipbuilding.

IDEAS OF LABOR.

Seattle labor organizations have for several weeks been urging the Washington delegation in Congress to request the government to commandeer both mills and timber, if necessary, to prevent trouble in the shipyards and elsewhere over the eight-hour-day strike.

Chairman Brown said that there was every reason to believe that the Seattle boycott and strike would spread to all Western Washington shipyards within the next few days.

The general strike committee received a telegram today from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, saying that Gompers had taken the Seattle situation up with the United States Department of Labor and had been advised that the department had already begun an investigation.

WHITE CORROBORATES.

The committee's information is corroborated by Henry M. White, Immigration Commissioner for the Seattle district and ex-officio representative of the Department of Labor in the Northwest. Though he had not received specific instructions at that time, Commissioner White began an inquiry into the strike yesterday afternoon and is continuing it today.

Though he declined to go into details, White expressed hope today that a satisfactory adjustment of the lumber boycott strike could be found.

QUIT IN OREGON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. HELENS (Or.) Sept. 15.—Three hundred employees of the St. Helens Shipbuilding Company struck today, on orders from the Metal Trades' Council in Portland, tying up the plant. The local union had voted at a meeting last night not to strike. The company announced today that the yard will reopen Monday on an open-shop basis.

LAWRENCE DE LACY SENT TO THE ISLAND.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Lawrence De Lacy, editor of a weekly publication, was sentenced today in the United States District Court to eighteen months imprisonment at McNeil's Island (Wash.) penitentiary, and a fine of $5000 folowing his recent conviction with two others of conspiracy to effect the escape of former German Consul-General Franz Bopp, and E. H. Von Schack, former Vice-Consul, from a detention camp on Angel Island.

D. J. Harnedy, a shoe dealer, and William Mullane, a bartender, were each sentenced to one year in the County Jail and fined $1000. Motion for a new trial for the three men was denied and notice of an appeal was made.

Bopp and Von Schack were interned as dangerous aliens after the declaration of war. Both had previously been convicted of violation of United States neutrality.

SUGAR INDUSTRY IN LICENSE SYSTEM.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—By a Presidential proclamation today the entire sugar industry in the United States was placed under the food administration to be conducted under a license system which will control manufacture, distribution and importation.

TONS OF BEETS AFFECTED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Approximately 650,000 tons of beet and cane sugar manufactured annually in California will be affected by the President's proclamation placing the sugar industry of the United States under control of the food administration, according to Robert Oxnard of the American Beet Sugar Company.

California produces about 250,000 tons of beet sugar annually and imports raw cane sugar to the amount of approximately 400,000 tons from the Philippines and Hawaii for manufacture, Oxnard said.

$967 crop of potatoes from two acres at NUEVO RANCH

NUEVO RANCH POTATOES
STUART

Nuevo Land Co.
Gentlemen:

Here is an example of what Nuevo land will do. I planted sixty rows of potatoes, each row being 40 rods long. The area of the land was exactly two acres. From this field I produced 248 sacks of fancy potatoes, using only about $10 worth of water. For this yield I received $837.77. The balance of the crop I kept for seed potatoes. This amounted to 23 sacks worth $130. Therefore my entire crop was worth $967. What more could you ask me to say about the productivity of Nuevo lands? I came here from Whittier and I am here to stay. My health is better here than it was in the Whittier district.

I trust that this information will be of some value to you.

Yours truly,
Henry Linden

Read what these Nuevo ranchers say

J. H. Dunlap says: "I hunted all over for choice Southern California land with water at a low price, and I found it at Nuevo Ranch."

Mrs. Ida Wood says: "I look for a steady increase in land values at Nuevo Ranch. Consider me a permanent booster."

R. M. Piety says: "I would advise any hard-to-please man to come here and investigate."

Earl M. Harvey says: "There are great farming and money-making possibilities here. The soil is wonderful and the water supply is good."

W. S. Caswell says: "No better land opportunity for the money in Southern California than Nuevo."

A. D. Cleaver says: "Nuevo is climatically perfect and growing conditions are ideal."

SOBER A YEAR, GETS LEGACY.

Man Collects Money Willed to Him Under Strange Condition.

It was judicially decided by Judge Rives of the Probate Court yesterday that Ralph M. Seay had been sober for one year. The decision meant a legacy of $2500 to Mr. Seay. The condition to be abstemious was attached to the legacy of the will of A. J. Seay of Long Beach, formerly Governor of Oklahoma, the uncle of Ralph.

On his seventieth birthday, December 28, 1902, Gov. Seay executed his will distributing his estate of $318,583.87 to his relatives. Among these relatives were seventeen nieces and nephews and he says of them in his will that all were worthy and all had hitherto received financial help from him in proportion to their needs, the prodigal and unfortunate receiving more than the rest. In disposing of his property he said he was not unmindful what they had done for him.

To Ralph M. Seay he bequeaths $2500 "upon the sole condition that he has entirely quite drinking for at least one year." Testimony was introduced to show that Ralph had complied with the condition.

AUTOIST IGNORES WOMAN HE FELLS?

LEAVES HER PROSTRATE AND CONTINUES, POLICE SAY.

Deputy Sheriff Takes After the Speeding Car and Driver is Captured at End of Two-mile Chase. Admits Lack of Lights; Pleads Ignorance of Accident.

Following an exciting, two-mile chase, William M. Tucker, an insurance broker, living at No. 506 South Marengo avenue, was arrested by Special Deputy Sheriff Bernard Chavez on the Mission road, after, the police allege, he ran over a woman and left her on the road near Lincoln Park, last night.

The injured woman was Mrs. Y. Lopez, who, together with her husband was walking toward the city when the accident occurred. Mr. Chavez was driving his automobile several hundred yards behind another car, and suddenly came upon the figure of the woman with her husband bending over her.

From them Mr. Chavez learned of the accident, and then started after the automobile ahead. According to the police, it was the only car on the road at that time, and after a two-mile chase, Chavez caught up with it and placed Mr. Tucker under arrest. The prisoner was taken to the Sheriff's office and from there to the Receiving Hospital, where, the police declare, he was identified as the man responsible for the accident.

Mr. Tucker admitted having no lights on his car. Detectives Glenn and Rico declare they found evidence to show it was his machine that struck Mrs. Lopez. Mr. Tucker denied knowing he hit the woman. He was booked under the law covering failure to stop after an accident.

Catarrh For Ten Years—Peruna Made Me Well

Mr. Charles S. Many, No. 12 Water St., Ossining, N. Y., writes: "I had catarrh for ten years, and tried a great many kinds of medicines, which cost me a lot of money, but did me no good. Instead of getting beetter, I seemed to get worse. My eyes weree bloodshot, my nose smelled so bad that I was ashamed to go in company. I was night guard at the prison, and I would get so dizzy that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling. I read about Peruna in the New York World, and thought I would give a trial. I used about ten bottles, and I am cured of catarrh, and the dizzy feeling has left me and I am not bothered with it any more. I keep Peruna in the house, and when I feel a cold coming on I take a little bit of it and it does me good."

FRATERNAL PICNIC IS GREAT SUCCESS.

LARGE NUMBER ENJOY OUTING AT REDONDO BEACH.

Outdoor Sports, a Luncheon in Grove, Dancing in Auditorium and Competitive Drills, Which are Judged by Army Officers, Make up Fine Programme.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Sept. 15. —More than 2000 persons enjoyed the annual Fraternal Brotherhood picnic today. The amusements and sports were in charge of Col. G. W. Bailey and the Picnic Committee composed of Gen. G. S. Adolph, Mrs. Marie L. Goran and Mrs. Emma R. Neidig.

The programme commenced at 2 o'clock with the outdoor sports, which were held on El Paseo, in front of the auditorium. After the events were run off prizes were distributed in the auditorium to the winners by Supreme President Carlos S. Hardy.

A luncheon was given in the picnic grove at 5 o'clock. The evening was devoted to dancing in the auditorium and to the competitive drills for trophy cups and cash prizes by the Los Angeles No. 1, Hermosa Beach No. 32 and Royal California No. 490 teams. The uniform rank trophy cup, which was won by the Hermosa Beach No. 32 team at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and a trophy cup donated by Mrs. Emma Neidig won by the Royal California No. 490 team last year, were the two cups competed for. Three officers from Fort MacArthur acted as judges and were pleased at the efficiency of the different teams.

The following were the results of the sporting contests:

Boys' race, 14 years and under—First, Donald Stephen.

Girls' race, 14 years and under—First, Margaret Austin.

Single ladies' race — First, Miss Emma Clage.

Single men's race—First, Leo Ortez.

Married ladies' race—First, Mrs. Maggie Clark.

Married men's race—First, R. T. Mahon.

Three-legged race — First, Duane Carlton and Donald Stephens.

Fat men's race — First, A. R. Benedict.

Potato race—First, D. W. Lober.

WILL LEAVE FRIDAY.

Second Quota from Santa Monica Bay District will Depart North in One Batch.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 15.—All the second quota to leave for American Lake from district No. 3 of the county will depart on the same day instead of on consecutive days in squads of fourteen. This announcement was made today by E. J. Vawter, Jr., secretary of the local exemption board. Orders had already gone out to the men to depart on five separate days, beginning September 19, but this plan was changed upon the receipt today of new orders from Washington. Seventy men are to leave next week.

The men will report September 20 at 9 o'clock at the City Hall and will be furnished transportation and meal tickets. They will leave for Los Angeles Friday morning.

The local board has decided to issue a call for 300 more men to be examined, making the fourth call, in order to be sure to get the quota of 174, of which 144 are now available. These men will report for examination September 24 and 25.

—An Unusual Showing of the New Fall Arrivals in Home Furnishings

Never before in the history of the furniture craftsman's art has it been possible for the furniture buyer of moderate means to obtain such really unusual furniture at comparatively small cost—pieces of distinctive, ultra-rich design which embody the very highest grade of expert workmanship.

Our extensive departments today are literally overflowing with new creations just received from the big Eastern shops. There are many conceptions here that have never been shown in Los Angeles—many handsome pieces and sets that have been faithfully copied from the most beautiful old "Period" designs, the real "art furniture" of the ages. Your attention is particularly directed to the new fall effects now on display in our drapery and rug department—a diversity of fabrics and patterns that is not surpassed West of Chicago.

And here is one point to remember when you buy home furnishings: The Los Angeles Furniture Company is the oldest furniture store in Los Angeles, established 47 years ago. Only a policy of true representation and fair dealing could have survived this test of time.

$54.50

Extraordinary values in Living Room Furniture in the New Period and Overstuffed Designs.

The luxurious chair and rocker shown here are upholstered in a heavy grade of figured velour in the rich mulberry shade. They are full overstuffed, with loose double-spring cushion seats and spring backs. We have a big luxurious fireside-style davenport to match, which completes the set. Davenport is specially priced at $108 (regular $120 value.) You will be interested in seeing the many distinctly new designs in living-room pieces now exhibited in this department—the new cane-end and cane-panel effects, the scores of beautiful tapestry, velour, and damask covered pieces, etc.

—the Newest Effects in the Beautiful Brown Fiber-Tapestry Furniture.

—a special value for $22.50

Here is furniture that combines rare beauty of appearance with supreme comfort — "all-year furniture," especially suitable for the California home. The high-backed rocker shown here is richly upholstered in an excellent grade of tapestry with loose tufted cushion seat, over comfortable springs. We have a very extensive showing of brown fiber and reed furniture—rockers, chairs, tables, French "long-chairs," etc. We invite your inspection of this department, and will be pleased to have you call even though you do not intend to buy. We gladly place our time at your disposal.

I CURE PILES FISTULA and all Rectal Diseases WITHOUT AN OPERATION

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others. I cure without surgery and my patients are not confined in bed and seldom lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatment administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

Read what a few well-known Southern California people have to say of my method. Many similar letters are on file in my office.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily recommending the man and his methods.

WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line I heartily commend you.

Very sincerely yours,

STRIKE ACTION AGAIN PUT OFF.

Carpenters to Confer with Employers Tomorrow.

Weinstock Named as Second Federal Mediator.

Final Action to be Taken Saturday Night.

Meeting at the Labor Temple, members of the Carpenters' Union last night voted to submit their demands for a minimum wage, an eight-hour day and recognition of their union to a committee of the Building Industries Association.

It was stipulated that the conference should be arranged by Capt. Charles T. Connell of the local immigration office and Col. Harris Weinstock, who were appointed to act as Federal mediators in the controversy, and that it should be held not later than 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The carpenters agreed to postpone their threatened strike, which was called for tomorrow afternoon, pending the conference. The meeting then adjourned to meet again next Saturday, when the result of the mediation conference will be reported and they will then decide what action they will take.

Over 2000 carpenters attended the meeting, representing all of the locals of the union in the city. The meeting was held behind closed doors, and those admitted were forced to show their union card and mumble a secret password. John A. McAllon, president of the Carpenters' Conference Committee, presided.

The Federal mediators, Capt. Connell and Col. Weinstock, outlined the work they had done to secure a conference between the workmen and their employers and so avert the threatened strike. Col. Weinstock was appointed a mediator only a few hours before the meeting, but had made himself familiar with the details of the controversy.

The chief impediment to the conference appeared to be that it had been endeavored to arrange conferences between the Master Builders, and other organizations, with the carpenters, instead of treating with the blanket organization, the Building Industries Association, of which J. H. Bean is president. The Building Industries Association officials were approached yesterday and agreed to confer with the men, Capt. Connell told the carpenters, and the last obstacle in the way of arbitration was overcome.

The union stipulation that the proposed conference must take place not later than 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon was taken to mean that if the mediators are not successful in arranging the meeting, the threatened strike will be called.

The demands of the men are for a minimum wage of $5 per day, an eight-hour day with time and one-half for overtime work, and the recognition of the union.

It is said that the association will pay $5 a day to every man who is capable of earning such pay but that they will not agree to a closed shop.

If the mediators fail to reach an agreement at the proposed conference, the union will vote to strike at their meeting next Saturday, according to union officials. They said that at their meeting a week ago they had voted that a strike should automatically go into effect unless the builders' association reached an agreement with them. This action makes it certain that the strike will be called at the meeting next Saturday unless an agreement is reached at the mediation conference, according to the union officials.

TO STIR PATRIOTISM.

Patriotic Organizations Plan Great Mass Meeting in Billy Sunday Tabernacle on Thursday.

To further stimulate patriotic feeling in the community representatives of a number of patriotic organizations met yesterday in the office of Maj. A. F. Judson, at No. 227 in the Coulter Building, and made plans for a mass meeting to be held in the Billy Sunday tabernacle next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

All local patriotic organizations will attend in a body and will hear Billy Sunday preach a sermon on some patriotic theme. The organizations which have been invited to participate are: The Grand Army of the Republic and its auxiliaries, the Spanish War Veterans, the Civil War Veterans, the Columbia Circle of the Ladies of the G.A.R., and the Boy Scouts.

A committee of fifteen was appointed, headed by Maj. Judson, to make all arrangements for the mass meeting.

MORE ENGINEERS WANTED.

SCHOOLS GIVEN APPORTIONMENT.

State Treasurer Arrives and Deposits Three-quarters of Million Dollars.

Friend W. Richardson, State treasurer, arrived here yesterday and arranged for the settlement of the amount due this county on high and grammar-school apportionment, the total being $773,400. This amount he turned over to the county treasurer.

Mr. Richardson arranged this settlement in exchange so that the school funds were put to no expense on account of shipment of money. He is at the Hayward Hotel and will be one of the speakers at the annual convention of the Southern California Editorial Association which convenes here tomorrow.

When the water boils, it passes through the little tube down through the top of the percolator and drips down over the coffee until the full strength has been consumed. The glass-covered top shows you the strength of the coffee without even lifting the cover. All you have to do is place the coffee in the retainer and pour in the water. It cannot boil over, you don't have to watch it. In a very few moments your coffee is piping hot, ready to serve, clear as amber, rich in flavor.

UNIVERSITY CLUB UNIT SAILS SOON.

LEADING MEN IN AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE.

This is First and Only Company to go from Southern California and its Duties will be to Take Munitions and Supplies from the Base Depots to the Front.

The last complete unit of the American Field Service to be organized prior to the recent federalization of that service by the United States government will sail shortly for France from an Atlantic port. It is the Los Angeles University Club unit, and will be commanded by Lieut. William N. Reagan, a Stanford man and a veteran of two years on the western front. On its roster will be found the names of many leading collegians and its personnel has scarcely been equaled in the character of its members and their prominence in civil life. Among them are John Pike, who has given up a Hoover appointment to join the contingent; Edward C. La Forge, noted Stanford athlete; Howard G. Rath, Los Angeles investment broker, and William A. Morehouse, Jr.

There are many complete units in the American Field Service. This is the first and only one to go from Southern California. Its members, like those of the San Francisco and eastern collegiate sections of Cornell, will handle the transport and the munitions and supplies between the base supply depots and the front line positions. A three-months' intensive course of training at Soissons will precede their entrance into active service.

The term of enlistment coincides with the duration of the war. Expenses, averaging $500 per man, are borne by the individual. France has bestowed the "Croix de Guerre" upon more than 100 American Field Service men since the organization of the work by Americans at the battle of the Marne. A gift of ten ambulances marked its beginning.

In addition to the adoption of this section as a whole, the University Club, through the interest of individual members, has adopted a large number of the "fatherless children of France."

Following are the names of the members of the Los Angeles University Club Unit and their college. Any communications addressed to them may be forwarded through S. A. Lindauer:

R. C. Anderson, Virginia; S. C. Brewster, Kansas and Harvard; J. F. Fitzpatrick, California; R. E. Graf, Jr., California; D. M. Keith, Michigan; E. C. La Forge, Stanford; E. McGaffery, Harvard; W. A. Morehouse, Jr., Texas; H. G. Rath, Williams; L. H. Smith, New York; F. D. Wilcox, Michigan; H. R. Barcus, Pomona; D. L. Edwards, Princeton; E. M. Gibbs, Pomona; G. J. Geguette, Oregon Agricultural; C. T. Hutchins, Michigan; L. P. Lane, Southern California; C. P. McCan, Harvard; John Pike, California; H. G. Scott, California; J. J. Taylor, Illinois; W. N. Reagan, Stanford.

QUARTER OF SKULL AREA IS REMOVED.

J. E. Henson, an employee of the city water department at Camp Raymer, near Van Nuys, was struck by a truck at Seventh and Los Angeles streets, driven by Ray Fink, late last night. Chief Police Surgeon Gilmer rushed from his home and, with Assistant Surgeon Zorb, performed a delicate operation at the Receiving Hospital. One-fourth of Henson's skull area was removed to lessen the pressure on his brain, and he has a chance to live. His home is at No. 2117 East Forty-seventh place.

Worm Turns.

SALOON MEN MAY TURN ON BOOZE.

DISGRUNTLED LIQUOR DEALERS HAVE BONE DRY PLAN.

Third Ordinance to Absolutely Wipe Out Industry may be Put up to Vote, Say Workers Connected in Campaign to End Evil. "Hit 'Em Hard," Pleads Sunday.

Rumors current yesterday were to the effect that three anti-saloon ordinances may be voted upon at the same time at the election to be set for late in November or early in December. The last one, mentioned as more than a possibility, is to be backed by the saloonists, who favor a bone-dry city if they are put out of business.

Following are the principal provisions of the three measures:

No. 1—Banish the saloon and place certain restrictions upon cafes, restaurants, hotels, "social clubs," wholesale houses, including a provision which will not permit the sale of distilled liquor excepting in drug stores. This measure is proposed by the Anti-Saloon League.

No. 2—Banish the saloon and prevent breweries, wineries and bottling houses from selling to any person who does not hold a city license. This proposed measure is to be backed by all angles of the liquor industry excepting the saloonists. It would not prevent the sale of distilled liquor in wholesale houses, cafes, etc., the restrictions remaining as they are under present laws.

No. 3—Elimination of the saloon and every other phase of the liquor business, making Los Angeles "bone dry." This measure is proposed by some of the saloonists.

That neither the first or second measure is favored by the real prohibitionist is admtted. The "prohibs" would rather vote for an ordinance absolutely eliminating the booze industry. As a result, the disgruntled saloonist who fears that his business is to be banished would carry the entire industry with him and feels that the prohibitionist would support such an amendment.

These and other angles of the big question were discussed at a meeting of saloonists, wholesale dealers and others, held Friday night in the Higgins Building. "Judge" Bowman, head of the United Industries, was present and gave the members of the various liquor associations sage advise.

He is said to have tried to impress upon the men that their only hope of defeating any of the proposed measures is for the industry to stand as a unit and fight. If they are divided among themselves "Judge" Bowman told them they have little hope of victory.

"Hit 'em hard," is the way Billy Sunday expressed himself yesterday with regards to the present campaign. The famous evangelist is heartly in accord with the plans of the dry faction and in a few days will deliver his famous booze sermon.

CALLED TO WASHINGTON.

W. P. Masaus, United States divisional auditor of the Southwest, in charge of all the accounting work for Camp Cody at Deming, N. M., and Camp Kearny, California, has been called to Washington, D. C., to attend a conference of all the divisional auditors of the country. Mr. Musaus is one of the well-known certified public accountants on the Pacific Coast and has made Los Angeles his chief office for many years. On account of the new duties that he has assumed for the government, he is away from the city most of the time and his local business is being taken care of by his partner, Arthur Wolff, formerly of New York City. According to latest advices from Washington, D. C., the government is contemplating the erection of numerous cantonments in France for the American troops, and it is understood among his friends that Mr. Musaus will be tendered the position of head auditor for the same if the cantonments are actually constructed on foreign soil.

PENNSYLVANIANS IN BIG PICNIC.

PATRIOTISM IS THEME AT SYCAMORE GROVE OUTING.

Interesting Programme and Basket Lunch Provide Pleasure for Eight Hundred Former Residents of Keystone State—Capt. Fredericks Principal Speaker.

Eight hundred former Pennsylvanians joined in a monster "talkfest" and picnic at Sycamore Grove yesterday. There was an interesting programme of patriotic songs and speeches, preceded by a basket lunch of the good things to eat "like mother used to make" in the good old Quaker State.

Capt. John D. Fredericks, who was the Republican candidate for Governor at the last election, delivered the principal address. The programme was opened by the crowd singing "America." Then Rev. Joseph A. Stevenson of Santa Ana spoke on "The Glories of Pennsylvania," among the greatest of which he included Gettysburg, Valley Forge and the Liberty Bell. When he had finished, the crowd joined in singing "The Red, White and Blue." Then Rev. R. W. Molterm of Glendale read an original poem entitled "Keystone Hiawatha."

A. W. Frye, president of the society and chairman of its Committee on Arrangements, delivered a patriotic address on "America," after which the programme ended with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

REMARRIES ON DAY SHE IS DIVORCED.

ANGELENO NOW IS BRIDE OF RICH OXNARD MAN.

Obtains a Final Decree from Well-known Society Man Here and Promptly Becomes the Wife of Another—Couple Leave on Extended Eastern Honeymoon.

On the same day she obtained her final decree of divorce from Jack Reynolds, a society man, Mrs. Ada Jeanette Reynolds became the bride of Harry Roderick Staples, a wealthy young manufacturer of Oxnard.

The ceremony was performed last Friday in San Francisco at the home of Mr. Staples's sister, Mrs. Harry Yerxa, and was a very quiet affair, no other relatives or friends being present. The couple left the following day for an extended eastern wedding trip over the Canadian Pacific. They will return the latter part of October.

Mrs. Reynolds obtained her divorce in the Superior Court in Judge Craig's court, alleging cruelty and intoxication. The decree became final only last Friday. Mrs. Reynolds is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gion Jobson, and a sister of Mrs. Dr. F. R. Bancroft.

Education.

NEW TEACHERS AT EVENING SCHOOLS.

Y.M.C.A. CLASSES TO BEGIN EARLY NEXT MONTH.

Advertising and Commercial Publicity will be Handled in Thoroughly Modern Manner, and Lectures by Business Men and Experts will be Arranged.

Special night classes for young business men, now being organized by the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A., and scheduled to begin early in October, will be in charge of practically a new staff of instructors this year. Dr. E. Harvey Madlock, lecturer and author, will resume his position as instructor in salesmanship, and Louis Bobadilla again will have charge of commercial Spanish, but in public speaking and in advertising, the newest feature of the night classes, the instructors will be recent additions to the staff.

Harold J. Stonier, instructor in public speaking and English at Manual Arts High School, will conduct the class in public speaking. Advertising and commercial publicity will be in charge of Marc N. Goodnow, advertising manager for the Y.M.C.A., and magazine and newspaper writer. Instruction in the latter course will follow the outline as prepared by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which is a standard course throughout the Y.M.C.A.'s of the country, and the co-operation of a number of advertising experts and business men of this city in delivering lectures is being arranged.

F. B. Rowlee, formerly in the office of the general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, has been named instructor in stenography, typewriting, dictaphone operation and office training. Twenty-five students are now enrolled in this branch of the Y.M.C.A. commercial schools. J. D. McLeod, a graduate of the University of Manitoba and a post-graduate of U.S.C., is in charge of high school preparatory courses this year.

A recent appointment to the staff of the Y.M.C.A. auto school is George Yeager, for more than three years superintendent of the automobile shops of the Chicago police department, who becomes instructor in the local machine shop.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL.

Woman Charges She was Deprived of Rights when Judge Ordered Instructed Verdict.

A motion for a new trial in the action brought by Elizabeth J. Gard against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to secure $50,000 damages alleged to be due by reason of the death of Homer E. Gard, her husband, was filed in the United States District Court yesterday.

Mrs. Gard alleges that the defendant company was negligent in that it allowed gasoline to leak from a car which subsequently caught fire and severely burned her husband, causing his death.

One of the principal points urged in favor of a new trial is the fact that Judge Bledsoe delivered an instructed verdict, and it is alleged that the plaintiff was thereby deprived of the right of a trial of her action by a jury.

The motion will be argued October 1.

NEW FIRM IN FIELD.

A new insurance concern with the firm name of Mines & MacKeigan has been formed by W. W. Mines and Alexander MacKeigan, well-known local realty men, to enter the insurance field in this city. The firm is entirely independent of the old, established realty firm of W. W. Mines & Co., of which Mr. Mines is head, and will engage in an insurance business only. The firm has taken over the Inman-Ashley and the Consolidated Agency Company agencies and will also act as resident representatives of the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company, the London and Lancashire Indemnity Company of America and the Standard Accident Insurance Company.

CLUBMEN HOLD WESTERN JINKS.

Staid Professional Men Hit Trail for Roaring Camp.

"Days of '49" Re-enacted in Big Mountain Festivity.

Jurists Doff Cloak of Dignity at Frontier Town.

Over 600 business and professional men of this city, members of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, yesterday donned costumes of the days of '49, piled into a long line of waiting automobiles at the club and hit the trail for "Roaring Camp," at Brent's Mountain Crags in the Santa Monica Mountains, some forty miles from Los Angeles, where they will re-enact the scenes of frontier days in the West on the outing and high jinks which began last night and will continue until tonight.

A replica of a frontier town of the early California days was built in the wilds, where an elaborate programme of wild and woolly western stunts was carried out. The chairmen of the committee which arranged the outing are William E. Bush, John F. Powers and Commodore Albert Soiland.

Business men, clubmen, motion-picture actors, lawyers and doctors were given various roles which they enacted at the camp. Although the party is strictly a stag affair, a number of the "prettiest" members of the club were selected to portray feminine characters in order that the picture of camp life might be complete.

The campers slept in tents, ate big pot-luck meals and held a camp-fire rally at night. During yesterday afternoon the big programme of entertainments was begun. It will be finished today.

There were races of all descriptions, three boxing bouts, a circus, field sports and contests for prizes, games in the casino, dancing in the dance hall, faro, broncho-busting and a number of skits. The skits included a twin wedding between Salome Jane and One-eye Joe, and the Dutchess and Handsome Harry; a hanging bee, with all its joyous preliminaries; a hair-pulling match between Omaha Liz and Lager Beer Maud, the plot of Blackie Jonas and his outlaw band, the kidnapping of the brides of the twin wedding ceremony, camp fire minstrels, and selections by the Whooping Cough Quartette and the Horse Thieves' Chorus.

William E. Bush was chosen camp boss. Law and order was represented by Joseph Scott. Other characters were Judge Avery as a parson, Sheriff Cline as the sheriff, Dr. Sam Alter as Pigeon-foot Sallie, Frank Garbutt and William Clune as the Prairie Schooner Twins, Dr. George Kress as One-eye Joe, Commodore Soiland as Black Jack, the outlaw, and L. Frank Baum as the king of gamblers.

John F. Powers was chosen to be the victim of the lynching party, which was one of the most hilarious affairs enacted by the club members.

The happenings at "Roaring Camp" were recorded in a motion-picture film, which the club will later show in Los Angeles for the benefit of the Red Cross. The scenario was written by C. de Vidal Hundt and put into motion-picture form by Francis Guihan. Douglas Gerrard directed the picture's production. The clubmen all took part in the scenario and expect to produce a film of 3500 feet. They were aided by a number of professional stars, including Charley Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Mack Sennett, Charley Murray and Herbert Rawlinson.

The majority of the club members will return home late tonight and close the doors of "Roaring Camp" to civilization, to be forgotten like many a former frontier town.

Girls! Use Lemons! Make a Bleaching, Beautifying Cream

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is simply marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

Ready.

NEW NATURAL GAS MEASURE DRAFTED.

PROPOSED ORDINANCE TO GO TO COUNCIL TOMORROW.

Plan to Compel All Companies to Supply Patrons with Natural Product, Both for Domestic and Industrial Purposes—Enactment of Law will Affect Rates.

City Attorney Stephens has completed a draft of the proposed new gas ordinance, the principal feature of which is a provision compelling all gas companies to supply their patrons with natural gas. The measure will be presented to the Council tomorrow and it is understood a majority of the members will support it.

The importance of the proposed measure is the bearing it will have upon the gas-rate problem which has been referred again to the State Railroad Commission. The Commission recently fixed the gas rates in Los Angeles, its decision being based upon a supply of artificial gas. That natural gas is of superior quality and will cost the citizens more money is the opinion of President Lane of the Utilities Commission, but he says the public can well afford to pay more for the better quality.

The Railroad Commission has been asked to grant a rehearing of the gas question and City Attorney Stephens believes it will do so. It is the desire of city officials to have the new ordinance adopted before the commission takes further action.

SO THE CHILDREN CAN SLEEP SAFELY.

At the suggestion of Fire Commissioner Yates and Battalion Chief O'Donnell of the fire department, W. H. Hoegee of the William H. Hoegee Company, Inc., has donated a sleeping tent for the temporary use of twelve little girls at the Volunteers of America Home, No. 501 South Boyle avenue. The home was moved to its present location last week but a fire escape which had been ordered could not be installed at once. As soon as the fire escape is placed the girls will sleep in the attic which, with the present arrangement, was not considered entirely safe either by the officers of the home or by the fire department representatives.

DANGEROUS CALOMEL IS SELDOM SOLD NOW

Calomel Salivates! It Makes You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work—Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Better Than Calomel and is Harmless for Men, Women, Children—Read Guarantee!

Every druggist here—yes, your druggist and everybody's druggist—has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large family-sized bottle costs only 50 cents and if you find it doesn't take the place of dangerous, salivating calomel you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine, no sick headache, biliousness, ague, sour stomach or clogged bowels. Dodson's Liver Tone doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all next day like calomel.

Take a dose of calomel tonight and tomorrow you will feel sick, weak and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work!

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up with your head clear, your liver active, bowels clean, breath sweet and stomach regulated. You will feel cheerful and full of vigor and ready for a hard day's work.

You can eat anything afterwards without risk of salivating yourself or your children.

Get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and try it on my guarantee. You'll never again put a dose of nasty, dangerous calomel into your stomach.

Target.

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND BILLY'S CONVERT GOAL.

He Asks the Lord to Give Him that Many Repentant Sinners—Score Now Over Two Thousand.

BILLY SUNDAY has set the mark for converts during the present evangelistic campaign. He asks the Lord to give him 25,000 souls here.

During the closing prayer last night, which was being uttered by Dr. Otto W. Wilke, Billy, standing at one side of the platform, adjoining the reporters' tables, made audible prayer, asking for 25,000 converts in Los Angeles. To date the converts and those who have hit the sawdust trail number 2251, so Billy's prayer is in the way of being answered.

The record shows that there were ninety-nine professed conversions in the neighborhood prayer meetings before the regular tabernacle campaign was opened. Last Thursday night, when the trail was first opened in Los Angeles, at a meeting for men only, there were 1238 trail-hitters. On Friday night the call brought response from [illegible] women. Yesterday afternoon seventy-one hit the trail, and last night there were 197 travelers over the tan-bark to the mourners' bench.

BIG CROWD.

Although Saturday night is generally considered an "off" night for evangelistic campaigns, the tabernacle held its usual quota last evening. There were large delegations from outside towns, among them being Oxnard, Torrance, Glendale, Tropico and Arcadia. There were also a large number of soldiers from the Santa Anita camp. Always the appearance of the soldiers or sailors at the tabernacle meetings is the signal for wild cheering. The precedent was followed last night, and again when several parties of men in Uncle Sam's uniform hit the trail. "Ma" Sunday was responsible for several of the men falling into the sawdust-strewn path. She went out through the audience, and when her eyes caught sight of military uniforms, there she wended her way. Her personal invitations are almost always accepted.

The choir did especially good work last night, although it was not up to its full size. And a feature that was particularly popular was the singing of the Sunday sextette—George Sunday, Ward, Matthews, Peterson, Rodeheaver and Brewster. They sang southern negro camp-meeting songs and were wildly cheered.

The crowd at the Sunday tabernacle is not slow in expressing itself. It has great freedom. When it likes a song or a statement from the preacher, or the appearance of a delegation, it at once lets the fact be known. Cheers and hand-claps are regular parts of every meeting. Once during the week, Billy Sunday had to stop his prayer for a while, so that the people could do their cheering. When they subsided he went on with his petition to the Almighty.

Last night the invocation was given by Evangelists Hermiston of the Baptist Chapel Car, and then Mr. Sunday preached one of his most famous sermons. This was on "The Timid Woman." It was based on the biblical incident of the woman who pressed into the throng and simply touched the hem of the garment worn by Jesus, but through her faith she was healed of a disease of twelve years' standing.

The sermon was one of the most direct that Billy has yet preached in its laying down of the lines of rigid orthodoxy. It was strong in its condemnation of "isms and schisms."

"TO HELL WITH IT."

"I have no objection to a new theology," said Billy Sunday, "if its newness consists of making old truths more clearly understood, but if its newness consists in trying to take the old truths out of our hearts, then to hell with their theology.

"You can recast your theology, but you can't recast the truth. The truth is that the Bible is the word of God; that Jesus Christ is the Son of God; that you are saved by faith in His blood. You can recast your theology all you want to, but you cannot recast these truths."

With a remarkable wealth of incident that had direct application to the points made, the evangelist pressed home his urging of the assemblage to start in the Christian life. He frequently referred to the hopes and purposes of the present campaign, and declared:

"The devil hadn't anything to do with making the plans for this campaign, and I tell you something is going to happen here that will make all hell howl. Los Angeles will never be as it was before this campaign was begun—it will be on a higher plane."

"Well, Jesus," prayed Billy, "we've been preaching here two weeks and it's time this throng pressed forward and comes to touch the hem of your garment. You just help the blunderer toward Christ."

Then came his clarion call of "Come on! Come on!" and the trail-hitters began to wind their way toward the platform.

During his sermon last night Mr. Sunday said:

Mark, v:28: "If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be made whole."

The scene of this story is laid in the little town of Capernaum. Jesus has just returned from the country of the Gadarenes, over on the other side of the Sea of Galilee; and on the way He had stilled the tempest, astounding His disciples by His power over nature: and while there He healed the wild man, who had been filled with the legion of devils.

And the people besought Him to leave their country as quickly as He could, for in the saving of a man, two thousand hogs had been lost, for the devils in this man besought of Jesus the privilege of going into the hogs, and it is the only record we have that Jesus ever answered the request of devils.

He did it, to the destruction of the hogs, but to the salvation of the man. And the devils came out of the man and went into the hogs, the hogs ran down the hill into the sea, the sea went into the hogs, and two thousand of them were dead. So the fellows who owned these hogs came to Jesus and requested Him to leave their country, for they didn't want any more work done of saving men at such price as that. If it came to the question between having the devil in the men or the devil going out of the men into the hogs and losing the hogs because the devil was in them, they'd rather lose the men with the devil in them.

So they said, "You get out of here; we would rather lose the men."

HOGS OR PEOPLE?

And I can see some of those old hog-raisers wringing their hands and crying that the country is going to the bow-wows and will be ruined unless this Man who sent the hogs galloping into the sea can be persuaded to leave, and He mustn't cast any more devils out in that hog-raising country.

What did it matter if homes were made unhappy by the devil? What did it matter if women and children were made unhappy by the devil? What did it matter if they did live in fear and in wretchedness because of the devil? What did it matter if they were made wild and furious because of the devil? What did it matter if people were made ragged and bloody and wounded and savage because of the devil? What did it matter if people were murdered because of the devil? What did it matter if homes were ruined and virtue was wrecked and property destroyed; what did it matter if taxes were made higher because of the ravages of the devil?

All of this hadn't hurt the hog business and the swine trade was a great thing over in that country. Didn't it give employment to a lot of men? Didn't they take better care of their hogs than they did of their wives and their children? Destroy this blessed business? Why, if you do, down goes everything; and I imagine they were wiping their eyes on their hog skin coat sleeves, throwing up their hands imploringly like a brewer just before election, and they besought Jesus to leave just as quickly as He could, for every moment He tarried, men were being saved and hogs were being destroyed.

And so they said, "We want you to know which side of this proposition we are on. We are on the hog side of the devil."

THE DEVIL'S BUSINESS.

Now isn't that just like the whisky business? Oh, it is a blessed business! Doesn't it give employment to multitudes? Don't lawyers, and sheriffs, and jailkeepers, and penitentiary keepers, and contractors who supply the jails and the penitentiaries, and the insane asylums, and the homes for feeble-minded, and all the institutions of that dirty business, kept packed full of the wrecks of humanity—don't they get a rich living from the stream of dollars that the devil pours into their pockets? Oh, doesn't it make times good? Doesn't it bring trade? Doesn't it promote sociability? Doesn't it, my friend, and don't we have good feeling? Don't they shake hands more in the saloons than they do in the church, and don't we need the license to do that?

Oh, yes, you need the saloons to keep the jails full. You need saloons to keep the electric chairs and scaffolds going. You need the saloons in order to keep the houses of illfame filled. We need the saloons to keep our insane asylums and homes for feeble-minded and our hospitals full. We need them to keep the land filled with the wreckage, with the jetsam of the folks who have gone under in that infamous business.

And Jesus, followed by a great crowd, started down the streets of Capernaum. There is no case on record where Jesus Christ ever turned a deaf ear to a father or a mother, and he is just the same tonight in this city.

NEED COURAGE.

Oh, how many little girls over in Gadara at the point of death might have been saved if their hog-raising daddies hadn't demanded Jesus Christ to get out! Oh, how many happy homes there would be in this old town tonight if men only had the courage and the manhood to walk arm in arm with Jesus Christ, and if your mothers would live for Him, and the sons and daughters; but the man who would rather have sin than have Jesus Christ, my friend, can't expect that his children will be saved, and the man who will engage in the business that will damn other people's children, he has nobody to blame, my friend, if his own are lost and a curse that is wilfully turned loose upon others will return to him, and it ought to come back.

Jesus and the great crowd, led by Jairus, hurried down the street. Suddenly Jesus stopped and He turned around and said, "Who touched me? Who touched me?"

And Peter, in his usual brusque, offhand, impulsive way, said, "Why, Master, what a question to ask. With all this crowd rubbing elbows and pressing up against you, to ask 'Who touched me?' "

The next moment a timid woman crept out of the crowd, fell on her knees at His feet, and declared, between sobs of joy, that she had touched His garment, and the instant that she did it, she felt herself healed from a disease, an issue of blood that had been eating out her life for twelve years.

LEARN BY FAITH.

I believe that Jesus halted that throng that day to give encouragement to His disciples, to show them that you can always count on results in the name of Christ when you are doing your best, even when none can be seen. It was necessary for the diciples to begin to learn by faith. You can't always judge by appearances just what God Almighty is doing. A life-long impression was made upon the disciples that day by halting the crowd in the street to show that a great work had been done when they hadn't been expecting it. They had been used to violent manifestations of Jesus's power. They were just back from Gadara, where He had stilled the tempest. They had seen Him cast the devils out of the man and they had seen Him cast the devils out of the boy. Probably the disciples were thinking about what would happen when He got to the house, but they didn't imagine anything would happen before He was there in person to do it.

Oh, we look for great things when we have a revival. Something may happen, the preacher thinks, when the church is crowded on Sunday, but nothing will happen in the little prayer meeting. And yet the greatest man the nineteenth century produced, George Miller, was converted in a prayer meeting, and collected over $18,000,000, and fed and clothed and educated 4000 orphan children, all in response to prayer—converted in a neighborhood prayer meeting.

Now, the preacher never knows the full results of his message, and it is a good thing he can't. He might become so puffed up with pride that his wife couldn't live with him, or he'd get discouraged and go into the life insurance business. It is only now and then that you are permitted to know what has been done; and yet, whoever lifts a hand or opens his lips in the Master's name may rest assured that something will happen, somebody will receive a blessing through which they will never be the same again, never.

ALL MUST BATTLE.

Oh, little do you know the battles people are fighting. Little do you or the fellow that sits next to you or the woman that rubs elbows with you tonight, and the struggles that he or she is going through. Little do you know what an awful fight they are putting up to do the will of God and keep His commandments.

I believe the Lord halted that throng to help the disciples take a step forward in faith, that they, in turn, might pass the lesson down to us, that wherever the faithful servant is, something that God Almighty is satisfied with is being done, something the devil hates is being done, and away down in eternity, heaven will ring again and again with the music of rejoicing over infinite surprises, and 'way beyond the time when the brightest stars grow dim and the mountain peaks have been incinerated into ashes, oh, you will meet souls in the eternal world who felt the touch of Jesus Christ through some effort of yours, when you didn't know a thing had been done.

I will tell you, the old-time religion—listen, my friends, not only presents God as Creator and Preserver and Father, now listen, but it offers the Bible as the Word of God, Jesus Christ as the Son of God, the Savior of the world, as well as the example; and I will not allow Jesus Christ to be stripped of His deity by any God-forsaken bunch on earth. I will fight them first. I won't do it, no, sir.

NOT A MAN'S TASK.

Now, the Christ needed to save this world, as my friend Bryan said, must be more than a man. Good! That is true. The task that Jesus came to perform was not a man's task. No man aspiring to be a god could do it, but God, condescending to become a man, did it when He died on the cross. He did it; nobody else has done it.

I have no objections to a new theology if its newness consists of making old truths more clearly understood, but if its newness consists in trying to take the old truths out of our hearts, then to hell with their theology! You can recast your theology, but you can't recast the truth. The truth is the Bible, is the word of God. Jesus Christ is the Son of God. You are saved by faith in His blood. You can recast your theology, but you can't recast that truth.

Jesus was no hair-splitter. He wasn't hide-bound and dead set on having things done decently and in order and in a legal way, as was the case of those long-tailed, double-breasted-coated, kid-gloved, horizontal, perpendicular, stiff, petrified, mildewed, stamped-on-the-cork, dyed-in-the-wool, blown-in-the-bottle old Pharisees who nailed Jesus Christ on the cross simply because He wouldn't do things the way they wanted Him to do it, bless His old heart.

BILLY SUNDAY'S THEMES TODAY.

Speaks to Men Only in Afternoon on "Chickens Come Home to Roost."

Billy Sunday will speak three times today in the tabernacle at Twelfth street and Grand avenue.

At 10:30 o'clock this morning he will speak on "The Groups," with the text: "Lord, is it I?"

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Billy will speak on "Chickens Come Home to Roost." This meeting will be for men only.

At 7:30 o'clock tonight he will speak on "Why Pilate Went Wrong," his text being: "Pilate saith unto them, what shall I do with Jesus, which is called Christ?"

At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Sunday will speak to women only in the Bible Institute auditorium.

From 9 to 10 o'clock this morning Isaac Ward, director of men's work, will speak to the soldiers at Arcadia.

MANY "HIT TRAIL" AT SUNDAY DAY MEETI

THE first afternoon "trail-hitting" of the Billy Sunday campaign occurred yesterday. The toll was seventy-one persons, most of them elderly people, although the very last to take Billy Sunday's hand was a little girl probably just entering her 'teens.

The Sunday revival may now be considered full-fledged. With the trail open at both afternoon and evening meetings, the campaign committeemen, the personal workers and the secretaries are alert and ready to make the most of the results of Billy's preaching and appeals to people to "hit the trail."

The opening of the trail yesterday afternoon came rather unexpectedly to many of the people in the assemblage, but the workers were gratified with the response.

Mr. Sunday's sermon on "Samson" was based on the text: "He wished not that the spirit of the Lord hath departed from him." In graphic phraseology, the speaker applied this lesson to the church members and many of the ministers of today. It was a sermon that was designed to stir up the lukewarm, and it also had its appeal to the man and woman who have never taken a decided stand for the Christian life. It was a stinging arraignment of the church of today for its lack of interest in the conversion of the sinner, and for the pitifully small results achieved in comparison to its wealth and numbers.

Mr. Sunday declared that he was no pessimist, but he said:

"If wealth and culture and numbers means power, then, great God, what's the matter today? Whenever up with the devil power."

He scored the departed from the and who have er criticism," and many a pulpit ing preached. Referring to the present war, he said:

POLICE HUNT FOR MISSING MANAGER.

NO TRACE OBTAINED YET OF ONTARIO CANNERY MAN.

Wife is Prostrated and on Verge of Breakdown—Friends Fear that Her Husband is Suffering from Want of Attention, as He was in Poor Health.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 15. — With the wife of the missing man prostrated with grief and on the verge of a mental breakdown, the police of Ontario are today bending every effort to get some trace of William A. Ready, local cannery manager, who disappeared from his home, No. 222 East C street, the evening of September 2, and of whom not a word has been heard since.

Mrs. Ready was absent from the house for about two hours, leaving her husband supposedly asleep on a lounge, and she returned to find him gone.

Mr. Ready had suffered a nervous collapse about a week previous to his disappearance and his friends fear that his mind may have been affected and that he is suffering from want of attention. So far as is known he had only $20 in cash on his person when he disappeared.

For the past two years, Mr. Ready has been manager of the Cucamonga plant of the Golden State Canning Company. He is described as being 53 years old, height, 5 feet, 6 inches; weight, 127 pounds. When he left he was clean shaven, his hair is iron gray and his complexion ruddy.

Order.

CADETS WILL BE RELEASED.

Number to be Permitted to Return to College.

Men from Hospital Corps are to go to France.

Farragut Seamen may Receive Garments from League.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Sept. 15.—Quite a number of cadets at the Naval Training Station will be released next week under the order of Secretary Daniels permitting students to return to college to complete their education. On account of the crowded condition of the station here there will not be room for many additional cadets. It is expected that about fifteen reservists enrolled in the Hospital Corps will be sent to France soon, being the first contingent from the station to go into actual service. Nearly 200 cadets today began taking examinations that may lead to commissions and the quarter deck. The examination will be completed Monday.

FOR FARRAGUT MEN.

The Women's Navy League will send garments now being made to the U.S.S. Farragut, formerly stationed here, the permission having been given by Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department to make such disposition of the knitting of the local organization. The local organization withdrew from the national league at the time of the break between Col. Thompson and Secretary Daniels. Mrs. George T. Dewey, who has been appointed by Secretary Daniels to handle the distribution of garments, has telegraphed Mrs. John T. Gaffey to continue work here.

GOOD YIELD OF BEANS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Sept. 15.—A yield of 3000 sacks of beans from 120 acres on the Milligan ranch, in Las Posas section near Somis, is the result of the thresher's work, just completed there. This is higher than the beans are averaging on most of the ranches in the county.

BODY RECOVERED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Sept. 15.—The body of Roscoe Carter, who was drowned off the Hueneme wharf August 26, was washed ashore this morning. Carter, whose home was in Saticoy, jumped into the water from the wharf to recover his hat. He secured the hat and, after resting on a buoy about 300 yards out, started back. A squall hampered his progress, and in sight of scores of people on the wharf, he sank. He left a widow and children.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Edward Gates,

Who by their marriage at Long Beach gathered together the broken threads of a Civil War romance. The groom has been with the Cadillac Motor Company at Detroit for fifteen years.

Love Affair.

UNITE BROKEN THREADS OF OLD WAR ROMANCE.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 15.—Gathering together the broken threads of a Civil War romance and piecing them together with a band of modern-day love was the happy experience of Miss Fern Kean of Long Beach and L. Edward Gates of Detroit, Mich., last Tuesday evening when they had the pleasure of carrying out a love affair that had been begun by the bride's grandmother and the groom's father in the middle 60's.

It was five years ago when the Gates family was making one of its winter visits here that they thought to look up the decendants of Mr. Gates's old-time love. So strong was the mutual attraction between the two families when they met that it took only the reading of a letter from the Civil War lover to his youthful sweetheart, which had been carefully preserved as one of the mementoes of the early days, to cement the friendship. The romance of the young people of the families grew apace with the annual visits until last April when formal announcement of their engagement was made at a social in Bakersfield at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Newberry.

Several prenuptial parties heralded the wedding last Tuesday evening, among them being a beautifully-appointed dinner at the home of the J. W. Stringers, No. 2008 East Second street, Long Beach, on Sunday evening, and a dinner at the Hotel Virginia on Monday evening when the Newberrys of Bakersfield were hosts.

The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Kean, No. 430 Gaviota place, Long Beach. Just as the strains of the "Lohengrin" Wedding March were played by Miss Gladys Bucklin, little Virginia Gates, niece of the groom, who acted as ring bearer, entered the living-room and made her way to the floral bower where the groom and his best man, Kelley E. Gates of Detroit, awaited the bride and her attendant.

Miss Mildred Gibson, in a French gown of pale blue and pink chiffon and carrying an arm bouquet of handsome pink roses acted as bridesmaid. The bride wore a gown of heavy white silk, covered with fluffy white net and with silver lace bodice. Her tulle veil was caught in cap form with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was the gift of the groom—a diamond and platinum lavaliere.

Rev. Neely of the Long Beach Methodist Church performed the ceremony. A five-course supper followed. The couple left for Grand Canyon and other points of interest before going to Detroit, where they will make their home.

Mr. Gates is economy man with the Cadillac Motor Car Company and has been employed by this company for the past fifteen years. He was one of the few men who received gold medals for long service a few years ago when Messrs. H. M. and W. C. Leland, who founded the Cadillac company, felt that their services should be rewarded. The bride has many friends throughout the State, having attended the Redlands schools until a short time ago when she and her parents moved to Bakersfield and San Francisco, where she took an active part in the social life.

HUENEME COMES TO THE FRONT.

Government Grants Permits for Dredging and Two Jetties There.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUENEME, Sept. 15.—The government has granted a permit to the McCroskey Packing Company which provides for the dredging of the interior basin and the construction of two rubble stone jetties. The permit was granted through Secretary of War Baker yesterday. As a result of these improvements it is anticipated that factories will be erected there which will handle $1,000,000 worth of business a month. The work must be completed before July 30, 1922. Canneries for the handling of fish and beans are contemplated. On the account of the shortage of tin a new process of handling fish will be used.

Good Sum.

GROWERS NETTED THREE MILLION.

ORANGE DISTRIBUTORS MEET AT REDLANDS.

Representatives of Fifty-one Packing-houses Attend—Outlook for Coming Season Better than First Reports Indicate—May be not Far from Normal.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 15.—The annual meeting of the Mutual Orange Distributors, one of the largest citrus marketing organizations in the State, operating both in Southern California and the northern district, was held here yesterday. There were representatives from each of the fifty packing-houses affiliated with the distributors.

The stockholders named the following officers and directors: J. H. Strait, Bryn Mawr, president; George L. Bates, Orange, vice-president; A. B. Cowgill, Redlands, secretary; H. S. Harrison, Porterville; C. O. Cowles, Lindsay; Harry MacRue, Rialto; W. O. Freeman, Cucamonga; E. W. Ginzel, Crafton; C. A. Leighton, Covina; O. D. Brouse, Azusa; Frank Moore, Redlands; Arthur McDermott, Riverside; E. C. Miles, Fullerton; C. A. Sherrod, Highland, and R. A. Wheatley, La Habra.

The directors then met and selected Arthur Gregory as general manager, A. M. Pratt as sales manager, Wilfred Tillotson, assistant sales manager; J. A. Steward, traffic manager, and T. E. Gore, cashier.

In his report Mr. Gregory said the volume of business for the past season exceeded any season, with one exception, since the organization was formed, the shipments amounting to 1,542,852 boxes. The total gross sales were $4,551,844, also a high figure.

The growers netted considerably over $3,000,000 after all transportation and refrigeration charges were paid. The crop conditions were not of the best, early frost, small sizes, the market depressed by declaration of war, but as a whole the prices were very satisfactory. The lemon market as a whole has been the best in years.

In speaking of crop conditions for the coming year Mr. Gregory says that although the navel crop as a whole will not be much more than 20 per cent. of an average crop—the Valencias and other varieties will be good and the organization will handle about 75 per cent. of its normal because of increased acreage. It was decided that if possible no cut will be made in the organization so that the efficiency of this which has taken ten years to build up will not be impaired.

RANCHER INJURED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Sept. 15.—Within a few hours after he passed the draft examination, stating that he had no exemption claim to make, Lawrence Penman of Irvine had his head crushed between a wagon and trailer loaded with sugar beets. The injury to young Penman is even more serious than one that occurred to his brother, Lee Penman, about a year ago. Lee Penman was working with a Jap loading beets when the Jap with a forkful of beets struck him in the face and fractured the base of the skull.

DRIVER INJURED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 15. — Ray Holmes, driver of one of the big trucks of a bakery here, may suffer the loss of his left eye as the result of injuries he received when the truck was smashed by a Santa Fe train on Mt. Vernon avenue, between here and San Bernardino. Holmes was badly cut about the head.

CONSTIPATION IS A PENALTY OF AGE

Nothing is so essential to health in advancing age as freedom and normal activity of the bowels. It makes one feel younger and fresher, and forestalls colds, piles, fevers, and other dependent ills.

Catharties and purgatives are violent and drastic in action and should be avoided. A mild, effective laxative, recommended by physicians and thousands who have used it, is far preferable. This is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle; a trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Referendum.

PETITION FILED WITH CITY CLERK.

REPEAL OF BOND ORDINANCE IS DEMANDED.

Opponents of the Pleasure Pier Bonds Want the Trustees Either to Rescind Their Previous Action or to Call Special Election—Desire Water System.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MANHATTAN BEACH, Sept. 15. —A referendary petition, containing between thirty and forty signatures, was filed with the City Clerk today asking the Council to repeal the ordinance providing for the issuance of $90,000 worth of bonds for the construction of pleasure wharves at Center street and Marine avenue. The signers of the petition protest against the passage of the ordinance and demand that if it is not repealed the ordinance be again submitted to the vote of the electors at a special election.

Stephen A. D. Clark said yesterday that the opponents of the pleasure pier bonds intend to use every lawful means in their power to get an adequate, economical supply of water so that they can raise crops on the fine farming area back from the waterfront. "If we waste our resources in building piers we will not have enough bonding capacity to get the water," he said.

Mr. Clark also said the signers of the petition object to the proposed method of assessment. "It is a universal assessment, regardless of location of property," he remarked. "People who own property two miles away from the piers will have to pay as much per front foot as those who own property close to the ocean. This is unfair."

RESENT ABSENCE OF AMERICAN FLAG.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, Sept. 15.—When an automobile, carrying Mexican officials and which was decorated with Mexican flags, was driven along Second street this morning by a man named Nelson a crowd collected and three times requested that either the Mexican flags be removed or an American flag placed over them. This was refused and it is claimed that the driver of the car tried to run over Ben Hulse, who struck at him. The crowd removed the flags.

Later Mr. Hulse, who is a drafted man and who will leave for American Lake next week, pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was fined $10. Mr. Hulse is the owner of a large ranch which he is leaving in order to serve his country. He admitted he struck at the driver of the car, but denied touching the Mexican flags. Cars carrying Mexican flags later appeared with the American flag above the Mexican.

WILL VOTE ON BONDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FILLMORE, Sept. 15.—The City Trustees have passed a resolution to call an election to vote bonds for a municipal water system.

No Humbug! Lift off Corns

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift a corn or callus off with fingers.

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly, yes, immediately, all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet, just seem to shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical.

Ladies! Keep a tiny bottle on your dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

A meeting will be held at the Alexandria Hotel on Tuesday, the 25th inst., at 10 a.m., to which the officers and members of the various National Farm Loan Associations all over Southern California, will be invited.

DIES AT GLENDALE.

Well-known Decorator, Whose Work Included Hall of Records, Passes Away.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, Sept. 15.—Following a short illness at a Los Angeles hospital, D. C. Rice, a well-known interior decorator and designer, and for six years a Glendale resident, died last evening. Mr. Rice was born in Calhoun county, Michigan, April 15, 1856, and became one of the foremost decorators of the East, the Hall of Records at Brooklyn being among his most notable achievements. With his wife and family he came to San Francisco in 1910, and a year later to Glendale. In 1911 he was employed by the county to decorate the interior and plan the furnishings of the Hall of Records in Los Angeles, a work that occupied twelve months.

Other large contracts executed by Mr. Rice were the new J. W. Robinson Building and the new Ville de Paris. He leaves a widow and a daughter, Mrs. D. B. Tingree of No. 107 North Jackson street, Glendale. He also leaves several brothers and sisters in the East.

He was an earnest member of the Baptist Church, and at the funeral services, which will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Scovern Letton Frey undertaking parlors, Rev. Vernon H. Cowsert, pastor of the Glendale Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

GAS RATES SUSPENDED.

Ruling of Railroad Commission Pending Rehearing Next Week.

The State Railroad Commission yesterday decided to suspend the mixed gas rates which were to have gone into effect yesterday, pending the rehearing of the case a week from next Tuesday.

City officials hope that their plea to fix the rates on a natural-gas basis will be granted.

NORTON WILL QUIT LEGALLY.

Supervisor to Resign Properly After Appearing Before Superior Court.

Supervisor Norton will file his resignation with the County Clerk after he appears in Judge Wilbur's court tomorrow and clears up points in the litigation against him. He contends that it was always his intention to resign through the County Clerk's office. Meantime, he looked for a reply to his letter to Gov. Stephens in which he seeks to be reappointed as a member of the Board of Supervisors. The suit before Judge Wilbur is to oust him from office.

Settled.

HEAD OF FAMILY SURE TO ESCAPE.

FEDERAL BOARD OF APPEALS RULES ON DRAFT.

Sends Ultimatum to the Local Officials Saying it will not Compel Married Men to Serve, Even if no Children Figure—Viewpoints are in Conflict.

An ultimatum was dispatched by the Federal District Board of Appeals yesterday to all the local exemption boards of Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties, stating that if these boards refuse to exempt heads of families from military service the district board will.

This action was taken in response to the appeals of a number of women who are about to become mothers and whose husbands had been refused exemption, it was stated.

Under the new ruling of President Wilson a married man is considered the head of a family even if he is childless.

Several members of local exemption boards when questioned concerning the ultimatum of the district board stated that they had treated each case presented to them on its individual merits and that they would stand by their decisions. This will put the matter up to the district board. No estimate could be furnished of the number of men this action of the district board may affect, but it is believed the local exemption boards have provided sufficient reserve lists to take care of all exemptions from the district board.

Superfluous hair, moles and warts permanently removed, without scarring, from face and body. To destroy root of hair it is necessary to employ means that will reach the root without injury to surrounding tissues, and electrolysis, in hands of expert, is the only known method that will successfully accomplish this. We use the Rapid Multiple Needle process and guarantee any hair treated by us will not return. Weaver-Jackson Co., 450 S. Bdwy.

EXPECT BUMPER CROP.

Ontario-Cucamonga Grape Growers Look Forward to One of Most Prosperous Seasons.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 15.—With the early ripening of the grapes setting the season several weeks forward, the large wineries of the Ontario-Cucamonga section are already running at practically full capacity harvesting the crop of wine grapes, which promises to exceed even the record crop of last season, it is said.

Government gaugers have been established at the larger plants as follows: W. S. Fillman, Italian winery; F. W. Mouroe, Cucamonga Vintage Company; E. F. Leet and Mark Howell, Mission Vineyard Company.

The picking and drying of raisin grapes is also well under way and with a bumper crop and high prices, local growers are looking forward to one of the most prosperous seasons in their history.

The early ripening of the grapes practically insures growers against loss from possible early rains, as a result of which many were heavy losers last season.

N. S. Milliken of Haven avenue, one of the largest raisin and table grape growers in this section, has contracted to dispose of the entire crop from his large acreage of Malaga grapes to a Los Angeles concern at a record price of $25 per ton, net, the buyers to do all their own picking, packing and shipping.

Prominent among recent important deals in grape lands is that just consumated, whereby M. E. Post of the Mission Vineyard Company purchases from the Taggart estate a forty-acre vineyard set to Zinfadels and Mission grapes for a reported consideration of $8600.

Unusual.

LEGALLY DEAD, MAN REMARRIES.

COMPLEX SITUATION ARISES IN ALIMONY COURT.

Second Wife Says Spouse not Divorced when He Wed Her—He Declares Action of Jurist Freed Him of Marital Ties to Former Helpmate.

The case of Patrick J. Conaty, which comes before the alimony court tomorrow, contains unusual complications. It involves the question whether a man who has been declared legally dead can marry, his wife seek an annulment of the marriage on the ground that he had a wife who was still living and from whom he was not divorced, and demand alimony by reason of the second marriage.

Annie M. Wills is the second wife in the case. She alleges that she married Mr. Conaty believing him to be a widower and lived with him ten years before she learned that his former wife was living.

Mr. Conaty alleges that he married Susan T. Flannagan in Savannah, Ga., in 1897. Mrs. Conaty caused him to be declared legally dead, that this dissolved the marriage and that she married another man, according to information he received from friends. Mrs. Conaty No. 2 asks for $75 a month alimony for the support of their two children.

Mr. Conaty denies that wife No. 2 did not know the facts connected with his first marriage. He also opposes his wife's demand for the custody of the children on the ground that his wife is not a proper person to have control of them. He says he was informed that wife No. 1 obtained a divorce upon learning that he was alive, after having been declared legally dead.

PRODUCTS WILL BE ON DISPLAY.

Antelope Valley People Plan Comprehensive Exhibit of Resources at Fair.

All Southern California is invited by Antelope Valley to see an exhibit of the many products of that region to be shown at the first annual fair of the new Antelope Valley Fair Association, which will open at Lancaster on Wednesday, September 26, and continue for four days, closing Saturday, September 29. Representatives of the association declare that responses already received from many parts of the Southland insure a good attendance at the fair, which will be the first big event of the kind to be held in the promising new agricultural domain in the northern part of Los Angeles county.

The association is the outgrowth of a smaller organization which has on two or three former occasions held small exhibits of Antelope Valley products at Lancaster. This year the exhibit will take the form of the old-time county fair so popular in many agricultural sections throughout the country. Special prizes calculated to attract exhibitors from all over the valley have been offered to those growing various crops and engaged in stock raising and the management is assured of a display of products that will afford visitors an adequate idea of both the development and the possibilities of the region.

The entertainment features will include band concerts, fireworks, general athletic events and a football game, together with the offerings of various amusement concessions. Experts on agriculture and stock raising will give daily addresses.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS—
WARTS AND MOLES.
Pulling a few stiff hairs from the face may start a serious growth. Let me demonstrate free of charge how pulling, cutting, using wax, depilatories and the so-called hair removers promote growth of hair on the face. My electric machine is the only known method of killing superfluous hair, fuzz, warts and moles, without destroying the surrounding tissue. This machine destroys 300 hairs an hour. I have had 19 years' experience and devote all my time to this work. A binding guarantee that any hairs or moles I treat will never return. Many L. A. satisfied customers will testify to my skill as an expert.

AN HONEST PROPOSITION.

If you are DOUBTFUL or SKEPTICAL as to what a genuine PSYCHIC-PALMIST can do, bring this statement, and MR. P. H. KEAN, M.P., will give you a thorough test of his PSYCHIC knowledge absolutely free of charge. KEAN will offer suggestions and give help to all who are in trouble and suspense concerning their personal affairs of life. Scientific Palmistry will reveal to you your weak points, strong characteristics, future possibilities, what you are best fitted for in life, etc. Do you know that 98 per cent. of the successful men and women of today in the affairs of life, such as business, love, marriage, etc., are guided psychically, either through the development of their own intuitive force, or through the aid of a Professional Psychic? The day of Psychic Phenomena as a fad, fiction and experiment has passed. The reliable Psychic-Palmist of today is consulted on the material affairs and obstacles of life with the same degree of feeling and confidence that you would consult your lawyer, doctor, banker or brokers. Psychology as a science today is to the human being what the Government Weather Bureau is to the community, and KEAN is to Psychology what Edison is to electricity. Forget what you are or were, and begin to plan what you may become. This is your hour; make the most of it. Delay is your worst enemy. When you lose your time it is gone forever. You can't regain it. Knowledge is power. Knowledge opens the door that ignorance would forever close. Life is not half so bad as some people would make you believe, so do not lose hope because the day seems dark and the affairs of life are mixed. No matter how complicated your condition may be, KEAN can and will aid you. "Know the truth. Know in time what to do and how to do it. KEAN points the way. KEAN'S best indorsement is an interview with KEAN. KEAN'S fees for reading are within the reach of all. KEAN can only be consulted at his residence, 2408 S. Grand ave., Los Angeles. Hours 10 to 6 daily. Sundays, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A MESSAGE FOR YOU!
AN EXTRAORDINARY OPPORTUNITY TO CONSULT CLARKE,
Ordained Phenomenal Psychic and Healer.
50c—LOW FEE THIS WEEK—50c.

For a short time only this remarkable psychic and healer has consented to offer services at the disposal of the public for a nominal consideration. As a matter of advertisement of his large
FREE READING ROOMS AND CIRCULATING LIBRARY,
where all are welcome to read the latest books and magazines on New Thought, Metaphysical and Psychological lines, and for the benefit of those who cannot or do not feel like venturing the regular fee of $2, he will for this week only give A FULL PHENOMENAL READING FOR 50c to all who bring this advertisement.

If you are going to seek advice or help, why not consult one who is well known, one who is here permanently, one who is competent to read your life and advise you, one who has withstood the test of time?

Through long years of work and study, Prof. Clarke has so developed his spiritual self that things which are obscure and hidden to others are as clear to him as an open book. He offers his services to those who are in doubt or trouble, ill in mind or body; who are failing to realize what they desire.

Many of the best people of this city and surrounding town have come—many who have never consulted a psychic, or witnessed psychic phenomena before. Why? Because he gets phenomenal messages for all; because he intelligently unravels their troubles; gives truthful information, relief, success and satisfaction; gives knowledge that is POWER. There may be a better position, better salary or business for you—perhaps you are waiting for something which you will never realize.

Call today—tomorrow may be too late.

Those who wish to take up character reading for a pastime or profession will find all the latest books on astrology, solar biology, graphology, palmistry, phrenology, card-reading, the science of names and numbers, etc., at the circulating library for loan or sale.

Office hours, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Permanently located in his own home.
Wilshire 2956. 638 S. ALVARADO ST. 556181.
Directly opposite Westlake Park.

ANCE IN PRICE ON

A REBUILT CHANDLER SIX.

TO THE INCREASE IN PRICE OF ALL OF NEW CARS, REBUILT CHANDLER AT THE PRESENT LOW PRICE SAVES $100 TO $200 VALUE.

dented demand for the new CHANDLER has enabled us to accept in trade a limited number of slightly used Chandlers. These cars have been thoroughly rebuilt, refinished and equipped with special plate glass, side and rear curtains and excellent tires. They cannot be distinguished from a brand-new car.

made the CHANDLER records of satisfactory service in the hands of owners, which fact is responsible for more new CHANDLERS being sold in Southern California this year than any other high-grade car.

CHANDLERS have all those features characteristic of high-grade, high-price cars, such as Bosch High Tension Magneto, Solid Cast Aluminum Motor Base extending from frame to frame, Annular Ball Bearings in Transmission, Differential and Rear Wheels, Silent Chain Drive for Motor Shafts, Gray & Davis Separate Unit Starting and Lighting System, etc.

low price a high-grade rebuilt CHANDLER is much better than a cheap new car. It costs no more to operate and depreciates considerably less. We have all models in stock, finished in the latest color combinations. Come and select your favorite color. You owe it to yourself to investigate these incomparable values.

USE IT SEVEN DAYS, AND IF IT ISN'T EXACTLY AS REPRESENTED, turn it back to us. We also offer a three-months' free service guarantee backed by a company that considers a satisfied owner of a rebuilt CHANDLER a good prospect for a new one later on.

CHEAP USED CARS.

For

Prospective automobile buyers your one real opportunity to purchase a used car at a

and get one that is ready to go and in good mechanical condition. Every car equipped with good tires, gasoline, oil and tools.

Our payment plan can't be beat, in fact it would be next to impossible for you to rent a car for just one short trip for the amount we ask you to pay monthly. Why purchase a new, cheap car, and lose enough by depreciation the first few days to buy practically any one of the cars listed below.

Every car will be worth as much after months of service, for the reason that the depreciation is already off. Visit our Used Car Dept. today.

FORTY DIFFERENT CARS.

BUY A USED CAR FROM THIS COMPANY EITHER FOR CASH OR ON TERMS, USE IT SEVEN DAYS ON TRIAL AND IF IT IS NOT SATISFACTORY, TURN IT BACK TO US.

We know that this is an exceptional proposition, but we have unlimited faith in any used car that we rebuild and guarantee. We have tried to prove this to you in offering the liberal guarantee and service that we have done in the past. We have proved it to hundreds. Now we want to reach the most skeptical purchaser of a car, the type of man who would rather put up with a cheap new car in preference to a high-grade used one. His only reason being that he does not believe that he can get a real serviceable used car.

Anyone prefers a high-grade used car to a cheap new one, for it is the most economical investment from every viewpoint and there is a great deal more satisfaction derived from the possession of such a car. We will prove to you by this offer that we are willing to stand back of any car we offer for sale and, while no doubt other reputable dealers will follow our lead, it is up to you to remember that this is the first company to back up its convictions.

We have a select stock of used cars for your approval. You must not fail to look them over. We are not speculators in used cars. Our business is the sale of new Chandler Sixes, and this car has been so popular that we have been in a position to pick and choose the used cars we have accepted in trade on new ones. IF WE CONSIDER A CAR GOOD ENOUGH TO ACCEPT ON A NEW CAR WE ARE CERTAIN TO PUT IT IN PERFECT CONDITION, AND, THEREFORE, ARE WILLING TO GUARANTEED IT FULLY.

SEVEN DAYS

FREE TRIAL.

FORTY DIFFERENT CARS.

BUY A USED CAR FROM THIS COMPANY EITHER FOR CASH OR ON TERMS, USE IT SEVEN DAYS ON TRIAL AND IF IT IS NOT SATISFACTORY, TURN IT BACK TO US.

We know that this is an exceptional proposition, but we have unlimited faith in any used car that we rebuild and guarantee. We have tried to prove this to you in offering the liberal guarantee and service that we have done in the past. We have proved it to hundreds. Now we want to reach the most skeptical purchaser of a car, the type of man who would rather put up with a cheap new car in preference to a high-grade used one. His only reason being that he does not believe that he can get a real serviceable used car.

Anyone prefers a high-grade used car to a cheap new one, for it is the most economical investment from every viewpoint and there is a great deal more satisfaction derived from the possession of such a car. We will prove to you by this offer that we are willing to stand back of any car we offer for sale and, while no doubt other reputable dealers will follow our lead, it is up to you to remember that this is the first company to back up its convictions.

We have a select stock of used cars for your approval. You must not fail to look them over. We are not speculators in used cars. Our business is the sale of new Chandler Sixes, and this car has been so popular that we have been in a position to pick and choose the used cars we have accepted in trade on new ones. IF WE CONSIDER A CAR GOOD ENOUGH TO ACCEPT ON A NEW CAR WE ARE CERTAIN TO PUT IT IN PERFECT CONDITION, AND, THEREFORE, ARE WILLING TO GUARANTEE IT FULLY.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICE ON

A REBUILT CHANDLER SIX.

OWING TO THE INCREASE IN PRICE OF ALL MAKES OF NEW CARS, REBUILT CHANDLER SIX AT THE PRESENT LOW PRICE SAVES YOU FROM $100 TO $200 VALUE.

The unprecedented demand for the new CHANDLER has enabled us to accept in trade a limited number of slightly used Chandlers. These cars have been thoroughly rebuilt, refinished and equipped with special plate glass, side and rear curtains and excellent tires. They cannot be distinguished from a brand-new car.

These models made the CHANDLER records of satisfactory service in the hands of owners, which fact is responsible for more new CHANDLERS being sold in Southern California this year than any other high-grade car.

The rebuilt CHANDLERS have all those features characteristic of high-grade, high-price cars, such as Bosch High Tension Magneto, Solid Cast Aluminum Motor Base extending from frame to frame; Annular Ball Bearings in Transmission, Differential and Rear Wheels, Silent Chain Drive for Motor Shafts, Gray & Davis Separate Unit Starting and Lighting System, etc.

At the present low price a high-grade rebuilt CHANDLER is much better than a cheap new car. It costs no more to operate and depreciates considerably less. We have all models in stock, finished in the latest color combinations. Come and select your favorite color. You owe it to yourself to investigate these incomparable values.

BUY ONE, USE IT SEVEN DAYS, AND IF IT ISN'T EXACTLY AS REPRESENTED, turn it back to us. We also offer a three-months' free service guarantee backed by a company that considers a satisfied owner of a rebuilt CHANDLER a good prospect for a new one later on.

Open Sundays. Terms if desired.

FOR SALE—
GERMAIN'S COLUMN

In our large and fully equipped Poultry Department we carry foods, remedies, supplies, books, etc., for the raisers of poultry, turkeys, rabbits, goats, stock, pigeons, birds, dogs and cats. The following is a short list of seasonable supplies.

POULTRY FOODS.

Coulson's Egg Food contains all necessary ingredients for egg production; keep before hens all the time; also feed Germain's Premium Scratch Food morning and night.

Darling's Meat Crisps contain the largest per cent. of protein of any food on the market. Cheaper and better than meat scraps from your butcher.

West Coast Egg More is used and recommended by practical poultry raisers. It is also an excellent conditioner for fowls.

French's Poultry Mustard increases the stamina and egg production of hens. Should be fed for the next 6 months.

FOR SHOW BIRDS.

Leg Bands with large numbers. The number is readily discernible as the hen is walking about the yard. Made of aluminum and are therefore strong, durable and light in weight. We also have Smith's sealed leg bands.

Germain's Shipping Coops are light, airy, durable and because they are made of seasoned lumber are extra light for shipping.

Spratt's Food No. 3 is the best conditioner for show birds on the market; it tones up their systems, makes feathers smooth and sleek and greatly increases the number of eggs produced. Used and recommended by raisers of fancy poultry throughout the nation.

DOG FOODS AND REMEDIES.

We carry a full line of the famous Clayton remedies and Spratt's foods and remedies for dogs and cats. We wish to particularly call attention to the following remedies and foods: Cod Liver Oil Cakes are especially good to feed this time of year; Charcoal Cakes are also recommended as they keep the digestive organs in good condition and often prevent sickness and disease.

We deliver Spratt's Dog Food in the following sizes free: 5-lb. bag, 50c; 10-lb bag, $1.10; also larger quantities.

Flea Foe is an excellent spray for kennels. Fleas cannot live where it is used freely.

FREE DOG BOOK.

This is a very good book on treatment and care of dogs—send for it today.

FOR SALE—ATTENTION,
RANCHERS, BUTCHERS AND SPECULATORS, LIVE STOCK DISPERSAL SALE
1500 ANGORA GOATS,
800 breeding ewes,
500 kids,
100 full-grown wethers (fit for butcher,)
100 young wethers,
5 registered bucks.

Above stock are well bred and in good condition; a unique opportunity is herein given for those ranchers already in the Angora goat industry to increase their flocks, or for those with otherwise useless brush land to establish a flock, than which no branch of the live-stock industry presents better opportunities for profit at the high price of mohair and mutton. All goats will be sold with the fleece on if bought within the next 14 days; in lots to suit purchasers. Any bon-a-fide purchaser may inspect at any time by appointment.

L. E. ALLIN,
Route 1, 90-C, Van Nuys,

MINING—

"ANOTHER YEAR ALMOST GONE,' AND THAT "prospect shaft" not half way to the ore yet. "Money going out all the time, and getting no results whereby we can raise more money; stockholders losing patience. Of course, we know it's there, but they must be shown."

This, unfortunately, is the trend of the conversation in the "private office" of about 75 per cent. of the mining companies. Why? Simply because "orthodoxy and past practice" is eating the heart out of the mining industry.

The successful 25 per cent. found this out before it was too late and are using the "core drill," and, naturally, are a year or so ahead in development work. "We should know," for we sold them the machines and can show you "their rock," which is more than you can do with "your own rock." The superintendent who insists on the core drill first, before too late, is the man who has the company's interest at heart and practical in the mining business.

A busy, successful man can well afford to spend 20 to 80 cents on gasoline to take him to his office, because he has everything of value picked up "before you get there" at a cost of "5c car fare."

We will send you a circular for the asking which will explain itself. Don't delay, every dollar spent on unfinished work is a dollar wasted. If you haven't enough to buy one outright you can form a "community partnership" and everybody there will profit by it.

TYPEWRITERS—
"AMERICAN FACTORY REBUILT"
ALL STANDARD MAKES
50 PER CENT. TO 75 PER CENT. LESS THAN MANUFACTURER'S PRICES.

To REBUILD means to build anew. To REPAIR means to put in running order. Remember this when comparing OUR PRICES for Factory Rebuilt Typewriters, with others for second-hand REPAIRED machines. Our machines are rebuilt in our OWN FACTORIES by skilled mechanics, in the same manner that they were originally built. All of the worn parts are replaced with new ones, the frames are re-enameled, the nickel parts are renickled and the machine is built up in the same way as in the original Factory. They not only look and work like new, but will give you practically the same service and are covered by the same guarantee. It will pay you to investigate the "American" Factory Rebuilts before purchasing your next Typewriter. We ship anywhere subject to five days' trial. Phone, call or write for our new illustrated price list, just off the press.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED
FOUR MONTHS FOR $5.00 AND UP.

The first rental paid will apply on the purchase of any machine selected.

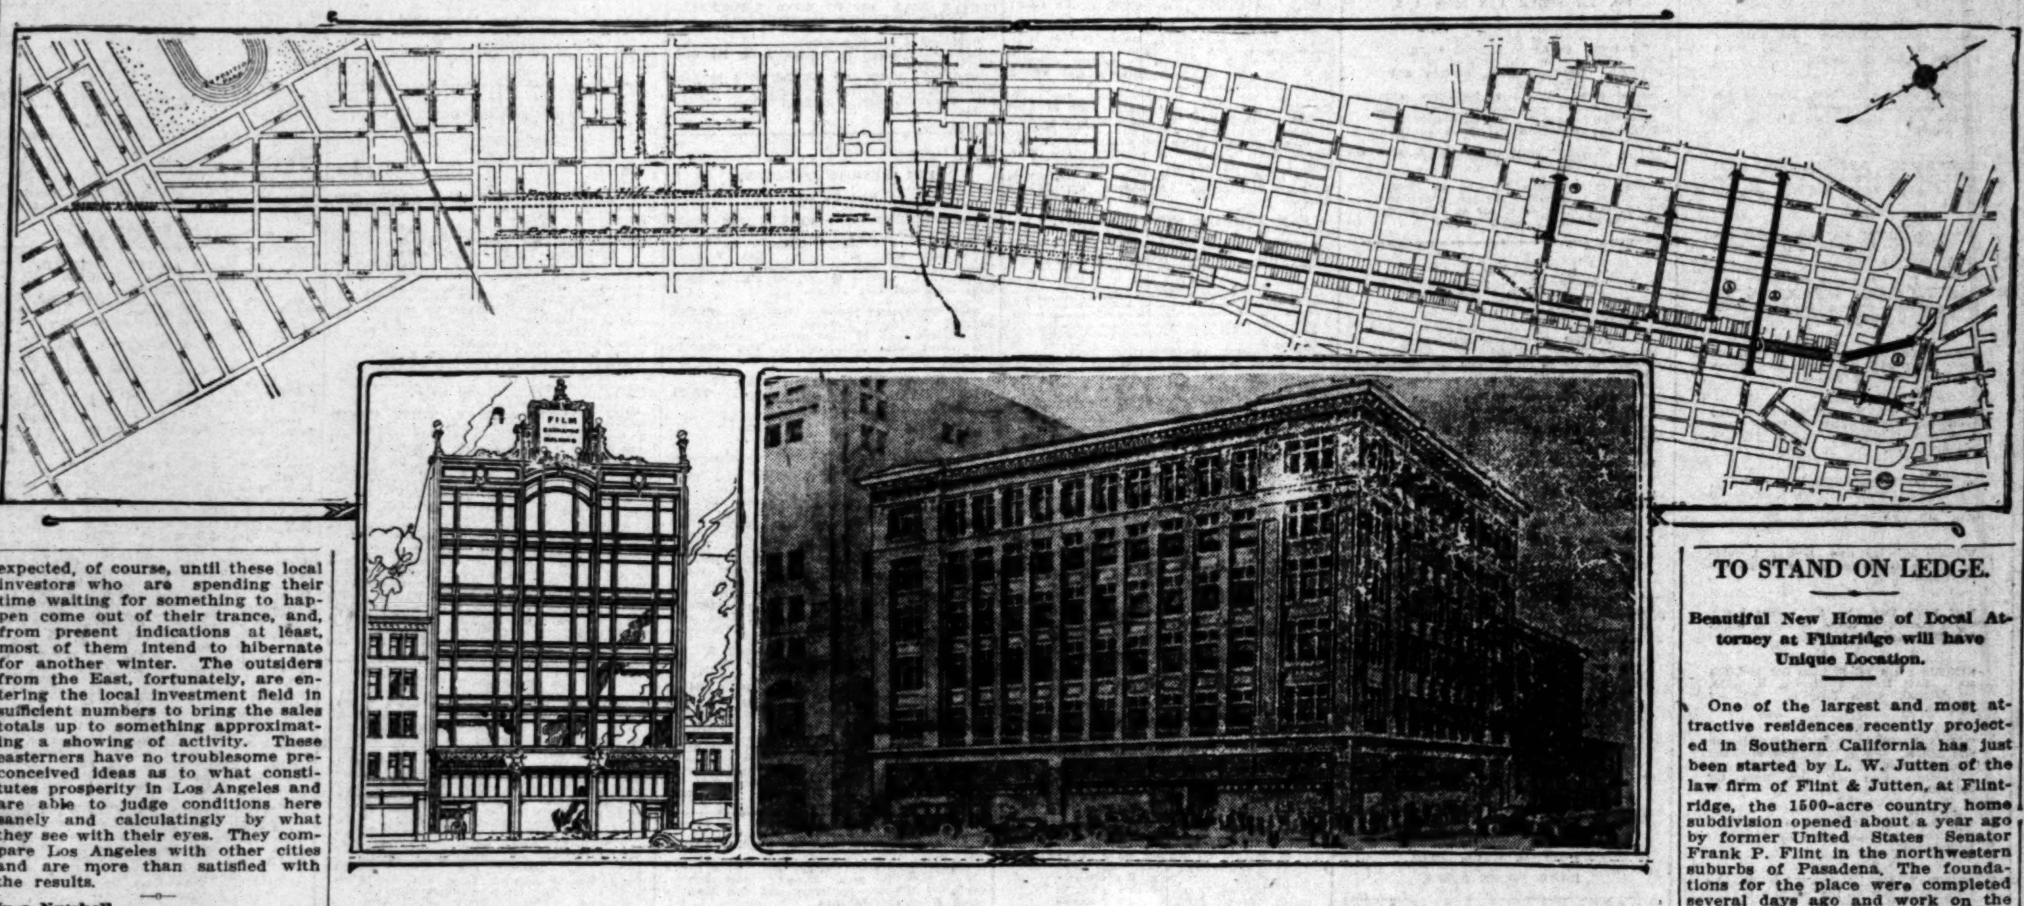
What Hill Street Improvement Associations Want Done to Los Angeles Traffic Map.



A comprehensive and practical street plan for the downtown district.

On the map are shown in dotted lines and by numbered heavy black lines the projects which the new and powerful organization of Hill street property owners and tenants holds to be necessary for the proper development not only of its own thoroughfare, but of the whole business section. These, in addition to the indicated extensions of Hill and Broadway, are (1) a tunnel between Temple and Sunset, parallelling the Pacific Electric's Hollywood lines, (2) an outlet through Bunker Hill at First street, (3) the projected Second street tunnel and (4) the proposed Fifth street tunnel. Existing tunnels are shown in heavy shaded lines. Below, at the right, is reproduced the accepted design for the new Harris & Frank building at Hill and Seventh, and, at the left, a perspective of the Film Exchange building as it will appear when remodeled, these being two of the fine new improvements of South Hill street.

FACT AND COMMENT.

[illegible] the number of important [illegible] of real estate recently [illegible] in Los Angeles by investors [illegible] the other side of the Rockies [illegible] the present comparative listlessness [illegible] the erstwhile active local op-[illegible] one might almost be led [illegible] that the outsiders who [illegible] Southern California have a [illegible] perception of the investment [illegible] existing here and a [illegible] understanding of the significant developments that have taken [illegible] are taking place here than [illegible] who have actually seen the [illegible] of this city's world-progress unfold before their [illegible].

[illegible] hardly putting it too strongly [illegible] that most of the big property purchases recorded in the past [illegible] months have been made by [illegible] from other parts of the [illegible]. One unfamiliar with the [illegible] here and at the same [illegible] to be a bit cynical [illegible] an interpretation upon [illegible] of affairs that would no [illegible] to this city. The situation [illegible] to explain. To really [illegible] the inertia of the local [illegible] must have lived in Los [illegible] a number of years and [illegible] to the different [illegible] the city's growth.

[illegible] people of this community [illegible], in so far as their ideas [illegible] were concerned, [illegible] long period of super-[illegible] estate and building ac-[illegible] signalized the phenomenal [illegible] of Los Angeles into the [illegible] world cities. They be-[illegible] accustomed in the first [illegible] of the present century [illegible] the monthly building per-[illegible] of Los Angeles at the tip-[illegible] national column and the [illegible] estate sections of the [illegible] full to overflowing [illegible] reports of transfers that [illegible] almost convinced that [illegible] was wrong when things [illegible] down to a condition of [illegible]-day progress. [illegible] to realize that this [illegible] was the inevitable con-[illegible] of years of overdevelop-[illegible] over-reaching and that it [illegible] in disguise. Los An-[illegible] of its almost incon-[illegible] in population, had [illegible] and oversold. Con-[illegible] began to take on the as-[illegible], and booms, as many [illegible], are apt to do more [illegible] good, entailing a train [illegible] readjustments that often [illegible]. It was a healthy sign [illegible] underlying prosperity [illegible] that the slowing [illegible] began in 1913 was not [illegible] by serious reactions.

[illegible] that has elapsed since [illegible] process began Los [illegible] had an opportunity to [illegible] up with itself, so to [illegible] surplusage of built-to-[illegible] built-to-rent structures [illegible] the too-lively days be-[illegible], as well as the gigantic [illegible] subdivision offer-[illegible] largely disposed of [illegible] of years. Industry [illegible] that spells more smoke-[illegible] pay rolls has grown [illegible] the long months that [illegible] and the builders have [illegible] time. A solider basis [illegible] has never existed in [illegible] before. Everything is [illegible] for a revival of every [illegible]. And yet the local [illegible] sadly sitting around [illegible] to pick up again, [illegible] believe in some inex-[illegible] that the time will not [illegible] action until everything [illegible] at once and the old-[illegible] kind of activity re-[illegible] the real activity can be expected, of course, until these local investors who are spending their time waiting for something to happen come out of their trance, and, from present indications at least, most of them intend to hibernate for another winter. The outsiders from the East, fortunately, are entering the local investment field in sufficient numbers to bring the sales totals up to something approximating a showing of activity. These easterners have no troublesome preconceived ideas as to what constitutes prosperity in Los Angeles and are able to judge conditions here sanely and calculatingly by what they see with their eyes. They compare Los Angeles with other cities and are more than satisfied with the results.

In a Nutshell.

Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, a Massachusetts capitalist, who invested a quarter of a million dollars in cash in Los Angeles business property last week, expressed the average eastern investor's ideas in a nutshell in the course of a conversation on the subject of his purchase yesterday at a downtown hotel. Dr. Johnson, as reported exclusively in Friday's Times, bought from George H. Cutts a site 30x165 feet in size, improved with a four-story building, at No. 735 South Broadway, the deal having been handled through Charles G. Andrews and Edwin Hooker of the Wright - Callender - Andrews Company. The property was acquired strictly for investment, the building being now under lease to the "Palais de Modes," one of the leading women's stores of Broadway, for a long term of years.

"I have made several trips to the Pacific Coast in the past few years," said the Massachusetts man, "and each time I have become more impressed with Los Angeles as a place in which to make a safe investment in retail business property. For one thing, the climatic conditions in Los Angeles make shopping here a pleasure, and I am convinced that more shopping is done here than in the average city.

"The growth of Los Angeles has been phenomenal, and yet it has been substantial. I predict a greater growth than ever after the war is over. You have everything here to attract people and to attract wealth. You have the sea and the mountains at your very door. You have fine motor roads. Above all else, you have your climate.

"There are thousands who have made large fortunes in the East who will take advantage of what you have to offer here when they find it convenient to come this way. I have taken everything into consideration in making my Broadway investment and have come here only after a careful investigation of conditions in many cities."

Dr. Johnson then went on to comment on the wonderful strides in industry made by Los Angeles in a comparatively short time, dwelling, with an easterner's point of view, upon the vital importance of manufacturing to the upbuilding and solid prosperity of a community. He predicted a great industrial future for Los Angeles and included a warning that will bear emphasis. "You will continue to grow and expand industrially in this section if you are careful not to pass prohibitive legislation that will discourage capital," he declared. "Industrial expansion is something that you must encourage in every legitimate way if you expect to reach the limit of your industrial possibilities."

SOLD TO OIL MAN.

John Smith, an Oklahoma capitalist and oil operator, was the purchaser last week of a twelve-room residence at No. 602 South Kingsley drive. The deal is reported by Ralph B. Ford, manager of the Wilshire department of the Janss Investment Company. The place was sold complete with its furnishings and is stated to have brought a consideration of $45,000 cash. Mrs. Flora A. Lewis, the seller, bought the place through the same agency a little less than a year ago. Mrs. Lewis is returning to her former home in Minneapolis.

Farsighted.

ASSOCIATION TO BACK IMPORTANT PROJECTS.

Hill Street Developers Want Traffic Questions Settled Once and for All.

> IMPROVEMENT projects of vital importance to downtown Los Angeles, and which have been held up for years, are to receive the immediate and active support of the Hill-street Improvement Association, which was recently organized by leading property owners and lessees of Hill street for the purpose of furthering the development of that thoroughfare. The association proposes:
> First—To bring about the extension of Hill street southward from Washington to a point on Figueroa street south of Santa Barbara avenue.
> Second—To get behind a movement to carry Hill street northward from Temple street to Sunset boulevard by means of a tunnel paralleling the present tunnel of the Pacific Electric Railway's Hollywood lines.
> Third—To co-operate in getting the projected Second-street tunnel under Bunker Hill put through with the least possible delay.
> Fourth—To work with the property owners of Fifth street in getting a tunnel outlet to the west under the old State Normal School property.
> Fifth—To back up the property owners of downtown and Northwest Los Angeles who are working for a tunnel or open cut through Bunker Hill at First street.
> Sixth—To use its influence in helping the property owners of Broadway to put through the long-delayed South Broadway opening and extension proceedings.

The association, although organized primarily with the end to boosting Hill street to a more prominent place on the retail and business map, has recognized from the beginning that what was good for downtown Los Angeles as a whole was bound to benefit its own thoroughfare. In planning the many improvements of a local nature which the owners and tenants on Hill street have been considering as a means of making their thoroughfare more attractive, the association has kept in sight the importance of doing everything possible to make the new and greater retail artery of which they dream readily and easily accessible from every part of Los Angeles.

In extending Hill street southward from Washington, the association proposes to make it the longest and widest business thoroughfare in Los Angeles. From Sunset boulevard to the proposed point of the intersection with Figueroa street, the Hill street that is to be will have a length of four miles. South of Fifth street Hill is now ninety-two feet wide, and it is proposed to carry the street from Washington on to Figueroa at that width. North of Fifth, the street is eighty feet, which is the average width of the downtown streets.

South of Washington, Hill street will have to be carried through private property as far as Jefferson. Four thousand lineal feet of ground of the proposed width of the street will have to be acquired from numerous owners in order to provide a right of way for this part of the extension.

At Jefferson, the Hill-street extension will run into a street, which, although separated by many blocks from the present southern end of Olive street, is denominated on the map as "South Olive." This street runs on to Santa Barbara avenue and will require only widening and a slight realignment at two or three places to fit into the Hill-street plan.

From Santa Barbara avenue on, the street will go through private property for about seven blocks, running at about the line of West Forty-first street. This part of the street will be about four or five blocks long.

The association estimates the cost of all private property needed for right of way for the projected extension at about $350,000. Signatures of frontage are now being secured up and down Hill street, and proceedings are to be started to acquire the needed land as soon as the necessary 51 per cent. of frontage has been signed up. It is planned that the assessment shall be graduated so as to cover the entire street. Separate proceedings will be instituted for the putting in of paving, curbing and sidewalks as soon as the right of way has been turned over to the city.

THROUGH THE HILL.

Leading members of the association are on the point of launching a new and powerful movement to bring about the construction of a tunnel under the northern elbow of Bunker Hill to carry Hill street on from Temple to Sunset, thereby completing the work begun with the boring of the present Hill-street tunnel between First and Temple. The association, say its heads, will line up solidly behind the plan, assuring that it will go through. Proceedings for such an outlet were started a number of years ago, but the project met the fate that has befallen other Bunker Hill tunnel projects on so many occasions and was sidetracked for "future reference."

With proceedings actually under way to have Hill street carried southward to intersect important thoroughfares like West Adams street, West Jefferson street, Santa Barbara avenue and South Figueroa street, and with a direct outlet to Sunset boulevard apparently assured, the members of the association are now directing their attention to ways and means for bringing the enormous traffic of Northwest and West Los Angeles through Bunker Hill into Hill, Broadway, Spring and Main. Among the members of the association are many of the leading workers for the Second and Fifth-street tunnels, and to the weight of the influence of these members will be added that of the organization itself.

The association will immediately take such steps as are practicable to see that there shall be no unnecessary delay in the starting of work on the Second-street bore, proceedings for which have reached a point where it should soon be possible to let a contract. The Fifth-street project, now well along, will also be given an impetus designed to forestall delays. The Hill-street owners expect to work with equal zeal for an outlet at First street as soon as a tunnel or open-cut plan has been worked out and proceedings started.

Many of the leading members of the association are now taking a Residence for L. W. Jutten, Myron Hunt, architect.

Attractive place now being built by Los Angeles attorney at Flintridge.

TO STAND ON LEDGE.

Beautiful New Home of Local Attorney at Flintridge will have Unique Location.

One of the largest and most attractive residences recently projected in Southern California has just been started by L. W. Jutten of the law firm of Flint & Jutten, at Flintridge, the 1500-acre country home subdivision opened about a year ago by former United States Senator Frank P. Flint in the northwestern suburbs of Pasadena. The foundations for the place were completed several days ago and work on the superstructure will be begun at once.

The house will be of the New England colonial type and will contain twenty rooms. The central portion will be of red brick, set in white mortar, and the ends of white clapboards. The interior will be in strict keeping with the outside, much of the woodwork being painted after the manner of colonial days. Myron Hunt is the architect.

The dwelling will occupy a commanding site in the midst of a tract of four acres, standing on a rugged mound formed by an outcropping of granite. In excavating for the foundations much blasting was necessary. Blocks of granite are being used for the construction of walls in different parts of the grounds and these, on account of the moss found on all the rocks of the district, will, when completed, have the appearance of great age.

The whole property will be landscaped under the direction of the architect.

CASH FOR LOT.

Adding to his already extensive Hollywood holdings, John C. Schell, who is just completing a handsome two-story garage at No. 6622 Hollywood boulevard, has acquired eighty feet of vacant frontage adjoining this building on the west for a given consideration of $18,000 cash. C. H. Thompson was the seller. The frontage purchased was formerly part of a site of 100x120 feet owned by Mr. Thompson. The east twenty feet was sold about three months ago to Walter R. Gage, who has since completed a two-story store building on his purchase. Mr. Schell, it is understood, will use the ground he has just acquired as a court or yard for his new garage, which is an "L"-shaped structure extending clear around the back of the newly-purchased lot.

CAN YOU FIND A BARGAIN EQUAL TO THIS?

A MAGNIFICENT WILSHIRE MANSION,
BANK APPRAISAL $40,000.
OUR PRICE

$33,000. $33,000.

A personal inspection of this beautiful residence will convince the most skeptical of the remarkable bargain offered.
Here is a particular home for particular people. Just glance over the following description:
FIRST FLOOR—Large center hall, typical of the Spanish Period; Louis XIV living-room, 33x16, with hand-painted walls; Georgian dining-room; Spanish library in Verde antique; breakfast-room in Chinese Chippendale; De Luxe kitchen and butler's pass pantry; maid's room; large service porch, etc.
SECOND FLOOR—Southeast bedroom in Louis XIV; northeast bedroom in Adams Period; large dressing-rooms and tile bathroom and shower between, and 2 bedrooms in modern Colonial style with tile bathroom between and sewing room off north bedroom.
The interior finish, the decorations, the lighting fixtures and the appointments are as near perfect as can be obtained; equipped with vacuum cleaning plant, annunciator, etc. The grounds are improved with lawn, shrubbery and flowers, and there is a garage with ample space for 3 cars, besides man's room and bath.
The house speaks for itself, all we can say is come out and see it. Arrange an appointment Monday.

SMALL INVESTMENT BUT BIG OPPORTUNITY. $550 will buy a CASH TRADE, NO DELIVERY Fancy Grocery and Delicatessen store on West Seventh street, in the heart of the high-class apartment and flat building district; one where there are more than 700 families living within two blocks and a constant stream of autos passing day and evening. There is also a good light lunch trade, without competition, which can be expanded indefinitely by one WHO KNOWS HOW; a high-class LUNCH and TEAROOM can be added advantageously, or a FANCY BAKERY or CAFETERIA, and the premises enlarged, if desired, to double size. Present owner a traveling man and not adapted to the business, which is well established, nevertheless, and offers an unusual opportunity for man and wife or two women accustomed to the best class of patronage. The building is one of the most artistic on West Seventh street, and the store fixtures are all white enamel and made especially for this store a year ago. Range, handsome electric fixtures, $125 computing scale, $120 glass refrigerator display case, built-in show window, etc., and a good stock of fancy groceries included in price, which is about ½ actual cost, as owner must leave before October 1. The location is strategic, with new flat and apartment buildings going up all around. The RIGHT PARTY can make a good living and also enjoy the profits that a wonderful future assures. Come and INVESTIGATE and let me tell you WHY. F. W. CROAKE, 2731 W. Seventh st., corner Hoover. 558487, Wilshire 8865.

AUTOMOBILE CONTROLS REVOLUTIONIZED—Air, next step. The Peerless Pneumatic Clutch Co., offices 811 H. W. Hellman Bldg., Los Angeles, and 14 American ave., Long Beach, announce the practical completion of factory tests of Peerless Air Control for automobiles, trucks and tractors at a large eastern factory. Remarkable demonstrations made. Control comprises self-starting air clutch, 4-wheel air brakes, automatic engine governor, tire filler. It does away with self-starters, cuts out all clutch shocks, skidding and motor stalling. Greatest advance yet made in motor controls. REMARKABLE financial opening. Strong patents. Fullest investigation courted. Market production looked for shortly.

Cotton.

MARKET IRREGULAR; TRADE LESS ACTIVE.

FLUCTUATIONS NOT SO VIOLENT AS EARLY IN WEEK.

Early Pressure is Prompted by a Bearish View of the Week-end Figures, Crop Reviews and Selling on Rumors of Submarine Attacks on Shipping.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The cotton market today was nervous and irregular, with business less active and fluctuations not so violent as early in the week. December contracts sold up from 20.05 to 20.39 and closed at 20.12, compared with 20.20 at the close Friday. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 5 points on September but 3 to 12 points net lower on later deliveries, with October relatively weak.

Early pressure was prompted by a bearish view of the week-end figures, favorable week-end crop reviews and there may have been some selling on rumors that shipping had been attacked by submarines near the New England coast. These rumors were not generally credited, however, and the market very soon firmed on the storm news. The more favorable eastern belt forecast then anticipated relieved storm apprehensions to some extent later.

Oranges and Lemons.

DAILY EASTERN CITRUS MARKET QUOTATIONS.

The Pacific Fruit World, in its review of the California citrus market for the week ending Friday, says:

Continual forcing of heavy supplies of Valencias on the eastern markets, which is made necessary because of the increased crop, has had a tendency to weaken the situation the past week and prices have eased somewhat. In addition, the quality of the fruit leaves much to be desired and when forced on markets that are already swamped with the heaviest supplies of fresh deciduous fruits ever known, lower prices on Valencias naturally result. Comparing present prices with those of the 1914 season, which was a fair average season, prevailing prices are fully 40 to 60 cents higher, notwithstanding the fact that sales of Valencias are fully twice as heavy.

Shipments the past seven days totaled 352 cars, as against 385 cars the previous seven days, the total shipments to date for the season being 8031 cars in excess of the shipments for the corresponding period last season from the entire State.

While shipments are easing somewhat, many growers are getting anxious to move their crop before the fruit gets too far along in the "turning green" process which is prevalent in many districts and detracts from the appearance of the fruit, causing lower prices. As a result, it is expected that shipments will keep well up to the present mark until the bulk of the remaining Valencias have been moved.

Under the present condition of the market very little f.o.b. business is reported, quotations for fancy stock being on a basis of $2.50, depending upon sizes and district.

As regards the new crop of navels, little can be added to early reports, although an occasional report is received from individual growers to the effect that the damage by heat has been exaggerated and some fruit is being found in the inside of the trees that will make considerable showing in the aggregate.

In the Tulare county district growers are being urged by packers to hold their fruit this fall until it reaches a complete state of maturity, and thus realize the full value of oranges of the highest grade. Therefore, navel shipments from Tulare county district are expected to be the largest in years, being well along toward the middle of November before the first cars leave the district. Not only is the fruit later than normal, but, due to the light crop in Florida and in Southern and Northern California, there will be no danger from overstocking the early markets.

Prospects for the Tulare county crop are constantly improving, present estimates being for a 65 per cent. crop for the county as a whole.

LEMONS.

The market on California lemons is stationary. Continued cool weather throughout the country has forestalled any prospects for a late summer demand and what trading is done is upon a hand-to-mouth basis for immediate consumption.

Western markets show a little more life than those east of the Missouri River, where the foreign competition is keener. The western market is on a $6 delivery basis, with about 50 cents lower in the East.

Practically all the left-over fruit has now gone from the packing-house cellars and there are very few lemons on the trees up to the picking size. San Diego county will have a fair amount of fruit to move in October and November; and in December Corona and San Dimas districts will begin shipping in limited amounts.

Growers have been disappointed in the slowness of the new bloom, but feel confident that the heavy new growth the trees are throwing out will produce a second bloom during the coming month.

October is one of the best lemon-consuming months of the year, due in a measure to the general opening of the fish season throughout the East and increased activity is looked for in the demand for lemons.

COMMERCIAL.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Nearly all advices from the Middle West state that the canning season is somewhat later than usual, but the acreage is large and everything points to a normal pack, or better, unless early frosts do unexpected damage. Most Middle West canners began operations about the first of the present month, and if the weather is anything like favorable during the next thirty days there will be full delivery on all corn. Assuming that the pack will be fully up to expectations, there is nothing in sight to indicate an easier situation. Demand for staple canned goods of this kind is so heavy, and the costs for tin, labor and corn are so high, that prices are bound to hold firm. Grocers who bought canned corn at the opening prices own it at about 50 cents a dozen less than current quotations.

It is estimated that the government will require about 25,000,000 pounds of dried beans for the coming year. Just what price will be paid for the beans has not as yet been determined. Farmers have their ideas at about 10¾ cents a pound, f.o.b. Michigan for choice hand-picked small whites. However, the government apparently has no intention of paying any such price, provided the crop reaches 5,000,000 bushels, as now seems likely. Of course, the big Michigan crop is not out of danger, for an early frost would cut down the production very materially and the farmers might then be able to get the price they want. Weather in the East in the last thirty days has been favorable and the crop is maturing rapidly. It will need about a month more of good weather to fully mature the crop and positively insure a complete harvest.

There were not many price changes of importance on the produce market yesterday. Values as a whole are showing a stronger tendency and from now on quotations for the majority of commodities may be expected to advance. Northern spuds were moved up to $2.75 and $3.10 a hundred, white onions to $2.10 and Bartlett pears to $1.50 a lug.

Eggs and butter remained stationary at yesterday morning's session of the Produce Exchange. The receipts totaled 84 cases of eggs, 44,200 pounds of butter, 1800 pounds of cheese, 2484 sacks of potatoes, 1800 sacks of onions and 5987 boxes of apples.

TO DISCUSS WAR.

Representative of Herbert Hoover to Tell Women Their Place in World Conflict.

Many questions growing out of war conditions will be discussed at the mass meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Broadway Department Store on the 28th inst. The meeting place was announced yesterday through the Women's Committee of the County Council of Defense, Dr. Jessie R. Russell, chairman.

The principal speaker will be Ralph Merritt, the Coast representative of Herbert Hoover, national director of food conservation. The conservation of food and the utilization of women doing men's work will be two of the themes. Women from all over the county will be present.

ARREST CHINAMAN.

C. N. Lea, a Chinaman living at No. 208 South Olive street, was arrested on a departmental warrant issued out of the immigration department yesterday, and placed in the County Jail. It is alleged that Lea has been running a disorderly house for some time, and that two women, Misses Bradford and C were apprehended as inmates. The accused has a white wife. Lea will be ordered deported if the claim of the government that he was profiting by the disorderly practice can be substantiated.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The general trend of the stock market in the last week was toward a lower level, although there were occasional rallies, which in one instance amounted to a vigorous recovery. A noticeable feature of the trading was the absence of sustained demand on the rise, and even substantially lower quotations for standard stocks failed to attract an inquiry large enough to give the market a material accession of strength.

Liquidation was carried further, resulting in a falling away of prices to points which in some instances were the lowest in years. Notwithstanding the rapidity of the decline at times, however, the market was held in hand, and good support was offered when needed to prevent too great extension of losses among established investment issues.

The downward movement was furthered by free speculative selling, and traders found no difficulty in uncovering weak points. Some of the war stocks and other speculative favorites proved extremely vulnerable to such pressure and gave way rapidly until the decline was checked by over-selling.

The week's irregularity was attributed primarily to the continued obscurity of the outlook. The troubled internal situation in Russia was perhaps the most unsettling of the immediate factors. Exchange on Russia met with a further severe relapse which depressed rubles to the unprecedented prices of 11½ cents, although the quotation rallied about 5 cents late in the week.

HIGH TEMPERATURES SCALE CORN PRICES.

IDEAL RIPENING WEATHER GIVES BULLS SETBACK.

Oats Weaken, Despite Export Sales Exceeding a Million Bushels—Milling Orders for Wheat Continue Much in Excess of Arrival of Supplies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Nearly ideal weather and an increase of rural offerings furnished much of the impetus today for a decided downward swing which took place in values of corn. The market closed heavy, 1⅝ to 2¼ net lower, at 1.16⅝ to 1.16¾ December and 1.14¼ to 1.14⅜ May. Oats finished ⅝ to 1¼ off; provisions gained 10 to 45.

High temperatures prevailed over all important corn States and there was no rain of consequence. The fact that such conditions were just the kind of ripening the crop needed made an instant impression on traders. Bearish sentiment deepened after the issuance of the government weekly forecast indicating generally fair weather and seasonable warmth for the next three or four days.

Continued peace gossip, together with reports that a German submarine was operating off the New England coast, tended further to handicap the bulls. No important reaction developed and the market closed at almost the lowest point of the day.

Oats weakened with corn. Seaboard advices implied that yesterday's export sales exceeded 1,000,000 bushels but this circumstance failed to count in the absence of any fresh demand from the East.

Milling orders for wheat here continued to be far in excess of the arrivals. The total receipts for the week in Chicago were only about one-third of the amount at the corresponding time last year. Other domestic terminals also reported a decided shortage. At Winnipeg, however, receipts surpassed to a liberal extent the figures of 1916.

Bullish estimates of the amount of recent purchasing for Belgium gave strength to provisions. Another element of firmness was an expected scarcity of hog supplies here next week.

WYOMING SECOND STANDARD OIL CO.
Now in List of Oil and Gas Producers
Within the last week this company has taken over a majority of the stock of two other companies, one owning 217 acres of proven oil land and eight producing wells near Chanute, Kan., and one owning 120 acres and two producing oil wells near the town of Nowata, Okla., and two sections of choice land in the Salt Creek field of Wyoming, where deep drilling is to commence shortly. These recent acquisitions added to the more than 3500 acres of selected oil lands already owned by The Wyoming Second Standard Oil Company and its two producing gas wells, give this company an earning power which the directors feel will justify them in declaring a dividend of

Drillers and Refinery Men Are Now Buying BIG BEAR Oil Stock
Over $30,000.00 worth of Big Bear Oil Co. stock has been purchased by Casper, Wyoming, people. Our two rigs are only 10 miles from Casper, so these men know how fast we are drilling and how close we are to a big production. The Big Bear Oil Co., though only five months old, is drilling two oil wells in the Big Muddy field. This rapid financing is due to the fact that it is a co-operative company, no officer receiving any salary or commission. Your money goes for actual drilling. Officers are efficient and reliable men. Because of the rapid sale of this stock, we offer it now at 12½ cents per share, reserving the right to reject your subscription and return your money if your subscription comes in after 100,000 shares are sold at this price. Stocks now selling for $40, at the start sold for 10 cents a share. Capitalization is only $500,000; stock full paid and non-assessable. Sold on monthly payment plan if desired. Drilling in the famous Big Muddy field, where all wells drilled to Wall Creek sands are over 500 barrels daily capacity. One 500-barrel well should make this stock sell in the dollars. If you want some stock at the 12½-cent price, write at once. Get literature, bank references and map. Wm. G. Krape Inv. Co., 957 Gas & Electric Bldg., Denver, Colo.

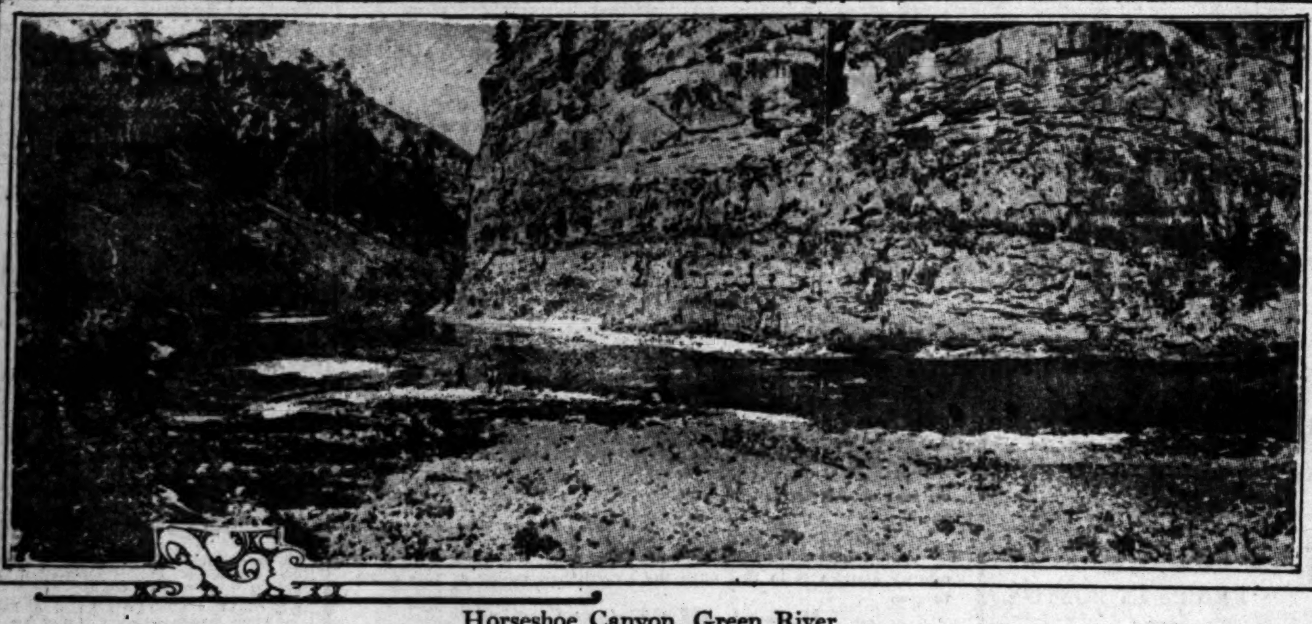
Waters that, if Impounded, Will be Worth Untold Millions.



Horseshoe Canyon, Green River,

Close by the site of a proposed reservoir with a capacity of 8,000,000 acre feet. The spot shown is above where the Colorado is formed by the junction of the Grand and Green Rivers. Green River drains a larger area than the Grand and is considered the upper continuation of the Colorado. Including the Green, the river is 1700 miles long.

Stupendous.

CONTROL OF COLORADO RIVER WATERS URGED BY LOS ANGELES.

Chamber of Commerce Asks Washington to Perfect Plans and Call Convention of Interested People. Tremendous Benefits Outlined.

HERE are some facts and figures that show what a tremendously profitable investment the building of storage reservoirs to equate the flow of the Colorado River would be.

Estimated cost of six or seven storage basins, $50,000,000. These reservoirs would have a total capacity of more than 15,000,000 acre feet, one alone to impound 8,000,000 acre feet, more than three times as large as the biggest reservoir now in the United States.

Four to five million acres of rich land, now barren or only slightly productive, could be irrigated. Imperial Valley with about one-eighth as much land under cultivation, is this year producing as much as the estimated cost of the reservoir system. The quantity of water thus stored would be sufficient to irrigate all the irrigable land below the Grand Canyon in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, California and New Mexico and provide all the water and more that Mexico would use.

Power development possible, several times greater than all the power now developed in the United States West of the Rocky Mountains.

Permanent protection to the irrigated lands now annually menaced by Colorado River floods. These floods, aside from the damage to property and crops in the past have cost in protective and repair work fully $5,000,000. Unless the river is controlled above, the annual expenditures will amount to several hundred thousand dollars every year, with the ever-menacing possibility that the richly productive Imperial Valley will some year be again inundated and its property destroyed.

The annual profit on the investment is estimated at from 200 to 500 per cent. The ability of this country to produce food would be increased enormously.

An important step toward bringing the Colorado River control project to consummation has been taken by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Resolutions setting forth the magnitude, desirability and profitableness of the undertaking have been forwarded to Secretary of the Interior Lane. The resolutions were adopted by the directors of the chamber and signed by President Sale and Secretary Wiggins.

The Secretary of the Interior is asked to have the plans for building reservoirs to conserve and control the waters of the Colorado promptly perfected and to call a meeting of the men and corporations interested in the States to be affected for the purpose of harmonizing conflicting interests and unite on a plan to carry out this gigantic undertaking, the magnitude and profits of which cannot be fully comprehended even by engineers who have given the subject careful study.

That a thorough survey of the situation in a convention such as is suggested would reveal general benefits on such a mighty scale as to overshadow, and make possible to settle, whatever differences have existed is the belief of many sound business men of the Southwest. Following is the Chamber of Commerce resolution.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

"Whereas, the Imperial Valley has developed into one of the richest and most important agricultural sections of the United States and will, it is estimated, produce during the current year crops and cattle of the value of $50,000,000; and

"Whereas, the productive area of this valley and other sections adjacent to the Colorado River is capable of large extensions, providing the lands which are now arid and uncultivated can be supplied with waters for irrigation; and

"Whereas, in the past the annual flood waters of the Colorado River have done great damage to the Imperial Valley and during the season of high flood just past threatened the valley with destruction and a serious calamity was escaped by a very slight margin; and

"Whereas, the land now under cultivation and tributary to the Colorado River requires for its irrigation all the flow of the river at the low stages when water for irrigation is most in demand thereby restricting the increase of the irrigated area; and

"Whereas, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is convinced that the only means of increasing the amount of water for irrigation during the low stages and also of completely guarding against injury during the flood stages of the Colorado River so as to make possible the increase in irrigated area and the decrease in destruction, is found in carrying out the plans for controlling the flood waters of the Colorado River by a system of reservoirs as proposed by the Secretary of the Interior; and

"Whereas, in the judgment of the Chamber of Commerce it is of the greatest importance that this work of reservoiring the waters of the Colorado River and thereby equating their flow shall be proceeded with at the earliest possible moment; and

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce earnestly recommends to the Secretary of the Interior, as follows:

"That complete plans for reservoiring the waters of the Colorado River so that the same may be controlled during the period of floods and may be used for irrigation during periods of low water should be promptly perfected to the end that as soon as the present stress of war is over this great work may be taken up by Congress to the double advantage of forwarding a great and most needed public improvement of national good, and at the same time affording employment to many laborers at a period when there may probably be an excess of unemployed labor in the country.

"That while these plans are in preparation the Secretary of the Interior call a meeting, at a time and place to suit his convenience, of all water companies, reclamation projects, and private or corporate interests interested in the development of the lands tributary to the Colorado River, to the end that endeavors be made to harmonize all conflicting interests in the national good so that when it may be practical for work to be done the same will not be delayed by conflicting interests."

The project to conserve, control and put to use for power and irrigation the waters of the unruly Colorado River is one of the most interesting engineering studies in the world today. Engineers are enthusiastic over the possibilities, for they declare it to be feasible from an engineering point of view and are profoundly impressed with the opportunities to add enormously to the development and wealth of the country. Men who have gone into the subject deeply place it second only to the Panama Canal in importance.

Louis C. Hill, engineer for years with the United States Reclamation Service and who has made extensive surveys of the Colorado River and its tributaries, is authority for the statement that enough water can be impounded at an estimated cost of $50,000,000 to supply all the irrigable land south of the Grand Canyon in California, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico and all that Mexico would use. The cost of distributing systems and power plants is not included in the $50,000,000 estimate.

The Elephant Butte dam, the largest in America, has an impounding capacity of 2,600,000 acre feet. The Roosevelt dam makes possible the storage of 1,400,000 acre feet. One of the proposed reservoirs in the Colorado project at or near the junction of the Green and Grand rivers would impound 8,000,000 acre feet.

Many details regarding the utilization of the waters for power purposes yet remain to be worked out, but the possibilities as revealed by surveys and investigation already made are amazing.

A dam that could be built in Grand Canyon to a height of 100 feet would, on an average flow, create 250,000 horse power. Another dam in Gore Canyon with a fall of 525 feet would create 40,000 or more horse power. This is about forty miles from Leadville and ninety miles from Denver, by no means a formidably long transmission distance. Just one of the proposed reservoirs, the Flaming Gorge on Green River, could alone reduce the summer peak by 50,000 second feet.

It will probably require eight or ten years to complete the surveys and plans, build the reservoirs and distribute the water, but once the project is definitely decided upon, the work could be handled, in a feasible way, to secure some of the benefits much easier. Mr. Hill cites as one such possibility that by building one dam to cost $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, a tract of 200,000 acres in and nead Palo Verde Valley could be put under water. This could be done in about a year and would add to food production.

Hill Street Project.

prominent part in the movement to bring about the construction of a union railway terminal in the Plaza district. The question of whether the association as an organization will actively support this great undertaking is to come up at an early meeting.

PULLING TOGETHER.

Perfect harmony exists between the owners and tenants of Hill street and Broadway on the question of the proposed extensions of the two thoroughfares. Some of the leading members of the association have extensive interests on Broadway as well as Hill, and have been actively identified with the proceedings for the South Broadway opening. Several of the larger Broadway business houses extend clear through the block and have entrances on Hill street. Recognition is declared to be general on the two streets that whatever is done to facilitate traffic into the downtown district will benefit everybody.

Following the lead of Broadway, the association is preparing to get signatures for the installation of a new lighting system for Hill street. The organization proposes to use the same type of globes that have been specified for the Broadway system, utilizing the existing standards.

The association has approved a plan for reducing the congestion of traffic that has not been tried to date in Los Angeles. It recommends that from Ninth street south all corner curbs on Hill street be rounded off to make a thirty-foot radius instead of the eight-foot radius now to be found at most corners. The plan, it is pointed out, would leave ample room for sidewalk purposes, while at the same time greatly enlarging the turning space for vehicles at corners. Builders at street intersections are urged to round off the corners of their buildings to parallel the curve of the curb. North of Ninth it is suggested that the same plans be carried out wherever it is feasible.

A special committee of the association has taken in hand the question of getting a new name for the street, it being held that the name of "Hill" does not properly suggest the business character of the thoroughfare. Among the names being considered are "Market" street, "Tradeway" and "Fifth avenue."

Owners on Hill are being urged to tear down all old residences and other frame buildings that are not in keeping with the business improvements on the more modern parts of the street. They are also being asked to remove trees that have ceased to be ornamental.

The owners generally are being advised to brush up their present improvements and to build modern structures on sites that are vacant or where edifices are antiquated and unsightly. Leading members of the association have agreed to finance buildings for owners where responsible tenants can be secured.

NEW PROJECTS.

Several notable improvements are now going ahead or are projected for South Hill street. At the northwest corner of Hill and Seventh street the old Dillon block, a frame structure erected a generation ago, is being razed to make way for a six-story fireproof mercantile building, to be occupied in part by Harris & Frank. A six-story concrete building on the east side of Hill between Seventh and Eighth is to be remodeled at once by Lawrence B. Burck, the owner, to meet the needs of film exchange houses, of which there are many in this city. The property will be known hereafter as the "Film Exchange Building."

The former Pease Building on the east side of Hill north of Seventh, recently taken over by Bullock's, has just been joined with the big Broadway store by a bridge eight stories high, spanning the alley between the two structures. Bullock's is now one of three great department stores having Hill street as well as Broadway fronts. The large space formerly occupied by the Ville de Paris in the Homer Laughlin Building, extending from Broadway to Hill, between Second and Third streets, is now being remodeled for public market purposes. The owners of a large frontage extending through from Broadway to Hill between Fifth and Sixth are planning the construction of a novel retail arcade joining the two first-named streets.

The owners on Hill street are looking forward to the construction of a modern station that is to take the place of the present Pacific Electric Hill-street depot. This, it has always been understood, would be built simultaneously with the Pacific Electric's projected subway to Vineyard Junction.

Negotiations are under way for the erection of a number of large buildings on South Hill street, and it is understood that some of these projects may take definite shape within a short time. Large hotels are also projected at three locations on the street between First and Tenth streets. A theater comparing in size with the largest in the city,

Gentlemen:-

In reply to your inquiry of August 3rd, as to our opinion of your cement irrigation system, can only say that we have had six miles of your eight and ten inch machine-made cement irrigation pipe in use almost every day for the past three months on our foothill ranch in San Fernando Valley, where we have considerable variation in pressure.

We find this pipe was made of good material and carefully installed and in consequence stands a greater internal pressure than we could have hoped for with hand-made pipe. We find it all that we desire to have, and a continuation of such good work will no doubt bring an increase of business to your factory.

Respectfully yours,

THE SUNSHINE CO.,
BY W. B. Mosier
PRESIDENT.

MBM/ES

Mr. Mosier seems to be completely satisfied after a thorough experience.

He mentions the superiority of machine-made pressure pipe. Hand-made pipe may seem to be cheaper, but in fact, it costs more. We can use a smaller size pipe and deliver as much water as a much larger size hand-made pipe. We make a better, safer, more efficient system for less money.

All our pipe is made with the Kellar-Thomason pipe-making machine and we use Kellar-Thomason valves, gates and hydrants throughout, thus insuring the best that can be made.

We guarantee every job. If you have land in the San Fernando Valley phone or write, or come in if convenient, and get full information of what this system will do for you.

SECURITY: 2171 acres of land, including improvements on the upper end of Suisun Bay, forty miles from Property has ample water frontage, with 27 feet depth of fresh water, affording the distinct advantage of launching any size and long life to submerged timber constructions.
Property amply served by railroads, electric power transmission lines and fuel oil lines.
There will be immediately constructed Standard Ways, Building Slips, Docks, Foundries, Machine shops and Buildings of turning out minimum of 100,000 tons of steel vessels in three years.
The mortgage securing these bonds provides that these improvements shall cost at least $1,000,000.
VALUATION OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY: When the total authorized issue of these Bonds has been issued, the will be 60 per cent. of the conservative valuation of the mortgaged property when completed as planned, which an equity in the property of $2,000,000.
CONTRACTS AND ESTIMATED NET EARNINGS: The United States Government offers to the Company construction of steel vessels which, after one year from date, are estimated to yield net earnings exceeding for 5 years after 1918. This is over five times the largest annual interest charge on the total authorized bond issue.
MANAGEMENT AND DIRECTORS: Mr. Henry T. Scott is President of the Pacific Coast Shipbuilding Company T. Scott is its General Superintendent.
They are both well known as shipbuilders, having been respectively the President for twenty years and General for fourteen years of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, the largest shipbuilding plant on the Pacific Coast, owned and controlled by the Scott family up to the time of its sale to the United States Shipbuilding Company.

Under their management and supervision, the Union Iron Works of San Francisco built many vessels Government and private contracts. Including the vessels built by them under Government contract Battleships: Oregon and Ohio—Armored Cruisers: California, Milwaukee and South Dakota—ton, Olympia, San Francisco and the Japanese Cruiser Chitose—Gunboats: Marietta and Wheeling—Monterey and Wyoming—Torpedo Boat Destroyers: Preble and Paul Jones—Submarines: Grampus

Some of the merchant vessels built under private contract were: the Arago, Peru, Spokane, Senator,

Mr. Henry T. Scott and Mr. John T. Scott were respectively President for four years and Vive-President and years of the Moore & Scott Iron Works, and of the largest shipbuilding plants on the Pacific Coast.
Under their management and supervision the Moore & Scott Iron Works built many large merchant vessels, The Coalinga, for the Associated Oil Co., the Capito and Tholdis, for Norwegian owners, and the Kellog, for the eum and Transport Company.

Some Big Rubber Facts.

SEVENTY THOUSAND TIRES ARE SHIPPED FROM AKRON, DAILY.

More Than Sixty Thousand Employees on the Payrolls of Big Companies—History of the City's Remarkable Growth Reviewed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[illegible], Sept. 14.—Every time a [illegible] blows out Akron grows. And the rate of this growth [illegible] be realized when one takes [illegible] consideration that there are [illegible] auto tires running over [illegible] of roads in the United [illegible] alone every day.

[illegible] one reason this city never [illegible] times. No matter what [illegible] the motorist is loath to [illegible] car. Factory figures [illegible] that over 70,000 tires are [illegible] out of Akron every day, [illegible] three-fourths of the entire [illegible] manufactured in America.

[illegible] workers are employed [illegible] rubber factories here, [illegible] engaged in some way [illegible] out tires for autoists, [illegible] bicyclists and aviators. [illegible] the growth of the [illegible] has turned Akron from [illegible] inhabitants into a [illegible] which needed workers [illegible] because it is im[illegible] houses or rooms for [illegible] the 157,312 persons the [illegible] shows live here. The [illegible] houses has not kept pace [illegible] growth of the tire factories. [illegible] years the rubber business [illegible] the tire industry is [illegible] part, has changed the en[illegible] complexion of the [illegible] are now twenty-one [illegible] Akron turning out from [illegible] tires a day.

[illegible] is the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, the greatest rival of Goodrich, with its two immense plants; the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, the Miller Rubber Company and seventeen smaller concerns.

The way in which Akron became the rubber center of the world reads like a romance. At the close of the Civil War, Dr. Benjamin F. Goodrich became engaged, in a small way, in the real estate business down East. Through a series of transactions, he found himself saddled with a small rubber factory at Hastings-on-the-Hudson. The doctor knew nothing about rubber and cared less, but attempted to run the plant in order to make his security good.

About this time the city of Akron, through its Commercial Club, was making a strong bid for factories. Dr. Goodrich came to Akron, presented his case and, as a result, moved his factory here in 1871. The plant which was erected could be built twelve times in the present mill and calender-room of the factory.

Rubber products at that time were mechanical goods, boots and shoes, clothing and druggists' sundries. Everything promised a normal development and rubber products slowly came to be looked upon as staple articles.

A boost was given the rubber industry by the invention of the bicycle and the demand for rubber tires for its use. Men began to wake up to the possibilities of rubber.

The invention of the automobile was another stimulus to the rubber trade. In connection with this it is interesting to note that the first pneumatic tire was manufactured for Alexander Winton of Cleveland, in the '90s. Mr. Winton asked Goodrich officials, then the only rubber factory here, to make him a pneumatic tire for his automobile. The rubber men hesitated. They had never made so large a tire before. It was not until Mr. Winton guaranteed to pay for the molds that the tire was made.

The rubber industry did not receive the benefit of this successful experiment until years later. In fact, it was in 1908 that the rubber boom started. Up to this time there had been only a normal development. New autos came into general use and the boom was on. Factory after factory, already located in Akron, gained a nation-wide business. Many new enterprises were launched.

Akron naturally became the rubber center and profited most. First, because Akron was home to the men who were able to profit by the experience of the pioneer company and see the future of the rubber business from a sane standpoint. Second, these men could contract with the Goodrich people to manufacture their goods in small quantities until their selling organization could support a factory of its own. Third, practically all the skilled rubber workers in America were centered in Akron, for even then the Goodrich company had grown to a point where it employed 4000 men.

Gross sales of the companies increased by leaps and bounds. Auditors soon began to figure in millions instead of thousands. The Goodyear expects to do a gross business of over $100,000,000 this year. For the month of August Goodyear sales totaled $12,577,000.

MOTORISTS AVOID SPEED-TRAP TOWN.

BUSINESS MEN LOSE TRADE AS A CONSEQUENCE.

Questionable Methods Adopted for Catching Drivers—Business Men Pay When not Guilty Rather than Make Long Trip to Fight Case—Some Burgs Boycotted.

It is against a town's interests to be known as a speed trap. And because there may be a few people who do not know what that term means, it may be explained that a speed trap is a place where unwary motorists are fleeced. There is a noted speed trap not far from Pittsburgh, where the burgess waits, watch in hand one might say, to record license numbers as cars pass through the town; it is known far and wide by reputation, but unfortunately, the citizens whose servant this official is, do no trealize their borough is being injured, so he continues in office, says the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

The proprietor of a speed trap prefers to deal with motor car owners living twenty-five or thirty miles away. Some time after the evil day—in one case it was six weeks—the driver gets a notice telling him that once upon a time he exceeded the speed limit in a certain town by covering a mile in less than the legal time, and must appear on a certain day for a hearing. Attached is a blank by means of which the culprit may plead guilty and signify his willingness to pay whatever fine and costs are assessed against him. Now the speed-trap proprietor banks on the probability that the motorist is a busy man who does not wish to be annoyed with appearing twenty-five or thirty miles away for a hearing at which he certainly would be adjudged guilty anyhow, and will remit without a protest, although he may be morally certain he crawled through the town at a snail's pace. So the burgess goes on assessing his fines and costs and is happy in the possession of a "good thing."

Recently motorists have begun to fight these traps. They have been turning the summons over to a lawyer and having him get in touch with the situation and give the trap proprietor a scare. If an official is out to commit highway robbery in a strictly up-to-date fashion he is usually fearful of legal proceedings because he doesn't wish to endanger his job. So he is willing to "dismiss" cases against men who show a disposition to fight back.

Motorists driving over a territory constantly find out these traps and avoid them wherever possible, which means villages here and there are losing valuable transient trade through the evil intentions of a single official. Nearly all the touring is done by orderly people in good financial circumstances; they can make a route or a town popular, to the advantage of merchants selling fuel, oil, tires, accessories and refreshments. They can put a town "on the map" if its people will welcome them and make their visits pleasant. But no matter how popular a town has been as a motoring point, let it become known as a speed trap and its custom will fall off. Drivers will make a detour to avoid it.

The real speeder who willfully disregards the limits and makes streets unsafe should be dealt with promptly and sternly. But, protected by the public opinion against speeding, designing officials in some places have set traps for the innocent and law-abiding driver, who is at their mercy unless he determines to resist. Citizens who respect their home community and value its good reputation should inquire whether automobilists consider it a trap, and if so, why.

Motor car owners of Wisconsin have been appealed to by the State Council of Defense of Wisconsin to help harvest the 1917 grain crops of the Badger State. A flying squadron is being enlisted to take labor to and from the fields in various parts of the State.

SOME :: ENGINES :: ARE :: AIR-COOLED.

This type of car requires no water.

A good many years ago some one conceived the idea of an air-cooled engine. Eventually the first model was perfected until it was pronounced a success. Today the air-cooled engine is doing good work; the car which uses it can go where any other car can go, it gives a high gasoline mileage, and owners are almost a unit in praising it. But the principle has never been adopted by other manufacturers. Why? If it's good for one car, why isn't it good for all cars? Why bother with a radiator and fan, hose connections, pipes, pumps, water jackets, belts and other parts—177 in all? The air-cooled engine and the water-cooled engine give good service, but it would be interesting to know "why" all cars do not adopt either the air-cooled type or the water-cooled type. In the pictures above the arrows point to the direction the air takes as it is sucked through the opening in the front of the hood. It passes into the compartment above the cylinders, thence down around each cylinder, through the jacket surrounding it, enters the compartment underneath the horizontal dividing deck, and thence out through the flywheel blades. It is claimed that 2200 cubic feet of air passes through the hood every minute, thereby preventing the overheating of the engine.

Tickle! Tickle!

THE FUNNY WHEEL OF THE AUTOMOBILE

BY EUGENE BROWN.

IT SEEMS that I am not to have a vacation this year. The space I had allotted on The Times calender to dolce far niente—whatever that is—has been canceled, and instead of snaring mermaids with a silken line I am doing my bit for my country at a neighboring workhouse.

Unless the judge changes his mind I think I will be here for thirty days.

My opinion is that he will not change his mind. He hasn't much mind to change, but any change would be an improvement. Anyhow he seemed to have it in for me, and now I am in for him—thirty days, please.

Sympathetic friends who wish to send fruit or flowers may leave their offerings with the guard. I do not think it would help any to try and use money. The judge was very emphatic in the declaration that he wanted to make an example of me.

That fact alone helps to reconcile me to my lot. From my youth I have always been held up as an example to my fellows. On one occasion a posse of citizens were so anxious to elevate me as an example that they carried with them a rope for that purpose. I eluded their worthy intentions, however, and came West.

My present plight is due to some differences I had with the judge concerning the operation of my gee-whizzer. This is a cross between a lizard and a juggernaut, and was made for me by a man named Ford, who told me himself that he worked for almost forty seconds on its construction. I thought it would be nice to use in the relief of chorus girls, and also in taking my load back and forth.

I called the contrivance Henry because its name was Lizzie.

It seems that there are a lot of laws and ordinances governing the operation and manipulation of these road cruisers, and it is largely because of this that I am now serving the State in a menial capacity. It appears that you can run over roads and bridges, dogs and chickens, but not over your fellow-man. I had always supposed that the hunting down and pursuit of pedestrians was what we took out a license for.

The other day I was tuning Henry up on the boulevard, when just about a block ahead of me I saw a cripple trying to cross the road. He had a pretty good start, and it looked as if he might make it, but my chugger is built for emergencies. I stepped on the gas and the old bird shot down the road like a bullet. That was some speed burst, believe me. The cripple heard me coming and also began to pick up motion. I thought for an instant he was going to get away, but when I was about fifty feet distant he got excited and dropped his crutch.

Then I knew I had him!

He was my meat.

With the joyous yelp of the sportsman I was upon him. The fender took him fairly in the slats, and I could hear them crack as we struck. My quarry was bowled over and over for about three rods, and finally landed in a crumpled-up heap at the side of the road. He was unable to move for an instant, but finally managed to roll across the curbing. Gee! I'll bet that gink was scared to death for fear I was coming back.

But I saw that my fender wasn't hurt much, and therefore sped on with a merry laugh. After all, the day had not been without its incidents.

As I glided on in jovial mood, however, I noticed on looking backward that a man on a motorcycle was making desperate efforts to come up with me. At first I kept him guessing, but as he seemed anxious to speak to me I finally slackened speed and allowed him to come up.

What was my chagrin at learning that he was an officer and that I was under arrest. There were no explanations. He would not listen to any I made, nor would he make any of his own. I was to report to the court at 9 next morning or he would come after me.

So I went.

The judge did not treat me in his usual affable manner. He was about as warm as Doc Cook was when he found the North Pole. When my case was called the judge said that I was charged with exceeding the speed limit, with driving on the wrong side of the road, and with bowling over and maiming a human being—all of which was contrary to the peace and dignity of the people of the commonwealth and in violation of the statutes in such cases made and provided.

"What do you plead?" said the judge sharply, as he concluded.

"I plead self-defense, your honor," answered I.

"Self-defense?" exclaimed the judge. "How do you make that out?"

"Why, that crippled gink had the nerve to try and get away from me," explained I.

But the judge wouldn't listen to reason. "Swear the officer," was all he said. Then the officer swore and told his story. It seemed that he had seen the whole business. He admitted the truth of my claim that the cripple was trying to get away from me, but that didn't seem to make any difference. . . . The judge said that it was his constitutional right and that I was interfering with that right.

"That's a d—d funny constitution," interrupted I, with some heat.

"Here!" roared the judge. "We'll have no profanity in this court."

"But, your honor," remonstrated I. "You just asked this officer to swear."

But he wouldn't listen to reason. I never saw such a frame-up in the name of justice in my life. The judge said that he had been trying to get one of these road-burners and man-killers, and now he proposed to make them take some of their own medicine. "You smug-faced reprobate," he coarsely said to me. "If it wasn't for your starving family and your capacity for demoralizing your fellow-prisoners I'd like to send you to the pen for about seven years; but as it is you can go out to the workhouse and break rock for your country for the next month."

Wasn't he the mean thing?

When I got out to the workhouse they made me take a bath, although I had had one the week before. Then they put me in a striped uniform that must have been made for a man two sizes larger than myself. After that they presented me with a beautiful ball and chain made of massive pig iron, but when I found that I had to wear it all day I ceased to appreciate the gift. Then I had a lunch of bread and beans and coffee, after which a guard led me forth to the scene of my service. This, I found, was in the midst of an open-faced stone quarry, where the sun burned holes in your shirt. What I had to do was to get out blocks of stone weighing about 100 pounds apiece, put them in a wheelbarrow and then transport them to the rock crusher at the edge of the pit. It was a nice job for James J. Hercules, but not an easy one for a hapless wight who can hardly hold up a pair of queens.

I looked at the wheelbarrow a moment and then smiled at the guard. "Not for me," I exclaimed. "I'm left-handed."

"You moon-eyed mackerel!" sneered the guard, "don't you see that that is a left-handed wheelbarrow?"

Believe me, they'll get you somehow.

So if I am missing from accustomed scenes for a couple of fortnights it will be because of the enforced service I am rendering to an unappreciative State. I am the victim of misplaced confidence in my fellow-man—said fellow-man being an inferior judge of a Superior court.

Caleb Brady writes this department for advice or assistance in forming a company to manufacture and market a wonderful invention of his. This is a revolutionary idea in honkers. His device is a combination of the dictaphone, the horn and the phonograph. It is supplied by the regular batteries and is equipped with three or more push buttons. Instead of the blatant, raucous, nerve-splitting sound of the average horn the new idea carries a spoken message. Push the first button and the voice of a Caruso gives forth the clarion call: "Look out!" If the second button be pressed the clear note of a McCormack begs you to "Hurry up!" and if the third buzzer be pressed a Constantino will impressively beg you to "Move on!"

Other calls or warnings may be substituted from time to time in order to please the whim of the owner or the exigencies of traffic, and it will be possible to get complete operatic or orchestra effects if desired.

In view of the splendid opportunities furnished by this invention it would seem that the old-fashioned honker with its wall of terror would have to go out of business.

Maj. Morgan Budlong is enthusiastic over the idea of individuality in cars that is now coming to the front. He thinks the whizzer in its color scheme, decoration and upholstering should reflect the taste of its owner. A car that is painted up after its owner's own heart is not so apt to be stolen—or, if stolen, is more easily identified or recorded. He is calling his car the Lady Slipper and he is having that name painted on it in addition to his monogram. It is a dream in pink and green blended after the manner of the flower whose name it bears.

The major has persuaded Chet Walsingham to come into the fold. The latter has had his massive roadster done over in complete new raimant of a rich creamy color and he calls his craft the Creampuff.

Another one soon to blossom out is the Bluebird.

And there are others.

AUTO CLUB TO KEEP GROWING.

Fifteen Thousand Members is the Slogan Now.

Campaign to Close the First of the Year.

Additional Signs to Point Way to Coast.

Not satisfied with the fact that the organization has 17,000 signs placed on Southern California roads, or that the National Old Trails road is signed to Kansas City, the Lincoln Highway and Midland Trail to Salt Lake, or that it has the most perfect touring information system in the world, directors and officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California, led by President Fred L. Baker, are planning the most gigantic membership campaign in the history of this part of the State.

It has been decided by the directors that it is to be a "humdinger," to put it mildly, and when the toll is taken on January 1 there are to be 15,000 automobile owners who can say that they are supporting the work of a club which has gone far to make this part of the State the greatest touring ground in America.

Why an automobile club should have 15,000 members will be explained by the membership department of the organization when the first guns in the campaign are fired in each of the southern counties, which will probably be early next month.

SOME RESULTS.

Some of the facts in the matter are already apparent, particularly to all discerning motorists who have had cause to thank their lucky stars that there is such a thing as a signpost system on the local roads.

Had it not been for the fact that the club membership was increased to 10,000 a year ago it is probable that the Lincoln Highway would not now be so marked that it will pour approximately 25,000 visiting motoring parties into this part of the country annually. Furthermore, without an increasing membership, the Automobile Club would be forced to remain at a standstill so far as the addition of new service departments is concerned.

This applies particularly to the theft bureau, the shipping department and the addition of branch offices and district touring bureaus.

According to Secretary S. L. Mitchell, there is a great deal of work yet to be done nationally in the way of sign-posting routes leading westward as well as in Southern California itself. He says sign-posting work never stops and it never stands still. But in order to keep pace with the tremendous drain on

PACKARD
Distillate Trucks
Long life—low cost!

For the "one-truck" business, endurance and economy count most.

What big business demands when it buys equipment—tested capacity and low operating expense—is even more vital for "the little fellow."

The smaller his truck capital, the greater his need for a Packard, because he will find it the cheapest truck to own and operate.

First cost is important to the scores of nationally known concerns whose hauling has been standardized with Packard trucks. But final cost is the factor that rules decisions.

Packard trucks save you money: (1) because they burn low-cost distillate instead of high-priced gasoline; (2) because their four-speed transmissions give them terrific pulling-power in "tight places" without waste of fuel; and (3) because sturdy design and sound construction, backed by Anthony service, keep them on the road every working hour.

Silent, chainless, seven economical sizes, 1 ton to 6½ tons.

A.A.A. REPRESENTATIVES ANNOUNCE RECORD SET BY STURDY LITTLE CAR.

10 DAYS EC
Between LOS ANGELES and SAN
A.A.A. SANCTION NO

The start of the long grind.

This picture was caught by the photographer just five seconds before the Dort started on its ten-day run. It shows M. A. Leach shaking hands with Driver Woodhill and wishing him good luck. The A.A.A. technical representative, standing at Mr. Leach's right, had just finished checking the fuel. Water, oil and gasoline were measured and put in the car by A.A.A. representatives, three of whom had charge of the run. The start was made at Broadway and Fourth, in front of the Leach company's downtown salesroom.

ALTHOUGH the roads are not at their best, and it is necessary to go through the Bouquet Canyon if good time is made on the trip to San Francisco, the little Dort on its ten-day run between Los Angeles and the Bay City has rolled up some splendid records. The A.A.A. representatives, under whose supervision the run is being made, announce the following results at the close of the seventh day:

Total mileage, 2232.5.

Total amount of gasoline consumed, 135.05 gallons.

Total amount of oil used, 8¾ quarts.

Total amount of water used, 19 quarts.

Average consumption of gasoline, 23.9 miles to a gallon.

The total cost, aside from punctures, of repairs for the seven days amounted to $1.10, and of this amount 60 cents was spent for replacement and labor because of the breaking of a washer on the thrust collar. This breakage was due to an imperfect part, as is evidenced by the fact that out of 1100 Dorts now used in California none has experienced similar trouble.

Three drivers and three A.A.A. representatives have had charge of the car from the time the start was made. As soon as the car reached San Francisco, in charge of an A.A.A. representative, another driver and representative relieved the crew, and this was repeated when the car arrived in Los Angeles. The records are kept by the A.A.A. man, and he personally measures all oil, water and gasoline that goes into the car.

"The climatic conditions in California are such that some of the Dort owners had trouble with their cars overheating," said M. A. Leach of the Leach Motor Car Company, Dort distributors, "but the factory spent $150,000 in research work and replacements and the difficulty now has been entirely overcome. This is proven by the present test, which shows only nineteen quarts of water used in a run of more than 3200 miles."

No effort is being made at speed, the drivers sending the car along at from twenty-five to thirty miles an hour, in order to have the run under the same conditions as in ordinary driving, the average owner setting a similar pace on long runs.

The drivers are Jerry Woodhill, William Fitzgerald and W. B. Felix. The A.A.A. representatives are Walter Stap, James Whyte and Herbert Harms.

"While many so-called runs are pulled off, and announcement made of even higher mileage than the Dort is showing, no similar run has been made here under the supervision of the A.A.A.," said Mr. Leach. "These figures are authentic. They show what a Dort will actually do. There is no guesswork and no bunk about it. That's why I insisted on having the American Automobile Association take charge. I wanted to know, and wanted the public to know, just what the Dort would do if put to a severe test. The figures speak for themselves, and certainly the small amount of gasoline, oil and water required for the long run offer a better argument than anything else could as to the merits of the sturdy little car that is 'built for service.'"

PHYSICIAN TAKES A SLAM AT OPEN-MUFFLER FIENDS.

LINE up, you motorists who run your cars with wide-open mufflers, blow your horns incessantly and forget that decent people want to sleep between midnight and sunrise! Line up and take your medicine, for here is a little pill prescribed for you by W. H. Smith, M.D. No directions were received with the prescription, so it is all given in one dose. Just get this:

"You disturber of honest men's rest, read and reflect. You owl in human disguise who choose the hours of night when the toiler needs his rest to dispatch frightful and soul-torturing blasts of gas!

"You unpardonable sleep killer! You who with intentional and deliberate meanness continually rush over the streets of the city with your machine thundering explosions, creating terror to the sick and nervous; you ignore every needed comfort of every honest being simply for your own sordid, selfish delight in listening to the furious and heart-splitting lighting crash in the silent hours of the night. You go by with your blast and wake up a thousand sleeping people, and a little later comes your associate villain to keep up the chorus through the night.

"You have no conscience or feeling. A man who will do this is no man. He would not exchange the joy he gets from his night roar for the life of some honest person whose life depended on a few hours of real quiet.

"You are worse than rats. Your work at night is the robbery of man's rest and sleep. The rat steals a little grain silently; you take the chief nourisher of life's feast and enjoy a theft which contributes nothing material to your store.

"Can you not forego your crashing, soul-disturbing machine-gun practice and give the man a rest who pays for the paving of the streets you desecrate?"

SPRING FLATTENING.

It has often been remarked facetiously that a certain car has an alterable wheelbase. As a matter of fact this is literally true of almost every car, especially of those which have Hotchkiss drive. When the springs flatten and remain so, even to a slight extent, the axles are further separated and the wheelbase is changed, perhaps an inch or two. Measuring the distance from wheel center to wheel center is a good check on spring condition.

Approximately eighty cars were imported into British Guiana during 1916, nearly all of which were of American origin. The use of cars has increased rapidly within the last two and one-half years.

STANDARD-SIZED TIRES FOR WAR.

An American war motor truck driver in France, caught in a pinch for an extra tire, will be able to obtain the needed size from a British or a French motor-truck operator, if a plan to standardize solid rubber tire sizes and rims in foreign countries is carried out.

The plan was first advocated on commercial grounds two years ago by the Society of Automobile Engineers of the United States, but it is only since the entry of this country into the war that the plan has been given serious attention by the Allies.

Latest information about the movements is that a joint technical committee having representatives of the British government and of the English truck manufacturers, at a meeting in London, has indorsed the proposal, and that at the meeting of the committee the opinion was expressed that France, Italy and Russia would find it advantageous to cooperate in the plan.

The United States government, in placing its large orders for motor trucks to go with the army to France, specified interchangeable rims on all wheels in accordance with the standard recommended by the Society of Automotive Engineers, and the prospect that this design will be the one designated by the Allies is regarded as excellent.

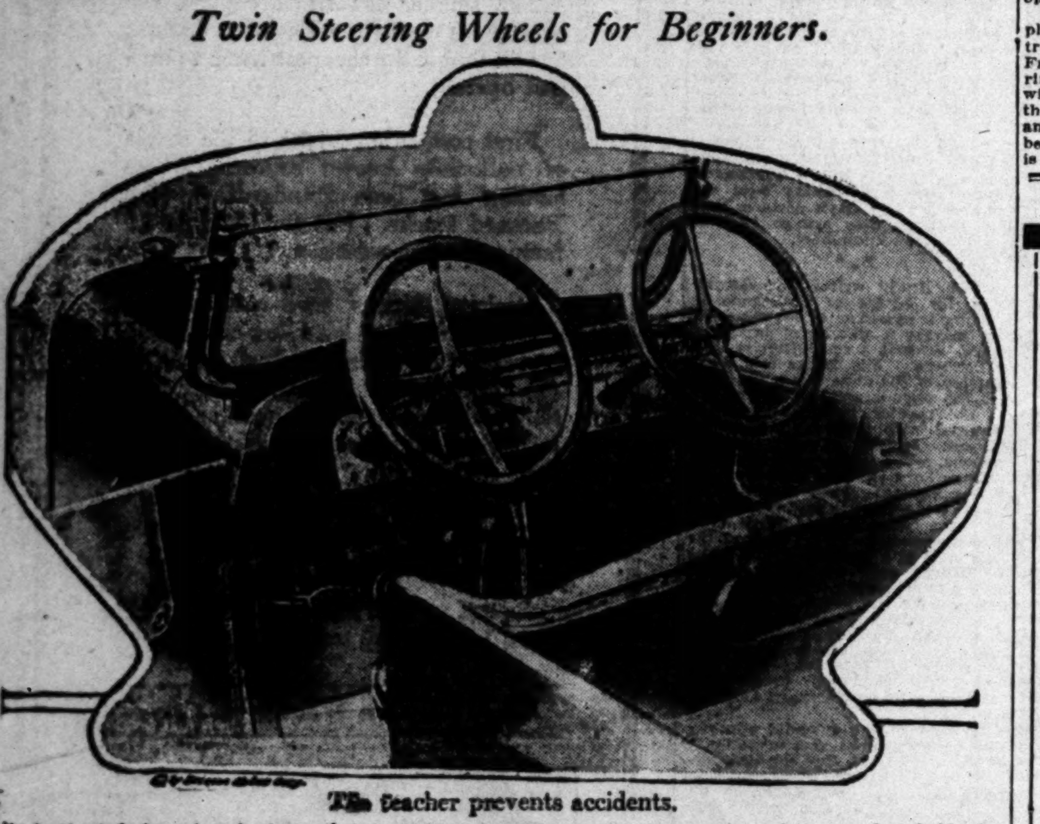
USE ENGINE AS A BRAKE ON HILL.

When going down a steep hill there is no better brake than the engine of your car and it is a pity that more drivers do not take advantage of this fact. By switching off the ignition at the top of the hill, and with the clutch in, almost any degree of braking may be obtained by throwing the gear lever in low, intermediate or high position.

When you do have to use either the foot or hand brake to check the car speed apply them intermittently; that is, do not jam the pedal or lever down hard in one effort.

For best running the oil indicator should be about half way between the highest and lowest point of its travel.

Twin Steering Wheels for Beginners.



The teacher prevents accidents.

At last! A fool-proof car! A car that any man or woman, or even a youngster, who never had hold of a steering gear, can run and not meet with a mishap. The picture shows how the double steering wheel, one for the beginner and the other for the teacher, has been applied to the Briscoe. There are two brakes, two accelerators, two everything, in fact, even to two horns. The "student" drives alone as long as he does the right thing at the right time. When he starts to go wrong, the teacher corrects him by using his own set of apparatus, at the same time pointing out the student's mistake. The Briscoe people first used it in teaching Red Cross nurses how to run a car, so that they would be prepared for emergency work in this direction if called upon.

On half rations—consuming fuel so sparingly as to put to shame many a lesser powered six, even many a four—the Peerless is an ideally soft smooth car for every-day driving.

The performance which characterizes its "sporting" range begins where other ideally soft smooth cars balk at the steepness of the long upgrade or deliver their last spurt of speed.

By opening the throttle a little wider you release her double poppets and utterly change the character of your car.

The soft purr of her "loafing" range gives way to a deep growl of brute power as she enters her "sporting" range and takes on new life.

The contrast in performance in these two separate and distinct power ranges has a new thrill for any driver who has not experienced it.

Let us demonstrate it for you.

In her "sporting" range the Peerless uses her eighty horsepower with full effect—is able and willing to vie with any contender, no matter what its "class," in an exhibition of power and speed.

pretty good car and a pretty good set of tires to withstand the shock incident to a jump of eighty this is exactly what a Studebaker car, reinforced by a set of Goodrich tires, did at San Luis recently. Clarence Miller of the McCabe garage did the driving. Starting at a point several blocks inclined platform, raised eighteen inches from the surface of the street, Miller opened up the when he hit the "shoot" he was going almost a mile a minute. The car shot into the air, the going almost "straight up." Even when the front wheels struck the pavement, the rear wheels were in the air, and for thirty feet the car was guided on two wheels. The exact distance from the the point where the front wheels struck the pavement was seventy-nine feet and four inches.

tually went over to Pasadena to a dinner party the other evening, and Ethel wanted the machine to go to Long Beach. We were awfully put out about it."

And His Reverence was likewise suffering a fearful test of Christian forbearance. "Really, you would think they were merely lending me the car. Whenever I want it, that fluffy daughter seems to have it out. When I needed it to visit a sick parishioner the other night, Ethel had it for a party—of course!"

And all too soon mamma lost all interest in the guilds and the next thing we heard, His Reverence was trying to exchange his interest for a cheap car of his own—and there were no takers.

But when Melitta and Olga got their partnership car, it looked as if it must work serenely at last. Melitta is a professional young woman and Olga is a teacher, so it was agreed Olga should go to school with it and be exclusive owner from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day except Saturdays and Sundays, when Melitta was sole proprietor. And on week-day evenings, of course, they would always want to go everywhere together.

So far so good. But human desires won't be harnessed to mere dates. Also and likewise vacations cropped up and Olga had ten weeks and Melitta had two, and the two Melitta had went and bumped into the middle of the ten Olga had and everything jolly happened on Saturdays and Sundays anyway, and besides, Melitta always left the car cleaned out of gasoline and oil for Olga or vice versa and one or the other of them was always leaving it dusty, and it was simply shameful the way some people stuffed up the locker-room with trash, and just who was responsible for that puncture will never be known. But anyway, somebody brought her home with a flat tire on the day the other one had specially wanted it for a little excursion, and who could tell whether that sinful tire had been deceitfully pumped up to allay suspicion, or whether it really met its fate five minutes after leaving the garage on a perfectly harmless road?

Kathleen and Adele tried a partnership car, too. They had loved each other all their lives and had always refrained from marrying because they could not both marry the same man, and their tastes were so identical. When they furnished the house there was not a dissenting note. Whatever either of them planted in the garden was just what the other most adored. They even approved each other's visitors with a charming tolerance. Then they bought the car.

And Adele was Irish and emotional, and Kathleen was calm and flinty. They christened the car T. O. C.—Their Only Child—and revelled in the little joke. Their vacations came together and they toured the country, taking turns at driving. But alas, they both had stern views on the upbringing of "their only child." When it showed little tempers and distempers, Adele thought it ought to be loved and coaxed and petted. Kathleen thought it ought to be spanked and wrenched and sternly reprimanded. Adele thought the doctor should be called in at once. Kathleen said she would see it to Hades first, she guessed she could fix it herself. So Kathleen was always tinkering with it, and smiting it with maternal infallibility, and Adele was always sneaking it off to the garage and running up joint little bills. And Adele thought Kathleen and her tinkering were entirely responsible for the little bills, and said hard things about mothers that insisted upon endangering their infants' lives with home doctoring. And Kathleen waxed scornful on fussy mammas who rushed for the doctor for a mere scratch. And after poor jaded little T.O.C. had been in the garage for eight months she was loaned with fine patriotism to a recruiting officer whom both mammas fondly hoped would wreck the dratted thing for all eternity.

However, that did not deter Jim, who worked at night on a newspaper, from sharing a car with George, who labored in life's garden by day. It seemed absurd for them to own two cars when fate had so considerately arranged that their leisure did not overlap. But alas, there is a Sabbath every week. There are also holidays, and days off, and special occasions. And, oh, there are a fearful variety of tastes. Jim, you see, has a weakness for amateur ranching in the morning. And if one has a car what better use could one put it to than to carry sacks of seed potatoes and hives of bees out to one's ranch? George, on the other hand, felt that his leisure was properly devoted to society in the evenings, and when one's best girl is cruelly stung by a few escaped bees on a tender little journey to a beach resort, it does make a fellow mad, especially when she probably gets potato dirt on her best dress, as well. And of course, it is annoying when an amateur rancher with cynical ideas on females finds his car messed all over with chocolate creams, hairpins and foolish gloves and reticules that he is expected to take care of and return to the owner. Especially an owner about whom he holds very adverse ideas.

And it is infuriating to find the locker filled with mouldy vegetables after you have placed a lady's cloak in it in the dark. And even more aggravating to find that a foolish chiffon shawl was left in the locker and one has accidentally placed a can of axle grease on it. All these things happened to Jim and to George, and that faithful friendship that was theirs is tottering by day and by night, and trembles for its life on the Sabbaths, which alternately belong to George and Jim—days of fury and invective, days of dreadful restoration to taste, days of bitter apologies and revilement of the absentee.

However, a partnership car may not necessarily end in disaster. There is the case of the spinster and the widower on our street. But then the spinster was humble and modest and confessed her ignorance of cars. And she was so sweet to the widower's children and let the oldest boy drive the car on her days. And anyway, the widower paid for all the gasoline and the spinster provided all the artistic knee robes and carpets, and polished up the leather. And now we hear the widower's house is to be done up, because the garage is on his premises, and a for rent sign is going upon the spinster's house. And they will probably live happy ever after.

But, after all, owning half a car does not entail anywhere near the excitement of owning half a chauffeur. There are two society wives who thought it would be a good idea to hire a joint chauffeur when their respective hubbies were not available for the position. But the chauffeur was too communicative. He simply could not resist telling Mrs. M. all about everywhere he took Mrs. G., and vice versa, and when Mrs. M. waxed fussy and screamish over potential disasters, he would quote Mrs. G.'s imperturbable calm with irritating comparativeness. And when Mrs. G. kept him waiting he would hold up Mrs. M. as a model of thoughtfulness. And he finally enlisted, rudely declaring that life in the trenches held no terrors for him after his experiences with the gentler sex. And the ladies don't speak to each other any more.

And we humble street car folk that have scanned The Times Automobile Pink with tender yearning wonder whether half a loaf is really better than no bread. The great free independent American citizen, male or female, does not seem to shine at his fine honest best with half a car.

DON'T TURN OUT TO MISS A DOG.

A common everyday occurrence which befalls car owners is that of having a dog running alongside of the car and at times darting out ahead of the machine. No attempt should be made to dodge the dog, inhuman as it sounds; for in nine cases out of ten the dog will take care of itself, and it certainly is not worth the risk to start dodging the miscreant, for a sudden swerve may result in disaster.

Occasionally a dog in the country will dash out from a farm yard and make for an approaching car. If the car is going too fast to slow down in order not to hit the animal the thing to do is to grasp the steering wheel firmly, and if you hit him you must aim to strike him so that the center of the axle will catch him. This is by far better than to take a chance by attempting to turn out for him, only to find that one of the wheels has caught him, which might result in the car being overturned.

Harsh as this might sound, it is the only thing to do if human lives are to be safeguarded. The alternative, of course, is to drive slowly when an infuriated animal is seen charging a car.

NEED TRACTORS FOR MILLIONS OF ACRES.

There must be millions of acres that easily could be put into cultivation this fall if tractors were available. The use of small tractors as an aid to the solution of the labor problem, growing worse all the time, is receiving more and more attention.

The first annual farm tractor demonstration of the agricultural department of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., attracted attention that indicated much the same belief among the farmers of the more northern section of the country. Such a large crowd of farmers from Indiana, Ohio and Illinois was attracted to Lafayette the members of the faculty who have charge of the demonstrations had to abandon their programme and separate the men into squads for instruction.

The farmers want tractors, but they also want someone to run them and they want to know more about them mechanically.

It had been expected that about seventy-five men interested in tractor farming would attend the demonstration at Lafayette, but more than 300 came.

USE BIG TRUCKS TO HAUL GRAIN.

Farmers in the Northwest are watching the experiment being conducted on a 15,000-acre farm near Walla Walla, Wash., with motor trucks in hauling grain. A truck hauls wheat from two combines, on each of which has been built a 100-bushel bin.

The truck takes the wheat from the two bins and dumps it into a concrete elevator while the combines are filling their bins for the next load.

GRANT SIX

A Great Hill-Climber

THE owner of a GRANT SIX meets the hills with confidence. He has none of that anxious, "wonder-if-I'll-make-it" feeling. He knows that under the hood of his car there is an engine that has all the power that is needed.

Your GRANT SIX will never mortify you by "laying down" on the hills.

And when you "let 'er out" on the level stretches you ride easily and comfortably and really enjoy the exhilaration of swift travel.

Your satisfaction with the GRANT SIX is completed by an economy which is unrivalled. Owners average 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline and 900 miles to a gallon of oil.

Come in and see the GRANT SIX. You'll admire its lines and roominess, as well as its performance.

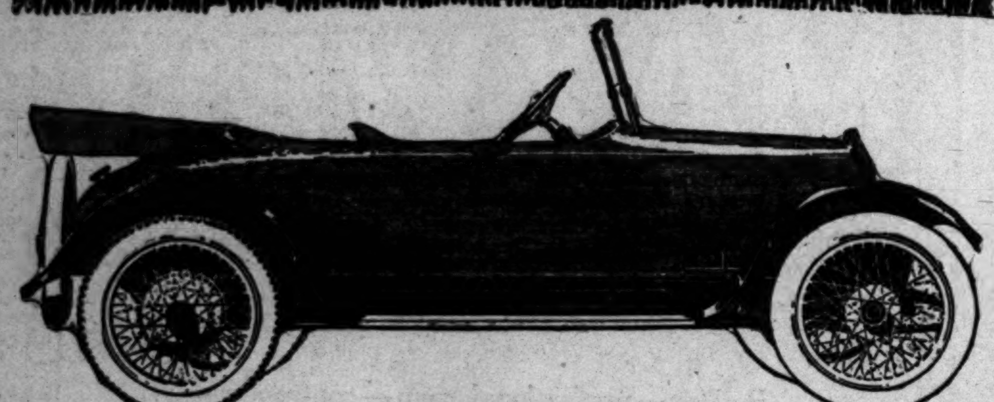
Every day in the week, month after month, year in and year out, the Los Angeles Times prints more display and classified advertising and more separate advertising announcements than any other Los Angeles newspaper.

The use of The Times' advertising columns is a dividend-paying investment, and in no sense a speculation.



Smartness and Economy

Come in and see this car.
It has the smartest style of any car ever produced to sell at so low a price.
In fact it is the only smart sport model among low priced cars.
And it is as economical as it is smart.
The motor is a wonder—smooth—lively—powerful—yet with a very low consumption of gasoline and oil.
It has cantilever rear springs which make it exceptionally easy riding and easy on tires.
The unique seating arrangement provides comfortable room for four large people.
And it is just as comfortable for a big man as for a little woman to drive for the front seats are adjustable forward or back.
Five wire wheels are included in the price.

100,000 cars have Inlands

Was your car one of them? Leaky piston rings in your motor waste 25% of its power—Inlands would turn that waste into energy. Inlands cut the cost of running your car and cut the cost of gas-tight piston rings

Spiral Cut makes Inlands absolutely gas-tight, strongest and most durable. Low-priced because one-piece. Inlands are in U. S. Submarines and Army Aeroplanes:—and standard equipment for Stutz, Franklin, Apperson, Hal 12, Pathfinder, Weidely motors.

See your dealer—he will explain why gas-tight piston rings save you money and why Inlands save you the most.

These places sell Inlands
If your dealer doesn't, he will order Inlands from his jobber.

WOULD OPEN EVERY ROAD TO MOTORISTS.

The American Automobile Association, according to H. M. Rowe, its president, will not make objection to the proposed tax on privately-owned motor cars, but will insist that the United States Senate enact the Adamson-Pittman reciprocity bill "as a long-delayed matter of simple justice to many thousands of the four million odd self-propelled vehicle users." President Rowe added:

"We only ask that Congress now open unreservedly the doors of every State to the residents of all other States who, in the pursuit of their business and social duties, should have the right to move about freely over the roads of their own country. This Federal tax carries with it a recognition of this inherent right, and we must respectfully urge that this question be settled once and for all time at a stage of the country's existence when it is appropriate that such action should be taken."

DON'T RUN CAR WITH FLAT TIRE.

If an inner tube, usually not subjected to as much unconscious abuse as a casing, is run under unfavorable conditions it can be ruined in a short while. For instance, when a tire goes flat and the tube is kept in it for even a short distance it will be spoiled by being ground between the rim and casing.

Care must also be exercised when applying tires that the tube be not pinched between the bead of the casing and rim. To obviate this the tube should be partially inflated before it is placed in the tire.

Hauling a Boat to Big Bear is No Snap.

Sand, boulders and sharp turns are a handicap.

If L. H. Johnson, president of the Panama Lubricants Company, had known what a task it would be to haul a steel launch from Los [illegible] Bear Lake, the chances are he would not have attempted it, but he finally had the satisfaction of seeing the boat on the surface of the [illegible] reservoir. Accompanied by Dr. Dwight Bowen and son, and using a Hupmobile to haul the trailer and boat, the trip was made after [illegible] ties. Big boulders on the Victorville road, after reaching the mountains, deep sand in the desert country, and sharp turns encountered [illegible] the lake, offered all kinds of trouble, but so far as pulling power was concerned the Hup had power enough and to spare. Johnson [illegible] twelve hours to travel the last fifty-five miles. In the picture Johnson and Bowen and their outfit are shown on one of the mountain [illegible] road the other side of Victorville.

JUST SKIDDIN' AROUND.

When a company disposes of thirty-two trucks in thirty days it can hardly be called a dull month. This record was established by the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company in August, thirty-two White trucks being sold and delivered. O. R. Fuller, manager of the company, is particularly pleased over the fact that most of the buyers were "repeaters"—companies or individuals who formerly had owned one or more Whites.

"Just put me down for a million dollars' worth of cars." That was the way Al G. Faulkner addressed the head of the Nordyke & Marmon Company, recently, when he was asked, upon his arrival, what they could do for him. "I ordered a million dollars' worth of Marmons because I know the demand is increasing—because I know what has been done in the Southwest in the way of sales of Marmons. Everyone at the factory is enthusiastic over the prospects for business during the coming year," Faulkner said.

Capt. E. Pryce Mitchell of Santa Barbara, for years a well known sea captain, and who was to have succeeded Capt. Smith, in charge of the Titanic when she went down, has become not only a "landlubber," but one of the most successful automobile dealers on the Coast. For some time Capt. Mitchell sold Hudsons and Dodge Bros.' cars, but recently he took the Chalmers agency, following a change made by the former company. He is head of the El Camino Real Motor Car Company, and enjoys the distinction of having sold more cars in that territory in the past year, it is claimed, than any other dealer.

The Pearl Motor Car Company is to act as distributor of the Truxton unit for Fords and other types of cars, it has just been announced. The Truxton unit formerly was known as the Hudford and was designed at first for Ford cars only. It is claimed that by using this unit, 90 per cent. of the load can be carried on the rear axle.

R. Dutton, formerly mechanician for Earl Cooper, inspected the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company's plant last week and was greatly interested in the twelve-cylinder motor that is intended for aviation work in the East. It is being tested by the government. Dutton has been drafted, but has not as yet been called for service.

That the problem of bringing all four passengers close enough together to permit of conversation, without crowding them, has been solved by the Marmon people in their four-passenger roadster, is the claim of Al G. Faulkner, Marmon distributor. The rear seat is full width, forty-two inches.

The Saxon trail-blazer has completed its long trip. The little Saxon traveled 12,156 miles, used 447 gallons of gasoline, and plowed its way through all kinds of roads, from the swamps of Louisiana to the boulevards of California, and from the highest passes in the Rockies to the dust-laden highways of the New England States. An average of 27.19 miles to a gallon is claimed for the car for the entire journey.

Women are more careful drivers than men. They do not speed. They do not get into jams in traffic. They always wait their turn at crossings and never try to hog the road. Also women have much keener eyes than men, and this probably accounts for the few accidents, comparatively speaking, that they figure in. These compliments were paid to women drivers in general last week by L. V. Starr of the J. W. Leavitt company, Chevrolet distributors. Mr. Starr doesn't say they are "better" drivers than men, but that they are decidedly more careful.

Follow these rules in climbing and going down hills and you will reduce the chances of accident to a minimum: Always keep to the right-hand side of the road, change from high to second gear, or from second to low, before the engine begins to labor; always have your brakes in good condition; wherever possible go down on compression and save your brake linings; do not try to view the scenery in dangerous places; do not be afraid to sound the horn before making a sharp curve, and never coast down a steep grade with the car in neutral. This advice is given by James Corbett, Mitchell service representative for California and Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Karr of Denver have completed a trip to Los Angeles and return, by way of Colorado Springs, Ute Pass, Leadville, Grand Junction, Salt Lake, Nevada and Northern California. The trip was exceptionally enjoyable, and they give full credit to the part an Empire played in the long journey.

Because every standard part of a car has a reputation of its own, W. G. Banning, sales manager of the Wright Motor Car Company, Inter-State distributors, says all the guesswork has been taken out of the purchase of a car. The auto purchaser of today gauges a machine by the parts that are in it, makes sure the company is reliable, and then knows he is getting full value for his money, says Banning.

Many Fords have been sent to the penitentiary, according to W. D. Dunham, Ford agent. Dunham has just learned that as a consequence of having Fords in the Michigan penitentiary, and the faithful and efficient manner in which they do their work, that institution is one of two penitentiaries in the United States that is self-supporting. The Fords were introduced to prison work by the warden.

Eight years ago the first sale of an Autocar was made in Los Angeles. Today there are more than 500 in service in the city and county. Among the large purchasers of Autocars might be mentioned the City of Los Angeles, the Los Angeles Transfer Company, the Ventura Refining Company, Ralph's Grocery Company, the Broadway Department Store and Hamburger's Department Store.

It is expected that by the close of the week, the United States Spring Company will occupy its new addition on South Los Angeles street. The new building will have more than 7000 square feet of floor space, and will be used for office-rooms, stock, storeroom and shipping-room.

Foster Curry is on his way to Washington, D. C., in a Cadillac eight. He will return over the southern route. The traffic into the Yosemite this year by auto shows an increase of 50 per cent. over any previous year, according to Curry's figures. Camp Curry is still open and will remain open for some time. September is proving a big month for the park.

THE WESTCOTT MOTOR CAR CO. SPRINGFIELD, O. U.S.A.

The Westcott Six

You will never tire in it or of it!

IN MOST MOTOR CARS there is some particular seat that rides more easily than any other part of the car. In the new Westcott all seats are equally comfortable and all are superbly luxurious at all speeds. This is due to the perfect balance of the car, the semi-underslung position of the body, the incomparable spring construction, the generous leg room in both compartments and the scientific design and construction of the upholstery.

Pride of ownership never ceases because Westcott beauty, like the Westcott chassis, is built to endure. The lines are indescribably graceful. The painting is done with exquisite taste and fundamental honesty. The "self-acting" top is of genuine Pantasote and is the embodiment of artistic design. The upholstery is of the finest leather with a soft, dull finish, exceedingly durable. It is applied with invisible fasteners and in French pleats. The instrument board, wind-shield and steering wheel are masterpieces.

When you buy your Westcott you will be securing the maximum of roadability, comfort and lasting satisfaction.

SERVICE

A business grows only if it serves a need. For ten years we've been trying to care for the electrical parts of automobiles—batteries, starters, magnetos, etc. Many say we do our work well — but we ourselves are constantly aiming at even a better service than has in the past ruled our shops.

BIG COMPANY PRAISES PINK.

Real News is Preferred to Pure Bunk Publicity.

Concern Spends Millions for Advertising.

Something in the Auto Section for Everyone.

Big concerns like the B. F. Goodrich company, a company which spends millions of dollars annually for advertising, know a good thing when they see it, and M. D. Bixby, in charge of the local branch of the Goodrich company, is satisfied that the automobile section of The Times is about as good as it could be made. In a letter to The Times, dated September 12, Mr. Bixby says:

"It has been in our minds for a couple of weeks to write you in regard to the improvement made in the automobile section during the past month or six weeks. We believe that the section is full of news interest now of the sort that appeals to automobile owners.

"I always take great interest in real news relating to the industry. The technical articles, the stories and cartoons, and gossip of Automobile Row, are matters which every motorist takes great delight in reading.

"The automobile industry has grown to such proportions that I have always believed there was sufficient news to fill a good-sized section of any Sunday paper without the necessity of resorting to bunk such as filled the auto section of many newspapers not so very long ago.

"I feel that every motorist, practically, is just as much interested in knowing real news and the happenings in that big field, as the readers who are not motorists can feel in the news of the day.

"I, like many others, read the automobile news first, but I want the automobile section to contain news, rather than a lot of boastful statements which belong in the advertising column if any place. I am glad to see that The Times covers such a wide field in the entire country, but of course, I am more interested in the local stories of the things that are happening right here at home, than in the East. I certainly hope that the good work continues."

Similar letters, are received by The Times frequently, and they go to show that what the big dealers—the ones who have made a study of advertising, really want, above everything else, is a newsy section. They argue, and they are right, that an advertisement placed in an automobile section that is read all the way through, because of the news it contains, will bring larger returns than an advertisement placed in a section that is given over to free puffs—filled with bunk from beginning to end.

MINNESOTA HAS A MOTOR RESERVE.

Dealers of Minneapolis have organized the owners of the various cars they represent as a corps in the Minnesota Motor Reserve, which has as its purpose the furnishing of a quick means of transportation for the county Sheriff forces in case of emergency and such other duties as may be necessary in maintaining order and protecting the interests of the citizens during the absence of the National Guard from the State on war duty.

The dealers have set 5000 as the number of members for this corps, and the first step has been to organize the owners, by squads, according to the make of car, and in groups of twenty-seven.

Fool meets fool when two autos, both without lights, crash together on a dark street.

Auto Club Grows.

the resources of the club there must be a proportionate growth in membership.

NEED AWAKENING.

It has been found in the past that in order to awaken automobile owners to a sense of their responsibility in keeping up the club service work it is necessary to inaugurate an organized "drive" on their consciences and consciousness. That is why the campaign is to be launched next month.

In a recent address to all club employees, branch office men and representatives, President Baker put the matter plainly in the hands of those employees as well as in the hands of all present members. He stated that the organization is not going to be satisfied with its present efficiency, for although it may seem that there is no further service possible to give members and visiting motorists, the addition of new members makes way and opens paths for new service departments.

Concerned in the campaign battle will be leaders in each of the thirteen southern counties, the full force of employees at the Los Angeles headquarters, and some 11,900 present members. It is hoped, according to President Baker, that each member will bring in one new member as a contribution to the future activity and success of the club.

With the thousands of dollars being saved to motorists through the club service every year by its good road work and its sign-posting operations, there seems to be no valid reason why every responsible automobile owner who has an opportunity should not be doing his bit by belonging to the organization, outside of the intrinsic value of the service given exclusively to members in the way of maps and departmental service.

In order that the club advantages may be brought thoroughly before the touring public no stone is to be left unturned by the officials and directors in the forthcoming campaign.

Extensive building of hard-surfaced roads through Western States was urged at the two-day convention session of the National Old Trails Road Association just closed at Pueblo.

DORT Economy

Synonymous!

24.1 Miles Per Gal. Gasoline

Average for 4210.6 Miles

Only 25 Qts. Water Consumed in Spite of Temperature as High as 125° Several Days of the Run in the Valley DORT Cools Perfectly

Oil Consumption Only 19 Pints---Average 1772.28 Miles Per Gallon

Carefully Checked by the Official Observers of the A.A.A. Who, with a Crew of Capable Men, Are Supervising the Test.

The entire run is continuous and is being made back and forth between Los Angeles and San Francisco, with the elevation ranging from 12 to 4312 feet above sea level and the grades as stiff as 10% to 11%, many miles being so rough as to prevent coasting on the down grade.

The Dort is tackling every conceivable kind of road—paved boulevards — sandy desert stretches — bad mountain grades and rough country roads—not merely city streets that make big mileage on gasoline easy.

It is a supreme test of the Dort and the Firestone Tires with which it is equipped.

The temperature in parts of the San Joaquin and Antelope Valleys reached 125 degrees and the average was above 100 degrees, yet the Dort cooled perfectly, using only 25 quarts of water going 4210.6 miles in nine days.

The Dort was driven by 3 men, but is proving a marvel for consistency in the hands of these different drivers.

The run is entirely under the supervision of the Automobile Association of America and the results are absolutely reliable. The car is constantly under supervision of a vigilant crew and every drop of fuel and water is reported.

So far the Dort has demonstrated that it is an economical car and the steady grind of averaging 20 miles per hour for 216 hours has proved that it is "Built for Service."

GOOD DRIVERS BELIEVE IN PROTECTING OTHERS.

Safety First Principle Held to be Absolutely Necessary at All Times.

AS MIGHT have been expected, the request made by The Times for expressions of opinion as to what constitutes a good driver, brought a large variety of answers, and they are still coming. Many are inclined to throw "experience" into the discard, declaring that some of the most experienced drivers are the most careless, although all admit that a certain amount of experience is necessary before a driver can be placed in the safe and sane class.

There are drivers who leave Los Angeles in the morning at 4 o'clock and take breakfast in Bakersfield at 7:30. That means daredevil driving over the ridge route, and still these drivers seldom meet with an accident. Are such men "good drivers?" One argues they are not, and another argues they are. One says fast driving is no proof of good driving. The other replies that no one but a good driver could make time like that.

Also, lucky drivers are being injected into the discussion. Some pilots go down Broadway, rigth through traffic, at a speed that some drivers only hit up when out in the country. And still they seldom hit another vehicle. They get away with it. But is that good driving?

Drivers turn corners on two wheels, drive rapidly over wet streets, refuse to blow their horns before making sharp turns in the mountains, and do a lot of other things that appear to place them in the "poor driver" class. But if they do not meet with an accident, are they really poor, or dangerous drivers, or good drivers?

It all depends, apparently, on who answers the question—who does the judging. Here is a sample of the answers received since last Sunday:

B. O. Henderson—Safety first, always. I count a driver a poor driver if he takes chances that are unnecessary. If a man understands his car, is cool-headed, obeys the laws and ordinances, and refuses to hurry unless it is positively necessary, I count him a good driver. I count a man a poor driver who takes a chance of killing some one, merely to show off, or because he has the speed mania. Life is the most valuable thing in the world, and why should the driver of an automobile go at such speed that he is liable to kill some one at almost any minute? My answer is that a good driver must necessarily be a careful driver, and a careful driver isn't a speed fiend. Some drivers are lucky—for a time—but sooner or later almost all of the road burners get killed, or kill some one else.

George I. Lufkin: The good driver knows his car thoroughly, keeps it in good condition, is always considerate of the rights of other users of the highways and obedient to ordinances and statutes governing the use of motor vehicles.

Stanley Smith: A good driver knows what his car can do, and through this knowledge obtains the best possible performance with the least mechanical or physical effort. Add to this road courtesy and close observance of motor car regulations.

Harry A. Miller: A good driver indicates his ability by an easy mastery of his car. When driving he and his car are one. He looks after it in an intelligent manner because he appreciates the perfect performance is dependant on good mechanical condition. The good driver is never a road hog or a dangerous speed maniac.

F. H. Osler: The good driver is known by the performance of his car when compared with its condition, its cost of upkeep and operation. From spark plug to tires, every part of the car shows considerate care and use. Because of his considerate actions, a good driver never endangers the lives and property of others, neither does he deliberately break the legal regulations.

New-Style Bodies
Exclusive to the Mitchell

One great interest in the Mitchell exhibit lies in the new-style bodies. There are eight new types, and each type is distinctive.

No radical innovations — the models are not unique. The adopted trends are simply carried farther. There are added luxuries, extra features. All the known attractions are combined. They show the present zenith in the body-building art.

Our Advantage

Most bodies, you know, are not built by the car makers. All Mitchell bodies are.

We have a model body-building plant. We have our own artists and craftsmen. So each Mitchell body is a Mitchell creation, exclusive to this line.

Then our own body plant, with its efficiency methods, saves us a large sum per car. All this saving goes into extra luxury and beauty. Since we occupied this body plant last November, we have added 25 per cent to the cost of finish, upholstery and trimming —all out of factory savings.

257 Cars in One

The first step in designing these latest models was to learn what all others had done. Our experts examined 257 show models. And all their best attractions are combined in our new designs.

No other single car embodies so many wanted features. In fact, there are 31 features in Mitchells which nearly all cars omit.

There is heat-fixed finish which stays new. There is extra-grade leather which lasts. There are shock-absorbing springs — the easiest-riding springs ever put on a car. And not one has ever broken.

Even the touring car has a light in the tonneau. There is a locked compartment for valuables. There are handles for entering.

So ladies can drive, each car is equipped with a power tire pump. Also an engine primer at the driver's hand.

Luxury Models

There are two all-season models. In the Convertible Sedan, in pleasant weather, the side windows disappear. In winter, rain or dust, the car becomes a luxurious Sedan. Seats for seven, all in one compartment.

Our new-type Cabriolet is a Coupe which changes to an open Roadster.

Our Coupe, Town Car and Limousine are three of the smartest models built.

Our 4-passenger Roadster—our sport car—is a stunning new design.

See these new designs. In each you will find some scores of attractions which no other one car offers. And each is a study in artistic body-building.

FORMER SPEED PILOTS NOW RESIDE IN THIS C

"AUTOMOBILE racing drivers, past and present," was the theme of an interesting discussion of speed fans at a chance meeting on Olive street recently. The ability of the drivers of the earlier days of the sport as compared with those who follow the high-speed game today was discussed pro and con, with both sides having supporters. One fact pointed out was that motor cars built ten years ago had attained only a slight degree of perfection and the upholders of the veteran drivers stated that the pilots of those days took far more chances in the dirt track and road-racing events with cars built of comparatively poor materials than do those of the present day who drive on specially-constructed speedways with every possible safeguard. It was brought out in the talk that some of the greatest speed kings that motor racing will ever know are now residents and business men of Southern California.

Among these are Bert Dingley, Harris Hanshue, the Nikrent boys, Barney Oldfield, Teddy Tetzlaff, Lou Edmunds (former team mate of "Wild Bill" Endicott on the old Cole team,) and Charles Basle. That a racing team composed of any three of these "old-timers" would give any three youngsters a race worth going many thousands of miles to see was the consensus of opinion of the fans.

Charles Basle never appeared in competition in the West, but he was one of the greatest [illegible] in the days of Herb [illegible] Robertson, Joe [illegible] rolet, Willie Haupt [illegible] foreign triumvirate, [illegible] Lancia and [illegible] their battles on the [illegible] course at Savannah [illegible] Prix and Vanderbilt [illegible] is now superintendent [illegible] chanical department [illegible] distributors of [illegible] cars. Another [illegible] shop is Dick Brendall, [illegible] expert, who, until [illegible] tended every speedway [illegible] race of consequence [illegible] tive of an eastern [illegible] facturing company.

USE OF LOWER-GRADE GAS WILL KEEP PRICES DO

BY W. S. CLUTE.

STEPS are being advocated by the oil companies and by the government, through the petroleum department of the Bureau of Mines, to bring about a relief from the threatened shortage of gasoline. Last year there was an actual falling off of the production of crude oil in this country amounting to some 3,000,000 barrels, and, though the reports of this year are encouraging, showing an actual increase for the first six months of 1917 over the same period of 1916, yet this increase is not sufficient to compensate for the constantly augmented demand for gasoline, and other petroleum products both at home and abroad. Casing-head gasoline, which is a most important factor in the gasoline industry, is being manufactured in increasing quantities. But the situation, especially in California, still is regarded as "critical."

Two of the methods advocated are a slight reduction in the specific gravity of gasoline and the marketing of a product that is "off color," that is, which has a yellowish tinge. Both of these methods, it is calculated, would greatly tend to keep down the price of gasoline, and the product would still be eminently satisfactory for use in motors.

The standard of gasoline sold on the market for the past few years has been uniform, the gravity being held steadily at about 58 deg. Baume, this being due largely to municipal and State regulations imposed. There is a tendency now to modify these regulations, allowing a motor fuel of lower gravity, or, more correctly speaking, of higher boiling points, to be [illegible] eral specifications [illegible] last year, but, due to the [illegible] variegated conditions of [illegible] dustry throughout the [illegible] account of different [illegible] and also because the [illegible] petroleum experts could [illegible] their respective [illegible] limitations like, the [illegible] poned.

A lowering of the [illegible] by two degrees would [illegible] of gallons to the present [illegible] gasoline, and [illegible] have no trouble in [illegible] this grade, since many [illegible] ing engine distillate or [illegible] 49 deg. gravity.

ORPHANS GIVEN A REAL OUTING.

Street car and other traffic at Rochester, N. Y., was suspended temporarily when the Rochester Automobile Club gave the orphans of the city a day's outing. The parade which led to the park contained 350 cars and was enlivened by two bands and soldiers who assisted in directing and parking the cars. The Mayor and other city officials took part.

More than 1000 children from the eight orphanages were entertained, and it is planned to repeat the outing next year.

PUMP GLAND LEAKS.

Leaks in the water pump gland are not necessarily caused by looseness of the nut. Very often it is new packing that is needed and then tightening the nut will not remedy a leak at all. Packing for the pump gland is made of candle wicking soaked in tallow, heavy twine treated in this way or of some special material for special cases. After the packing has been installed, the nut should be drawn up to press it home, but no further. By twisting the nut too tight it is possible to damage some part in the body of the pump. Care rather than elbow grease should be used in making this adjustment.

FENDERS AND BULBS.

Many cars have the headlamps fastened to the fenders and if these latter are at all loose, vibration is increased to such an extent that frequent replacement of the bulbs is necessary. This makes it important in cases of this kind to make a periodic inspection of the fender supports to see that they are tight.

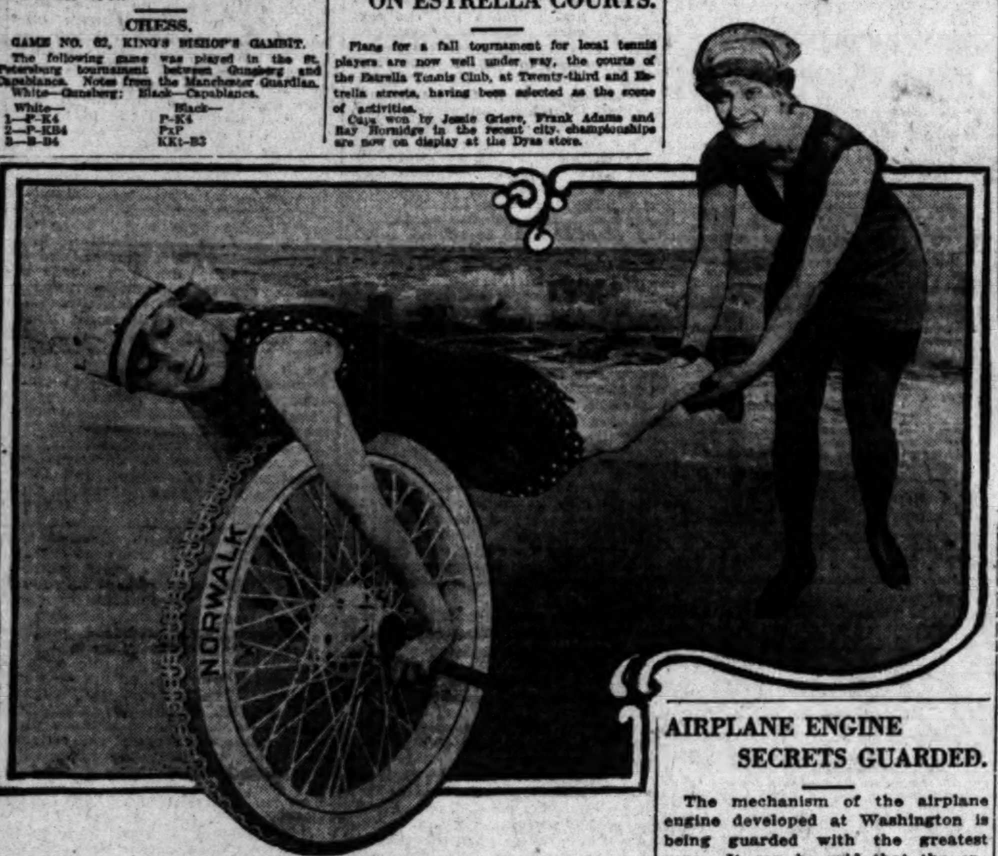
PLAN FALL TENNIS ON ESTRELLA COURTS.

Plans for a fall tournament for local tennis players are now well under way, the courts of the Estrella Tennis Club, at Twenty-third and Estrella streets, having been selected as the scene of activities.

Cups won by Jessie Grieve, Frank Adams and Ray Hornidge in the recent city championships are now on display at the Dyas store.

It's a Sensation.



It's called the "wheelmobile."

Every little while Long Beach has a sensation. If it isn't one thing, it's another. Just now the latest attraction is a "wheelmobile," which is composed of a pretty girl, an automobile wheel and a round stick. The stick is placed so it works as an axle. The pretty girl grasps it with both hands, and with another girl—it could be a man—grasping her by the ankles, the "machine" is ready for a spin on the beach sands. Miss Carol Clifton, a film company star, is the inventress of the "wheelmobile," and she also is taking the leading part in the scene shown above. Miss Peggy Pearce is holding on to the ankle-handles. Miss Clifton uses a Norwalk tire on her new machine.

AIRPLANE ENGINE SECRETS GUARDED.

The mechanism of the airplane engine developed at Washington is being guarded with the greatest care. It can be said that the engine is an adaptation of principles underlying other engines on an intensified scale and has proved by tests it can drive a plane faster than any engine that has ever been developed.

Speed has become the prerequisite to control of the air. With the perfection of this engine on standardized lines, such as its structure permits, aircraft experts believe the United States can push its aviation programme rapidly.

PURE GASOLINE GOSSIP.

SECOND-HAND cars are going to be at a premium, in the near future, if the price of new cars, tires, oil and everything the motorist uses continues to advance. It simply can't be otherwise. You can't stop the motor craze, and no one wants to, least of all the dealer and the manufacturer. But if the price continues to soar, and the demands of the War Department pile up until orders cannot be filled, there is going to be an increasing demand for used cars. Every time a new car is sold in Los Angeles, at the present time, two or three used cars are sold. And of course the supply, while seeming without limit a few months ago, is rapidly being cut down. The result? Every used car will be run until it is ready for the scrap heap, and when the war is over the manufacturers will face the job of turning out several million new cars. So take good care of the machine you are driving, see that it is kept well lubricated, and don't allow mud and rust to collect on it, for it's going to be more valuable as time goes on. In England, and several other countries, used cars are commanding as much or more than new cars of the same kind sold for before the war, and in one country it is reported that cars which sold for $1000 when new, now command from $2000 to $3000. Your old boat is worth taking care of now, if it ever was, for used cars may be at a premium before another year has passed.

A new record for the run from Shasta Springs to San Francisco has just been hung up by Cliff Durant, sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company of California. Durant, driving a Cadillac eight roadster, made the distance in ten hours and seventeen minutes, beating the Shasta Limited by six hours. Even this remarkable time would have been lowered, it is claimed by Durant, had it not been for delays at Red Bluff, Redding and Benecia, where the stops meant a loss of an hour and forty-five minutes.

When it comes to patriotism, the Turner-Whitford Company refuses to take off its hat to any place on auto row. Here is the list of men who are to serve Uncle Sam: Capt. Harry C. Turner is now at Fort Leavenworth. A. R. Arnot, sales manager, recently left for Pensacola, Fla., to begin training in the naval branch of the Aviation Corps. (Thomas C. Evans is to take his place.) George Finch, mechanician, enlisted before the draft. Roy Ledbetter, also a mechanician, leaves soon for American Lake.

D. F. Poyer makes the claim that more Republic trucks were sold in California in August than any other make, by a large margin. The sales totalled seventy-five.

"If one wants to see how rapidly the horse is being replaced by the auto and truck, it is only necessary to visit some small town," said H. P. Bidelman, president of the L. & B. Truck Company. "The old meat market cart, the grocery wagon and the bread van have been replaced by trucks, and a horse is a scarce article, even in a mere village, nowadays."

"If all motorists would follow the old, old advice to keep their tires fully inflated at all times—not merely giving them air once or twice a month, but seeing to it that they are up to capacity every day—one-third of the tires now sold would be unnecessary," said Roy R. Meads of the Pacific Rubber Company. "On our own machines we think nothing of getting 10,000 or 15,000 miles without a blowout. Keep the tires inflated, at all times and under all circumstances. Think of it in the morning, and don't start out unless you know there is plenty of air in every tube. Then, barring accidents, you can almost gamble that blowouts will not occur until the tire has been run a good many thousands of miles."

A cabled order for sixty Master carburetors from Australia was filled by the Los Angeles branch of the company last week.

A copy of the list of suggestions made by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce general manager on ways to conserve gasoline has been received by H. C. McVey, the local National and Oakland dealer. Some of these suggestions are: Do not use gasoline for washing or cleaning—kerosene will cut the grease. Do not spill gasoline or let it drip when filling the car tank. Do not expose gasoline to the air—it evaporates quickly. Have carburetors adjusted to leanest mixture possible. Do not allow engine to run when car is standing. See that the piston rings fit tightly. Stop all gasoline leakage. See that all bearings run freely and are well lubricated. Keep the tires fully inflated. Change gears rather than climb hills with the throttle wide open. Do not drive at excessive speed—power consumption increases at a faster rate than the speed of the car.

The women who are taking the course of automobile mechanics to prepare them for war times, offered and conducted by the Pacific KisselKar branch, at their salesrooms in this city, are making remarkable progress, and will soon be ready to take an examination to prove their fitness to drive automobiles and other motor vehicles, if the occasion demands that the female sex are called upon to assume these duties. This movement is receiving more and more impetus as the war continues. Inquiries are being made of this company from those in the East who are likewise realizing the importance of preparing our women for this work, and classes are being started in various large cities of the Eastern States.

Because of the success of the Peerless eight in all of the races in which it has been entered this year, it is more than likely that a Peerless racing car will be seen in action in many future speed events, according to Stanley Smith of Smith Bros., Peerless and Paige distributors. In order to exhibit the latest inclosed touring styles, and to popularize the closed-car idea, Smith Bros. intend to hold a show of their own the latter part of the month in their salesrooms.

"Particular attention has been paid by the manufacturers of the Inter-State car to provide a sensitive clutch, with a tension so light a child can operate it, a gear shift that is just in the right position for easy reach, and requires but the slightest pressure, and in many other ways to make of the car one that women delight to run," said W. D. Wright of the Wright Motor Car Company. "Because of these and other features," Mr. Wright says, "the car is especially popular with women."

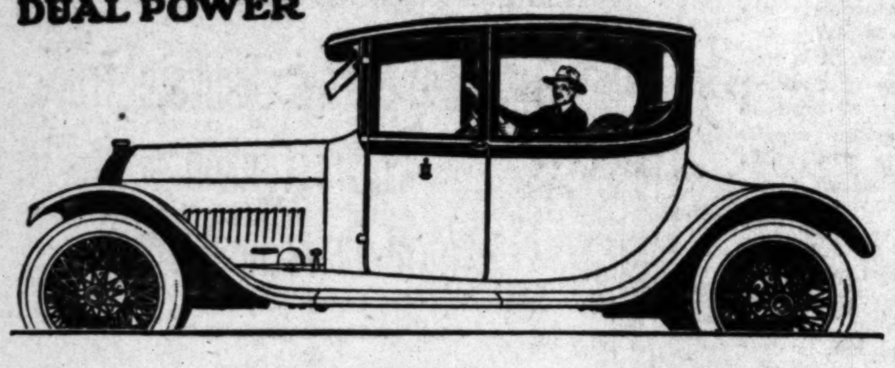
DUAL POWER

New Series



No Gear Shifting—Dynamic Brake—Non-Stalling Engine

1918 Luxury Model Now on Exhibition

Woods Dual-Power is the scientific car electrically controlled. The car with no gears nor gear shifting. That starts, accelerates, retards, stops with one foot pedal.

With a dynamic brake which practically eliminates skidding, while saving tires and brake lining.

With an engine that can't stall in a tight place, because there is always auxiliary electric power.

This newest Dual-Power is a perfected model—doubled in power—built on a 124-inch wheelbase—refined to the limit of luxury.

It is designed to meet the requirements of owners who have driven both gas and electric cars and know their limitations.

We invite you here to see this new model and have a demonstration. If you want to drive a high-powered car without expenditure of physical or mental effort, to achieve final motoring luxury and independence—you want the Dual-Power.

Get Your Hudson Super-Six Now While You Can

Present Prices Cannot Last Long
51 Cars Have Already Advanced

From the standpoint of real value the Hudson Super-Six is the lowest-priced car on the market.

Recent price advances on 51 cars have entirely upset the usual standards by which motor car values have been determined. In each price group cars naturally found their own place. But now, because some makers must supply their material wants in the present high market and because Hudson has a limited supply bought last year, the selling prices of cars do not indicate their values.

Those companies which faced the necessity of buying materials in the high market had to advance their prices in proportion. It added as much as $100 to $700 to the retail price of cars. It forced former $1200 and $1400 cars up to approximately the price of a Hudson Super-Six.

Hudson prices for the time being remain unchanged. Judged by today's material market, the Super-Six would have to sell at approximately $2150. Today you can get a seven-passenger phaeton at $1800. Such prices cannot be continued when the supply of materials now on hand is exhausted. You save money by buying your Hudson Super-Six now.

No car at any price has so conclusively proved its quality as the Hudson Super-Six. It is the largest selling fine car in the world. More than 40,000 Hudson Super-Sixes are in daily use. Everyone is familiar with it. It is the pattern car for all makers who seek to establish reputations for endurance. In every community people talk about it.

Everywhere Hudson holds the record for having made the best time over some favorite route which tests speed. It is a Hudson Super-Six which has shown the best power performance on some boggy hill. Wherever you inquire you are impressed by what people say in praise of the Hudson Super-Six. Best of all, you are assured that the Super-Six stands punishment unknown to other cars. People never compare the Super-Six with cars sold at or near its price. It has always been likened to cars selling at hundreds of dollars above its price.

You will want a Super-Six eventually. Buy it now and save money.

TY COBB SLIPS, BUT IS STILL IN FIRST PLACE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Tris Speaker, the 1916 batting champion, is making a desperate drive to finish second to Ty Cobb for American League batting honors. Averages released today show the Cleveland star back in second place with an average of .353, with Sisler of St. Louis, who held the spot a week ago, six points behind him. The averages include games of Wednesday.

Cobb fell off twelve points in the week, getting only five hits in seven games, but he is safely in the lead with an average of .374. The Georgian stretched his total base hitting to 301. His record includes 29 doubles, 24 triples and 5 circuit drives.

Bush, the Detroit shortstop, shot over the 100 mark in scoring, having brought in 101 runs. Roth and Chapman of Cleveland are fighting it out for honors in base stealing, Roth with 45 having a lead of three.

Leading batters who have played in half of their clubs' games: Cobb, Detroit, .374; Speaker, Cleveland, .353; Sisler, St. Louis, .347; Felsch, Chicago, .314; Veach, Detroit, .306; Chapman, Cleveland, .306; Lewis, Boston, .305; McInnis, Philadelphia, .302; Harris, Cleveland, .301; Bodie, Philadelphia, .300; Jackson, Chicago, .297.

Roush of Cincinnati widened the gap between himself and Hornsby, the St. Louis shortstop, for the batting lead in the National League, averages, including games of Wednesday, giving Roush an average of .345—nineteen points ahead of his rival.

There were changes among leaders in other offensive departments of the game. Carey of Pittsburgh added another stolen base to his total, bringing it up to 41, and Burns of New York stretched his mark in scoring to 93.

Leading batters: Roush, Cincinnati, .345; Hornsby, St. Louis, .326; Groh, Cincinnati, .308; Kauff, New York, .307; Burns, New York, .299; Cruise, St. Louis, .299; Wheat, Brooklyn, .297; Wilhoit, New York, .297; Zimmerman, New York, .296; Carey, Pittsburgh, .296.

SEALS GET TWO RUNS IN SIXTH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—San Francisco won from Oakland. The Seals scored two runs in the sixth inning on Fitzgerald's double, a single by Pick, Calvo's double and Schaller's infield single. The Oaks' one run came in the fourth when Leard singled, stole second, took third on Murphy's single and scored when Stumpf forced Murphy out at second. The score:

GET MANY ALBICORE.

A. W. Sickner and Paul B. Sickner of Wichita, Kan., had unusual luck with albicore yesterday at Catalina. They not only landed ten albicore out of fourteen that struck, but pulled in a fifty-one-pound tuna in five minutes. The smallest albicore weighed twenty pounds, the largest thirty pounds.

ANGELS WIN TWO FROM THE DUCKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 15.—The Los Angeles team took a double-header from Portland. Hogg outpitched Penner in the first game, and Seaton did the same against Brenton in the second. Portland was leading the first when Fournier hit a homer in the ninth, and the Angels won in the tenth. The scores:

NAVY RECRUITING.

Recruiting for the navy continues at a high rate, according to Lieut. W. R. Cushman, at the local recruiting headquarters in the Union Oil Building. "We are still enlisting all the men who come to this office for service in the navy and there are quite a number every day," declares Lieut. Cushman.

BARNES NEW OPEN CHAMP.

Breaks All Records in the Final Round of Play.

Walter Hagen Finishes in Second Place.

Mark for Course Beaten by Three Strokes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Breaking all records for a seventy-two-hole open golf championship with a score of 283 strokes, James M. Barnes of the Whitemarsh Valley Club, Philadelphia, today won the open championship at Westmoreland Country Club. The best previous championship score was 286, scored by "Chick" Evans in the national open last year, and by Walter Hagen in the western open last summer. This was two strokes better than the score of Walter Hagen of Rochester, N. Y., 1916 champion, and three strokes ahead of Jock Hutchinson of the Glenview Club, Chicago, eastern open champion. Emmett French of York, Pa., finished fourth with 292 and Fred McLeod fifth with 294.

Barnes started the championship route in the first round on Thursday, scoring a record of 67 and winning the special prize for the best eighteen holes. He added seventy-one strokes on Friday and was in the lead of the field of 136 starters with 138. He lost his cunning on the greens in the first half of the third round today, taking twenty-three putts for forty, but cut two under par on the second half for 34 and a total of 212 while Hutchinson, with a 71 was 211, and Hagen with a splendid 69 was 213. Three large galleries followed the leaders through the last round.

BEAR LAKE GIVES UP NEW FISH YARN.

R. D. Bailey of Colton had a fishing experience at Bear Lake this week that gives him the right to spin one of the most astounding fish stories of the season. While anchored in Metcalf Bay Bailey was amazed to see his 5-year-old son go overboard head first.

While bringing the youngster to safety Bailey lost his rod. After dragging the bottom for some time with a second outfit, the unfortunate fisherman's luck turned, his drag striking the bait end of the line. Bailey pulled up the leader and dropped it on the other side of his boat while unreeling the balance of 225 feet before bringing up the lost rod. When he wound up the outstanding line he found a two-pound fish waiting for him.

BOWLING NOTES.

At the annual meeting of the Southern California Bowling Association, Joseph Hopper was elected president; Harry Schwarz, vice-president, and J. Rawlins, secretary and treasurer.

After the usual routine of business, the annual tournament then came up for discussion. This event has always been the big thing in city bowling circles and the unusually large attendance at the meeting is evidence of the fact that the enthusiasm of previous years hasn't waned.

It was decided to start play Thursday, October 4. Entries close September 24. League games are to be played Thursday and Friday nights of each week. Teams are to be composed of two class A and three class B bowlers, and the rules governing play, etc., are the same as last year.

Judging from the interest manifested, the 1917-18 season of the pioneer bowling association of Southern California should surpass all previous seasons.

Just before the meeting of the Southern California opened for business, a special meeting of the Los Angeles Bowling Association was held to take action on the resignation of President William Durkin, Jr., who expects to leave for the East shortly. A vote of thanks for faithful services rendered was extended and the resignation accepted. Vice-president Alfred Mackenzie will take the chair for the balance of the term.

In Mr. Durkin Los Angeles' bowling colony loses one of the strongest supporters the game has had, a good organizer and everlastingly hammering away for the best interests of the game, and in the City Bowling Association he leaves behind him an organization which is a credit to his ability as a leader.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hables of King City are in the city for a few days. Mrs. Hables enjoys the distinction of being the champion woman bowler of Northern California, and an effort is being made by Alfred Mackenzie to bring she and Mrs. L. D. Meador of this city, who is the woman champion of Southern California, together in match play.

M. Spoden of the Commercial Bowling League is rounding up the members for the eleventh annual tournament.

S. E. Shrigley of Phoenix, Ariz., is spending his vacation in the city. Last season Shrigley finished second in the Salt River Valley League. He states bowling is good in Arizona and the Salt River Valley will likely be represented at the meet of the Pacific Coast Bowling Association in 1918.

Elmer Darrow has organized a team to represent Los Angeles at the big tournament to be held at Fresno, October 15. Elmer thinks a great deal of his team, who line up as follows: Andy Werner, J. Firestone, Harry Meek, Elmer Darrow and Alfred Mackenzie.

Tim Shafer ran down from Fresno long enough to attend the annual meeting of the Alley Owners' Association.

Waldo T. Tupper and family are expected in from San Diego today.

"Doc" Meador has his team organized for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' League and are out for the trophy this year.

Clarence Turner is on his vacation. He will line up with the Mackenzie Colts this season.

Capt. Earl Fay has the Majestic Ponies about ready to go in the Southern California.

Vincent Hayes and Alfred Mackenzie ran up a lead of 107 pins in the first half of their match against Schultz and Gordon of Anaheim. Gordon met with a mishap in the first game by slipping and hitting his ankle with the ball (this is not an "alibi," the writer was present,) which accounts for his low score. Shultz, who is a new bowler, made an excellent showing. At the end of the second game, Anaheim led by twenty-nine pins. The scores:

REVIVAL IN FATAL NINTH.

Bees up and Trim Tigers at Eleventh Hour.

Long Tom Hughes Gets Credit for Victory.

Mitchell has Sinking Spell Near the End.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

The usual week-end defeat of the Tigers, followed by the customary Saturday foot-washing service, took place at the open-faced tabernacle yesterday afternoon.

Just as every person in the place was regretting that he did not have a thousand tongues with which to harp the praises of the Tigers, the Bees up and won, 5 to 4, with a two-run revival in the ninth. Rath, Crandall and Quinlan put the soft pedal on their peans of praise, and the bugs retired to their respective abides to sit in sack cloth and ashes.

To gallop along in front for eight laps and then lose out at the finish tends to lacerate the spirit and humiliate the flesh. As late as the fifth inning the Tigers were in front, 4 to 0, and appeared to have made their calling and election sure by a large majority. In the sixth there was a turn for the worse, and Roy Mitchell, who is subject to an occasional sinking spell, was paddled for two runs. Then in the eighth a plague of errors darkened the land, and the atrocious acts of our baseball apostles forced a run on the alien enemies from Salt Lake. This was followed by the quick finish in the ninth, when at one fell swoop the Bees tied the score and won the game.

Alois Kirmayer was hit for three runs in the first two innings. At the end of the second Alois refused longer to serve as a bright and shining mark. Thus, it came to pass that Adolf Schinkle was to be seen pitching in the middle distance. He abdicated for a pinch hitter in the eighth with his team in arrears. Long Tom Hughes removed his spectacles in time to pitch two hitless innings and get credit for the victory.

The crowd was all right in size and personnel, but what enthusiasm was manifested seemed to be due to forced draught. The dog days are close upon us, and even the proud, spirited youth who peddles the hot ones with a flaming furnace strapped to his stomach is beginning to falter and drag his heels. This kid makes five round trips of the park every day, and in the matter of distance walked already this season he has practically circled the globe without getting outside the park. He is one of the few extensive travelers who ever conceived the idea of doing all their globe-trotting in one spot.

Vernon made extensive preparations for a big clean-up in the first, and then subsided after making one run. Snodgrass walked, and Kirmayer beaned Stovall on the space reserved for a wrist watch. Doane bunted safely, and the bases were filled. Daley forced Snoddy at the plate on a grounder to Gislason, Vaughn worked Alois for a pass, and the Firebrand was forced across, not being compelled to travel under his own steam. James Galloway, son of Zebedee Galloway of Pawtucket, then hit into a disastrous double play, Crandall to Hannah and back again.

Two tallies materialized in the second. Callahan chucked out a singled, and took second when Mike, surnamed Simon, sacrificed. Mitchell deposited a fly in Ryan's mitt. Snodgrass was not to be denied. Throwing his bat at the ball so that it could not escape, he knocked a single into left counting Callahan. Snodgrass took second on the throw-in, and scored on Stovall's single over short. Stovall gave the Tigers their other run in the fifth on his own hit, a sacrifice and a safe whack by Daley.

Faith in Mitchell began to weaken in the sixth when he spilled four wide ones to Crandall with one down. Ryan poked his phiz into the picture with a single, and Mitchell bounced a curve off Hannah's ironclad hulk, filling the sacks. Quinlan's out, Vaughn to Stovall, put Crandall across, and the plate was revealed to Ryan on Butler's single. Schinkle flied to Doane.

Mitchell's support in the eighth was something fearful and wonderful to behold for two bits. Hannah started it with a short fly. Snodgrass and Vaughn both went after it. Bobby let out a blood-curdling scream to the effect that he had it, and then belied his own words by muffing the ball. Quinlan raked a hot one into left. Callahan made a beautiful stop with his meat hand. He was out of position, and his throw to second in an effort to force Truck went wild. The respective runners advanced to second and third, and Truck scored while Vaughn was engaged in mortal combat with Gislason's grounder.

With enough runners still on base to ruin the game, Mitchell renewed his strength and stopped Salt Lake in its tracks. Butler popped to Callahan. Mitchell fanned the dangerous Dubuc, batting for Schinkle, and Tobin's pop fly to Cal silenced the enemy's guns until the next inning.

Rath opened the ninth with a bunt. Simon pursued same down first base line, but couldn't overtake it in time. Crandall clouted a single, and Ryan sacrificed, putting blokes on second and third. At a caucus held in the middle of the diamond it was decided not to walk Hannah. Truck drove to Vaughn, who juggled a bit. By this time Bobby had no time to make a play at the plate. While he was retiring Hannah at first, Rath ran home with the tieing run. Quinlan planted a single in left, and Crandall came in with the ace that filled Salt Lake's hand.

Earl Sheeley will not be able to join the Bees until they arrive in San Francisco next Tuesday. Through the intercession of the Governor of Utah, the Governor of Washington has consented for Earl to nestle under Bill Bernhard's protecting wing until the end of the season before joining the army. This is believed to be the first time in the history of the game that two Governors have gone to bat for a ball player. The score:

INDIANAPOLIS STILL IN LEAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Indianapolis retained its lead of half a game over St. Paul in the American Association pennant race as a result of today's games. Indianapolis triumphed over Kansas City 2 to 1, while St. Paul was defeating Toledo 7 to 1.

Louisville, which is a game behind St. Paul, clung to its position by defeating Milwaukee 8 to 5. The season closes next Monday.

TOM MILTON STAR AT PROVIDENCE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) Sept. 15.—Thomas Milton was the star of the automobile races at the Narragansett Park Speedway today. He won the 100-mile race in 1:24:42, the twenty-five-mile in 19:46, and was third in the five-mile race.

In the 100-mile, Vail was a scant twenty yards behind Milton. Hearn was third.

Vail and Chevrolet followed Milton across at the finish of the twenty-five-mile race and Mulford, Chevrolet and Milton was the order of the finish in the five-mile.

In the 100-mile event, Mulford and Vail took the lead up to the twenty-sixth mile, when Mulford's axle broke. Vail kept the lead up to the last turn at the finish of the 100 miles. Milton had been creeping up, but at the ninety-eighth mile, Vail led by one mile. Cutting down this lead, the two cars ran abreast down the finish and Milton's burst of speed made him a winner by a scant margin.

Barney Oldfield, who was one of the contestants, dropped out in the ninety-eighth mile.

The Latest National Test of the Franklin Car

THERE never was a time when so many people were interested in a lowered cost of automobile use and maintenance.

It becomes a vital question as gasoline and tires go up in price.

What motorists want is free use of their cars: freedom from frozen radiators, repairs and car troubles; greater ease of handling; safety; economy; and the utility of the enclosed car for general use.

There is something for every motorist to think about in the Franklin National Efficiency Demonstration of July 13, 1917.

One hundred and seventy-nine Franklin Touring Cars—Series 9—in all parts of the United States, over roads good and bad, and in weather partly fair and partly rainy, recorded an average of 40.3 miles to one gallon of gasoline.

Franklin National Efficiency Demonstration Rules and Regulations

1. Date—Test to be made on Friday, July 13, 1917, regardless of road and weather conditions.
2. Equipment—Test to be made with Franklin Series 9 Touring Car, strictly stock model. Tires to be inflated to at least 40 pounds. Top should be down and windshield open, unless weather prevents. Car to carry regular stock equipment only.
3. Fuel—Use ONE gallon of ordinary grade of gasoline, testing between 60 and 65 degrees. DO NOT use a special high test gasoline. Obtain certificate of the quality of the gasoline.

Use one gallon gasoline from measure certified to by local Sealer of Weights and Measures.

4. Observers—Test to be supervised by two disinterested parties of unquestionable standing, preferably an officer of your local automobile club, a representative of the press, or some high city official.

Duties of Observers: See that trip register on speedometer is at zero. Take accurate reading of speedometer and mark it down. At close of test take another reading of speedometer and report results in miles and fractions thereof.

Observers should inspect certificate as to test of fuel and satisfy themselves as to this point in any other way necessary.

Observers should satisfy themselves that one gallon of gasoline has been properly measured and used as the supply. Note that the main gasoline tank and any other possible source of supply except specified container, is disconnected.

Observers should trace out and inspect the piping from the container to the carburetor, to be sure that everything is as represented.

5. Passenger Load—To consist of driver and two observers only, one to sit in front with the driver.
6. Route—Lay out your course so that you can return to starting point. Start to be made from your own place of business, automobile club headquarters, or from a prominent hotel or equally well-known place. Cover a well-known route so the mileage shown by speedometer may be checked up from common knowledge.
7. Weight—Car to be weighed on city scales immediately after test is completed and while the three occupants are still in the car.
8. Speed—For maximum economy maintain as near 23 miles per hour as possible, except when coasting. Coasting has always been allowed in official economy trials. Call observer's attention to fact that you will coast whenever you can.
9. Report—The results to be attested to by driver and observers before a Notary Public on certificate furnished for the purpose. Mail one copy to the factory; retain the other.

complicated water-cooling parts.

High gasoline bills always indicate friction or excessive dead weight—power diverted from mileage and consumed in dragging the car.

Dead weight means a rigid construction—a stiff-riding car, destructive to tires and expensive in repairs and depreciation.

At this time, when so many motorists are tending towards Enclosed Cars, it is well to know that every advantage of Franklin construction applies equally to the Franklin Enclosed Models.

It is still a new thought to many, this practical adaptability of the Franklin Enclosed Car—with its protection from heat or dust, from wind or rain, from cold or snow—ready for as hard and as free use as any open model, and with practically the same economy.

Franklin Establishes New World's Record for Gasoline Mileage

The conditions of the test are quite as significant as the results.

These conditions are printed on this page. They can be followed by any make of car, or by any two or more makes of cars in competition.

They open up to any motor car owner a simple, positive check on the performance of his car.

The man who is undecided which of several makes of cars to buy, need only put the cars through this test to get an unfailing gauge on their relative thrift—not only in gasoline, but in tires and every other item that enters into the operation of a car.

How Gasoline Economy Shows Efficiency Throughout the Car

Every automobile engineer knows, whether he admits it or not, that gasoline mileage is the final test of the easy-rolling qualities of a car. Easy-rolling means minimized friction, and where there is little friction less power is required to propel the car.

It is a fact that, on the same amount of initial power, the Franklin will coast farther than any other car. This is a result of its scientific-light-weight and flexible construction, its balance and resiliency, the quality of its materials and its sound workmanship.

Back of this minimizing of fuel waste, you see Franklin Direct-Air-Cooling—its influence on the efficiency of the Franklin engine, its elimination of the usual 177 heavy and

It was the efficiency and road ability of the Franklin that first pointed the way to the use of the Enclosed Car for all purposes.

Over a period of fifteen years the Franklin has been urging and demonstrating automobile economy. For a while it did not have much of an audience; the public eye was filled with other things.

Franklin Dealers Ready to Prove Franklin Facts

Nowadays most automobile announcements are talking Thrift—but few are proving it by facts and figures. The idea seems to be to find what the public wants and then claim it vociferously.

There are no two ways about this Thrift question. Either a car has it or it has not. If it has, it can be demonstrated. Ask us to show you.

The Moreland Distillate Truck Uses Timken Worm Drive Rear Axles

The chain drive is rapidly disappearing from the field of transportation. It has been proven less efficient than any shaft drive and considerably more expensive to the owner.

When buying new trucks, the type of drive and the maker of it should be given careful consideration. Equipping with chain drive vehicles is going to mean a burden on your Transportation Department that will be difficult to overcome. If this wasn't true, the chain drive truck manufacturers would not be changing to shaft drives.

The three-speed transmissions, the makeshift structural steel frames and other antiquated methods of construction will disappear at about the same time as the chain drive. They have no place in modern haulage equipment.

MYSTERY IV AGAIN WINS OVER JOE FELLOWS'S CRAFT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Sept. 15.—Overtaking Joe Fellows and his Fellows III in the home stretch of the twenty-four-mile course off here today, Frank Garbutt in Mystery IV won the first heat of the three-heat motor-boat race for the Nordlinger cup and the championship of Southern California, over the triangular course laid out by the Los Angeles Motor Boat Club for its annual regatta.

Garbutt's time was 52m. 35s., while Fellows crossed the line but five seconds later. The race was close all the way. Garbutt shot into the lead, only to be overtaken by Fellows after a hot chase. Garbutt regained his position, however, and by the narrowest of margins held the lead to the finish.

The final heats of the seventy-two-mile race will be held tomorrow morning, and there will be other events on the programme of the motor boat club during the day.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY AN AUTOMOBILE EXPERT.

DOES the Benz still hold the mile record or has this been beaten by the Packard or some other car?—W. B. J.

The Benz still holds the American mile straightaway record of 25.40 seconds. A 300-horse-power Fiat, driven by Duray at Ostend, Belgium, in 1911, traveled a mile in 23 seconds, or at the rate of 142 miles per hour. The record is not an official one because abroad the car must be driven the distance in both directions, but Duray drove only in one. The Packard of which you speak broke all American speedway records from one to ten miles at Sheepshead Bay, New York, but it does not hold the mile straightaway.

Would it be possible for a storage battery to fail if only one cell was out of order? I have been told that the two cells of my battery are all right, yet it does not function properly.—C. B. K.

If one cell is completely dry it may cause an open circuit and the whole battery will fail. This trouble may be due to a broken jar.

How can I clean the top on my car? I have been told that gasoline is bad to use.—Chas. D.

The top should be cleaned with soap suds and water. Rub the suds in well all over the top and wash with clear water. Use good castile soap. Gasoline, kerosene and similar liquids ruin the layer of rubber in the top.

I am having persistent trouble with my storage battery, although I am careful to keep the liquid up to the proper level. Do you think the generator can be the cause of the trouble?—New Owner.

The trouble probably lies in the fact that your generator is not set for the correct charging rate for the particular service you demand of the car. You may be driving a great deal at night, consuming current for lighting, starting often and the generator is not supplying enough current to keep the battery up to the mark. Consult the nearest service station for the manufacturer of your battery

DO YOU APPRECIATE THE VALUE OF HIGHWAY SIGNS?

HOW about the lowly road sign? Do you ever, Mr. Motorist, in your touring about the country—in your hurrying from town to town and city to city, and in your outing jaunts to the seashore or the mountains—consider what an important part the road direction sign plays in your life? The chances are that you do not. It is a safe bet that you do like the rest of us—accept the services of these valuable direction indicators as a matter of course, never giving a thought as to how much they cost, who they were erected by, or anything of the sort.

Day in and day out, throughout the entire year, during rain and sunshine, these little "touring-smoothers," which assist in making a jaunt through any part of Southern California a pleasure, when it might easily be otherwise, do their work—they are always on the job. You may cuss them or you may bless, you may go so far as the pest who seems to delight in defacing and destroying these valuable little assistants—you may throw stones at them or shoot them full of holes—but notwithstanding your treatment of them they will still continue to do their duty to the best of their ability.

ALWAYS ON THE JOB.

They never sleep and they never loaf—when you need them they are there. The road sign is one servant of the people which never extends its hand for a tip—it asks only that it be permitted to perform its duty in a faithful manner.

The tourist is probably the type of person who makes the best use of the road signs of Southern California. Right at this stage a few figures might prove interesting. From an authority on the subject we learn that it is fair to estimate that at least 45,000 tourists visited Southern California during the present motoring season, and that each of these touring parties remains in this section of the State about thirty days. This shows us that the time spent this year in our section by the tourist is equivalent to about 1,350,000 days. During the entire time that the tourist is in this section he is constantly on the jump—his desire is to take a different trip every day, the idea being to cover as much ground and see as much territory during his stay here as possible.

SOME FIGURES.

We believe that it is fair to assume that the average tourist to this section consults at least a dozen different road signs each day during his stay among us. This would mean that Southern California's road signs are being consulted this year by tourists alone more than 16,200,000 times.

The usefulness of the road sign does not end here. According to motor licenses issued by the State, we find that there are about 130,000 resident motorists in Southern California, and all of these use the signs of this locality. Figuring that each of these car owners consults five of these road signs each day, we find that motorists living here are assisted each day about 650,000 times, or something like 237,250,000 times during the year.

COST IS ENORMOUS.

The cost of the road sign system of Southern California is also of interest. You know these signs didn't grow in the places where they are now standing, neither did they drop out of the blue dome above. Somebody, or some organization, had to pay for them with good money, and, what is more, these signs have to be maintained from year to year and someone has to foot the bills for this work. Careful figuring shows that the original cost of the sign system of this section represents an outlay of about $200,000. The hundreds of little road signs, some of which you pass daily, cost several snug little fortunes. You never looked at it in that light before, did you? The annual upkeep of these signs amounts to something like $20,000. In the work of erecting new signs, together with the maintenance of those already constructed, about fourteen men are employed, and eight or ten automobiles—roadsters, touring cars and trucks—are used. In addition to all this we should not forget that $30,000 or $40,000 worth of new signs are being constructed yearly.

Considering all this, the road sign is not such a lowly little affair after all, is it? And to the Auto Club of Southern California and the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company is due the lion's share of the credit for all these signs.

ITO AND BALSZ GRAPPLE TODAY

Calexico to be the Scene of a Grand Ring Battle.

Mint of Money Said to be up on the Fighters.

Yankee Rogers to Challenge the Winner.

There's a grand little ring battle on top today, and the sad part is that it's rather distant for the majority of local sportsmen to enjoy.

Prof. Ito will spill Dan Balsz some time after 4 o'clock this afternoon at Calexico, unless the aforesaid Mr. B. succeeds in twisting the Japanese jiu-jitsu marvel into a pretzel. The gay function is to be the grand finale to a day of revelry at the border city in honor of Mexican Independence Day.

A bull fight in the morning will stir the most sluggish blood in the veins of the international collection of sport fans. After lunch and the customary siesta, Bull Montana, piece de resistance for Douglas Fairbanks, will oppose the weighty Berne in a special wrestling event to settle their two-hour draw.

MUCH MONEY UP.

A veritable mint is said to be up in bets on the outcome of the Ito-Balsz venture. Although fight experts predict an easy victory for the Jap, there is more coin on the wrestler. This is due to his position as idol of the border region and Imperial Valley Mexicans. Furthermore, there is a small army of wealthy Chinese betting on the Mexican with their characteristic liberalness. A record crowd, made up of fans of every nationality, with several thousand Imperial Valley Japanese who have heard much of, but never have seen, their beloved Ito, will fill the great bull-fight arena.

TO CHALLENGE WINNER.

Yankee Rogers, the wrestler who fell by the wayside at the hands of Frank Gotch, is now at the arenaside ready to challenge the winner. Rogers's challenge will in all probability reach Ito. The fight is to be staged in three fifteen-minute periods. It looks like a fourteen-carat cinch for Ito to wriggle away from Balsz almost at will during the early part of the round and then, when the crowd has had its fill of shadow wrestling, to dive in as the cat unto the mouse and bring the episode to a close.

In spite of the distance, a number of local sporting fans are on the scene, among them Gene Doyle, Al Roach, Yankee Rogers, Tommy Tominaga, Bill Tarver, Joe McIntyre, Jack Farrell, Ruben Conner, George Hussey and John Stathem.

RIVERSIDE WHEAT ACREAGE LARGER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 15.—Wheat acreage in Riverside county will be increased by 1000 acres, if the plans of W. B. Parker, farm adviser, and O. K. Kelsey, named with him to solicit the farmers of the county, do not miscarry. The plan is in line with the campaign inaugurated in the State for the increase of wheat acreage to the extent of 1,000,000 bushels the coming year.

CALIFORNIA AND THE CADILLAC

The Number of Cadillac Eights Sold in California during the 1917-18 Season Will Be Double That of Any Previous Year

And the one big reason behind this is the fact that California has been the greatest testing ground for the Cadillac and the Cadillac has stood the test under every condition.

To make good in California a car must have everything. Pretty looks or freakish design alone will not do in this big State of ours. To stand the tests year in and year out a motor car must be a real car—and that the Cadillac has proven itself to be—every inch of it.

In California there are hundreds of miles of boulevards, but there are, likewise, hundreds of miles of mountain roads and hundreds of square miles of desert; there is sea level and highways above the clouds; there is freezing weather and districts where the fires of hades would seem like chilling blasts.

Every man, every woman and every boy or girl who chances to be reading this knows that the Cadillac has been equal to all tasks. Where the work is hardest the Cadillac is appreciated the most.

There are over 6500 Cadillac cars in active operation in California. Almost half of these are eights. If the Cadillac had not demonstrated its superiority is it likely that Californians would have purchased more Cadillacs than all other high grade makes combined?

The man who really appreciates his Cadillac is the man who has advanced through the various stages of motor car ownership. The man who knows other cars is the man who knows that in the Cadillac Eight he has reached the top and it is this great feeling of satisfaction that causes the average Cadillac owner to talk everlastingly of the good qualities of his car.

Hardly a day passes in a Cadillac agency that some owner does not call and confidentially tell the manager that said owner is sure his individual car is the best Cadillac ever turned out. Few owners can believe that the other Cadillacs can have the same sweet running motor, the same smoothness, the same masterly power, the same freedom from annoyance and the same built in qualities that make the Cadillac Eight a 365 day in the year motor car.

But we know that every Cadillac is a best Cadillac. We know also that in the new type 57 model all previous Cadillacs have been surpassed. This is where the old owners say "It can't be done," but we know it has been done and we glory in the chance to prove it.

A WORD TO THE BUYER

You who are thinking of a new motor car, was not your first impulse to buy a Cadillac? And as a rule isn't your first impulse the right one to follow?

You know beyond any question that the Cadillac Eight is one of the world's very finest motor cars, even if you do not concede that it is the best. Should you not be satisfied to act on your own judgment and desire additional information, we simply ask you to seek that information from men who own Cadillacs, men who know Cadillacs for what they are. It is only the man who has owned and learned to know those invisible built-in Cadillac qualities that is qualified to give you the information you seek.

The expressions of praise you will hear for the Cadillac will amaze you, but sooner or later you will know that the owners are only trying to describe a motoring sensation that cannot be described by mere words. We also modestly suggest that you ask our owners what they think of Don Lee service.

Cadillac dealers have always recognized the fact that the Cadillac position placed them above the "whoop 'er up" style of advertising, but for just this once we want to take off our coat, roll up our sleeves and declare to you most emphatically that we know the new type 57 Cadillac is far beyond any make of motor car in the world and we honestly believe that any man who seeks quality in a motor car makes a grave mistake if he does not select the Cadillac.

After you have owned your Cadillac long enough to appreciate it you will think so, too.

BIG TRAP SHOOT GETS UNDER WAY

OUT-OF-TOWN CRACKS COMPETE WITH LOCAL SHOTS.

Men are Here from San Francisco, Chicago, San Jose and Arizona Points for the Annual Fall Registered Event of the Los Angeles Gun Club.

Several out-of-town cracks are on hand for the annual fall registered tournament of the Los Angeles Gun Club, which opens today at the Alhambra-avenue grounds. W. E. Mullin is here from Ray, Ariz.; Harry Lorenson from Yuma, O. N. Ford from San Jose, H. E. Poston and Bill Joslin from San Francisco. The latter two are professionals, representing, respectively, the Hercules and Dupont factories.

H. E. Dickerman, a Chicago trapshooter, will also compete. Vic Rossbach has returned from the Windy City and will be out with his reliable today.

Practice begins this morning at 10 o'clock. Money prizes and a specially designed diamond trophy are up for the high men. Tomorrow and Tuesday festivities open at 9 o'clock.

A two-man team race is to run throughout the shoot. Partners for this event will be picked today. There are diamond trophies for the members of the winning duo.

FEW TUNA GAFFED ON LIGHT TACKLE.

Three hundred and sixty tuna have been brought to gaff at Catalina this season, and according to the estimate of a member of the Tuna Club, but 2 per cent. of that number were caught on the light tackle which Tuna Club members have pledged themselves to use. Inasmuch as no fish caught on heavy tackle weighing less than 100 pounds is counted by the Tuna Club as a catch, the aversion to light tackle this season is hard to account for.

Aside from the light-line achievements of James W. Jump of Los Angeles, who on light tackle brought in many tuna catches, including five in one day, and a fifty-four-pounder on a three-six combination, there have been only Welbern, Williams and Bandini, and perhaps one or two others, who have stuck to their full light-tackle equipment.

AVALON SEES MORE SWORDFISH COMING.

Avalon anglers believe that some of the best fishing of the season, principally with spearfish and swordfish, is yet to come this fall. Seventy swordfish were brought in last year and to date this season only eight have been caught. The spearfish catch is about twelve.

Three things mark the 1917 season in Yosemite National Park. The most noticeable of these is the triumph of the motor car. And as the great human carrier into the Yosemite park and valley the private motor car has won over the combined facilities of railway car and motor stage. Up to August 1, 3435 private cars had entered.

VERNON GUN CLUB SHOOTS NEXT WEEK.

The second semiannual registered tournament of the Vernon Gun Club will be held Sunday, September 30, and Monday, October 1, with the preceding Saturday designated as practice day.

Three hundred dollars added money will be devoted to trophies for the most successful trap-shooters.

A registered shoot at Ray, Ariz., on October 8, 9 and 10, will be the next event for Coast trappers, while the Arizona State shoot at Phoenix on October 12, 13 and 14 will conclude the 1917 Coast registered tournaments.

MOON CHANGES AND MORE DEER ARE SHOT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 14.—Sergt. Gene Randall and Officer Mike Demaris are the latest to come in from the Santa Monica Mountains with a fine buck. They shot a four-pointer four times before getting him. Even then they had to travel a half-mile before they finally landed the buck.

Since the change in the moon's phase more deer are being brought in by hunters. The deer feed at night in the light of the moon, but feed in daytime during the dark of the moon.

SHIFTER LEVER TROUBLES.

If excessive play develops in the main shaft of the gearset, the gear-shifter lever is likely to be forced out of its speed position. As a general thing the front bearing on the main shaft is shimmed, which makes it comparatively easy to remedy the condition mentioned above. End play in this main shaft will also cause chattering of the clutch and a bucking when the car is on a grade or is otherwise shouldering a heavy load. Play in the shaft should be remedied as soon as it appears, because it may cause permanent injury to the gears if allowed to persist.

BODY SAG.

If the doors on one side of the car have a tendency either to bind or to swing too loosely, so that the lock does not catch, with the result that there are squeaks and rattles whenever the car is in motion, the trouble may be remedied by placing wooden wedges under the body in the rear. Metal plates may be used instead of the wooden wedges with, perhaps, even more satisfactory results. In either case the wedges should be bolted to the frame so that they will not work out.

BALANCING WIRES WHEELS.

One of the minor details of car adjustment that is still worthy of attention by the man who wants to have his vehicle in perfect trim, is the balance of wire wheels. In order to reduce the magnitude of the centrifugal force of excess weight on one side of the wheel, the part should be balanced, just as the flywheel is. The wheel is jacked up and if unbalanced, it will itself revolve until the heavy side is at the bottom. A piece of electrician's tape is then wound around a spoke on the opposite side. This process is continued until the wheel remains in any position in which it is put.

Everything has been tried out as an auto shiner, from kerosene to stove polish.

THIS WORLD'S SERIES WILL BE A DIFFICULT ONE TO DECIDE ON.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

If the American and National Leagues were as evenly matched as formerly, one might reasonably expect the pendulum to swing onto the side of the latter in the pending world series under the general law of balance and breaks.

During the first few years of the interleague series the winner's end of the swag see-sawed back and forth from one league to the other. The Red Sox beat Pittsburgh in the opening tilt back in 1903. The following year an armistice was declared. With the resumption of hostilities in 1905, the Giants put the National back on the map by whipping the Athletics. The championship oscillated to the other side in 1906 when the White Sox put the skids under the Cubs. The National League then reformed and became supreme for three seasons, Chance's cohorts downing Detroit twice and the Pirates puting Jennings and his crew to the cutlass. Then came the reign of Connie Mack and the American League in general, only to be interrupted by the astounding exploit of the Braves in 1914. This is the one isolated splotch on the American League escutcheon since 1909. In short, the Ban Johnson boys have won six out of the last seven post-season battles. This in itself is sufficient proof of the superior class of the younger circuit, and further evidence, if desired, can be produced by probing into the dope.

In short, barring freak reversals, a National League club must outclass its own circuit to successfully contend with the winner in the American League. It is not sufficient for a team to win in the National in a close race as did the Phillies and Dodgers, but it must actually be too fast for its own league. In the years the Red Sox beat Philadelphia and Brooklyn, there probably were two other clubs in the American League who could have turned the trouncing trick.

The Giants are regarded as a bit too swift for their own company, but whether they have the extra ton or so of class that the Phillies and Dodgers lacked is something for the series itself to determine. Some even go so far as to claim McGraw's team is so efficient that it never has been really extended.

Alexander looked the part of a world beater in his own home league, and he was likened even unto Walter Johnson. What the Red Sox did to his reputation is a matter of history.

A year ago the writer foresaw a great world series mess brewing, and picked the Giants and White Sox to win in their respective leagues. Writing on October 13, 1916, we said: "McGraw seems to have fashioned a really great ball team—one which, with the addition of one or two more pitchers, should be almost as invincible as the Cubs. Their opponents a year hence should be the Chicago White Sox, and it will be some struggle, with the Giants giving the Sox the toughest argument any American League champion has experienced since the Athletics met the Braves. Looking a long way ahead isn't it, but that is what should happen if the two clubs run true to the form of which they are believed to be capable."

Of course, if all this hadn't happened we would have modestly refrained from bringing up the matter at this late date. That's one advantage of doing your prognosticating a year in advance. If you pick 'em wrong everybody has plenty of time to forget it, and if you happen to make a lucky guess you can later refer to the matter in sort of an offhand way.

If it is true that the Giants have not been crowded and have won about as they pleased, they may have something in reserve for the big playoff. The National League needs that prestige which can be gained only through a defeat of the American League champs. McGraw has been given practically carte blanche in assembling a team with this the ultimate end in view. McGraw is rated as quite foxy by his neighbors and may have a few bombs concealed up his sleeve. In Gnu Y'wk they are dwelling at length on what Mac's lef-handers are going to do to the White Sox, although it is a matter of common gossip that the Sox have been able to slap the southpaw pitching of Leonard, Ruth and some other good ones. Possibly this is camouflage and designed to deceive the enemy. Mac, for all that anybody knows, may be grooming some of his right-handers for the big adventure. However, portsiders have been his main dependence this season and he may be compelled to stick to them.

But having gotten away with one prediction we are not going to monkey with fate and attempt another.

BASEBALLS TO HAVE WILSON'S SIGNATURE.

Three baseballs forwarded to Washington for the signature of President Wilson are expected to be received here in time to be auctioned at the Billy Sunday-Douglas Fairbanks soldiers' and sailors' benefit ball game to be played one week from tomorrow at Washington Park.

One of the baseballs is to be presented to Sunday, one to Fairbanks and the third to the highest bidder, according to present plans of Gene Doyle.

NAVY DUCKS ORGANIZED.

A swimming team has been organized by the naval reserve cadets at San Pedro. Capt. Akers is out after competition with Southern California organizations. There are a good handful of former prep and college water stars on tap at the harbor.

Lawmakers are sometimes the greatest lawbreakers, even in the automobile game.

HERMAN-WILLIAMS BOUT FOR TITLE.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Sept. 15.—Pete ("Kid") Herman is going to meet Kid Williams in Baltimore during October in a 15-round world's bantamweight championship contest. All negotiations between Herman and Promoter Harvey for a fight with Frankie Burns were ended today. Red Walsh, manager of Herman, then offered Herman's services to the Baltimore fans. Two Baltimore clubs are bidding for the fight, and Walsh believes that he will be able to settle the referee question. October 8 will be about the date chosen.

It is significant that they are unanimous in declaring the young men of Southern California as good material for soldiers as any they have ever seen. They do not compare them with others for obvious reasons, yet the important work which has been intrusted to Southern California men from the days of the border troubles to the present is at least an index of the confidence placed in them.

The engineering work for the American Lake cantonment, the largest in the United States, was done to a considerable extent by Los Angeles men—the Eighth Engineers, commanded by Capt. James Irvine. This body of technical men left Camp Lewis some weeks ago for Camp Mills, Mineola, L. I., where they form Co. E, One Hundred and Seventeenth Regiment, California Engineers. They are part of the "Rainbow Division."

Elsewhere in this issue of The Times is an extended account of the remarkable work of the Provisional Battalion, California Coast Artillery, to which body of 500 Los Angeles troops has been practically intrusted the job of guarding Southern California from Los Angeles south.

AMBULANCE MEN.

One of the first and finest organizations to go into actual training for service somewhere in France was the Pasadena Ambulance Corps—an organization which is a credit to Southern California. This corps consists of thirty-five men who were recruited by Lieut. A. W. Smith and placed under the command of Capt. (Dr.) Charles D. Lockwood. Practically all of the recruits are Occidental, Throop and Pomona college men. At least a dozen of them were seniors. They left for Allentown, Pa., a few days before graduating, but their diplomas were mailed to them. They reached Allentown early in June and are probably with Pershing's men in France at present. Other Ambulance Corps men are at Arcadia and other camps.

AVIATORS.

There are at least half a dozen Southern California men in the Aviation Corps of the Allied armies. One is Bennett A. Molter, formerly a motion-picture director in this city. He is now a member of the French Flying Corps and has twice fallen great distance when under fire, but is still able to render important service. Fred McLaren of Whittier has been in the Canadian Flying Corps for many months. He has seen a great deal of active service back of the German lines, and has been commended for personal bravery on several occasions.

IN THE NAVY, ARMY.

Roy Conrad of Glendale is a chief gunner in the navy. Just now he is giving special instruction at the naval training school in Los Angeles Harbor. There are about fifty young men from Los Angeles and vicinity taking the course of study, which will soon fit them for good appointments in the navy. He invented a gun sighter which is designed to speed up firing from battleships. Gay Conrad, a brother of the naval training school instructor, is a gunner on a gunboat in the Asiatic fleet which is now cruising near China. Los Angeles has supplied several hundred recruits to the army and navy direct.

AT THE PRESIDIO.

Southern California sent 375 young men to the Presidio for the first officers' training school term, which began in April. They qualified for commissions not long ago, and their places were taken late in August by 520 other young men from this vicinity, who made up a part of the second training school. Some of the best brains and brawn in the Southland are included in these groups.

COAST ARTILLERY.

Eleven hundred men who claim the Southland as their home make up the Coast Artillery Corps at Fort MacArthur. They are located on the lower reservation. The Ninth Company of Los Angeles is already in charge of the shore battery in East San Pedro, and is also assigned to guard duty in the shipyard there.

Col. Harry B. Light has just recommended twelve Southern California men for appointment to fill vacancies in the command of the Second Coast Defense.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANIES.

Los Angeles Troop D is headquarters company in Camp Kearny at the present time. The company of Los Angeles city men has been similarly designated at Camp Lewis.

One of the finest honors that has come to Los Angeles during the war is that which has just been bestowed upon Dorsey Stephens, son of Mrs. A. W. Stephens of Hollywood. He has been appointed first lieutenant in the French army, and is assigned to train gunners in Pershing's army. Early in the war he left school at Oxford, Eng., and served under Herbert Hoover in Belgium eighteen months. He has been a valuable man since joining the Allied forces, because he speaks French fluently. He is a graduate of Hollywood High School.

MANY GET COMMISSIONS.

Quite a number of young men went from Los Angeles county to join the University of California section of the American Field Ambulance Service early in the summer. Word comes from France to the effect that fourteen out of forty-two of these men have already been given commissions in the American and French armies, and others are apt to be commissioned in the near future. Five have qualified as fliers and two have qualified for commissions in the artillery and engineering branches of the American forces in France. The remainder of the University of California ambulance unit is going into the transport service on the 19th inst. J. Herbert Brown of Los Angeles has been admitted to the French officers' training school.

At the United States naval training station in San Diego about 200 Southern California volunteers are included among the men who are under the command of Lieut. Washington Irving.

There are at least six Los Angeles boys in the submarine service. Albert Pederson, Harry Johnson, Otto Brown, Win Rider, William Duncomb and Raymond Cook, all serving enlistment in the navy when the United States entered the world war, were sent to seaports in France with the first naval expedition, and since then they have been chasing deadly U-boats of Germany. They had a little family reunion of their own at a French port on the Fourth of July.

AT AMERICAN LAKE.

Now that the bulk of the first 5 per cent. from the western tier of States has reached Camp Lewis, one is able to form an estimate as to just what sort of men this region is going to send to France. These men represent every occupation and station in life. Cow punchers, sheep herders, ranchers, dairymen, fruit growers, mechanics, engineers, lawyers, architects, butchers, bakers and cooks. The cooks and bakers have all been assigned temporarily to the kitchen and the mechanics are busily engaged in building any number of temporary benches, tables, desks and shelves for the use of the company officers.

SUNSHINE BATTALION'S SWIFT IN SOLDIERY.

Southern California Men at Camp Lewis Highly Praised by Their Commanding Officers.

try, to which the Southern California contingent has been assigned, yesterday stated that he was highly pleased with the appearance of the men and gratified at the splendid spirit they show.

"It is this spirit that we want and if it is humanly possible we are going to see to it that nothing happens to interfere with its being kept at the same high point that is now in evidence in all quarters." Maj. George N. Davis, commanding the third battalion of this regiment, also spoke in high terms of the apparent willingness of the men to learn.

The company commanders, Capts. Cook, Pande and Lieut. Hopkins, commanding Cos. I, K and M, all express themselves as well pleased.

"The old heads state we have the best army the world ever has known."

This is a sentence in the letter of Capt. C. F. Smith, adjutant, Three Hundred and Sixty-first Infantry, now at Camp Lewis, and a well-known Los Angeles advertising man, to his brother, Irving Smith, of this city.

"Every officer in our national army is either a regular or one who has earned his commission by good, hard work where competition was the strongest I ever experienced. If the sample of Southern California recruits we have is a fair one they are wonderful, fine-looking men as a whole; a better-looking outfit than any regular ever looked at. And the old heads state on every hand that we have the best army the world has ever known. Every one has a smile and declares he is ready.

"Officers in charge state that not a recruit has been reported intoxicated, neither has a bottle of whisky shown up at the camp. Still, I have heard that the West will not respond! That it is not affected by the war! One only has to witness what I have in the past two days to realize their mistake."

SPLENDID RECRUITS.

The men of the first 5 per cent. now at Camp Lewis are universally admitted by the officers and all who have taken the trouble to make a study of them, as fine a body of men as were ever assembled in one group in the West. If there is one group that stands out over the others it is the men from Southern California. Considered from the standpoint of mental equipment, moral standards and physical fitness, the men from Sunshine Land, who form the bulk of the "Sunshine Battalion," will rank a little above any contingent that has yet arrived at camp. This group includes lawyers, engineers, architects, bankers, and men who have held executive positions in civil life. The men from the country districts are a well-set lot, too. Among them are young men of independent fortune, but this has in no way spoiled them.

They are among the most cheerful in the group, and that means that their middle name is joy, for of all the happy, healthy, hungry lot of willing workers that ever were gathered together to prepare for a big task, the men from Southern California take the laurel. The men from the north do not find the weather, where it rains most all the time, unpleasant, as it is their native heath, and jokers say they have long since developed web-feet. Men from the south and farther east might be expected to become morose and dissatisfied. But not these men. They just "keeps a pluggin'" and a "smilin'." As one big darky remarked, "You shore cain't beat that air bunch; they is just natcherlly too good-natured and cheerful for anything. I shore am proud I is a American."

AS TO PHYSIQUE.

Comparing the men physically, one would naturally expect that the ranches and ranges would send in a class of men that would outrank the big city men. This, however, is not the case. The Los Angeles contingent ranks away above any group in the camp, though San Francisco has sent in a fine lot of men. It will be impossible to make a very accurate estimate of all groups until they are uniformed. Then the camp is going to readily recognise the splendid bearing of the Southern California men.

The great army of construction that for the past three months has been engaged in building a city of 1000 buildings on the site of Camp Lewis is now rapidly retreating before another army whose aim and end is destruction, but destruction only for the purpose of laying a broader and deeper foundation on which later is to be reared that splendid structure of world-embracing democracy.

The site on which this camp is located lies seventeen miles southeast of Tacoma, along the edge of American Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, in a picturesque setting. The camp is hedged around by defense forests of pine and fir, through the foliage of which the mist clouds, prevalent in this region during the rainy season float all day, giving an impression similar to that of the fog banks that come through the Golden Gate.

In clear weather the camp commands a magnificent view of Mt. Rainier, or Mt. Tacoma. This stately volcanic pile, which stands at the northwestern gate of continental United States, is eternally snow-clad and cloud-crowned. It stands out bold and clear, the personification of nature's eternal majesty and power. Like Mt. Shasta, it is one of the most ancient monuments of the volcanic activity which reared the mountain chains known as the Cascades and the Sierra Nevadas.

This wonderful mountain resembles nothing so much as a giant diamond. Its glacial summits gleam in the sunlight by day, but at eventide its greatest glory is appreciated. When sun sinks behind the Olympics in the west and the afterglow is reflected on its gleaming peaks these glacial facets throw back the half-lights and flood the whole valley and plain in a series of tints and tones so delicate that they merge into one soft radiance of amber light that finally melts into the soft northern twilight.

The government made a wise choice in selecting this site. The soil is porous and gravelly and an hour after the rains, when the sun comes out, the big drill grounds are fit for use by the thousands of men who must daily execute their maneuvers.

SOLDIERS EVERYWHERE.

The camp is accessible to Tacoma, being on a paved boulevard. Automobile busses make the trip every six minutes during the day so that when the men have a leave of absence for a few hours they may come to the city and see the sights. These days Tacoma looks more like an army post than anything else. Soldiers are everywhere. From privates to major-generals, they are in all hotel lobbies, all vehicles and on every corner.

The camp is built in the form of a crescent, following the line of American Lake. It covers an area of 70,000 acres, and when completed will comprise 1600 structures. When the work was at its maximum 10,000 men were employed and the weekly pay roll exceeded $250,000. Much timber has to be cut and thousands of acres of brush and scrub growth cleared away. The camp will be complete in all details by October 1, and will have cost $5,000,000.

It will provide accommodations for 50,000 men and 10,000 horses.

While as yet scarcely more than 5000 army men occupy the camp, all is hustle and bustle. All day long mule teams, motor trucks and men rush hither and yon. Above the roar of motor and the creak of straining mule trains, the hoarse cough of the locomotive is heard. Troop trains, from which long lines of men pour, stand at the station for a few minutes and then are gone. A little later there is a shrill whistle, a screech and scream of brakes. A train pulls up, and from somewhere in the great cantonment a double column of men clad in olive drab appears. They march double quick to the waiting train, enter, wave good-by to those on the platform, and are gone, either for a finishing camp on the eastern seabord or for France. Nobody knows, and if they did they could not tell.

The first 5 per cent. of the Liberty Army men are practically all in camp, except for a few stragglers, who either missed their trains en route, or got cold feet and deserted.

Of the first 3500 only eight men failed to appear and the officers are inclined to think that their failure is due to some error rather than a deliberate intent to desert. This belief is based on the splendid spirit shown by every man who has come to the camp, all are eager, enthusiastic and ready for any task to which their officers assign them.

WHERE WAR RAGES.

The quartermasters department is the bone and sinew of this camp. Here the rations are checked out to the company commanders. A continuous war rages here. The company officers are bent on getting the best of it for their men, while the quartermaster is bent on conserving the government's supplies. Each conceives that it is his sacred duty to see that the interest he represents is protected. The man who thinks that an officer's life is one continuous round of giving orders to other men, who must do his bidding, is sorely mistaken. The captain of a company is charged with every article of food and clothing that goes to his men and if he is able to conserve these supplies, he can gradually build up a company fund that will enable him at odd times to give the men a little surprise in the way of some coveted luxury in the way of "eats." For the direct road to a soldier's heart and affections is through his "chow."

The captain's record depends on the efficiency of his company and the efficiency of the men rests on the degree of contentment that exists in that company. If the men are happy, well fed and well cared for, they are always ready and willing, and it's up to the captain to see that this condition obtains. The Southern California men, all of whom are in Companies I, K and M, are fortunate in that they have for officers men whose one thought is that they be well cared for. The food allowance is 40 cents per day per man, and if the captain is able to get a little greater allowance one day and cut it down the next, he thus lays the foundation for a company fund. For the 40 cents allowance means either supplies or money.

HUGE ORDERS.

Some idea of what this "chow" will cost the United States government may be gleaned from the fact that the quartermaster's first order for beef called for 3,901,625 pounds for the first two months' supply. In addition to this, 80,000 two-pound cans of corned beef, 547,000 pounds of bacon, 275,000 pounds of beans, and 3,350,000 pounds of potatoes. The bill in its entirety footed $1,750,000 and contained jams, jellies, canned fruits, all varieties of vegetables and practically every luxury in the food line that would be ordered by a first-class hotel.

Then there is a vast model bakery with a battery of fifteen ovens and capable of turning out 24,000 loaves of bread each day. The officers' mess is in charge of Frank W. Sullivan, whose efficiency is so high as a feeder of men that he has been recommended by army officers to the War Department as Quartermaster-General. The water system is one of the marvels of the camp. It has a capacity of 3000 gallons per minute of pure mountain water. It is guarded day and night lest some vandal poison or pollute it.

Schools for the teaching of French and a smattering of German are also being established. The latter to enable the officers to make the Germans understand where they get off at when the triumphant entry into Berlin is made, after the war.

Down at the remount station, "Wild Bill" Bement and "Oklahoma Slim," two experts from the cattle country, are busily engaged in breaking 10,000 horses. They are assisted by forty other busters, and they sure have some job. Each man has contracted to handle forty horses a day. It's strenuous work, but these are strenuous men, and they are making good.

The following is a complete list of the regimental and company officers of the Three Hundred and Sixty-fourth Infantry, to which all of the Southern California men have been assigned. The Third battalion has been named the "Sunshine" Battalion, because two-thirds of its companies are from the Southland.

Three Hundred and Sixty-fourth Infantry Regiment—Col. E. W. Clark, Lieut.-Col. Allen Smith, Lieut.-Col. Theodore B. Taylor, Maj. Charles J. Naylor; First Battalion, Maj. Walter H. Gregory; Second Battalion, Maj. G. N. Davis; Third Battalion, Maj. Norris J. Shupe.

FARM WORKERS ARE EXEMPTED.

Imperial Valley Determined to Get Its Enormous Crops to the Market.

Taking cognizance of the great need of workers to move the enormous crops of cotton, milo, butter and beans to market, the district exemption board at Bakersfield has excused twenty-nine Imperial Valley men of the first 255 certified.

As the number of Japanese and Mexican aliens is great in proportion to the Americans in the valley, Chairman Wardlaw of the local exemption board has issued a call for 1500 more men to take the physical examination. It is now believed the entire number of registered young men will come before the examining physicians in order to make up the total for the army.

One hundred and sixty-four exemptions have been made by the local board and sanctioned by the district board.

Amazing Power of Bon-Opto To Make Weak Eyes Strong

Doctor Says It Strengthens Eyesight 50 per cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses, and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now the feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even the fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes, which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription at home. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician, to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, it no sa patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent. in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists.

THE evidence is on every rack—on every form—in every case—the evidence of handsomer styles and more complete variety than we have ever shown. A wealth of wonderful garments developed from fabrics of beautiful texture color-tone and taste, at prices ranging from $25.00 to $295.00.

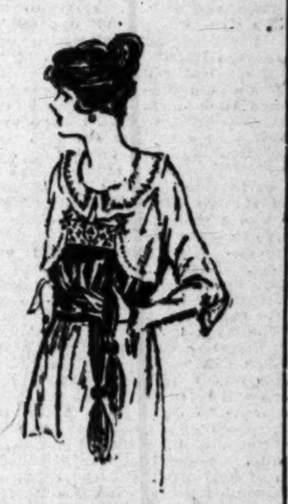
The coat pictured is the copy of a Barnard model of taupe Duvetyne and satin. Beaver collar and cuffs; poilu pockets. $125.00.

The dress is a wonderfully draped affair of sand and navy serge; vest effect with wide reveres. $42.50.

THE figure with the coat wears a wonderful millinery creation of seal brown satin-antique. Small hackle-breasts of wood-cock brown peek out from under a rarely daring cluster of accordion-pleated maline and burnt goose. Priced $40.00.

The hat at the right is a charming triple-brim mode. Above a brim of exquisite cloth of roses is one of fine black lace, and below it another of black tulle. At the front and half way round the sides the three brims are together, while at the back they turn upward at a dashing angle and separate. Edged with Kolinsky squirrel fur. $35.00. —Third Floor—

A Waist of Reindeer Georgette and Navy Satin Is Illustrated



A suit blouse that is perfection itself in every point of style. Above the navy satin bodice effect is a panel hand-embroidered in navy silk; hemstitched at front, back and on sleeves; the round collar is set off with long and short stitches of blue silk. A sash of navy satin completes the unusual novelty of this blouse, which is priced $32.50.

Other beautiful styles at prices ranging $4.90 and upwards. —Third floor.

See to Your Corset Before Buying a Frock

If every woman would but realize the utter necessity of a well-fitting corset there would be little reason for imperfectly fitting gowns.

At $10.00 we are showing five splendid new models of standard makes that will answer every requirement of the individual figure. Front and back lace models with high, medium or low busts, may be had in pink or white broche. All sizes.

—Fourth Floor.

Fall's Richest Silks, Velvets and Woolens

The rich harmony of Autumn color tones is apparent on every hand in this first luxurious display of the season's finer garment fabrics. We recommend particularly to your notice the following moderately priced weaves:

40-Inch Satin Radiant $1.75 Yd.

Splendid wearing fabric of unusual attractiveness. Good assortment of practical shades.

36-in. Satin Mousseline $2.25 Yd.

An exceptional and very complete color assortment. Non-crushable material.

36-Inch Fancy Silks $2.00 Yd.

Plaids and stripes; exceedingly attractive color combinations.

43-Inch All-Wool French Serge, $1.50 Yd.

Shown in practical street shades.

40-Inch Silk and Wool Poplin $2.00 Yd.

An ideal material for dresses. Unusually good wearing qualities.

Gretchen Frocks for Girls $1.50 to $12.50

A number of brand new and exceptionally pretty styles in plaid and candy-striped ginghams. Empire and tailored lines. Sizes 6 to 14 years.

Navy blue and Copenhagen messaline empire dresses for girls of 6 to 14 are made with Gretchen pockets and white collar and cuffs, which are edged with delicately patterned lace—$12.50.

Infants' Creepers

Pink, blue and white crepe creepers, with self-color bands—$1.00.

Barred dimity creepers in white; sizes 6 mos., 1 and 2 yrs.—75c.

(Fourth Floor)

Pure wool challis for street wear frocks or dainty house dresses is shown in a pretty range of patterns and dark shades. 85c yd. (Second floor)

Exquisite embroidery, hand done in French knots and pretty padded designs gives special daintiness to white silk stockings for evening wear. Several patterns at $6.50 pair.

(First floor)

"Orys"—a new fragrance from Perin—is of such elusive daintiness that one can hardly detect a definite odor, yet it is the utmost in perfect perfume. $1.50 oz. (First floor)

A fur set for a little girl is of real fox fur. Little Miss Diminutive will find real cozy comfort in its soft fluffiness of melon-shaped muff and scarf like mother's. Full bushy tail and fur-ball tassels. Both muff and scarf lined with gold silk. Priced $32.50.

(Fourth floor)

Boudoir pillows of silk are decidedly odd with their three-colored apples bunched in the center. Round shaped cushions shown in old rose, blue and gold. Priced $2.70.

(Fourth floor)

Broken plaid blankets of fine wool-mixed material; are full 70x80 inches in size and very reasonably priced at $5.25 pair. Soft, furry finish. Shown in pretty colorings of pink, blue, tan, lavender and yellow.

(Second Floor)

Net Stocks and Jabots $1.25, $1.50

For wear with suits the full, ruffly jabot and high stock collar are rapidly returning to favor. Our new neckwear stocks are notable for their especially complete showing of net stocks and jabots, many of which are beautifully combined with lace or are hand-embroidered.

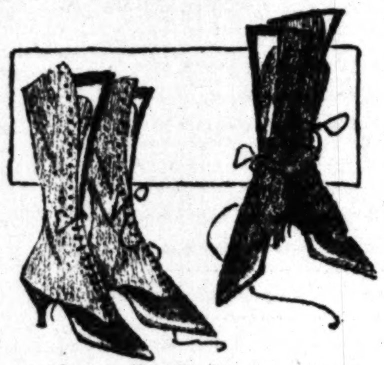
(First Floor)

Cretonnes for Bags or Drapes

Bold, startling patterns in beautiful colorings stamp our new fall lines of cretonne as being precisely the mode for Red Cross knitting bags as well as for window and other drapery purposes. Priced from 35c to $1.00 yard, according to quality. Widths range 32 to 36 inches.

(Fifth Floor)

Fabric Top and All Glace Kid Boots—Both Smart



For street wear with suits, shoes with cloth tops of a tone to match or contrast with the vamps are particularly desirable. Our new shoe stocks are replete with such late footwear notes as these:

At the left is a splendidly fashioned boot with field-mouse brown vamps and fabric tops to match. Similar models in ivory, pearl gray, battleship gray, field-mouse gray and dark brown. $9.75.

Dress boots of all glace kid at $14.00 pair are shown in pearl gray, dark gray and ivory. Graceful, lace style with full French heels.

—Second Floor—

"Lorville" Pearls—the Acme of Artificial Pearl Making

One might easily pay greatly higher prices than we have set upon "Lorville" pearls, but it would be difficult indeed to find an artificial pearl more accurately representing the natural gem than these. Exquisitely lustrous, their beautiful iridescent coloring belies their artificial construction. We guarantee them not to break, peel, discolor or dissolve in water.

Graduated or uniform necklaces with white gold clasps at $5.85 and upwards to $35.00.

(First Floor)

At $6.75 each are damask pattern table cloths, 2x2½ yards in size. Of pure Irish linen double satin damask; finely woven and heavy in weight. Shown in a number of choice circular designs.

(Second Floor)

Perin "Odo'stroy" will destroy all perspiration odors without retarding the perspiration itself. A dainty cream at 25c the jar. (First floor)

Not only an ornament, but a useful article as well, is a quill penholder. Quaint and old-fashioned. Shown in a rainbow of colors. Set of quill penholder and cup of shot $1.50. (First floor)

Inexpensive, unique, easy to make—a parrot design tea set of seven pieces. Luncheon square, four napkins, tea cozy and creamer cloth. All stamped to embroider. $2.00 the set.

(First Floor)

Face powder dashers are now made of finest camels' hair, held together in dainty old rose brocade tops. Perfect blending of powder and complexion shades possible through their use. Two sizes, $1 and $1.75.

(First Floor)

War Work Yarns 75c Skein

Nowadays almost wherever we look we see women knitting—knitting. Knitting sweaters, wristlets, mittens, helmets, socks, caps and other articles to make some soldier's life in France a little easier by reason of the comfort and warmth these things will give him. It is a great work and one to be highly commended and encouraged. For women who do not know how to knit we are conducting free classes from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4:30 in the afternoon. The approved yarns are of dark gray or khaki worsted of the same standard quality as those we have at 75c skein. Amber and bone knitting needles at 30c to 50c pair.

Crepe de Chine Empire Negligee at $12.75

This charming negligee is of splendid grade pure silk crepe de chine and may be had either in rose or Copenhagen. Made with large sailor collar, which, like the cuffs, is hand embroidered in beautiful spray designs and scalloped. The full pleated skirt is attached at the waistline by an elastic girdle.

At the same price—$12.75—are six other beautiful styles also.

Other negligees at prices ranging $8.50 to $165.00. (Fourth floor)

Silk Petticoats Priced $5.00

Moderate in price, and extremely fine of quality as well. Splendid silk petticoats in plain and changeable shades. Plain tailored or shirred flounce with underlay. (Fourth Floor)

House Dresses of Unusual Fashion $2.45

Charming home-wear frocks of gingham in a great range of colors and patterns including the ever-staple and desirable stripes and checks in pink, blue, brown and lavender. These priced $2.45.

At $1.75 are gingham bungalow apron dresses. There must be at least a dozen styles—all of fine quality fabrics.

At 95c are plain bungalow aprons of best quality percale. Checks, stripes, dots and plain whites.

(Fourth Floor.)

"Munsingwear" in Complete Assortment

Unless the yarns are right—unless the quality and length of the cotton staple are right—an underwear manufacturer cannot knit or build a satisfactory undergarment that will retain shape or softness after a few washings. "Munsingwear" does retain its quality because of the extreme care used in the selection of the materials, in the knitting of the fabric, in the putting together and finishing of the garment and the painstaking inspection that follows each step of manufacture.

This is a good time to begin to wear "Munsingwear."

Union suits 85c, $1.00 and upwards.

Other garments also at proportionate prices.

QUEEN ELENA OF ITALY, CAST THE DIE FOR WAR.

Unwritten History Told by Countess. King May Buy Arizona Mine.

SOME remarkable unwritten history has been unfolded in Los Angeles during the visit at the Stowell of Countess Miraflori, here incognito as Mrs. John Wright. She is the American girl—born in Columbus, O.—who went to Italy to study vocal music, became an opera singer, contracted a noble marriage and became one of Queen Elena's most intimate protegees. It was the Queen, she says, who cast the die for war in Italy. Her other gossip of the royal couple is hardly less interesting.

"Of all the crowded heads of Europe, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena are perhaps the most democratic and the most beloved by their people. They are a delightful couple, for you know their marriage was a love affair," she said.

"Queen Elena was a Montenegrin Princess and her marriage to the Italian King was bitterly opposed by the Queen Mother, who also prevented the Duke of Abruzzi from marrying Katherine Elkins.

"For a long time Queen Elena had a hard time of it. But she is the most wonderful woman I have ever known. As a mother she is a real "madonna" and she looks like one. She nursed her own children and as far as possible she and His Majesty have thrown aside formality. They live like a cultured happy couple of simple tastes.

"Queen Elena is very tall and stately. She is 6 feet, 1 inch in height, and the King is much smaller, but they make a handsome couple all the same.

"The King is very fond of American detective stories and one of his greatest desires is to visit the United States and I believe he and Queen Elena will be the very first European monarchs to come here after the war. Both of them like everything American, and I think Victor Emmanuel is about half way in the notion of buying an Arizona mine.

"Once, shortly before I left Italy for my South American tour, I was invited to the King's palace in company with a noted Italian pianiste. The King wanted to read us a chapter from one of his favorite American detective stories. The book was on top a shelf that reached to the ceiling. The pianiste offered to climb to the top of the moving ladder to get it but the King, said:

"No, I'll get it," and he climbed after it. He and the Queen are just as "homey" as can be and make everyone around feel perfectly at ease.

"But the Queen Mother is very different. She is very proud and very vain. She is a wonderfully well preserved old lady and to this day her locks are golden. In Italy, you know, to be a blonde is to be idolized.

"MASHES" THE QUEEN!

"Sometimes, though, the Queen Mother likes to go about incognito and unattended. One day in Milan, when she was still the Queen, she was walking along the streets, window shopping, when a handsome young army officer caught up with her, tapped her on the sleeve and said: 'Madame, how charming you are! I'd like to know you better. What is your name?'

"This pleased Her Majesty immensely and she smiled and said: 'Gallant sir, it is your Queen you are complimenting,' and she gave the bewildered but happy young officer a beautifully engraved card. He had pleased her so that an invitation to have tea was extended there and then.

SHE DECIDED WAR.

"The King of Italy never takes an important step without first consulting Queen Elena. It was she who decided that Italy would enter the war. She is one of the most sensible, the most sympathetic and the most democratic women in Europe. Had she been on the throne at the time of the romance between the Duke of Abruzzi and Katherine Elkins they would have married. She would have said to her people, 'Just use a little commen sense and a little sympathy. This is a love affair, and they are going to be allowed to marry.' She was deeply in sympathy with them at the time and did everything in her power to help them. But was not able to win the then Queen.

"The eldest daughter of the Italian monarchs is the idol of her countrymen, who take a great interest in her. Her engagement to the Crown Prince of England has been one of the pleasant topics of conversation by the Italians, ever since it was announced."

The Countess says the King and Queen are informal and easily approached. If they should come to America, she said they would both be much more easy to see and talk with than the average American millionaire, especially those most recently affected that way.

Federal Action.

READY TO TRY FOUR AS NEUTRALITY VIOLATORS.

CHARGED with violating the neutrality laws, Fred Dato, a brother-in-law of Esteban Cantu, Governor of Lower California; Julion Trens, active in Mexican affairs; Joseph Culver and C. J. O'Reilly, salesmen in a local gun and ammunition store, will go on trial before Judge Bledsoe in the United States District Court on next Tuesday. It is believed that the marshaling of the testimony and the arguments to the jury will take nearly a week.

Ten machine guns, that were captured in the freight yard of the Southern Pacific Railroad last December, have been marked "Exhibit A," and will be introduced as evidence. The guns were consigned to the W. H. Hoegee Company of this city, it is claimed by the government.

It is the allegation of the government that on September 12, 1916, Messrs. Trens, Dato and Culver met at a local hotel, to arrange for a boat to be used in carrying guns and munitions of war into Mexico; that on that date, Trens and Dato went to the B. H. Dyas Company of this city, and negotiated for the purchase of 250 rifles, 1000 30-30 cartridges and certain machine guns; that two days later, Mr. Culver offered Charlie Leddick $500 to transport twenty-five cases of rifles and 250 boxes of ammunition from Long Beach to Ensenada; that on September 14, Mr. Dato telephoned from San Diego to Lawrence Dodge of Los Angeles, asking him to locate Mr. Trens and send him to San Diego, and that Trens did go to San Diego, in response to such summons. It is further alleged that on September 18, 1916, Mr. Trens paid to C. J. O'Reilly, a salesman employed by the W. H. Hoegee Company, $8000.

Later it is claimed that Mr. O'Reilly sent a telegram to the Colts Arms Company at Hartford, Ct., ordering by freight ten machine guns of the model of 1914, and afterward the guns were shipped from Hartford, to the W. H. Hoegee Company, where they were afterward seized by the government.

On the part of the defense it is denied that the guns so seized were intended for use in Lower California, unless permission could have been had for taking them across the line. It was intended, it is alleged, to make an effort to secure that permission on account of the disturbed condition in that section. All of the defendants are out on bond.

The case promises to be one of the hardest fought in the recent history of the courts, on account of the high standing at least of Fred Dato, who is one of the leading spirits in Lower California, and whose father is one of the best-known men in that part of the country, and a power in the Cantu government. Oscar Lawler and A. I. McCormick will represent the defendants, and Assistant United States District Attorneys O'Connor and Moody will handle the prosecution.

COLLEGES TO BROADEN EDUCATION OF TROOPS.

DRAFTED men at Camp Lewis who did not get beyond the eighth grade in school will be given an opportunity to broaden their education while they are in the training camp. Most of them probably will be able to speak considerable French before they leave for Europe.

Some of the principal branches taught in high schools and colleges are to be offered the men at American Lake by the extension departments of educational institutions in the Northwest. French will be one of the leading studies, and will be taught by Norman F. Coleman, head of the English department in Reed College, Portland. French will be taught to the officers of the Three Hundred and Sixty-third Infantry by Maj. D. L. Cadwallader, who commands the First Battalion. He will be assisted by Lieut. C. M. Rass.

The officers have been ordered to put in long hours drilling the men of the Ninety-first Division in order to fit them for early service in France.

At the base hospital army surgeons are giving physical examinations to the 2400 drafted men.

CONSUL FROST TO TELL OF LUSITANIA SINKING.

THE complete story of the sinking of the Lusitania by the German submarine, exactly as it came from the lips of the half-dead survivors, will be told next Wednesday night at the Chamber of Commerce by Wesley Frost, who was Consul at Queenstown when the Teutons started their ruthless destruction of lives and ships of neutral nations.

Immediately upon hearing of Mr. Frost's coming to the West Coast, the date of the September smoker was arranged so that he might be the principal speaker of the occasion. Perhaps no story in recent history is so replete with interest to the average American as the sinking, without warning, of the giant steamer far out at sea, an act virtually forcing the United States into war with Germany.

Accounts of the sinking of the many neutral ships, with all the attendant horror, came to Mr. Frost from the lips of the survivors. The formal, brief official reports sent by cable at the time of these horrors fail to convey the tragedy and desolation wrought by the insidious unseen foe. The sinkings came so rapidly for a time that before the report of one was completed another pitiful little crew of survivors were landed to tell their story of suffering and death.

As Consul at Queenstown, Mr. Frost was forced to handle for the government all the sinkings by submarines, his port being nearest to the forbidden zone. Although a young man, he has been in the service of the State Department for eight years, and is said to be highly pleasing as a platform speaker.

Wives and friends of members are invited to attend the smoker. There will be stereopticon slides and probably moving pictures bearing on the talk of Mr. Frost.

National Army.

KEEP EYES ON NINETY-FIRST.

That will be the Division of Men from Camp Lewis.

Nine Separate Units to be Component War Parts.

Southland Territory Called District Three.

One infantry division, which will be the ninety-first division of the national army, will be organized by Maj.-Gen. H. A. Greene from the drafted men at Camp Lewis, according to an announcement made by the War Department. Nine units will make up the division, and the men will be selected for the various units by the officers in a "weeding-out" process.

The following units will be organized: (a,) one division headquarters; (b,) one machine-gun battalion of four companies.

(c,) two infantry brigades, each consisting of (1) brigade headquarters; (2,) two infantry regiments; (3,) one machine-gun battalion of three companies.

(d,) one artillery brigade, consisting of (1) brigade headquarters; (2,) two field artillery regiments, light 3-inch guns; (3,) one field artillery regiment, heavy 6-inch howitzers; (4,) one trench mortar battery.

(f,) one field signal battalion.

(g,) divisional trains, consisting of (1,) one train headquarters military police; (2,) one supply train; (3,) one ammunition train; (4,) one engineer train; (5,) one sanitary train; (6,) one mobile ordnance repair shop.

(h,) one depot brigade, consisting of (1,) brigade headquarters, organized; (2,) such a number of training battalions as can be formed.

(i,) one infantry regiment (colored) if there is sufficient personnel available.

A tentative organization on these lines already has been formed and officers assigned the various units.

The first men to arrive in camp were assigned to the infantry. They later may be transferred to other uses, however.

Orders of Maj.-Gen. Greene divide the territory sending troops to the American Lake cantonment into four districts. District No. 3, Southern California, and district No. 2, Northern California, will furnish two regiments of infantry, one regiment of artillery, one machine-gun battalion and one regiment of engineers.

District No. 1, comprising the men from Alaska, Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and district No. 4, comprising the men from Utah, Wyoming and Nevada, will furnish one regiment of artillery, one machine-gun battalion, one-half of a signal battalion and a number of train units.

LEAVES BIG ESTATE.

Will of Retired Sheep Man Filed for Probate Disposes of Nearly a Quarter Million.

Heirs of the estate of the late J. Nestor Ortiz, who died a few days ago, filed a petition for probate of the will yesterday in the Superior Court. The petition and will shows that the estate is valued at more than $216,000, $200,000 of this amount being cash on deposit at various local banks.

The remainder of the estate consists of diamond rings, automobiles, diamond studs and the home place, No. 444 Kingsley drive.

Mr. Ortiz was a retired sheep man and was a well-known man in the city.

The widow is entitled to one-half of the property, according to the will, because it is named as community property. The remainder is to be divided among the twelve children. Three of them are minors.

At the time of his death, Mr. Ortiz was 47 years of age and was at one time known as the largest sheep man in the West. His ranches were in Arizona, New Mexico, California and Colorado.

NEW SUIT FOR LAND.

Woman Files New Action to Protect Former Move Against De Baker Heirs.

Mrs. Ysidora Scott Kurtz filed a new suit in the Superior Court yesterday to protect her suit against the heirs of the Arcadia de Baker estate, now pending before the Supreme Court. The new actions ask that the heirs be made to carry out an agreement alleged to have been made between herself and Mrs. De Baker prior to her death. Mrs. Kurtz was a companion of Mrs. De Baker and was willed 1000 acres of land in the Laguna ranch.

In a suit heard some months ago, Judge Myers upheld a demurrer of the heirs to the complaint in which the ranch land was sought. This action was appealed and is now pending. The new action has been filed in an attempt to correct faults Judge Myers held were contained in the first action.

CHARGES NEGLIGENCE.

Man Seeks Damages from Dentist for Alleged Improper Application of X-ray Apparatus.

Adolph Loos, alleging that Dr. Conrad Deischmiller and his dental assistant used an X-ray machine on him carelessly and negligently, burning him seriously and disfiguring him permanently, filed suit in the Superior Court yesterday for $5600 damages.

Attorneys Francis J. Egan and R. C. Campbell, who are handling the case, declare, in the complaint, that Mr Loos was a dental patient of Dr. Deischmiller and that his teeth and jaw bones were being examined by the X-ray. The plaintiff claims that the dentist and his assistant also did not know how to use the instrument correctly.

Blazon Type not Necessary.
Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy needs no glaring headline to attract the public eye. The simple statement that all chemists sell it is sufficient, as every family knows its value. It has been used for forty years and is just what its name implies.—[Advertisement.

MIGHT DO BETTER.
The Good Government League of San Francisco is planning to have women run for police judges and supervisors. They should be given a chance. They couldn't possibly do worse than many of the police officials have done in that city lately, and they might do better.

JUST WAIT AND WATCH.
An aviator who has just returned to Southern California from France declares that the Allies must strengthen their air forces in order to win the great war. Patience, brother! We're coming to it. Retribution is going to fall on the head of Germany from the skies in a much greater measure than from the shells sent out from the trenches.

GOOD NEWS.
Latest developments indicate that the threatened strike of carpenters and millworkers in Southern California will be averted. Thousands of honest workmen throughout the Southland will say "Amen." This is a question in which not only employers and employees are interested, but with which every citizen is vitally concerned. Let every fair-minded individual work and pray to the end that there may be no repetition here of the San Francisco horrors.

WHY THE LAUGHTER?
Everyone laughs at the irresponsible lad in the comic supplement, the boy who never finishes his errand because his attention is distracted by trivial incidents, yet there are thousands of grown-ups who never succeed in life for the same reason. Instead of focalizing their thoughts upon their work they allow their attention to be divided by a hundred persons, things and conditions which could never have any power over them if they would center their minds and energies on the business at hand.

WILL HE?
"Blackjack" McGuire, speaking to a gang of strikers and strike sympathizers in Labor Temple at San Francisco, said that after he finishes unionizing the United Railroads carmen in that city he will come south and organize the motormen and conductors in Los Angeles. McGuire may be a hero in San Francisco, but he is likely to find the people and the conditions in Los Angeles somewhat different from that which he expects. Any attempt on the part of that loud-mouthed traitor to boss the independent workingmen of Los Angeles will be met in no uncertain manner by the toilers.

"RIGHTS" OF THE I.W.W.'S.
The citizens of Bisbee, Ariz., lined up the I.W.W. outlaws and marched them out of the camp at gun's muzzle, without regard to their "constitutional rights." The Times approved of and applauded that action. When a mob of I.W.W.'s, driven out of Seattle, attempted to invade a little town up river, the inhabitants fired on them and would not permit their boat to dock or them to land—heedless of any "constitutional" rights. The Times said they did just right. This for the benefit of the querulous mining-stock promoter, who gives the editorial department of The Times another knock because we spoke slightingly of the "constitutional rights" of the I.W.W. outlaws. The Times has said what it meant and meant what it said. Our correspondent may worry as much as he chooses about the "constitutional rights" of the I.W.W.'s; but he need not fret any more about the consciousness of The Times as to its own attitude on the question.

OUR UPLIFTERS.
The reason given by the Public Safety Committee for denying the request of the Building Owners and Managers' Association that an ordinance be adopted permitting women to be employed to operate elevators was an insufficient reason. They did not place the denial on the ground that female tenderness, and sweetness, and attractiveness would be out of place in an elevator and that the result of the ordinance asked for would be that husky males, who otherwise would walk up and down stairs, would insist on being carried. They refused the ordinance on the ground that there are sufficient men to do the jobs. Suppose there are. There are sufficient men to act as chauffeurs and yet lovely women run machines around corners without sounding a honk, and beauteous girls sell neckties, and keep books, and perform much other useful work, although there are "sufficient men to do the jobs." "Is not woman the same as man—with a slight variation?" said an exhorter at a camp meeting. "She is, brother," replied an elder, "and thank God for the variation."

Cotton is still jumping in price, but there does not seem to be any disposition to arbitrarily fix the minimum by the Federal Trade Commission. That body is too busy looking into economic conditions in the north. Ain't it the truth?

"The women are fighting in Russia," says a press dispatch. So they are over in this country at various times and places, but we are too gallant to say anything about it.

DEMAGOGUES, DRINKS AND DISLOYALTY.

I.

SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON of California is pleading for an 80 per cent. tax on war industries, being very impassioned and oratorical about it as he always is when seeking the ear of the dear pee-pul. Senator Johnson hates "swollen fortunes." He says so. He no longer feels the personal economic pressure which caused him to reply that "Man must eat" when he was reproached for attaching himself to the "swollen fortune" of that notorious swindler—a swindler of workingmen—Dalzell Brown, and as an attorney Johnson did his best to keep Brown from having to disgorge or being punished. Having discovered the profit-sharing qualities of the reform movement, and for some years collecting about $30,000 annually in the $10,000 office of Governor—and having run an administration for eight years that more than doubled the State expenses, ending with annual figures somewhere around $40,000,000—and having stolen one United States Senatorship for his good friend, John D. Works, and later getting his pocket legislature to change the law so that he could with a semblance of legality appropriate the toga he now wears—and having done numerous other bits of tricky finance too numerous to catalogue but too flagrant to forget—Senator Johnson—with a solicitous eye to Presidential possibilities—now talks loudly and long in that vein best calculated to meet the approbation of the unreasoning and the unfair.

Senator Johnson has again got into the same political bed with Senator La Follette and Sam Gompers, and together they are leading raids on industrial capital. Those have so much in common that even the fact that Senator Johnson sold out La Follette some six years ago for the price of being the tail of Roosevelt's flier for the Presidency, counts for little in their present relations. La Follette was content with a 65 per cent. tax, but Senator Johnson must show the dear pee-pul how much more ardently than La Follette he hates capital—and nothing less than an 80 per cent. tax will satisfy him. Eat 'em up!

With some people it is specious argument to urge that 80 per cent. of war profits of private corporations should revert to the government. The fallacy lies largely in the popular belief that corporations distribute this money to various families of the "idle rich," whose scions marry chorus girls after champagne suppers and whose debutantes marry syphilitic titles from Europe.

A very small percentage of war profits, or of any other industrial profits, finds its way to private expenditures. No. The profits are put back into factories, mills, railroads, and there expanded, enlarged, and not only create opportunities for employment—and this is the important thing to consider in war time—but so enlarge the industrial facilities and output that the service to the country in a martial emergency is manifold and incalculable. War industries should be taxed and taxed heavily—none but "war babies" oppose that, and not all of them. But to follow out the idea which Hiram Johnson has appropriated from Senator La Follette and amplified, would put the United States in the plight of the stupid peasant that cut open the goose to get the golden eggs. Such a tax would be lovely, the first year, but decreasingly remunerative every succeeding year, until soon the 80 per cent. rate would bring less income to the treasury than the proposed 20 per cent. would bring if the industries were left to expand and develop. The industries would soon be squeezed dry; the brainy men, the big builders, would get out of the work and leave it to cheaper, incompetent fellows, and the government would neither have a profitable source of taxation nor vast and efficient industries upon which to depend in war work. But "eat 'em up," says Senator Johnson, "eat 'em up!"

Casting back a bit into the past to get an analogy for the future, let it be supposed that I.W.W. Haywood, Sam Gompers and the Socialists, whose thunders Senator Johnson is stealing, some years ago had enforced confiscatory taxation on the Steel Corporation. The Steel Corporation is selected as an instance because it is the biggest single industry under one management and against which Senator Johnson voices the most of his righteous horror. We will ignore the deteriorated product, the inadequate supply of material, and the loss of opportunities for employment which the expanding industry has opened during the past ten years to hundred of thousands of people from ore miners to structural iron workers, and all the other commercial relapses that would have followed the smothering repression of this mighty corporation in times of peace, and consider the war situation. The Allies would not have had the greatest steel mill in the world—for it would not have been the greatest—to draw on for finished material with which to check and hold the Germans. The United States would not have the fine quality, or immense supply, of steel for ships and guns, and Hindenburg would have been nearly right in saying America would "amount to nothing." The Times is not putting a halo around Mr. Schwab or intimating that his steel corporation is going to win this war, but his corporation has done and will do more than any other single industry on earth—because it is the biggest, and thoroughly American. And it is not too much to say that if Mr. Schwab, and the other big men of industry, had not during the past years been permitted to build up and spread out their plants by repouring into them the great profits, the so-called "swollen fortunes," the United States could not win any modern war.

Some years ago Mr. Schwab was offered $85,000,000 for his interest in the Steel Corporation. He refused it, saying: "What would I do with all that money if I gave up my job"—and there you are. Mr. Schwab knows very well what he can do with $85,000,000 as long as he is expanding and building the mills of his company, preparing them for the emergencies of peace or war with the fine vision of business genius. But take away his profits, confiscate his building material—money—which affords expansion and development meet for his vision and capability and he would retire, as would all the other master men of industry if similarly treated.

Senator Johnson is always a politician. As for war, he does nothing but talk. The country would be as well fitted for war if he had never been heard of. He has shown his true colors and labeled himself unmistakably by joining the Socialistic demagogues in this crusade against the industries. Ha, ha! Likewise Huh! No politician was ever yet elected President on the "eat 'em up" platform.

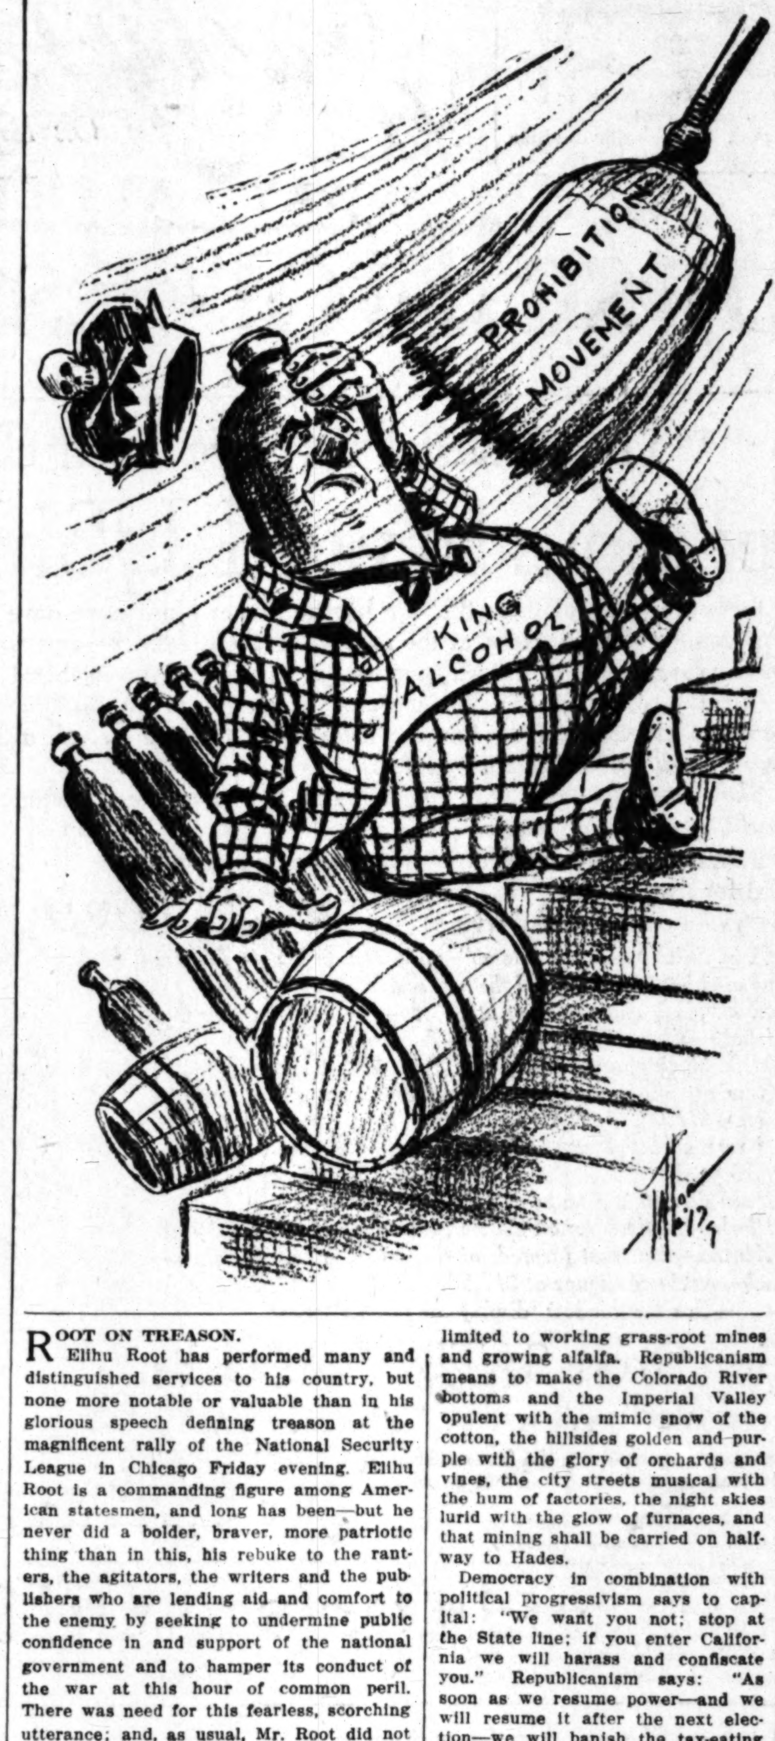
II.

CERTAIN labor unions are unable to forget that this is a time when to tie up any industry is a treachery. Murder, sabotage and rioting continue at San Francisco. The strikers refuse to consider arbitration and resort to their usual methods of assault with bludgeon and revolver. Strikes are threatened in Los Angeles; but thoughtful workmen among the unions realize that every shoulder is needed for the wheels, that co-operation clear down to the least warlike industries is needed to pull the nation through this war. "United we stand, divided we fall"—that is the handwriting on the walls of all nations, of all cities, of all industries. But if the agitators, as they are trying to do, should get the best of workingmen's judgment, then it remains for Los Angeles employers to stand firm and unbreakable as they have stood in the past. There are many reasons why Los Angeles is a great city, but no factors have contributed so decisively to its growth and development as industrial freedom. If lawless men once get intrenched within our gates this city may expect long years of trouble, violence, riots and murders, such as now infest the streets of San Francisco, to which labor-union leaders point as the "model union town."

III.

THE TIMES never has been an advocate of bone dry and illogical prohibition, but has always been opposed to the continuance of the saloon and its evils. The saloons of Los Angeles are well regulated and for the most part orderly; some of the saloon managers are as clean business men as any in town; but the saloon at its best is an absorber of poor men's earnings and a promoter of everything that makes against thrift. More than ever in these times of war and stress is it a menace to the common weal. Its hour has struck; it must go. The Times believes Los Angeles will vote it down and out; and with it must also go the fake social club, which is a worse nuisance than the saloon. A review of the files of The Times will show that while it has favored the moderate use of wines and beers and letting hotels and cafes sell them with meals—and has unalterably opposed the confiscation of California's beautiful vineyards, it has stood for the abolition of the saloon—and there it stands today. If the friends of personal liberty and genuine temperance and the best civic progress do not agree to close up the saloons in the coming election, the specter of Intolerant and Intolerable Prohibition will confront them next.

A Bad Year for Kings.



ROOT ON TREASON.
Elihu Root has performed many and distinguished services to his country, but none more notable or valuable than in his glorious speech defining treason at the magnificent rally of the National Security League in Chicago Friday evening. Elihu Root is a commanding figure among American statesmen, and long has been—but he never did a bolder, braver, more patriotic thing than in this, his rebuke to the ranters, the agitators, the writers and the publishers who are lending aid and comfort to the enemy by seeking to undermine public confidence in and support of the national government and to hamper its conduct of the war at this hour of common peril. There was need for this fearless, scorching utterance; and, as usual, Mr. Root did not hesitate to speak plainly and to point straight at certain conspicuous offenders on the rostrum and in the press.

"Arguments against the war now are enemy arguments," said Mr. Root—a trenchant and epigrammatic truth. It cannot be gainsaid. Yes, we are in the war; the country decided, after prayer and wrestling, to go into it. Our men are at the front, being killed and maimed by the enemy; our country, with tears and with cheers, sent them there—good God, shall we desert them now? Shall we lift up the enemy heart and speed the enemy bullets by carping at our own gunners and by tying holdback strings to our own flag?

On and on and on! That is the only path for us Americans now. No looking back, no looking down! The Kaiser and all his are our bitter, cruel, unrelenting foes. A thousand shames on an American who would help or hearten them by word or deed. God bless you, Elihu Root! You are right. It is time to draw the line!

LEST WE FORGET.
The Republicans of the nation loyally support President Wilson in all his war measures, without hesitation and without criticism, although Mr. Wilson does not reciprocate. Nearly all his thousands of appointees are either deserving or undeserving Democrats, and Republican Federal office holders are almost as scarce as hen's teeth.

The Times urges Republicans to continue to support our President in all measures necessary to secure victory for our arms and the overthrow of autocracy, but let them not therefore fall short of their devotion to Republican principles and their support of the Republican party organization. The difference between Republicanism and Democracy is not an ephemeral difference. It is not merely a contest between men: it is based upon principles and methods of government which in their ramifications extend to and affect questions of revenue, of finance and of foreign and domestic policy.

Democracy says: "Give us cheap fabrics woven on foreign looms; cheap iron and steel goods hammered on foreign anvils; cheap goods of all kinds made by foreign workers who eat meat but once a week, whose wives are clad in coarse fabrics and whose children are uneducated." Republicanism says: "Let us pay a higher price for wares made under the American flag." Democracy says: "We want no high-priced goods." Republicanism says: "We want no low-priced men."

Democracy says: "Let us give up the Philippines." Republicanism says: "Wherever American valor has planted the American flag, there the flag shall stay."

Democracy means industrial stagnation and commercial retrogression. Republicanism means progression and prosperity. Democracy means that industry shall be limited to working grass-root mines and growing alfalfa. Republicanism means to make the Colorado River bottoms and the Imperial Valley opulent with the mimic snow of the cotton, the hillsides golden and purple with the glory of orchards and vines, the city streets musical with the hum of factories, the night skies lurid with the glow of furnaces, and that mining shall be carried on halfway to Hades.

Democracy in combination with political progressivism says to capital: "We want you not; stop at the State line; if you enter California we will harass and confiscate you." Republicanism says: "As soon as we resume power—and we will resume it after the next election—we will banish the tax-eating commissioners to Jawbone Canyon; we will sweep our statute books clean of the fool laws placed there by the plunderbund; we will protect you in your rights and protect ourselves against any invasion of ourselves. Come on Rockefellers, and Guggenheims, and Schwabs, and Garys and Morgans. We need your capital for greater development of our marvelous natural resources. Come on!"

Active contention over the great enduring issues between the Republican and Democratic parties will be suspended until the termination of the war. Then the battle will be resumed. The best interests of the country will be promoted by Republican triumph. Wherefore let the Old Guard and the New Guard keep their weapons polished and ready for the fray.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

REST.

All summer I have been Out West, where people go from home to rest, among the snow-capped hills, to be away from office chairs, and city noise and business cares, and all the workday ills. I saw a million, less or more, and most of them found rest a bore, and longed to be back home, where each could for some dollars chase, and plan new business schemes and place more gray hairs on his dome. So few of us know how to rest! By mad ambition we're possessed to nail another bone, to add one large round dollar more, one shining doubloon to the store that we already own. We cannot lay our harness down, forsake the hot and bustling town, and have a restful time; we fear that while repose we take, some other fellow, more awake, might beat us to a dime. And so vacation finds us sore; we walk the mountains or the shore, and fume and sigh and fret; we yearn for cares we left behind, and tell our wives the beastly grind is still the one best bet. Alas, we've never learned to rest, to let our work slide galley west, to slumber and relax; we do not like to pace life's road unless we bear a galling load upon our creaking backs.

WALT MASON.

There will be a mass meeting of American business men at Atlantic City beginning Monday, and continuing the most of the week, the greatest gathering in the history of the country, made up of the captains of industry representing every branch of activity. It will try to determine the question whether prices can be shuffled down by Congress, or by any group of men, or by any one man singly.

I GUESS SO.

BY CHARLES F. LUMMIS.

In these Calm and Drowsy days, when even our most neurotic, erotic and tommyrotic citizens (ladies or Near) have dropped off to Judicious Repose, and no longer Nag their Mindies, we never know what may happen. And we never care. Nothing can surprise us—unless some nervous person gets excited and asks, right out in meeting, "Why the Hell is History? And what do you know about our own? Ever hear tell of the Constitution of the United States? Ever notice what it says as to Free Speech by Press and Mouth? Ever hear tell of one A. Lincoln? Remember a sentence of the Constitution or a sentence of "Honest Abe's?" Are you conscious that he was also once a Congressman? When? From what district of what State? What did he do in Congress? Honest Injun—what do you know about it without fussing a text-book? Do you honest think that the patriotic way to face this greatest of all wars—this war in which a million American boys are due to lay down their lives on foreign soil—(the first time Americans have ever officially fought on European territory for European balances of power)—do you think you and I are in the best patriotic trim if we are brute-ignorant or brute-careless of all the other wars this United States has waged, and the reasons and the methods?

And the matter of our own Minds, our own Freedom, is the first important thing. A nation that fought the most fearful civil war in the world to get Freedom for Negroes, will not readily surrender its own liberty—when it stops to think. And we sure are going to Think, before long.

Taxes we are used to—but Gags, never! The ill-advised attempt to muzzle the Press as a college professor might shut up his class at Princeton or Harvard, was one of the sorriest blunders ever made by a World Chief. The attempt to gag the individual is as absurd and as foredoomed. It is not only as Un-Constitutional as Anarchy would be—it comes home to every American who is not in a Trance. We may not remember much of the Constitution; but we do have our own little spinal columns (vulgarly known as Backbones.) And I don't know of any human power that is going to break them. The Kaiser couldn't if he wished to—and I have no authentic information that he so wishes. Nor do I know of anyone in the world that can. The mind of an American citizen does not have to hold up—and won't hold up—its hand to any despotism, dictatorship or other schoolmarm and say "Please May I Go Out?"

We are not under a Kaiser or a Czar or a Louis XIV. We do not particularly intend to be. Of the hundred million we now count, half have come within half a century because here was Free Thinking and Free Say-so.

All we have to do to be worthy to live under the broadest, the clearest and the noblest Constitution ever anywhere framed for the governing of a commonwealth is TO BE LOYAL. Loyal to what? To a Party, and Administration Policy, a monetary propaganda? No! Loyal to our own sober Americanism, and to the immortal Constitution under whose guarantees has grown the greatest nation of freemen on earth!

I am an "elderly man," and not so much disposed to walk ten miles to get into a fight as I was even thirty years ago. But if you will give me the address of any man that will say Abraham Lincoln was a Slacker, a Seditionist or Disloyal—why, I will invite that libeler (of whatever age and strength and weight) to the center of a ten-acre lot, and we will Argue the question. And any of you will be welcome to watch him lick me.

Abraham Lincoln opposed the Mexican war. When President Polk put it over on the world's history, Lincoln went to Congress. He voted "Men and Money" since the nation was at war. But in Congress, and out of it, he laid the responsibility of that war where History now unanimously recognizes that it belongs. Namely, on Polk. It is one of the bravest and one of the most patriotic documents in even Lincoln's high career. In diplomatic, but marvelously direct, language, it virtually asked the President of the United States whether he was a liar—"and if not, why not." And of course Lincoln proved—and history has given its seal—that Mr. Polk WAS.

I never did know of but one Abraham Lincoln. B-U-T I think I know what he stood for and died for! FREEDOM!

Of course we are Free to pay taxes, to surrender our Boys, to mortgage our homes for "Loans" to our "Allies" (with not one of whom we have even a "scrap of paper" treaty to protect our loans or our lives.) The loans, not one of them will be able to repay by the time your great-grandson would like to get married. They know that, if you don't. Who pays in the meantime? Guess! Guess again, if you need to.

Personally, I rather like Andy Jackson's Presidential word: "I'll make my own precedents." But being old and mild I'm willing to follow what the same President Jackson called "the footprints of my illustrious predecessors." And Abraham Lincoln is a good enough American "predecessor" for me to follow in the footsteps of!

Would to God he were alive today! He would be only 108 years old—but I guess he would still have more sense than we have today. And I for one would like "Father Abraham's" advice just now. Do you perchance remember any other man that a nation in his own day called "Father?" Did you ever wonder why not?

And do you recall that this Greatest American ever got "Skeered" of discussion, criticism, Free Speech? Not! For he had a Sense of Humor!

Linda Vista.

CAMP KEARNY NEARLY READY FOR THE INFLUX OF SOLDIERS.

Distressing Difficulties Overcome in Construction of Army Cantonment—Many Different Forms of Recreation to be Provided.

WITH two miles of company mess halls stretching out over the mesa, hundreds of other buildings up, miles of graded streets and graded mesa, Camp Kearny, at Linda Vista, is very nearly ready today for the troops scheduled to begin to arrive next Thursday. At that time the north section of the big cantonment will be completed and the efforts of the army of workmen will be directed upon the other section of the camp.

The trenching for the camp's sewer system, the big problem of the construction work, because of the hardpan, is almost completed. As the completion of the entire camp depended solely upon the progress made in this work, this means that the camp will be ready for troops on schedule time.

Some of the streets under construction have been covered with concrete, and the second tremendous piece of work, that of paving over six miles of streets with concrete in less than two weeks, looks promising.

The Hampton Construction Company heads, Maj. Charles Nichols, construction quartermaster, and Capt. O. C. Wyman, administrative officer of the construction quartermaster's department, are breathing easily for the first time since the order for the permanent sewer system came from headquarters. This because for the first time all construction work on the camp is ahead of schedule or up to it. The system used to show daily progress of the construction is by curves on a large map which gradually meet the prescribed point as the work is finished. Watching the progress curves diminish has been the only amusement of many of these busy men for some days.

The great camp postoffice is complete and open for business. A force of ten clerks under R. S. Robbins will take care of the business at first, but the force will have to be increased later, as the volume of business is expected to be nearly as great as that of the main postoffice of San Diego.

The first shipment of horses to the remount camp arrived Friday. There were 3600 head in the first shipment, and workmen rushed at top speed to have corrals and buildings ready for horses and men at that time. The remount camp will accommodate 10,000 horses when completed. There are to be ten corrals, with a capacity of 500 horses each. Also veterinary hospitals, an equine infirmary and quarantine stations are to be built.

MILLIONAIRE IN CHARGE.

That one of the most noted millionaire sportsmen of the country is in charge of the remount camp, in the person of Capt. John R. Valentine, Quartermaster Corps, is one of the striking evidences of the patriotism brought out by the war. Capt. Valentine, once master of Radnod Hounds and one of the most famous breeders of blooded stock in the country, is giving his expert knowledge to the government at this time.

Work on the last section of the camp, the base hospital, was begun last week. The hospital site of 1500 acres has been graded and many of the buildings are up. Maj. John F. Sharp, Utah National Guard, will be in command of the division field hospital. Maj. Sharp arrived from Utah Monday evening. When the Utah troops were on the Mexican border recently Maj. Sharp was in command of the field hospital at Nogales.

Railroads grow with astonishing speed at Camp Kearny, like all other construction, and the past few days the Santa Fe has been building a mile a day. The station at Linda Vista was completed this week and a big force of men are rushing to completion the "Y" which is so necessary for movement of freight and troops.

The recreation buildings, considered most important by army officers, as recreation must be provided for the great soldier city as well as housing, are almost completed. The past week five of the large Y.M.C.A. buildings for recreation were erected. Each of these is 38x112 feet, and they are situated so that there will be one for each brigade. In between the Y.M.C.A. buildings and the main buildings of the cantonment will be the recreation halls of the Knights of Columbus, of which there will be four. In addition to the five Y.M.C.A. buildings now up, there is to be an administration building and possibly an extra hall. Each of the large recreation halls seats 800 persons.

MANY CONVENIENCES.

The furniture is largely of the built-in type, so that once the buildings are up it will be but a small matter to fit them for use. In each building are reading-rooms, billiard-rooms, a large recreation-room and quarters for the secretaries, of which there will be five to a building. F. A. Jackson, the camp general secretary for this section, with his corps of assistants, plans to have amusements ready by the time the troops arrive in camp. In the meantime temporary Y.M.C.A. tents have been established in the army camp, in the construction camp and in the remount camp.

The buildings being erected by the Knights of Columbus will have in addition to the recreational features, a chapel in each structure, where services for the Catholics among the troops will be held.

In another week the Young Women's Christian Association will start the building of a hostess house at the camp. A site close to the station has been selected by the committee and approved by Maj.-Gen. Strong. Miss Ellen Scripps of La Jolla has donated the sum of $15,000 for the building and its furnishings. This is a most important feature, as it will be the only place in the camp in which women relatives and friends of the soldiers will be permitted. Hostesses and secretaries will look after the comfort of the visitors.

A battalion of Colorado troops, engineers, are the latest arrivals at Camp Kearny. The three companies in command of Maj. Joseph T. Taylor are from Golden, Colo. They began at once to assist in rounding up the camp and surveying.

Capt. W. C. Philoon, personal aide-de-camp to Maj.-Gen. Strong, reported for duty Saturday. Capt. Philoon has the distinction of being the only bachelor officer in the camp. He was the general's personal aide in Honolulu and recently has been stationed in Vancouver and at the Presidio Officers' Training Camp as instructor.

COMMANDER IS LIKED.

Maj.-Gen. Frederick S. Strong, commander of the Fortieth Division, Camp Kearny, is, in the words of a fellow army officer, in an antithesis, known as "the most lovable and at the same time the most forceful character in the American army." Over six feet in height, he carries his 62 years in age well, and looks the typical army officer. He is a native of Michigan, and graduated from West Point in 1880. He was commissioned second lieutenant in the Fourth Artillery, and graduated in the Artillery School. He served in the volunteer army in 1898 and received the rank of major in 1899. He became captain in the regular army and was promoted to rank of major in the regular army in 1904. He served as Adjutant-General by detail and was given the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the Coast Artillery in 1911.

His appointment as brigadier-general was made in 1915, when he became military governor of Hawaii. Here he served until promoted to rank of major-general in July of this year.

Lieut.-Col. John Gulick, chief of staff to Gen. Strong, is a native of North Carolina. He has served in the Coast Artillery branch of the North Carolina National Guard, in the Forty-seventh Infantry, and in the Coast Artillery of the regular army. He graduated from the Artillery School in 1907. He was appointed lieutenant-colonel in August of this year, just previous to his arrival here. He is a typical southern gentleman of the old school type, though he belongs to a younger generation.

Maj. James S. McKnight, in command of the Second Battalion, Seventh California Infantry, was one of the first officers on the ground at Camp Kearny. Pending the arrival of Gen. Strong, the commander, Maj. McKnight was comander of all mobile troops at the camp. Maj. McKnight, who in civilian life is a lawyer practicing in Los Angeles, had a year's strenuous service on the Mexican border as commander of the First Brigade, California Infantry, stationed at Nogales. He later served as commander of a battalion of the Seventh Infantry, performing guard duty in Southern California, with headquarters at North Island. He assisted much in the difficult early work at Camp Kearny in command of the guard detachment as the place was but a barren sage brush mesa when he and his troops established camp.

RUSH IN SAN DIEGO.

San Diego is beginning to realize in earnest that her population will soon be largely military. On Saturdays and Sundays when great numbers of the men of the army and navy are given liberty, the streets, cafes, restaurants and theaters are packed. When the great bulk of the soldier population of Camp Kearny arrives it is very evident that there must be more restaurants and places of amusement in San Diego. A number of dry cabarets have been established for the enlisted men where only soft drinks are sold. The biggest dance floor in town, a big soda fountain and a first-class chef is the sign of one of these newly-established places. There have, however, been no first-class cafes or restaurants provided as yet and frequently one finds almost every table and chair in such cafes as the Grant grill, the Palace or Rudder's occupied by service officers, with others waiting to be served.

The San Diego Committee on Recreation for Army and Navy is devising plans for the entertainment of the service men in many ways.

Thursday a new club for enlisted men, to be under the management of the Rotary Club, was formally opened in the New Southern Hotel with a luncheon and reception.

J. M. Anderson, owner of the hotel, has turned over the entire lower floor of the hotel which was formerly the grill. The beautifully appointed rooms make most attractive club rooms with their soft lights and elegantly decorated walls. In one room Mr. Anderson has furnished writing tables and card tables and in the other, two large pool tables. At the formal opening, there were present Maj.-Gen. Strong, Rear-Admiral Uriel Sebree, U.S.N., Brig.-Gen. J. H. Pendleton, Commander W. D. Brotherton of the naval training camp. Mr. Anderson donated nearly $10,000 in furnishings and fittings.

Another service club room is conducted by the Rotary Club on Fifth street.

NEED WAR WORKERS.

Government Announces Examinations for Inspectors of Munitions, Mechanical Engineers.

The great need for munitions workers by the government is shown by the announcement of examinations for positions, under civil service, which will be held at an early date by Secretary Tynan of the United States Civil Service Commission in the local headquarters, 618 Federal Building.

Inspectors of artillery ammunition, cloth equipment, leather, small hardware, textiles, powder and explosives, ammunition packing cases and ordnance equipment at salaries ranging from $960 to $2400 per year are sought.

Mechanical engineers are also wanted for work on artillery ammunition and experimental work. Salaries of from $2500 to $3600 per year will be paid for this work.

WHERE CASTE FADES.

Rich Mother can't Understand Why Her Society Son is not Prominent in Camp.

The other morning a very well-dressed, elderly lady entered Camp Lewis in a big touring car searching for her son. She stopped several officers and made inquiries as to where he was to be found, but as no one seemed to know her son, she was sore puzzled. Finally she asked to be taken to the major-general's quarters, sure in her own mind that he would know her boy.

She failed to see the general, who was out on a trip of inspection. Finally the anxious mother stopped a big, soldierly-looking captain and asked him the same question. When he denied knowing the boy, she gave vent to her disgust at the lack of knowledge of these men in not being aware of the presence of one of the best-known social lions in a small Washington town.

She finally found him, but always will have a very poor opinion of the judgment of the officers of Camp Lewis.

HIS WIFE'S GUARDIAN.

Joseph Singer, who petitioned to be appointed the guardian of the person and estate of his wife, Hannah Singer, alleged to be incompetent, received the appointment at the hands of Judge Rives of the Probate Court yesterday. Mrs. Singer opposed the guardianship, claiming that she was capable of handling her own affairs. The estate included about $3000 in cash.

SAN DIEGO SESSION.

Judge Trippet of the United States District Court will go to San Diego tomorrow to relieve Judge Bledsoe in clearing up the criminal calendar there. Almost the entire week will be so employed, it is believed, but on Friday Judge Trippet will return here for a single day for the purpose of hearing the naturalization calendar.

Judge Bledsoe will call his calendar tomorrow morning, when the famous Phelan slacker case will be set for trial.

'Tis a Fact!

Suits---Coats---Frocks at $25.00

That are Making Higher-Priced Garments Envious!

—See them—proud as peacocks, they are—and not one whit abashed in the presence of garments that cost much more!

—It really does one good to look at such an assemblage of garments at $25—when one reads so much and hears so much of "high costs" and "advancing prices"—and the scarcity of everything!

—For in truth the materials in this season's $25 garments positively seem richer, colorings lovelier, styles more alluring and the garments actually more wantable in every way than those of previous seasons at the same price.

—And now, with the advent of such wondrous garments at $25, we know that Los Angeles women are going to have even greater regard for a department that can furnish them at such a price!

The Suits at $25

—Plain ones and fancy ones—for there's latitude in style as well as coloring and material—Gabardines, poplins, serges, Burella, mannish suitings.

—Such GOOD lines—many of them hugging the shoulders and waist a bit—and really giving you stepping room!

—It's hard to say little about these suits, for there's much to tell—but SEE them—get your own impressions—YOUR enthusiasm will equal ours!

The Dresses at $25

—Taffeta, satin, serge—singly, or joining forces with one of the others—

—There are the Georgette sleeves, that women simply refuse to give up—

—Many are braided, others are machine-stitched and some boast of handwork in their trimming.

—Asked for colors—navy, taupe, burgundy, Copenhagen and black.

The Coats at $25

—The generous pockets, collars and cuffs are to swagger through another season — they are so sure of themselves and the affection women have for them—

—Fur trims some, plush trims others—some partly, others full lined.

—Coats of velour, broadcloth, novelty mixtures, plush, etc.—A representative collection for fall and winter wear—here at "The Broadway" at $25.00. Third Floor.

Women's Plain and Fancy Silk Stockings 95c

—Full fashioned—high spliced heel and double soles. Some are all silk, others have the double elastic lisle garter top.

—Plain black and white as well as an assortment of novelty stripes.

—Some show slight irregularities, but none serious enough to affect the wear.

—95c is a feature price for Monday, for these are stockings that bear higher markings. Aisle 8.

Women's Lisle Stockings 39c

—First quality fine lisle with double soles, heels, toes and ribbed top.

—They wear splendidly—and are priced less than the regular marking. 39c pair; three pairs $1.

Children's Stockings 25c

—A saving of 10c pair on these medium weight ribbed stockings for boys and girls.

—They are well reinforced and we have sizes from 6 to 9.

—25c a feature price for Monday. Aisle 8.

Women's Union Suits 50c and 59c

—The quality is the same—the difference in sizes makes a difference in price.

—Fine one and one ribbed suits—low neck, sleeveless, with cuff or lace knee, nicely made and well finished. Sizes 34 to 38 at 50c. Sizes 40 to 44 at 59c.

Women's Fancy Yoke Vests 25c

—Swiss ribbed vests with fancy yoke of heavy lace

—The kind with the narrow shoulder strap in sizes 34 to 38 at 25c, though regularly they sell at a higher price. Aisle 8.

81x108 Seamless Sheets at $1.10

—That's Monday's price for these extra large seamless sheets.

—They measure 2¼ yards wide and 3 yards long, including hem—and the quality is way ahead of the average at the price—for it's a special one. $1.10. Second Floor.

72x90 Sheets 75c

—Full bleached—made of a good firm grade of sheeting and with center seam.

—2 yards wide and 2½ yards long. Such sheets are 75c at The Broadway.

42x36 Hemstitched Pillow Cases 22½c

—A firm pillowcase neatly spoke stitched at end—specially priced, too, for Monday, at 22½c. The size 42x36 includes hem.

The Children's and Juniors' Dept. Has Acquired Additional Territory

—Here is a department on the second floor that just naturally outgrew its bounds—it simply had to have more space and so it came about that the Trunks, that were occupying a coveted section, were prevailed upon to take up their quarters in the Basement Balcony—and the children's department was in possession of the desired extra space in less time than it takes to tell about it.

—Now, as you step from the elevator on the second floor the

New Outer Garment Section for Children, Juniors and Intermediates

—greets you—a roomy, well arranged, convenient shopping place, where mother and daughter will find excellent stocks of the needed garment for school or dress.

—The new fall models are being displayed to advantage—the new coats, hats, dresses—and all are being greatly admired. 2nd floor.

Children's and Juniors' Serge Dresses $5 to $24.75

—Nothing to compare with them for school wear.

—Charming high waist styles, some trimmed with harmonizing color, and showing novel ideas in pockets, sleeves, collars, cuffs.

—Also many pretty models in plain colors and black and white checks. 2nd Fl.

Girls' Hats $1.50 to $8.95

—Some in tailored effects, others trimmed with flowers, ribbon or fur.

—There are some particularly attractive large droopy velvet hats for "big sister."

—Hats in the assortment for girls of 3 to 17 years. Second Floor.

Girls' Coats $9.75 to $25 Sizes 8 to 18 Years

—In the popular colors in broadcloth, wool velour, corduroy, metalamb and other coating fabrics as well as beautiful black plush.

—Full back, also belted styles. Some fur trimmed. Coats for school, for dress and for utility wear.

Serge and Flannel Middies $2.95 to $5.95.

—Navy blue with red, white or blue soutache braid trimming and wide sailor collar, some with side lacing. Then there are others of blue flannel in coat style and of red flannel in military effect with pockets and brass buttons. Second Floor.

Gowns and Envelope Chemise at $2.45

—Such pretty garments—the materials are so fine and the laces and dainty embroideries trim them generously.

—They are, in fact, much better than the price might lead you to believe.

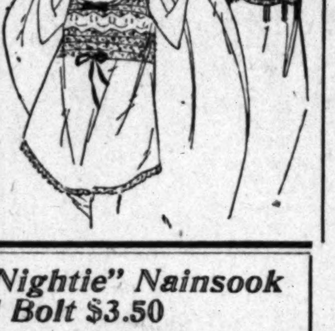
Muslin Petticoats $1.85

—Choice of several different styles in lace trimmed or embroidery trimmed petticoats. Garments that bear higher markings than the sale price for Monday.

Camisoles $2.45

—Exquisite new camisoles of fine satin or crepe de chine—and particularly fetching are those combining pink and blue or pink and white and having ribbon ties over shoulders.

—Some of flesh color are trimmed with Georgette crepe or insets of fine lace. Second Floor.



Undermuslins for the Stout Woman

—Even though you do wear a larger size than 44, you will have no trouble in finding in this department undermuslins to fit you.

—There are lace trimmed corset covers with or without sleeves. Embroidery trimmed drawers, envelope chemise and gowns—also gowns and chemise made more elaborate through the use of organdy insertion and laces.

—Petticoats, too, with embroidery flounce. Prices range from 50c to $2.45. Second Floor.

Bungalow Aprons $1.50

—Percale and ginghams in plain colors, stripes, plaids, checks, etc.

—Some in open front style with wide belt, large collar, cuffs and pockets. Some semi-fitted with side front closing and still others button on shoulder.

—Styles suitable for morning wear. Second Floor.

"Good Nightie" Nainsook 12-yard Bolt $3.50

—Not only does it make good nighties, but is desirable for fine lingerie.

—12 yards, put up in neat box, which also contains a tape measure.

40-inch Longcloth 10-yard Bolt for $2.25

—One of the better grades of soft chamois finish Longcloth in the 40-inch width—10-yard bolt $2.25 Second Floor.

A Blouse Sale at $1.59

—A bit of news that will interest you if you've planned to buy blouses on Monday.

—A gathering of voile and organdy blouses — remaining garments from different lines, assembled at this feature price, though in regular stock you couldn't touch them for $1.59.

—Some trimmed with Val. lace and tucks and there is a model of organdy with tucked front and collar that may be worn high or low. Choice on Monday, $1.59. Third Floor.

New Autumn Models in Lingerie Blouses $3.50 to $6.50

—Nearly every day brings new arrivals in autumn blouses to the department on the 3rd floor.

—Blouses of batiste, organdy and voile—some are hand embroidered, others have minute tucks and on other crocheted buttons play a prominent part in the trimming.

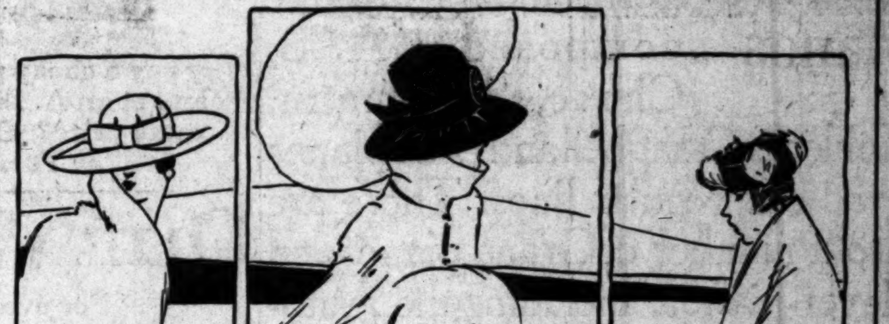
—There are large collars, others having small collars that may be worn high or low.

—Sizes from 36 to 46.

Some Very Good House Dresses are $1.59

—The practical straight models, buttoning from collar to hem and made of striped percale and plaid ginghams.

—Large collar, cuffs and belt. Sizes 34 to 44, $1.59. Third Floor.



An Interest-Claiming Trio of Broadway Hats

—Though we had no special reason for choosing this particular three—for there are scores of others just as deserving of being put before you here!

—Judge then that these are typical of The Broadway—and of the season!

—Taking Them As They Come—

—a tailored model from "Vogue"—four and a half inches as to brim width, which is of Vatican purple felt, and four and a half inches as to crown height, which is of silvery gray plush. The trimming, a simple encircling ribbon and flat bow to match crown—but how often the simplest trimming is the most effective! Is it not so?

—Vastly different from the ordinary run of sailors—but a sailor, "for a' that"—and verily a bonnie one.

—The price tag says $12.50—(yes, it's a genuine "Vogue").

—The Center Maid

hides her eyes 'neath the broad brim of this gorgeous purple hat, so we can only surmise that they're gray and her cheeks are peachy—but of the hat! 'Tis one to lend dignity to the wearer, for the crown is tall and "austere," even though it be softly draped. Scintillating with beads of many colors is the shield-like ornament that is held in front by the circe ribbon that ends in a bow in back. This one $18.

—The One on the Right

—a piquant little saucer turban that fits snug and close over curls and ear tips and boasts of five pink feather pads arranged on the brim—The sort of a hat that inspires many an admiring glance. This one $15. Third Floor.

A Really "Scrumptuous" Black Plush Scarf $5.95

—They are very modish—these long black plush scarfs, but if you've bought one—or bought the material and made one, you've found that you paid more than $5.95 for it—if it is of a quality to compare with these we've termed "special" and priced at $5.95.

—They measure 12x61 inches, are of heavy black all silk plush with thick pile, and are nicely made and lined.

—Neckwear section, Aisle 5.

Angora Wool Cap and Scarf Polo Sets $1.95

—Becoming cap and fringed scarf that measures 10x58 inches.

—White, rose, emerald, purple, orange and Copenhagen, with trimming in stripe effects.

Rich Laces and Bands $2

—Iridescent and spangled, beaded and silk laces and bands.

—The laces from 18 to 36 inches wide and the bands measure 2 to 5 inches.

—Most effective for evening wear. Aisle 4.

Our New Building Is Almost Ready on Seventh Street and This Sale Is Almost Over

Fair Warning

We have given fair warning—the greatest of piano sales will soon close and your name should be written on our books. We were sure the people would respond and they have done so. More pianos have been sold by the Bartlett Music Co. during the past week than commission agents sell in a year. The great sale of the past week proves that the people are alive to the opportunity and are buying.

All New Pianos

This is not a sale of cheap second-hand or unknown pianos, but the stock is all new and fresh, and is mostly composed of A. B. Chase, Schumann, Kohler & Campbell and Baus pianos—all our regular lines. There are also a number of Grand pianos and player-pianos, including the Autopiano and Baus player piano. You cannot make a mistake unless you stay away. You will find nothing but bargains and a visit will make a customer. Open nights.

ORGANIZATION OF SOUTHLAND TROOPS PROCEEDING RAPIDLY.

Los Angeles Draft Men Being Swiftly Whipped into a Potent Military Machine at American Lake. Noncommissioned Officers Named.

THE work of whipping the drafted men from Southern California into an effective military organization in the shortest possible time is well under way at Camp Lewis. Temporary positions as noncommissioned officers have been given conscripted men who had had sufficient military experience shortly after their arrival and they immediately proceeded, under the direction of their superior officers, with the work of drilling the recruits.

The first step is the selection of the first sergeants and it is expected that a number of men may be named to take this rank this week. These men must be capable of handling the company records and fitted to act as guide, philosopher and friend to the men in their companies. For the first sergeant is the bridge between the soldiers and the commissioned officers.

These first sergeants, as well as all other noncommissioned officers, will be picked from the rank and file of the drafted men, it was announced. This probably will not be a hard problem, the officers said, as there are certain men who are natural leaders and who are easily picked out in a group.

WATCH THE RANKS.

The captains and lieutenants will select the noncommissioned officers. They will observe the men in their companies from day to day and note those who show aptitude. They will then take these men from the ranks and give them special training.

The men were first organized into regiments of 600 men each, which will later be augmented to the full number of 3600 men as additional quotas of drafted men arrive at Camp Lewis. The first men were assigned to four tentatively organized infantry regiments.

The drafted men from Southern California now at Camp Lewis were assigned to companies in the Third Battalion, Three Hundred and Sixty-fourth Infantry. The regiment is commanded by Col. E. W. Clark and the Third Battalion is under the command of Maj. G. N. Davis.

Organization of the companies is proceeding rapidly. There will be 150 men in each. Later these companies will be reduced to fifty men and the ranks will be filled by new arrivals at the camp. In this way each company will have one-third experienced material at all times. The companies will consist of 250 men when they are sent abroad and the additional men will be drawn from the headquarters battalion.

Rigid physical examinations were held at camp all last week and those who failed to meet the United States Army requirements will be dropped. So far, the authorities have not announced the results of the physical examinations, but it is believed the men are as a whole remarkably fit and that but in a few instances will the decision of the local exemption boards' examining physicians be reversed.

Maj.-Gen. H. A. Greene already has outlined the organization of the men and as rapidly as the men come, skeleton regiments and companies will be formed to be filled out by the later arrivals.

Following is the tentative assignment of officers for the division to be formed from the drafted men at Camp Lewis, which will be the Ninety-first Division of the National Army:

BLIND MAN TOILS LONG SO BROTHER MAY FI

BECAUSE he was stricken blind by an explosion of dynamite in a mine, George W. Nix, a young attorney who lives at No. 152 Lucas avenue, cannot to to the front in France and fight for the United States as he would like to, but he has, during the past few months, made himself self-supporting, so that his brother, Lloyd S. Nix, a young law student, can join Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

Both of the young men worked night and day to prepare the blind brother to take the bar examination so that he could open up a law office and support himself. He passed the bar examination last month and will open up his law office on Wednesday, the day that his brother will leave for Camp Lewis with the quota from city district No. 15.

If George Nix had not succeeded in passing the bar examination and making himself fitted to practice law the other brother, Lloyd Nix, would have been compelled to ask for exemption, as he would have had to support his blind brother.

George Nix has always had the ambition to be a lawyer. He earned his way through law school by work during the summer [illegible] summer he worked in a [illegible] orado and there the [illegible] curred that destroyed his [illegible]

SOCIAL LIFE FOLLOWS TROOPS INTO SERV

DOWN on the lower reservation at Fort MacArthur, where over 1000 men were suddenly transferred from the homes in Los Angeles and vicinity to the life of a military camp, in tents without floors, there came a yearning for civilization and society. Last week the officers gave their first formal ball.

To make the affair a success, with all the comforts of home, the old pavilion at Point Fermin was transformed into a ballroom that would have been a credit to one of the fashionable hotels in the city. There were rugs and cosy settees, lounges and palm trees and flowers. There were over 300 invitations issued and the guests included leading business and society folk of Los Angeles, the harbor district and surrounding towns.

Besides the officers' ball there was a big benefit dance on the previous evening, given by the Knights of Pythias of San Pedro for the mess fund of the Fifth Company, which was recruited in the harbor district. Col. Harry B. Light led the grand march.

Other methods have been taken by the various companies [illegible] substantial mess funds. half a mile from where the center of the great cantonment will be when completed, the men of the Provisional Battalion all night long are able to hear the roar of dynamite as the workmen blast their way through the solid rock and hard-pan in efforts to get the sewer and water lines into the camp. Working by day and by night the clamor of their drills and the blasts of their powder are never stilled and the soldiers, as their officers say, are already getting used to the roar of high explosives.

Working their way through the hardest ground in Southern California, the workmen, to complete the sewers and water lines which must be run into the camp before the soldiers arrive, must blast the way with powder and dynamite every foot from San Diego to Linda Vista.

All day long the men of the Provisional Battalion, some on foot, some in the saddle, and some on motorcycles and automobiles, can be seen rushing about the camp on official business. All night long the men of the same battalion can be seen with loaded rifles on their shoulders guarding the great cantonment from any harm.

And while the Thirteenth and Fourteenth companies of the Provisional Battalion guard Camp Kearny, the Fifteenth and Eighteenth companies of the same battalion are doing the same thing at Chula Vista and North Island, working by day and by night to keep Southern California safe.

THEORY PROVEN.

According to Gen. O'Neil, the best-loved military man in Southern California, the Provisional Battalion, California Coast Artillery, has proved his theory that if a militia organization be thrown into a regular army post and forced to do the work and take the training of the regulars, within three months it will become as well a drilled body of men as any in the regular army. The Provisional Battalion, according to the general, in the three months which it trained with the Twenty-first Infantry proved his theory and came out of the intensive training as fine a body of soldiers as ever he encountered.

In command of Capt. Daniel K. Smyth, assisted by Capts. Huston, Jones and Ergenzinger and Lieuts. Slaten, Atwood and Slocum, with Second Lieutenants Martens, Boeckman, McLean and Lowell, the Provisional Battalion, to a man, has assisted in making the organization one of the best in active service in California and to a man is waiting for the day when it will receive the order to go over the seas to take part in the greatest war in history.

In the face of all the hard work and training through which the men of the Provisional Battalion have passed in the six months in Federal service, the enlisted men only smile and say, "Los Angeles never will be ashamed of the Provisional Battalion, California Coast Artillery."

Besides this work, there is a strong demand for a night navigation school to be conducted by the government for seamen in the merchant service. This will probably be the next step in the development of the school now conducted at the Fifth-street school at San Pedro.

CAMPAIGN FOR TWO MILLION BIBLES.

HIP-POCKET EDITIONS FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

American Bible Society Perfects Plan for Placing in Hands of Boys at Front Khaki-and-Blue-Colored Testaments—Estimated Cost Four Hundred Thousand Dollars.

With the earnest indorsement of President Wilson, who says "They (the soldiers and sailors) will need the support of the only book from which they can get it," the American Bible Society is pursuing the tremendous task of distributing 2,000,000 Bibles and Testaments to the young men who will form part of the great American army and navy.

Rev. A. Wesley Mell, agency secretary, who is now at the Billy Sunday Tabernacle in behalf of the American Bible Society, recently came from a conference in Seattle with James Wood, president of the society. At that conference President Wood outlined the plan of campaign for the distribution of these Bibles and testaments, khaki-colored for the soldiers, and blue-colored for the navy. They are compact little books, fitted for the hip or breast pocket, with blank pages for the name, address and service of each soldier or navy man.

Mr. Mell states that 1,000,000 testaments have already been granted by the society for distribution to the soldiers and sailors through the medium of the secretaries of the Y.M.C.A. He said:

"The society estimates that another 1,000,000 copies will be needed to supply the chaplains and the various independent agencies. These testaments are all to be given gratis. The estimated expense is $400,000. These expenses will be met by contributions from the churches and individuals who believe in the Bible.

"The Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America, and the State Federation of Churches in California, have given their indorsement of the work. President Wilson has just issued a letter furnishing his indorsement of the cause."

Those who wish to contribute to this work may send their mite to the booth at the Billy Sunday Tabernacle or to the Coast headquarters in San Francisco. Earl A. Rowell, special representative of this city, is also looking after the work here.

We don't claim to be the only establishment in town selling good furniture, carpets and rugs. But we do claim to be the only concern in the entire west selling good furniture direct from the factory to the public at wholesale savings.

We Specialize in Furnishing Hotels and Apartment Houses

We have furnished dozens of high-grade apartment houses and hotels right here in Los Angeles and can refer you to any one of them as proof that we do save and satisfy.

Let us figure on your needs—no matter how extensive—and prove the advantages of furnishing THE FACTORY WAY.

Or if you just need a few pieces to replenish or fill in, buy them here.

We're just a few minutes' ride from the center of town—two blocks north of the Broadway Tunnel.

Gold Medal Given P. & H. Furniture

There's no use taking up space talking about the kind of furniture we make. That it's the very best the world produces today was conclusively shown when critics bestowed the Gold Medal upon P. & H. furniture at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. That's proof enough!

It's not a bit surprising either that we captured this enviable honor for we've been building furniture for 20 years and operate ten big plants from Coast to Coast.

What we DO want to impress upon your mind is the fact that right here and now in Los Angeles, you can come to our big ten-story factory where all unnecessary profits are eliminated and choose just what you want--one piece or a house full--at factory prices.

Only One Profit to Pay the Peck & Hills' Way

The P. & H. way means just one reasonable manufacturing profit, added to the actual cost of producing the furniture.

The services of our expert staff of designers are of inestimable benefit to hundreds of home-furnishers who seek to co-ordinate beauty and utility in the home to best advantage.

They will gladly co-operate with you in the matter of interior treatment—and the service costs you nothing.

Outside of Los Angeles we shall continue to distribute P. & H. furniture only through the retailers as heretofore.

Head of Pottenger Sanatorium Marries Pasadena Woman—Couple on Honeymoon Journey.

Dr. Francis M. Pottenger of the Pottenger Sanatorium secured a marriage license yesterday from "Cupid" Sparks to wed Miss Caroline M. Lacy, 29 years of age.

The wedding ceremony occurred yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, No. 585 South Marengo avenue, Pasadena. The couple left immediately after the ceremony on a honeymoon trip.

Dr. Pottenger obtained a divorce in the Los Angeles courts about a year ago. He gave his age as 47.

SUIT IS SETTLED.

The suit of Carl Ray against W. H. Balsbaugh to dissolve a partnership and for an accounting was disposed of by Judge Hewitt yesterday. There was much bitterness in this litigation. The men were partners in a film-producing business. One film was the "Vengeance of the Will." Judge Hewitt dissolved the partnership, in a decision given yesterday, and ordered the film sold, the proceeds to be divided between Mr. Ray and Mr. Balsbaugh.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLU

BY EMILY SQUIER.

IF YOU ever get a book with the alliterative title, "The Confessions of a Congresswoman's Companion—" you can put its authorship down to Mrs. Agnes Boss Thomas of Hollywood, who has just returned from a month's trip in the East, and from an exciting fortnight in Butte, with Congresswoman Jeanette Rankin. If she doesn't write a book about it, it won't be from lack of material, for she got a big collection of facts. Mrs. Thomas is an enthusiastic admirer of the woman who has invaded the austere circle of Washington politics.

"She has a personality and magnetism that make you follow her whether you believe as she does or not," said Mrs. Thomas. "I have talked with rabid Democrats who admitted that when she got through talking to them, they were almost converted. In appearance she is handsome rather than beautiful, with well-proportioned features, and eyes so beautiful that one never asks what color they are. One only wonders whether or not she is going to cry; for her eyes have that melting quality that make tears seem very near the surface, even when she isn't feeling sad. She dresses with fine taste and makes most of her own clothes, even if she does get $7000 a year. The night she addressed the miners' mass meeting she wore the same suit of silvery cloth and the same blouse, embroidered by her, that she had worn when making her first speech in Congress."

Mrs. Thomas told of the great crowd that met Miss Rankin when she came back to Butte, and how the police force escorted her to her hotel.

"She is a woman of great reserve power," said Mrs. Thomas. "Day after day she would sit in her room, receiving different committees, greeting each deputation with just as much energy and cordiality as the one preceeding, and when I would be worn out, just watching her, I can't imagine how she could stand it and keep her mind clear and unprejudiced—but she always did."

According to Mrs. Thomas, Butte is a fine place in which to live if a person becomes ennuied. There are all sorts of thrills; threats of lynchings with mysterious warnings sent a la vigilante, mine explosions, hills with fires inside, strikes, riots and personally-conducted gun tours.

"The strikers were angry at a certain person who owned a hall, so they decided to blow up the hill. They appointed the night it would be done, and many people knew it, and turned out to see it. We were with the crowd, and watched the men place the dynamite, and when a fuse was lighted, we'd all hiked to the other end of the alley. When the explosion came off, we all came back to see how much of the hall was left.

"People never seem to go to bed there. You could look out of the window any time of night from 11 o'clock until 2 or 3 in the morning and see lines of people, walking up and down, going nowhere in particular, just being around. When we were leaving we took a taxi—no street cars were running during our whole stay in town—and we came to a rough place in the street where they were paving. We were bounced and jolted until we were black and blue, and the driver finally turned around and said: 'This is too much; I'll fix it.' So he drove up on the wide sidewalk, and for six blocks we rode in ease on the sidewalk, while the pedestrians made way for us without a second glance. 'Why, what will they do to you for this?' I gasped at the driver. 'Oh, they'll pinch me—if they get me—but they won't get me,' he answered carelessly, and they didn't get him. They didn't even notice him."

Mrs. Thomas is a well-known club worker, and will probably relate her interesting experiences in the strike center and with Miss Rankin before some of the clubs of this city.

HOW I CURED MY CATARRH

TOLD IN A SIMPLE WAY

Without Apparatus, Inhalers, Salves, Lotions, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.

Heals Day and Night

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different. No lotions, sprays or sickly smelling salves or creams. No atomizer, or any apparatus of any kind. Nothing to smoke or inhale. No steaming or rubbing or injections. No electricity or vibration or massage. No powder; no plasters; no keeping in the house. Nothing of that kind at all. Something new and different, something delightful and healthful, something instantly successful. You do not have to wait, and linger and pay out a lot of money. You can stop it over night—and I will gladly tell you how—FREE. I am not a doctor and this is not a so-called doctor's prescription—but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic.

I Am Free—You Can Be Free

My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my mind. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all, and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly. My delight in life was dulled and my faculties impaired. I knew that in time it would bring me to an untimely grave, because every moment of the day and night it was slowly yet surely sapping my vitality.

But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it FREE. Write me promptly.

Awaiting Motherhood

Women, almost without exception, are prone to nervous apprehension when on the road to motherhood. A woman knows that however many people there are close or dear to her, she must face the crisis alone.

There is nothing today prepared for women at such a time that receives such heartfelt expressions of gratitude as does the absolutely safe, tried and reliable preparation, "Mother's Friend."

By the use of this penetrating massage, the expanding muscles of the abdomen relax naturally when baby arrives. The nerves, ligaments and tendons beneath the skin are soothed; the tendency to morning nausea is avoided, and the expectant mother enjoys days of cheerfulness. The nights are not disturbed with nervous twitchings and the crisis is one of great happiness and less pain.

Get a bottle from the druggist and write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. N, 200 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for their interesting little book, "Motherhood and the Baby." It will be sent without charge to any woman. "Mother's Friend" is a wonderful help to nature and no woman should fail, by any chance, to apply it herself night and morning.

EPILEPTIC ATTACKS HAVE BEEN STOPPED FOR OVER 50 YEARS by DR. KLINE'S EPILEPTIC REMEDY. It is a rational and remarkably successful treatment for Fits, Epilepsy (Falling Sickness) and kindred nervous derangements.

Terrifying Skin Diseases Are Promptly Reached Through Blood

Surface Irritations Come From Deep-Seated Causes.

If you are a victim of itching, burning eczema, with its fiery tortures that often seem unbearable, you are of course anxious to know how to rid yourself of this terrifying disease.

If you could learn of a sensible, rational method of treatment that would give results, you would gladly give it a trial, and thank the day that brought it to your notice.

Such a remedy is within your reach, and you have but to follow the results of scientific research to find the relief you are looking for.

The mistake you have made is the same that thousands of others have made in thinking that the disease is on the surface of the skin, and hence could be permanently cured by local remedies.

Eczema and other inflammations and irritations of the skin that are commonly called skin diseases, do not come alone from a diseased condition of the skin, but the real cause is an impurity in the blood. No progress toward a permanent cure can be expected from local remedies alone. But also cleanse the blood thoroughly, and you will find relief.

S. S. S. is the great unrivalled blood remedy, which has been used with the greatest success for more than fifty years. It is sold by druggists everywhere. But be sure and get the genuine S. S. S. Our medical director will gladly give medical advice without charge. Address Swift Specific Co., 17-F, Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless,) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Glycerine and Bark Prevent Appendicitis

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, astonishes Los Angeles people because Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. SUES FOR ACCIDENT.

An action was begun in the United States District Court yesterday by Pauline Sowadzki of Salt Lake against W. P. Whittington of Long Beach, praying for damages in $15,000, due, it is alleged, on account of injuries suffered by the complainant last November 20, when Whittington, in his automobile in Salt Lake, collided with a jitney bus occupied by the plaintiff in the action.

Injunction.

COURT ASKED TO HALT ANNEXATION.

FRAUD CHARGED IN EFFORT TO STOP CONSOLIDATION.

Taxpayer Seeks to Enjoin Sawtelle and Los Angeles from Merging as Result of Election. Votes Improperly Counted, is Allegation.

Charles Coe, a taxpayer, through an injunction suit filed in the Superior Court yesterday, seeks to enjoin the city of Sawtelle and the city of Los Angeles from consolidating as a result of an election held at Sawtelle May 4, last. Mr. Coe prays that the election be declared null and void because of alleged serious frauds, mistakes and irregularities in the election, and asks that the votes be recounted and the books be rechecked.

The action is returnable in Superior Judge Jackson's court, Department 16, on the 25th inst. This order was issued yesterday. The Mayor and City Council of both the municipalities will appear before Judge Jackson at this time and show cause why the consolidation should not be declared null and void.

The action, filed through Attorneys Paul Schenk and Richard Kittrelle, sets forth in full the charges of fraud and alleged irregularities. A principal allegation is that Alonzo O. Major, an inspector at the election, escorted four different persons to the ballot booths and marked their ballots for them in the affirmative. It is also alleged in the complaint that fewer votes were really cast than were counted and that some votes were counted which bore no tally stub giving the names of the persons voting them.

Mr. Coe, in the complaint, asks also that the ordinance drafted by the city of Los Angeles a short time after the election, consolidating the two cities, be declared null and void.

The action filed yesterday is the result of a mass meeting held at Sawtelle February 5, in which 25 per cent. of the voters there voted to call an election on the annexation question. This was followed by the election and the alleged irregularities.

What The Broadway Basement Means to You!

'Twas rightly named, when we called this big Broadway Basement "The Store Within a Store",—for it comprises seventeen departments with 110 employees; presided over by its own buyers, separate and distinct from the upstairs staff, who just as efficiently seek dependable merchandise in the markets from coast to coast—a big, roomy store, covering 59,014 square feet—just think—over one and a third acres of floor space devoted to the selling of high-grade merchandise at popular prices.

THIS is what The Broadway Basement means to you—an opportunity to purchase goods of recognized merit at attractive prices—not merchandise that has proved to be slow-selling in the upstairs departments, but its own separate stocks, bought for The Basement clientele—that army of patrons who have become staunch in their loyalty to the great "Store Within a Store."

Although situated nearly 20 feet below street level The Broadway Basement has illumination which is well nigh perfect,—a ceiling 17 feet, 6 inches high, and a ventilating system which draws into it 98,000 cubic feet of washed air every minute of the day—These last two factors result in a clear, pure atmosphere,—no matter how warm it may be elsewhere, The Broadway Basement is cool,—you'll always find it a pleasure to shop in this big, airy store.

Four outside and five inside stairways lead from the main floor to The Broadway Basement, and continuous service is maintained by our eight north and five south elevators.

Only merchandise of merit is sold in The Broadway Basement. Women's apparel, men's clothing, rugs, draperies, yardage goods and small wares are to be had here. A liberally sized space harbors a popular-priced luncheonette—here one may partake of a well-cooked, wholesome meal at a moderate price.

A well-appointed soda fountain where light lunches are served is situated near the foot of the main stairway.

These are but a few of the interesting features of The Broadway Basement—"The Store Within a Store."

Fifty Beautiful $14.75 Silk Frocks $6.75

A Special Purchase of Six Charmingly Fashioned Models

—It was a stroke of good fortune which put us in possession of these dresses, at a price which makes it possible for us to offer them at $6.75—similar frocks have been priced $14.75 in our regular stock, but our Basement Garment Manager secured them from a manufacturer noted for the excellent garments which he creates, at a figure which makes the selling price, $6.75, possible.

—Six different models, of high quality silk and made in alluringly distinctive ways. Stripe silks in bolero, high-waist, and straight line effects.

—Collars are of Georgette crepe edged with silk. Sleeves are also of Georgette with cuffs of silk. Fanciful shirred pockets add a touch of charm, and there are buttons of silk.

—Just fifty to go at this price, and at such a low figure we predict a quick disposal. The Broadway Basement.

Splendid Silk Dresses $9.75

—There's a wealth of style in these alluring silk frocks which we purchased at an advantageously low price, and there are different models—four of which we picture.

Intelligence.

AMBULANCIERS NEWS-HUNGRY.

American Field Service Men Have Own Paper.

Modest Little Bulletin with Doings of the Day.

Baseball Scores are Mingled with Grim Slaughter.

Relatives of some of the Los Angeles men who are serving "somewhere in France" with the American Field service Corps, the volnteer ambulance units, whose brilliant, dashing work and unexampled daring on the field in rescuing wounded and carrying them to the rear has excited the admiration of the whole world, have received copies of a modestly printed little pamphlet with the title "American Field Service Bulletin." It is printed in English and the office of publication is No. 21 Rue Raynouard, Paris, headquarters for the service.

The bulletin is filled with news, memoranda of the brave boys; apparently they are merely boys, heroes 19 years old and thereabouts. Paul B. Kurtz of Philadelphia, after seventeen months' service, recipient of the Croix de Guerre, resigns to join the Aviation Corps (also American.) K. L. Austin of Lausanne resigns after two years' and six months' service. Mr. Oakes, volunteer photographer of the service, upon being called away suddenly to join the Aviation Corps, turned his films over to Emile Barriere, No. 1 Rue de Provence, Paris, and sent whole sections into fits for fear that sweethearts and parents would be deprived of their likenesses. However, Mons. Barriere will handle the work.

Advice is given to "readers of the bulletin" in reference to mail:

"Several complaints have come in lately from the front as regards the sending out of mail to the different sections from the postoffice department at the Rue Raynouard. We would like to state that several thousand letters are handled here daily, but no letter remains more than twenty-four hours without being forwarded on to its owner. . . . It is no strange thing for a letter to take six or seven days before reaching here from the front, especially if it comes from a busy sector, as when there is a lot of work to be done of a more serious nature mail is one of the first things to suffer."

Arrival of a complete unit, ambulance and twenty-one men, from America, the gift of the City Club of New York, is announced in the Bulletin. The men will take the usual course of training in camp and then go out as a complete section. The following modest announcement indicates the most casual acceptance of the things that inspire poets and balladists: "B. K. Neftel, Cdt. adjutant, and Ora McMurray, a driver in S.S.U. 17, received the Croix de Guerre for exceptional bravery on June 30." All boys, every one of them, doing the work of war-seasoned veterans.

A list of 128 new arrivals from America "and signed up with the field service" contains names familiar to readers of the Declaration of Independence and names engraved upon the hearts of all Americans. They are the younger sons, the cousins, the great-great-grandsons and nephews of men well known in American history.

A news item states that Col. Church, representative of Gen. Pershing in the medical department, visited a number of the ambulance sections at the front, while Maj. Sanford of the quartermaster's department was shown the transport section. "Both officers expressed their surprise and admiration for importance and the efficiency of the American field service."

On Sunday the 22nd (July) the Canadians met the American field service boys on the diamond of St. Cloud. The score was 9 to 8 in favor of the Canadians. A mechanic was so liked by his associates that the whole section joined in presenting him with a gold watch. He is G. Lebon.

John Worthington Ames, Edward John Diemer and Raymond James Whitney of section 2 has just received the Croix de Guerre for exceptional bravery. Charles Freeborn, one of the oldest members of the service, has resigned to work in the American relief clearinghouse. He gave his services and his automobile in 1914. Mr. Freeborn is the man who brought the moving pictures showing the American field ambulance service in France to California and raised a considerable sum of money for the work.

The postoffice informs the editor that the records show the names of twenty Browns, fifteen Johnsons, and as many Smiths, therefore do not confine your addressing to "Speeder" Johnson or "Buddy" Brown. Use their full names, not merely their college nicknames. There is one Millen, eight Millers and two Millets.

There are more than 2000 young Americans, nearly all college boys just graduated or not yet graduated, in the American field service.

Several instances are given in the Bulletin of driver and "conducteur" both being struck by a German shell while in the act of placing wounded in their ambulances. Some were killed, some merely wounded. Many notations of the giving of the Croix de Guerre to the American boys are made.

SEARCH FOR PARROTS THAT KILL SHEEP.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Two sheep-killing kea parrots, a pest in New Zealand, are believed to be at large somewhere on the Pacific Coast, and State and government authorities are hunting for them.

The birds escaped from a ship as it neared San Francisco, and are believed to have naturally come to the mainland. A shipment of seven keat parrots was being transported to the national zo-ological park in Washington, D. C., having been sent by the New Zealand government.

When Supt. Hollister of the zoological park was notified that two of the birds had escaped, he appealed to Carl Westerfield of the California Fish and Game Commission to request the police of San Francisco and other authorities to search for them.

In New Zealand the kea parrot is considered an outlaw, and there is a bounty on his scalp because of his sheep-killing proclivities.

STUDIO.

Gratifying.

PREFER CALIFORNIA.

LASKY-FAMOUS PLAYERS WILL STAY HERE.

By Grace Kingsley.

The majority of Lasky-Famous Players productions during the coming winter will be made in California, according to the statement of Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, who arrived from New York last Thursday.

Several eastern stars are scheduled to arrive within the next few months and the studio stages will be enlarged by a new $50,000 enclosed glass stage, 85x250 feet, in order to accommodate the additional companies. The company has purchased the Paragon studio and printing plant at Fort Lee, N. J., and in the future they will be known as the Famous Players-Lasky eastern studios, to distinguish them from the Famous Players studios in New York. This new studio will be the home of many of the Artcraft stars who work in the East.

The Famous Players-Lasky plans for the coming season, as outlined by Mr. Lasky, are of wide scope. Many novels have been purchased, and will be made into film form.

"Owing to the fact that California is mostly sunshine, we are sending Wallace Reid to the eastern studio to do 'The Source,' the story which recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, the scenes of which are laid in the Maine woods. We have engaged Anna Little, who recently appeared in J. Stuart Blackton's production of Sir Gilbert Parker's story, 'The World for Sale.' Miss Little will be Mr. Reid's leading woman in a number of productions, and is expected to arrive from the East shortly to appear with him in a picturization of Frank Spearman's story, 'Nan of Music Mountain.'

"George Beban begins work on a new production shortly, under the direction of Donald Crisp, and following this will be directed by William C. de Mille in 'The Land of the Free,' one of Mr. De Mille's most successful and popular plays on the spoken stage.

"We have secured a very popular novel, 'How Could You, Jean?' for one of Vivian Martin's forthcoming productions, and have also secured a number of famous plays and books which will be picturized in the special Artcraft productions to be produced by Cecil B. DeMille; and in keeping with the Famous Players-Lasky policy of from time to time immortalizing in the film some famous classic, we have secured the picture rights to Maeterlinck's play, 'The Bluebird.'

"We have engaged Edward Dillon, who is popular as a director, to direct Ann Pennington at our eastern studio. Emil Chautard and Edward Jose have also been engaged as directors for the eastern studios.

"I came out here to consult with Mr. De Mille, Mr. Ince and Mr. Sennet in regard to forthcoming Artcraft and Paramount productions, and I find them delighted with the wonderful spirit of co-operation which is being most successfully worked out between the western studios. I expect to be here until the first of November, when I will return to New York to see the finish of the first Lina Cavalieri production for the Paramount. I prophesy that this famous beauty and prima donna will be as great a sensation on the screen as Elsie Ferguson has been.

"In producing pictures we have found the 'confidence plan' to be most successful. This is the result of several years of experiment, and, we believe, is responsible for the success of our productions. In brief, the 'confidence plan' is that no one has anything to do in connection with a picture in which he has no confidence, and we have formed every star's organization into a unit, consisting of director, star, scenario writers, camera men and assistants, and no star, director or writer is required to work out a story unless he fully believes in its merits and is ready to guarantee and assume the responsibility for its ultimate success when completed. This gives the star a voice in the part he is to play, the judgment of the director is consulted as to the play he is to produce, and the scenario writer must have faith that he can prepare a splendid story."

Due in large part to the huge success which Marshal Neilan achieved with "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and "The Bottle Imp," he has signed a long-term contract with the Famous Players-Lasky company.

A great patriotic photodrama, the plot of which is not yet divulged, is to be produced for the Artcraft programme by Cecil B. de Mille, director-general of the Lasky-Famous Players Company, and famous as the director of "Carmen," "Joan, the Woman," "The Little American" and others. The picture will constitute one of the four big features to be made under Mr. De Mille's direction during the present year, in pursuance of his understanding with Artcraft.

The new feature is not to be a war play, according to Mr. De Mille, nor yet a story of international intrigue; yet it will be imbued with a tremendous spirit of patriotism and will be entirely unique in theme. It will be specially cast by Mr. De Mille himself.

According to Mr. De Mille, the "feature" pictures, consisting of eight and nine reels, are doomed, the ideal being a five-reeler.

"I am making even my feature pictures nowadays in five reels," said Mr. De Mille. "No matter how good the picture, people grow weary if required to remain a longer time than that called for by the five-reeler.

"As to the nature and subject of pictures, the suggestive film and that dealing morbidly with sex matters, are dead already. Clean, cheerful, human themes will be the favorites. In any case, screen productions will divide themselves into two classes—they are beginning to do so already, in fact—viz., the flashy melodrama and the bright, clever, clean drama, appealing to intelligent people. I believe even the drama of satire will be achieved on the screen in time."

Mr. De Mille has just finished the

RAM-TAH DISGUISED AS A TABLE
BERT HADLEY- BEAN'S SHADOW
JOSEPH EGGENTON AS THE "PROFESSOR"

From "bald-headed row."

Artist Barndollar and a mere writer watch the Morosco players portray the amazingly funny characters of the comedy by Harry Leon Wilson to be presented at that playhouse this week.

MEETING "BUNKER BEAN" AND A PERFECT FLAPPER.

BY PAUL HUBERT CONLON.

"OH, SPLASH," cried the "Flapper" as we noisily fell into the "baldheaded row" seats in the darkened auditorium of the Morosco Theater, whither we had come to witness a rehearsal of "His Majesty Bunker Bean." But when she continued being "perfectly just" satisfied with everything we knew she didn't mean us, so we proceeded to enjoy the delicious treat of being in on something good.

Just above us on the stage stood a nondescript table where a rather large, dark-complexioned man alternately sat quietly on his chair, or leaned forward intently to catch the inflection of the players' voices. It was Fred Butler, stage director of many Morosco successes. Beside him, holding the script for prompting purposes, sat his sturdy son, David Butler. Incidentally, David is the "Greatest pitcher the world has ever see"—in the play.

Scene. Bunker Bean in the person of Richard Dix was vainly endeavoring to take dictation from a short, ignobly-attired business man whose one idea seemed to be centered in saying all that he wanted to with as few words as possible. Uncouth Breede was in personal appearance, which aided one to see that James Corrigan was developing the character of a most remarkable type of American money king, who was self-made and proud of it.

"C'mon take telegram," said Breede. Bean registered a disgusted look while Breede grumbled on. Knock on the door.

"C'min," yelled Breede. Enter the Flapper—Minna Gombel.

"Seddown. View of efforts bein' made b' cert'n parties t' s'cure 'trol of comp'ny by promise of creatin' stock script on div'dend basis, it is proper f'r d'rectors t' state policy has been—"

Here it could be noticed that Bean was paying much more attention to the dream of a daughter than he was to the raving Breede.

"—— to c'nserve investment rep'sented by this stock upon sound basis rather than th' spec'lative policy of larger an' fluc'chating div'dends your ver' truly what time's 'at game called?"

Flapper interrupted with "Hello, Pop!"

"'Lo, sis! What time's 'at game called?"

"Three," said Bean, who was still busy watching the cute Flapper.

Breede jumped up. "Jus' got time t' make it." All three arose.

"Take y' up in car," said Breede, impatiently.

Business of amazement by Bean. "Bean."

"Letters," he said.

"Have 'em ready Monday noon. C'mon. Two-thirty now."

Meanwhile the Flapper, who was much interested in Bean, insisted upon some attention.

"Daughter!" said Breede, performing his duty.

"Pleased to meet you!" said Bean in a dazed manner, while the Flapper nodded energetically, but "just perfectly."

This was our introduction to the lines and business of "His Majesty Bunker Bean." Back further on the stage were actors standing in groups conversing in low tones, especially after several admonishments by Director Butler. And with with all the seeming seriousness of the rehearsal the women of the cast sat peacefully—knitting. It also seemed that nothing short of a bombardment would disturb them, yet when Fred Butler called for the next scene—all were attention.

It would be unpardonable to reveal the amazing humor—the rich slang in Harry Leon Wilson's lines. This comedy of American life sparkles with gems of expression peculiar to our people. The characters are unusual in that they have never before been interpreted in story or play, but they are wonderfully human. When you see "His Majesty Bunker Bean," you will see many old friends in one guise or another. After five weeks' rehearsals the Morosco company will be practically "perfect studies" on opening night. So if one has enjoyed the laughable lines and situations in the book the play will equally amuse for, owing to the unchangeable quality of the story the stage production follows very closely the theme of the original story.

Minna Gombel, the "golden girl," will score big in her genuinely funny portrayal of the giggling, lovable Flapper. She is "just perfectly"—you will find out what that means.

Bunker Bean is in the capable hands of Richard Dix, and at last I believe this young, deserving actor has found a role that is admirably suited for his talents. At least, what could be funnier than a young man being kidded out of part of his inheritance—$5000—by swindling fortune tellers who made him believe he was "Napolen Bonopart" (as they pronounced it) in his last incarnation. This startling information is ludicrously foretold by a woman clairvoyant, "Countess Caranova," played by Audell Higgins.

Then he is gently but firmly steered into the clutches of "Prof. Balthasar"—Joseph Eggenton—who imparts the astounding news that he (Bean) made his first appearance on this planet as "King Ram-tah"—and the credulous Bunker Bean purchases the mummy of the old fellow from the delighted adventurers.

Building his confidence on this great combination of incarnations, the young Bean actually defies the world, reaps the fruits of success in stocks and wins the love of the Flapper, as a matter of course. I won't give away any more of the play, although it's a strong temptation after witnessing such an appeal-

POPULAR STARS TO APPEAR A SECOND WEEK.

Pictures, pictures, pictures! The world never gets enough of them. They are the reflectors of human life, of its goodness and its badness, its frailties and its strength, its sorrows and its joys, but, best of all, they are the mediums through which men may voice their loftiest expressions, the means provided for the suggestion and the reception of hopes and happiness and high ideals. Ever since Mother Eve looked with pleased surprise into the limpid lake of paradise and saw the reflection of her own pristine beauty the world has loved and tried to create beautiful pictures. Through the centuries that have passed since Eden was blackened by the breath of sin man has striven, in a thousand ways, to regain the consciousness of that intangible beauty which he feels lies somewhere hidden within the heart of being. Perhaps his greatest effort in this line has been in the production of pictures. Yet all the work of all the olden masters is not equal to the power of the motion-picture camera of the twentieth century, that magic machine that makes the image of man move and smile and display all the emotions that well up from the human soul. All honor to the genius who invented the moving-picture camera and all praise to the producers, directors, actors and exhibitors who make the glories of moving pictures possible.

Clune's Auditorium.

Motion pictures get all the stars of the legitimate stage sooner or later. Even Julian Eltinge could not escape. Those who saw the clever feminine impersonator when he was at the Mason a few months ago will doubtless be anxious to see how he looks in a photoplay and they will be given that opportunity this week, for, beginning tomorrow, Eltinge will appear for a week at Clune's Auditorium in "Countess Charming," a comedy from the pens of Gelet Burgess and Caroline Wells. It is said that Mr. Eltinge has increased his wardrobe until it is the despair of every dress-crazed woman in the country.

Clune's Broadway.

Starting today Clune's Broadway Theater has for the present week's attraction the initial appearance, under the new Paramount banner of the romantic actor, Wallace Reid, who will be seen in "The Hostage," a love story from the pen of Beulah Marie Dix. Miss Dix has chosen an unusual theme for this drama, namely the mental attitude of rival countries toward each other, taken largely from the present international situation. Yet through all the chaos of hatred and revenge there is interwoven the real love story of "The Hostage." The star is supported by Dorothea Abril, who will be remembered for her excellent support of Mary Pickford in "The Little American." Clune's Broadway will also offer the Pathe news, showing interesting scenes of the present American military movements.

Miller's.

The secrets of an empire, involving the peace and happiness of every home in the United States, are vividly brought to light through the heroic self-sacrifice of a loyal American in the thrilling photoplay, "The Spy," which today starts on its second week's showing at Miller's Theater. The story was written by George Bronson Howard and Dustin Farnum plays the part of a young American who goes to Germany on a perilous diplomatic mission. His task is to get control of a list of Teutonic spies in the United States and before he finishes he achieves his purpose. The star is surrounded by a splendid cast of players including William Burress, Winifred Kingston and Charles Clary. The production was directed by Richard Stanton.

Quinn's Rialto.

Not since "The Clansman," it would seem, has the clever star, Mae Marsh, made such a decided hit as she is making in "Polly of the Circus," which is being held over for another week at Quinn's Rialto Theater. Managers of moving-picture houses sometimes voice their disappointment at the fact that their theaters are not "drawing" as they should. The reason is simple enough. People do not go to a theater to look at the house, they go to see a good picture. If a picture lover drops into a theater for a few minutes' relaxation and happens to see a good picture he will be likely to return there several times in the hope of seeing another attractive feature. If he sees a poor picture the first or second time he will avoid the place in future as he would a pesthouse. If any theater could get such pictures as "Polly of the Circus" all the time the management would never have to complain about the empty seats.

Tally's Broadway.

"The Cold Deck," William S. Hart's latest photoplay, in which the famous interpreter of western characters scored such a tremendous hit at Tally's Broadway Theater last week, has been held over for another week at that popular Broadway house. In this new production Hart gives a remarkable portrayal of that interesting product of pioneer days, the gambler. The type has almost faded away, but the man himself, as he looked, breathed, moved and dressed, is said to be brought to life once more by the clever characterization of Mr. Hart.

Superba.

"Sirens of the Sea," said to be a $250,000 marine spectacle, sponsored by the Jewel Productions people, comes to the Superba today for a limited engagement, featuring Carmel Myers, Jack Mulhall and Louise Lovely. The story is based on the famous Norse legend of the Lorelei, while interwoven with the twentieth century plot are scenes abounding in CONCERT PROMISES.

GREAT PHILHARMONIC COURSES ATTRACT ARTISTS.

By Paul Hubert Conlon.

Twenty-one star events divided into three series with special attractions of equal merit in reserve hold forth rare promise to the patrons of the great Philharmonic courses for the season of 1917-1918 at Trinity Auditorium. Of chief interest to the Los Angeles music lovers will be the coming of Amelita Galli-Curci, the most sensationally successful coloratura soprano of the day, who will be heard in two recitals, May 14 and 18, 1918. Although these dates entail a long wait, there will be presented for our appreciation in the interim artists of world-wide reputation.

According to the programme now announced by Manager L. E. Behymer, the first series of concerts will offer Margarete Matzenauer, a well-known contralto of the Metropolitan Operahouse, Tuesday evening, October 9; Eugene Ysaye, the violinist, who needs no introduction to Los Angeles audiences, Tuesday evening, December 11; Emilio de Gogorza, richly endowed and dramatic baritone, Tuesday evening, January 15; Leopold Godowsky, pianist, whose extraordinary success here last year demanded his return, January 22; the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, under the able direction of Emil Oberhoffer, Thursday evening, February 5; Frieda Hempel, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan, Tuesday evening, March 12, and Theo Karle, an American dramatic tenor, who will make his Los Angeles debut, Tuesday evening, March 19.

An admirable selective quality is maintained throughout the entire season, as will be testified in the second series.

Leading in this group is the irresistibly popular Alma Gluck, prima donna soprano, whose return is dated for Thursday evening, November 15; Harold Bauer, one of our foremost pianists, whose unusual programmes have attracted universal attention, Thursday evening, December 13; Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, that prime favorite of Southern California—the prima donna contralto returns Thursday evening, January 10; Reinald Werrenrath, an American baritone of great natural ability, comes January 31; Efrem Zimbalist, leading Russian violinist, whose skill needs no advance notices, will be heard in recital February 14; Cecil Fanning, a local favorite, who was one of the first of this younger generation of American singers to secure for himself a definite place in the public mind, makes his first appearance in the Philharmonic courses Thursday evening, April 11, assisted by H. P. Turpin, accompanist, and Mischa Elman, one of the six most distinguished violinists in the world today, Thursday evening, April 18.

Now we come to the matinee series of recitals. Here also the quality of the concerts is of equal recognition.

Mme. Jeanne Jomelli, a dramatic soprano who is no stranger to Southern California, will open the series Saturday afternoon, October 27; Leo Ornstein, one of the most successful pianist-composers, November 10; Eugene Ysaye, the great Belgian violinist, makes his second appearance Saturday afternoon, December 15; Maud Powell, premier woman violinst, Saturday afternoon, January 5; Emilio de Gogorza, whose second concert date is Saturday afternoon, January 19; Theo Karle, the lyric tenor, who also makes a second appearance Saturday afternoon, March 23, and Julia Culp, the Holland mezzo-soprano, who, with her accompanist, Coenraad V. Bos, makes her closing appearance in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon, April 27—after which she intends to enjoy a two-months' rest in Southern California.

The substitutes held in reserve to provide against the failure of any artist to arrive include the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Yvette Guilbert, the diseuse who made such a brilliant success here last season; the Cherniavsky Trio, violin-'cello-piano, and the Zoellner Quartette, chamber music.

For a series of seven recitals the price of season tickets will be $5, $6, $8, and $10, according to location. The Trinity Auditorium box office, Grand avenue and Ninth street, where all tickets will be on sale, will be open daily from 9 to 5 o'clock. For the vocal students a special series is announced, including Margarete Matzenauer, Jeanne Jomelli, Emilio de Gogorza, Reinald Werrenrath, Frieda Hempel, Theo Karle, Julia Culp or Cecil Fanning.

A special series for the instrumental students includes Leo Ornstein, Harold Bauer, Eugene Ysaye, Leopold Godowsky, Maud Powell, Efrem Zimbalist and Mischa Elman. It is also announced that Philharmonic patrons may augment either of three courses, or the vocal or instrumental course, to include one of the two concerts given by Mme. Galli-Curci, making a course of eight concerts at $12, $9.50, $7 and $6, thus securing this great artist at a nominal price.

Rabinoff is Optimistic.

"Less 'jazz' music and more grand opera will mark the 1917-1918 musical season, and the war, instead of devitalizing, will prove an effective tonic." This is the prediction of Max Rabinoff, managing director of the Boston Grand Opera Company, who of late has stood as a herald of good tidings for affairs musical. While he believes in encouragement for courage's sake, and sees unmistakable signs of a busy season ahead, he bases his deductions still more securely upon natural causes. In short, he finds that war is a stimulus not only for business and economy, but also for the body musical.

"Good music is more necessary today than ever before," said the impresario, found at his offices in the Metropolitan Opera Building.

"The season in America will prove what I say. Can you imagine any greater contrast than war and music? Can the indispensableness of music receive a surer test than today? Its counteracting force has come to be recognized as it never was when the poet wrote of its soothing the savage breast. Just as the boys in uniform find the song of the camp fire their keenest, almost sacred, diversion from the horrors of battle, the distressed thoughts of a nation seek comfort in the eloquent music of the stage.

"As a people are awakened to the sterner realities of life, art reassumes its truer aspects and deeper meanings. That which is shallow and superficial is separated like the chaff from the wheat, and serious effort is rewarded by greater recognition. It is a phase of the law of economy. With the spirit of sacrifice and heroism extant, that which is wholesome takes deserved precedence over the idle and fictitious and its appeal becomes wider and more powerful. Not merely by virtue of prohibition will there be less of cabaret in the cities, not solely because the cognoscenti view the approaching season with optimism are we inclined to dispense confidence. History has taught us that in time of war the stage is busy and that when realities are sternest there exists the strongest public craving for illusion of a diverting kind.

"Grand opera has the advantage over other musical enterprise at this juncture because of its romantic flavor, its combination of fine vocal and orchestral music and its absorbing symbolism. Already it has shaken loose those shackles by which it has been held in America as the darling of the elite, and the masses are beginning to divine their common proprietorship. The Boston Grand Opera Company during the last two years has brought the finest within reach of the poor of a hundred cities and each week the coming indications of a record season become more undeniable.

"There is evidence of courage in the desire of a people to sing and to encourage others to sing in time of war, be their search for this respite ever so natural, and who cannot say that a deeper philosophy and more undaunted spirit is their reward? Let them say abroad, as they shall have good reason to say: 'America can sing as well as fight.' With the most harsh and cruel occupation of men, self-annihilation, goes as a comforter music, most glorified of the arts and more indispensable than the sciences."

Lyceum Conservatory.

The Lyceum Conseravtory of Music, located on the corner of Fifteenth street and Grand avenue, organized under the auspices of the Auditorium Lyceum and Chautauqua Association of Chicago, who are the financial backers of the new conservatory, will have as its director Theodore Lindberg, the violin artist and teacher. Mr. Lindberg has been associated with eastern schools for the past twenty-five years, and was president of one of the most successful eastern music schools for eleven years, prior to his change to Southern California.

One of the features of the new Conservatory of Music will be to offer graduate pupils and advanced pupils of the conservatory an opportunity for engagements, in Lyceum and Chautauqua work, under the direct management of the Chicago Association.

The Lyceum Conservatory will offer a curriculum which will include a complete course in theory, sight singing, ear training, harmony, history of music and composition. The course in piano, voice, violin, organ will lead to teacher's certificate and diploma; the same is true of the course offered in expression and dramatic art. Advanced students coming from other schools or from private teachers will receive credits for study and may enter the classes in the conservatory preparatory for public concert work.

Associated with Mr. Lindberg will be Beulah Houston, a Chicago singer and teacher; Adolph Dahm-Peterson, a New York voice specialist; Nicolaus Devereaux, concert pianist, and a number of other experienced teachers. The entire building at No. 1419 South Grand avenue, will be used for conservatory purposes. Free and partial scholarships in all departments will be open to students during the month of September. The office and a number of the teachers will be in the building every day from 9 to 4:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to visit the conservatory.

Katharine Fiske Ill.

Katharine Fiske, well-known local violinist, was prevented from leaving on the day of her departure with the Gloria Mayne Windsor Recital Company for a northern tour of a month by a sudden and severe abscess in the head, which has necessitated an operation and its subsequent convalescence. She hopes, however, to join them later in the month.

GRACE WOOD JESS RETURNS.

In presenting the rare and charming old folk songs of France, England, Ireland and of our own Southland, Grace Wood Jess, mezzo-soprano, who is well known in Los Angeles, gives unusual interpretations. Mrs. Jess has but lately returned to the Coast after a successful tour in the East. Gifted with a voice, personality and dramatic ability peculiarly adapted for interpreting folk songs, Mrs. Jess's programmes will no doubt delight Los Angeles audiences. It is interesting to know that one of the gowns worn during her recitals is one which was once possessed by Mrs. Abraham Lincoln when she was mistress of the White House.

AT COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Miss Cornelie Otten will give a concert at the County Hospital Friday, September 21. The following artists will assist: The sisters Thelma and Gladys Harrison, pianist and whistler, and little Margaret Ada Campbell will give some of her own compositions as well as interpretations of Bach and Mozart; Miss Miriam White will sing two patriotic songs by Cornelie Otten, accompanied by the composer; Renna Petrson will give a reading and Carrie Smith, Edna Hoffman and Rita Teffen will give classic and character dances under the personal direction of Mlle. Quaironi.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The College of Music, University of Southern California, began its year's work last Monday, with a markedly increased registration. According to Dean Skeele, the institution is in for the banner season of its career. Many members of the College of Music faculty, who are all well-known Los Angeles musicians, have lately returned from eastern trips.

Miss Catherine Lennox, pianist, spent the summer in New York, Boston and other eastern cities; Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins, vocalist, will return in a month from a season of study in New York; Miss Marion Kappes, teacher of eurhythmics, spent the summer in Illinois; Miss Helen H. Shute, teacher of public school music, spent a delightful vacation in Honolulu; while Charles E. Pemberton, violinist and instructor in musical theory has just returned from several weeks spent in San Francisco.

Several concerts are to be given at the College of Music both by students and faculty in the near future.

A PATRIOTIC MARCH.

Through the courtesy of Director Lebegott of the Los Angeles Oratorio Society, C. M. Pyke will direct his popular patriotic march song, "'Neath Stars and Stripes," which the society will sing. The concert will take place at Exposition Park at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

second Geraldine Farrar picture. This deals with the subject of superstition through the ages, showing its effects especially on the ignorant and weak. It may be called "The Devil's Stone," but has the working title of "Superstition." The theme is said to have been worked out with singular effectiveness.

Siren-of-the-Sea Stuff.

Anita King, the new Balboa Mutual star, producing pictures at the Balboa studio under the direction of Edgar Jones, made a little curtain speech at the Palace Theater in Long Beach, where one of her pictures was being shown. Miss King told some funny stories and further endeared herself to the townspeople, among whom she has recently come to live, by inviting them all to meet her at 6 o'clock the next morning on the beach to go swimming with her. The next morning, much to her surprise, half the town was on hand to meet Anita, and she was there in a bright-green bathing suit and white shoes. She sprinted with the crowd and led them all in a swimming match.

Mack Sennett, Please Write.

Allesandro de Miranda, a young Mexican working extra at the Balboa studio, is a citizen of La Paz, the capital of Lower California and a refugee from political enemies. He came overland all the way to Long Beach, a distance of nearly 1200 miles, traveling along one of the three old caminos that connected the Spanish missions of 200 years ago. He reports the road still good in places, but for the most part indistinguishable.

At a place called Commondu, the site of one of the old missions celebrated for its architectural beauty, Senor Miranda discovered a bunch of what he terms the most beautiful senoritas in the world. Here in a town unknown to the world, remote from commerce, and a thousand miles from railroads and cities, he reports he found girls of exquisite beauty, culture and accomplishment, and a little community of Christian people of wealth and information. Every girl is described as a beauty, and his one ambition is to film the glories and senoritas of Commondu. Balboa is considering sending an expedition down there.

No Doubles Either.

One of the most thrilling "retakes" ever staged in pictures was that lately occurring in "The Boss of Powderville," in which Dorothy Phillips, Lon Chaney and William Stowell are featured.

A huge fire scene showed a village in flames. Down the street of this village, between the burning buildings, dashed an automobile containing Miss Phillips and Stowell. The auto was a covered one, and on top was a small boy, supposed to be badly injured and lying prone.

"As we rounded a street corner, I heard the boy groan" said Miss Phillips. "He was rolling about with the movement of the machine, and feared to fall off. And just as we got round the corner, off he tumbled! That meant a retake, with no time to be lost. Up the hill climbed the car again, with us in it, and once again, with burning walls toppling all about us, we shot down through the flaming street. This time the small boy managed to keep his place on top of the machine."

Too Clever for Anything.

The justly celebrated thespian of Artemus Ward's tale, who, lacking an orchestra, played Hamlet and a cornet simultaneously, "dying to slow music produced by himself," hasn't anything on Eileen Sedgwick.

This temperamental young woman, was appearing in a scene of "Her Better Self," the other day, in which she was supposed to weep. But she didn't feel like it. She asked for music. The music was all busy making Louise Lovely and Carmel Myers cry. So she had an inspiration.

"Oh, let me play my own music!" she cried. Whereupon she dashed into her dressing-room, seized her marxaphone, which is a sort of inbred variety of zither, and hurrying out, sat down and played "Sing Me to Sleep," while the camera man took a close-up of her face with tears coursing down her cheeks, the instrument in her lap, of course, not showing in the picture.

Miss Sedgwick declares, however, that the tear performance is no reflection on her playing.

Again Among Those Present.

Miss Neva Gerber returned to her home in Hollywood last Monday from the hospital where she had undergone an operation for appendicitis. Miss Gerber is rapidly recuperating, and will be able to resume work at the studio in a couple of weeks. She has the leading feminine role in the serial, "The Phantom Ship," which is being produced under the direction of Francis Ford.

No Faker is Priscilla.

When you see Priscilla Dean in "The Gray Ghost," with her arm done up in a sling, don't imagine it's a mere "prop" broken arm. It is the real thing. Miss Dean really broke her arm while filming a scene in the serial, and thereafter the story had to be sufficiently changed to correspond to her condition.

Julian Johnson Here.

Julian Johnson, formerly editor of Photoplay Mazagine, has arrived to take charge of the scenario department of the Triangle Film Corporation. He will be H. O. Davis's right hand man, and will indeed take over much of the work formerly done by Mr. Davis in finally passing on stories and scenarios, thus relieving the film chief of this laborious part of his duties.

Mr. Johnson has published a number of very clever stories in the Green Book and in the Smart Set, as well as other publications, which later will be published in book form.

When Mr. Johnson took charge of the Photoplay Magazine serious criticism of photoplays was almost unknown. He established a new and exceedingly high standard of critique for the new art, and his criticisms are considered the most authoritative published in this country.

Strenuous Life Note.

Harry Carey, leading man of Universal western pictures, fractured a rib a few days ago in a fall from a balcony, while enacting a scene for his latest production, "Bucking Broadway," which Director Jack Ford is staging at Universal City.

U Running in High.

Universal has twenty-two companies at work. Among the productions contemplated and now being staged are Mae Murray in "Face Value," written and directed by Robert Leonard, with supporting cast including Wheeler Oakman, Casson

The Annual Parmelee-Dohrmann Sale
Begins Monday

IN THE interests of good merchandising, to keep stocks clean and up-to-date, Parmelee-Dohrmann Co. hold this sale every Fall. It is easily the most important event of the year in the saving opportunities it brings to the housewives of the Southwest.

Its specific purpose is to quickly and completely close out lines which are to be discontinued or which we desire to dispose of for some other reason. To promptly accomplish this important object, price reductions are made very decisive.

The policy of the Parmelee-Dohrmann Co. demands that all representations be very conservative—a fact which is undoubtedly largely responsible for the liberal response which always follows the announcement of this annual sale.

While practically every department in the store contributes important offerings to the sale, the price reductions do not affect all merchandise.

An Unusual Opportunity to Secure a Floor Standard or Reading Lamp

With the season of long evenings and entertaining just ahead of us, the offering of Floor Standard and reading lamps at greatly reduced prices, is particularly timely. The unusualness of the opportunity is also emphasized by the marked popularity of floor lamps in present day "home furnishings." The few following examples merely typify what you may expect.

TWO NEW PLAYS.

"BUNKER BEAN" AND "THE KNIFE" TO OPEN.

"The Cinderella Man" is gone, and Los Angeles theatergoers will wish him well, wherever he goes, for seldom has such a happy character in such a delightful play visit this or any other city. However, though the rainbow-tinted production has been taken from the boards, the actors and actresses who made it such a pronounced success are still in Los Angeles and will appear in a new comedy this week. The new play is "His Majesty Bunker Bean," and local theatergoers will have an opportunity to see Miss Gombel in a new role, her second since coming to Los Angeles. After several weeks of darkness the Mason opens up this week with a rather heavy drama, "The Knife," by Eugene Walter. The Majestic is dark.

Mason.

Once more the Mason. At that house tomorrow night the Messrs. Shubert will present Eugene Walter's latest melodrama, entitled "The Knife." Mr. Walter has built his play around a novel theme. A murder by Dr. Manning is based upon the motives of revenge and the advancement of science. The culprits who commit a crime against the person of the fiancée of the doctor are subjected to an experiment in his laboratory, as the result of which one of them dies. The other lives, however, and is the means of a great discovery in the field of science. The murder is justified by his own conscience and by the District Attorney. The right or the wrong of the act is left for the audience to quibble over. Among the members of the big cast will be Norman Hackett, May Buckley, Cordelia Macdonald, Eva Benton, Clifford Dempsey, Robert Barrat, Frank Wood and Franklin George.

Morosco.

Beginning with today's matinee the Morosco players will offer "His Majesty Bunker Bean," which appeared in story form in a popular magazine several months ago and which the Morosco management believes will be one of the biggest successes ever offered at that theater. Following the appearance of the story in serial form its author, Harry Leon Wilson, was urged to write it in dramatic form, and when the comedy was presented in New York it became the season's biggest riot of merriment. Morosco secured the western rights for the play in Los Angeles and the Morosco cast, under the direction of Fred J. Butler, has been rehearsing it for the last four weeks. To Richard Dix has fallen the honor of playing the title role, while Minna Gombel, who entertained Morosco patrons so well in "The Cinderella Man," will play opposite him. The big cast chosen to present "Bunker Bean" includes James Corrigan, Douglas MacLean, Lillian Elliott, Nancy Fair, Bert Hadley, Robert Lawler, Wallace Howe, Joseph Eggenton, David Butler, Adele Belgarde, Maude George, Audell Higgins, Harry Duffield, Charles Buck and Charles Geggus.

Orpheum.

If you have anything on your mind that you don't want known keep away from the Orpheum this week, for the headliner will be Leona LaMar, "the girl with a thousand eyes." She sits upon the stage and answers questions in the minds of members of the audience without the necessity of the interrogators' vocal enunciation of said questions. She just blurts it right out before the whole crowd. "How do they do it?" Nobody knows, and yet it seems there are humans gifted with such powers. At least, that occult wisdom is accredited to Miss Lamar. Another notable act on the new bill will be the premiere in vaudeville of Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude in their presentation of Sutton's satirical playlet, "The Actress and the Critic." Chester Spencer and Lola Williams return in a bright skit called "Putting It Over;" Katherine Murray, "Uncle Sam's Girl," is a newcomer, while the Lovenberg sisters and the Neary boys will appear in a Terpsichorean act called "Around the Compass." Remaining over from last week will be the Dunbar Maryland singers, William Gaxton and Charles Olcott.

Pantages.

What has been called the biggest musical attraction in the vaudeville world comes to Pantages Theater this week with the presentation, by Alexander Pantages, of "The Mimic World," in which a cast of thirty people, with twenty-two clever chorus girls, sing and play for a solid hour. In the big act are a number of well-known stars, among them being Helen and Ola Hudson and Felix, the comedian. The featured act next to "The Mimic World" will be the offering of Joe Roberts, a banjo player who is said to have made a tremendous hit at every theater in which he has appeared. The Smith and McQuire girls also have a clever act in singing and costume work; Abrams and Johns offer a comedy skit called "When Hubby Realizes," while the Lampinis are two talented young men who feature the flying phonograph. In addition the first episode of "The Fighting Trail" will be shown.

Hippodrome.

There is a wide range of variety and plenty of pep and go in the new programme promised for the week at the Hippodrome, beginning tomorrow. William D. Hollis and company have a new idea in juggling which is embellished with a specialty setting which calls for the billing, "The Admiral's Reception." Fay Cottrell is said to be a dainty bundle of femininity with songs and interesting characterizations. The Eight Black Dots will offer a melange of songs and dances representing an old southern plantation, while Musical Walsh, with his pots and pans, will offer a unique form of musical entertainment. Another feature of the bill is Stewart's 1917 Revue, consisting of ten clever singers, dancers and "talkists." Murray and Love are a comedy couple, and Laypo and Benjamin are acrobats of no little reputation. Good moving pictures will round out the programme.

Burbank.

La Belle Helene will be the feature of the new Burbank programme which opens with tomorrow's matinee. Miss Helene is billed as "the girl with the auburn hair," which doesn't mean very much in itself, but it is said that she is a real beauty and that she is one of the cleverest imitators of stage celebrities in vaudeville. Wyndham and Moore in "Bits of Vaudeville" is the riot call of the programme, the third drawing card being Gilbert and La Mont in "Just Two Boys." Birkinoc is a Russian violinist who does the "big stuff" in a popular manner, and Celia Baker is an acrobatic dancer of merit. There is a beautiful lesson for both children and grown-ups in the feature photoplay, "The Little Pirate," starring Zoe Rae.

nymphs, dryads, sylphs, gnomes, witches and all those various other creatures the very mention of which sends the delightful shivers chasing one another up and down the spine. "Sirens of the Sea," it is claimed, is a better picture than either "Pay Me" or "Come Through," both Jewel productions.

Alhambra.

"The biggest surprise of the season" is promised by the management of the Alhambra at that theater today in the presentation of "When False Tongues Speak," a mystery drama from the pen of George Scarborough and featuring Virginia Pearson. The mystery of the story lies, it is said, not in the general theme of the play, but rather in the unique manner in which the drama develops. There is a clear story running through the happenings that make up the strange photoplay which, it is said, requires no heavy brainwork to grasp and enjoy. Carl Harbaugh is responsible for the direction.

Symphony.

"To the Death" is the fascinating title of an intensely dramatic story in which Olga Petrova appears at the Symphony Theater this week. The scenes are laid in Corsica and Paris and the story is that of a young Corsican beauty whose life is ruined by an unprincipled nobleman. The sister of the wronged girl follows the scoundrel until she wins his love and then smiles to see him pay the awful penalty which she has kept for him to the last minute. It is a photoplay in which vengeance plays a principle part, but a vengeance that is justified by the necessity for retribution which always follows wrong.

Garrick.

All those in the room who ever heard of a chap named Chaplin, please stand up. What! Nobody knows him? Then, in the name of all that's humorous, go to the Garrick this week and get acquainted, for Mr. Chaplin, whose Christian name, by the way, is Charlie, will be there in a revue of his two great successes, "Easy Street" and "The Rink." The Garrick is offering a double-header this week, the companion feature to the Chaplin picture being a Bluebird photoplay called "A Stormy Night," featuring Franklyn Farnum.

Palace.

Marguerite Clark, the demure, the dainty, the clever and all the rest of it will be the attraction de luxe at the Palace Theater this week in her famous Paramount picture, "The Amazons." In this play Marguerite is seen as a young girl whose mother has attempted to "make a man of her" and the situations in which she is placed during the run of the photoplay furnish a world of amusement for the audience. She uses boxing gloves, dumb bells and goes through a score of interesting exercises in the gymnasium and if she fails to actually make a man of herself she at least succeeds in developing herself into a very attractive little woman.

COMMUNITY THEATER.

Hollywood will Have a New Playhouse Run on a Promising Basis.

Hollywood, always to the front in modes of expression has established a community theater which will open October 29 and at which a new bill will be given every month. A committee of prominent business men is backing the project. A building, seating 250, has been secured on Ivar avenue, opposite the public library, and is being remodeled and decorated. Three one-act plays will be presented on the opening night. In addition to dramatic productions the community playhouse will be used for Sunday afternoon lectures, concerts and recitals by prominent artists.

Miss Nelye Dickson, who for the past two seasons of summer school has given courses in play production at the University of Southern California, is the head of the project. Last year she gave classes in play demonstration at the State University at Berkeley and in addition had her own group of players. She frequently produced plays in her little studio theater. She stated yesterday that none but professional or experienced persons will make up the casts at Hollywood.

"Although combining features of such well-known organizations as the Washington Square players of New York and the Little Theater of Chicago the community theater of Hollywood is in a class alone," said Miss Dickson. "The accent falls on 'community' and all that the word implies. This is to be of the community, for the community and by the community. There will be no salaries; all the earnings will go into productions.

"Probably no other community of similar size in the country contains so large a number of dramatists, actors, painters and authors, together with so large a number of persons keenly and intelligently interested in artistic activities. The theater will fit itself to the needs of such a community. Carrie Jacobs Bond heads the list of contributing members. She is also a member of the Little Theater in Chicago."

Vallie Belasco Martin,

Talented niece of David Belasco, who has succeeded in musical comedy all by herself. She is coming in "Watch Your Step."

JUST FOR A DOG.

William S. Hart Writes Verse to "Rags," the Playmate Old and Faithful.

One worthy reason why film fans like "Bill" Hart so well is the well-known love of the big western actor for animals. Kindliness is his virtue. To playgoers the world over the stories of "Fritz," the horse companion of Hart's biggest successes, and "Rags," the faithful dog, are attractively familiar. Not long ago "Rags" passed away while Mr. Hart was away on location. In the language of understanding for his departed and lamented friend he wrote the following verse:

"To Rags."

BY WILLIAM S. HART.

You'll roll no more stones, Rags,
  No more revel in the mud;
You'll steal no more bones, Rags,
  No more dodge the cookie's club.

For the streets are lined with gold, Rags,
  Where you are going to be,
Mud and rocks all left behind,
  At Inceville by the Sea.

We know which you prefer, Rags,
  Where your heart will always stay,
But we grow—to be cut down, Rags,
  An' go back to earthly clay.

An' when you're strange an' homesick, Rags,
  An' see Angels flyin' through the air,
An' everybody passin' in purple robes,
  With diamonds in their hair,

Just think—you won't always be alone, Rags,
  You've only gone ahead,
An if we're as good as you are, Rags,
  We'll come too—when we're dead.

An' if we never make it, Rags,
  An' get held up at the gate,
Don't worry about us none, Rags,
  But leave us to our fate.

For we all had chances down here, Rags,
  An' if we can't measure up,
It's 'cause our hearts was bad, Rags,
  An' we're not worthy of you, Pup.

So go to it an' be happy, Rags,
  Sit up—look wise—an' nod,
An' if you're near the golden chair, Rags,
  You'll sure shake hands with God.

ALL FOR A NAME.

"Artistic Friend" Threatens to Sue a Writer for Change in Spelling.

Charlie Fuhr, the celebrated "artistic friend" of troupers and publicity hounds, is very much incensed these days over the attempt of the western representative of a motion-picture publication to Anglicize the good old name of Fuhr by spelling it "Fuir." This is done "with malice aforethought," according to Charlie, who threatens to sue J. C. Jessen of the Motion Picture News if the retraction is not made in his columns.

That the story, both verbal and written, was a joke on the bon vivant is the assertion of Mr. Jessen, who also believes that "Fuir" is a much more artistic name for Charlie, anyway—since he is put to it. But the "artistic friend" can't see it that way, for he declares emphatically that his family name of "Fuhr" is Irish, his ancestors coming from County Wicklow.

A committee of the prominent Irish will be asked to decide the claims of both the scribe and the globe-trotter. Charles Gerrard, Tom Gereghty, Pat Dowling, Walter MacNamara, Hal Cooley and Douglas Gerrard are mentioned. Despite his heart of gold, Bennie Zeidman will not be allowed on the party.

ing comedy in the embryonic state.

It is very interesting to watch the work of a company at rehearsal. For instance, Minna Gombel is an exceptionally good "study"—that is, she is always near perfection in lines and business. There are a few capable people in the Morosco company who are never up in their lines until opening night, and then it's a different story, for seldom do they stumble. Of course, the smoothing-over process comes only as the actor realizes just what business, or what inflection of voice gets the best results. This means playing a part from all angles before varied audiences. What the matinee girl dotes on the unromantic average man doesn't care for at all, so the earnest player attempts to combine the possibilities of his role to please them all.

It came to me as I watched Fred Butler quietly directing his players that here was a man who would get more actual results than would many stage directors of the arrogant, know-it-all type. I have listened to several in action.

Taking up the characters again—James Corrigan is another lucky man, for he will portray a role that fits him like a glove—that of Breede, the Flapper's busy father.

Other Morosco favorites are well cast. Douglas MacLean, Nancy Fair, Elmer Ballard, Lillian Elliot, Adele Belgarde, David Butler, Maud George, Bert Hadley, Robert Lawler, Wallace Howe, Harry Duffield, Charles Buck and Charles Geggus—all will lend their talents to the supporting roles.

RUNS IN FAMILY.

Vallie Belasco Martin Makes Good in Musical Comedy on Her Own Talents.

A little miss of 18 years, Vallie Belasco Martin, comes to the Pacific Coast to make her initial bow in the State which made her illustrious uncle famous, California, but she comes not in the field of drama. It's musical comedy.

Just two years has this diminutive miss trodden the boards, but having come from a family famous in theatrical history, she could no more resist the call of the theater than a child could resist candy. Notwithstanding the fact that her parents tried in every conceivable manner to prevent her adopting a theatrical career, she eventually convinced them after several amateur performances in which she appeared that she was fitted for the stage. So, after much correspondence with Uncle David, it was finally decided that she should journey from Seattle to New York, and should Uncle David decide that Vallie was fitted for a career, a career she should have. The rest is history. After reading several lines of manuscript and assuring Uncle David that she could sing, Irving Berlin was called upon to hear her. In consequence of which he engaged her to appear in his initial work as author of "Watch Your Step," which comes to the Mason for a week beginning tomorrow.

Sucker Day.

[Zim in Cartoons Magazine:] As I remember it, the best day on the calendar for us schoolboys was Saturday. They might have eliminated all the others in the fifty-two weeks of the year if they'd just left that one each week for "we-uns," for that was the day we got out our sucker hooks and cotton lines, cut an alder pole along the creek bank, and settled ourselves in a favorite bend where the water eddied and suckers were a-plenty. Saturday might, with propriety, have been changed to Suckerday, for that is about all it meant to us. Of course, we didn't linger around the house much to ask if there were any chores to be done, or wood to chop or errands to run or fences to whitewash like Tom Sawyer did. No siree! We got our worms dug the night afore and sneaked out of the house before breakfast and by so doing we developed a life-size fisherman's appetite. We used to find potatoes and onions in the flood trash, and of course you know the salubrious flavor of roast potatoes and how they feed the imagination when you're playing "Injun" along the dirty waters of the creek.

SOCIETY.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.

Lillian, dear:

Your entirely ferocious letter telling me what a cat I am for daring to disapprove of the cut of your Australian captain's trousers, your stern announcement that a hero can jolly well wear any kind of trousers he likes, so there, your tart comments on my frivolous and utterly shallow disposition; your caustic remarks on my intelligence, your prayerful hope that I shall some time get my deserts, were quite the most stimulating thing that has come my way for ages. You are a tonic, cherie, and a fearless little patriot, and I stand more than ready to be sacrificed on the altar of your zeal. So long as you and all the other fine-hearted girls like you restrict your furies to cats like me you have my entire sympathy.

And indeed, dear, you have inspired me to continue in my catty role. For, when given a dose of my own medicine, I could not but realize how good it was for me. If your scratches could be so good for one of us, think what my scratches must do for thousands. No home is complete without a cat. And no home town is worthy its name without its official cat. I think they ought to put a ribbon around my neck and give me a little bell. Of course, you may think I ought to have been drowned before my eyes were open. But I may yet live to purr my way into somebody's heart, dear. As a first-class mouser I have my admirers.

Which reminds me. I am going mousing in San Francisco for a few days—shall be there when you get this letter. And I go laden with fond messages for other girls' beaux. Everybody's pet beau seems to be at the Presidio just now. I am also weighted down with a fearsome variety of little packages; mammas and wives and sisters and sweethearts evidently regard me as a safe carrier, and not at all dangerous. This worries me a little—for one likes to be a teeny-weeny bit dangerous. Oh, well.

Met Necsei, the youthful, triste-looking, clever pianist, at Constance Crawley's on Sunday night. They say, you know, that he will out-Paderewski Paderewski very soon. They tell me he accurately knows no less than four tremendous and terrifying concertos, where the average notable is wont to bank his reputation on one. But personally he won me to purr with a half an hour's merciful tunefulness, graciously interpolated with melodies I would recognize.

By the way, Constance Crawley has invented a most fetching, utterly demoralizing little cap for her new play at the Orpheum this week. I know I shall steal it one day. They let us in on a private rehearsal of that play, which is replete with informative sidelights on the irresistible attractions of seductive actresses. There is one scene in which she is pretending to love him madly—and now I know just how it's done. But it seems a little forward. Oh, mamma.

Oh, I must not forget. Constance has taught her pet monkey how to knit for the Red Cross. She starts the row and the monkey finishes it. Do you suppose a noble hero would really like washing his face with a cloth that had been knitted by the monkey? Fancy him waxing sentimental about the lily-white fingers that had lovingly knit that wash-rag, conjuring up beauteous pictures of the sorrowing maiden that had wrought her heart into every stitch! But what the eye doth not see the heart doth not grieve, so we can only pray that the monkey won't be tempted to inclose a little note with her picture.

Talking of little notes, did you hear that dear Laura inclosed one in a pair of socks, telling the lucky finder that she was his friend and that he only had to let her know what his heart most craved and it should be his. Her finances were at a very low ebb when the gentleman wrote his full-hearted response. He coveted a wrist watch. When Laura inquired into the cost sank. However, nothing daunted, she made us all contribute, and bore her share of chaffing with patriotic fortitude. He got his watch. But she isn't inclosing any more notes just yet. One ought to be able to count upon a box of cigarettes meeting the occasion.

Bob Flint has attained the aristocracy and may now share that sumptuous mansion with his friend, Lieut. Hugo Johnstone. Bob got his commission after faithful striving and honest shirt-washing as a jackie, and I am not sure that he cannot patronize the adorable Hugo as the man who has won his laurels from the ranks.

There is fury in the upper circles just now. What's in a name, indeed? Well, potential profit for one thing. Can you imagine our most irreproachable society leader's feelings when a pushful little climber cosied up to her the other day and said she had purchased a jar of that face cream the society queen had recommended and was it really all right?

"What face cream?" demanded the upper crust.

"Why, the one you sent me by that woman, of course. She said you had specially recommended it to me."

Phew! If that guileful face-cream saleswoman ever gets within range of that social queen there is going to be blood. And that episode brought forth tales of woe from many another social queen. It appears they had all been victimized in the same way at times. Few of us know the real sorrows of the idle rich.

Many of us are lured to semi-commercial parties, studio teas, art exhibits, private concerts and the like by the glittering list of society queens we are informed will be present. They invariably aren't, wouldn't dream of doing such a thing, but we never know until it's too late. Any it's simply horrid to patronize a concert or an art exhibit that the elite would scorn to be seen at.

The automobile show on November 5 is going to be a most alluring affair. Consider, cherie, all the lighting is to simulate soft moonlight, all the decorations are to be giant palms and tropical fernery, and the orchestra is to win us with enchanting music. Palms, moonlight and music! What limousinical purchases may we not make under their nefarious influence. Billy Sunday's tabernacle and four additional immense marquees are to house that show, and, on the irresistible argument that feminine shoes are expensive and susceptible to dirt, every bit of it is going to be floored for our comfort. There seems something a bit ironical about a luxurious automobile show succeeding Billy Sunday—but we shall probably need the antidote by then.

Wasn't it jolly that little Kathleen Wright of Pasadena should win the supreme laurels in the women's golf tournament at Del Monte? We are all so proud of her and she is such a nice unaffected little girl. It was quite a superlative victory, for those northern women players usually annex all the really stylish laurels in golf—the most we have been able to do before was to snatch a few lesser trophies.

Well, so long, cherie. Don't spare me. Write me a few more home-truths for the good of my soul.

Your catty, BETTY.

Leave Hotel Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kruttschnitt, Jr., who have been spending the summer at the Hotel Virginia with their children, Marie-Elizabeth, Barbara, and Julius, III., have left Long Beach for Tucson, Ariz. Capt. and Mrs. Harry Pattee of Riverside and their attractive little kiddies, Allan and Burleigh, also have left the beach where they have spent a pleasant season.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Edith Lois Maurice, daughter of Mrs. William T. Maurice of No. 901 Fifth avenue, to Capt. Leo W. Hampley of the California Coast Artillery, was made at a luncheon given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Raymond Stephens of Kings road to members of Phi Delta Chi Sorority and other school friends from Marlborough. No date has been set definitely for the wedding, but it probably will take place this fall.

Weds at Long Beach.

One of the notable weddings of early autumn took place yesterday evening in Long Beach, when Miss Ruth Jeannette Craig, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklyn Craig, became the bride of Thomas Roswell Merrell of Toledo, O. Several hundred guests attended the wedding, which took place at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Henry Kendall Booth of the First Congregational Church of Long Beach. The house was transformed into a bower of glowing blossoms, a color motif of pink and blue being effectively carried out by the use of apricot, cactus, dahlias and delphinium. The bride was gowned in a simple, yet modish creation of white satin veiled with appliqued net and silver lace, and the long tulle veil covered her fair hair, and was arranged to the coiffure with orange blossoms. A shower bouquet of baby orchids completed the exquisite bridal costume. Miss Ann Craig, who acted as maid of honor, was attired in apricot-colored taffeta, and carried an arm bouquet of Irish roses and delphinium. The bridesmaids further emphasized the fetching color scheme in delphinium blue frocks, and carried bouquets of Ophelia roses. They were the Misses Margaret Mills of Berkeley and Madelaine Cowan of Santa Rosa. The bridegroom was attended by James G. Craig, and the ushers were L. Dean Gardner and David M. Smith. A wedding supper followed the ceremony, and at the table, which was decorated with blue and yellow pond lilies, covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Merrell, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Logan Newell, Mr. and Mrs. John Buol, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Swayne, the Misses Margaret Mills, Madelaine Cowan, Ann Craig, Geraldine Dennis, Glenn Massie and the Messrs. James G. Craig, Dean Gardner, Dave Smith, Philip McCaughn and Leo E. Nooman, the last named of the San Diego Aviation Corps. The couple left for a wedding trip of six weeks duration and will be at home after November at No. 1242 Cedar avenue, Long Beach.

The bride is a graduate of Mills College, 1915, and was prominent in student activities, being the president of the associated student body during her senior year. Her father is a veteran shipbuilder of Long Beach. Mr. Merrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bigelow Merrell of Toledo, O., and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, '15. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, and belonged to the Mask and Wig Club of Philadelphia. For two years he played quarter-back on the varsity eleven, and for a year was coach of the Scott High School football squad, the prep school champions of the United States.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were the bridegroom's parents from Ohio, and the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, Sr., of Toledo.

Military Interest.

The naval training station and the troops at Fort MacArthur are a magnet to the guests at Hotel Virginia. A few days ago every one motored over to see the regimental drill at the reserve station. Monday the Jackies had battalion drill for 100 visitors, who watched with keen interest the boys go through their work. Wednesday many of the boys had dinner at the Virginia. Sunday afternoon parties motored over to inspect or visit the "Rookies" in the lower camp at Fort MacArthur. So many of the Jackies and Rookies are from Los Angeles that a drill at either place will find a goodly representation of Los Angeles and Pasadena society. Among the familiar faces at Monday's drill were Mr. and Mrs. "Al" Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Will Caswell, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCrea, Mrs. Laurence Barker, Mrs. W. H. Holliday, Joe Scott and Mrs. Fred Griffith.

Announce Daughter's Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Martin of No. 2301 Fourth avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Luke John McNamee on Wednesday, the 12th inst.

To Go on Tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guard left a few days ago for a motor tour of Northern California. They will be away for two weeks and will visit relatives in Bishop before returning to town.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Paul Ridley of Los Angeles, who is spending several weeks at the Ellison apartments at Venice, entertained Thursday with a pretty bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Minnie L. Leonard, also of Los Angeles. The apartment was beautifully decorated with blossoms and greenery, and the table was centered with autumn flowers. Hand-painted place cards marked the guests' seats. Covers were laid for Mmes. Minnie Leonard, Matson A. Morrill, Frank Chase, Elmer Tascoe, Adele Lindenbaum, G. Quimby, W. M. Morrison, the Misses Ethel Ridley, Ruth, Marie and Hilda Schallenbach and the hostess. Auction bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon, the high scores being made by Mrs. Morrill and Mrs. Ridley.

Benefit Card Party.

Next Thursday afternoon a card party will be given by Mrs. J. P. Kennedy, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Fredericks, at the residence of Mrs. Kennedy, No. 1818 Victoria drive, Lafayette Square, for the benefit of St. Vincent's College. Friends of St. Vincent's are invited to be present.

To Tour the Orient.

Under the direction of D. F. Robertson several Angelenos will sail from San Francisco on October 19 on the new Japanese line steamer Shinyo Maru. On arrival at Japan the party will proceed through Korea and Manchuria, thence to the Philippines and Hongkong. The party will include Mr. and Mrs. James Watson, Miss Alice Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Carey, Miss Jennie Cuthbert and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jameson.

Wed in New Hampshire.

The many friends of Miss Gertrude Kellogg and William Wagner, both of Sierra Madre, were surprised last week when they received announcement from New Hampshire that the two had married in that State. Their engagement long had been suspected, and when Mr. Wagner went East to visit Miss Kellogg's relatives, and at the same time to visit her, friends predicted that an engagement would follow. The couple went a step farther and announced their marriage instead of betrothal, and they will return the first of next month to make their home in Los Angeles. Although both are Sierra Madre residents, they have hosts of friends in this city, who will wish them every joy.

Maryland Musicale.

At the Hotel Maryland last Sunday evening a throng of guests enjoyed a splendid programme of music given by Miss Grace Adele Freebey, assisted by Alfred Wallenstein, 'cellist, and Constance Balfour, vocalist. The affair was complimentary to the guests of the hotel and their friends, and was given in the Palm Room. The evening before a dinner dance that was in the nature of a garden fete took place at the hotel and was enjoyed by a large number of guests.

Interesting Wedding.

A wedding which was of interest locally as well as in Phoenix, Ariz. was solemnized Tuesday evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Melczer of Occidental boulevard, when Miss Selma Goldberg of Phoenix became the wife of Albert Rosenberg, also of that city. The wedding was originally planned for late autumn, but owing to Joseph Melczer being called into the national army it was decided to advance the date so all the family could be present. The living-room, where the ceremony took place, was banked with greenery and made gay with flowers. Baskets of cut flowers filled every corner, and decorated the landings of the stairs. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Aaron Goldberg, was lovely in a gown of white taffeta embroidered with silver, en traine, and with a tulle veil, caught to the hair with orange blossoms, falling the length of the train. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Joseph Melczer, acted as matron of honor, and wore orchid tulle over taffeta of the same shade, an arm bouquet of orchids completing her costume. The small nephew of the bride, Joseph Melczer, Jr., and Marvin Summerfield, were the trainbearers. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Herman Rosenberg, as best man. The bride's father, accompanied by Mrs. David Goldberg, Miss Ruth Goldberg, and Herman Melczer, motored from Phoenix to attend the wedding. A reception and wedding supper followed the ceremony, and the couple left for a honeymoon spent in Santa Barbara. They will return to Phoenix shortly after to make their home there.

Hostess at Luncheon.

Mrs. John Wesley Tomblin entertained with a charming luncheon, Tuesday, at her home, No. 720 West Twenty-eighth street, complimenting Mrs. Charles Wellington Rand and her daughter Miss Lilian Rand, who are leaving soon for New York. The home was a profusion of blossoms, while the tables were decorated in pink roses and autumn leaves. Mrs. William E. Mabee accompanied by Mrs. Guy F. Bush, rendered vocal selections. Mrs. Bush played some of her own compositions and Mrs. Tomblin's sister, Mrs. Wayne E. Beihtelheimer, gave several readings. Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt told of the work she is directing in behalf of our city parks. The following ladies were the invited guests: Mmes. Charles Wellington Rand, Edward R. Hibbard, Herbert Green, W. E. Beihtelheimer, George T. Brown, George W. Bayly, William Bayly, Oswold Oliver, Peter Updyke, Frederick Fisher, Asa Steadman, Homer A. Filson-Stuart Wedding.

A marriage of interest was celebrated last Sunday in the beautiful St. Gertrude's Church of Stockton, when Miss Agnes Katherine Filson, formerly of this city, became the bride of Ernest R. Stuart, one of the leading business men of the northern city. For the past year the bride has spent most of her time in the north, but prior to that time lived in Los Angeles, where she has a host of friends. Many complimentary affairs were given in her honor, and after an extensive honeymoon at Lake Tahoe and the Yosemite the young couple will be at home at their own home, No. 2102 North California street, Stockton, a gift of the bridegroom to the bride.

Alhambra.

LOCAL society has opened a new month with little entertaining, but there are plans afoot for parties in considerable number, albeit with less ostentation than ever before, in consideration of retrenchment in all lines.

On Tuesday a wedding was solemnized in San Francisco which is of interest here. The bride was Miss Ruth Baker of the northern city and the groom Phillip H. Bradbury, a well-known resident of Alhambra. Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury left for an extended eastern trip. Their itinerary includes a visit at the home of the groom's sister, Kate Douglass Wiggin, in Hollis Center, Me.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Margaret Funke to Marvin R. Stewart of Alhambra. The ceremony took place Thursday at San Diego. After a three-weeks' honeymoon trip to the Grand Canyon, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will be at home to their friends at No. 302 North Curtis avenue.

At the invitation of Mrs. H. C. Graves, Southland Chapter, U.D.C., assembled Friday for the first meeting of the year. About twenty-five members and a number of guests were present for the discussion of activities in which the club hopes to be engaged this season. Mrs. W. H. Wright presented a programme of interest and the hostess, assisted by Miss Boyce, presided over the serving of dainty refreshments.

Mrs. J. E. Coleman, founder of the Coleman house, Los Angeles, and veteran club worker, was hostess Thursday to members of the Sierra Vista Club. A discussion of current events and a talk on conservation and municipal affairs by Rev. Leonard Hazard were the interesting features of the programme.

Miss Lois Randle is home after a summer's stay at Long Beach.

Fragrant roses of deep red tones were the centerpiece on the luncheon table set by Mrs. C. D. Combs on Thursday. The motif for the entertainment planned was a coterie of officers of the U.D.C. Gardena.

A BEAUTIFUL house wedding was that uniting in marriage Miss Grace M. Jenks and David C. Stewart, both of Rio Vista, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bathrick and Miss Loretta Bathrick of Palm avenue, who are cousins of the bride. Mrs. Stewart and her mother, Mrs. Ella L. Jenks, have been staying for the summer in Long Beach. The bridal party stood under a floral dome, with a curved background of pink and white carnations and greenery. A college friend of the bride, Miss Margaret Marchant, came from her home in Oklahoma for the wedding, and sang sweetly after the ceremony. A wedding breakfast was served at 12 o'clock, covers being laid for twenty guests. In addition to those mentioned were the groom's mother, Mrs. C. Stewart, and others from Gardena, Hollywood, Santa Ana, and Los Angeles. Rev. Dr. Walker of Long Beach was the officiating clergyman, using the double ring service. The bride was charming in an embroidered net gown, carrying white Kilarney roses, as was her bridesmaid, Miss Bathrick, in a dainty pink crepe de chene, with Cecil Brunner roses. Harry Stewart, a brother of the groom, was best man. Mrs. John Bathrick of Los Angeles played the wedding march. After a wedding trip divided between Del Mar and Coronado, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will go to their home in Rio Vista.

On Wednesday Mrs. J. W. Nethery of Glendale and Mrs. A. H. Randall of Los Angeles were guests of Mrs. H. P. Sweet on Magnolia avenue. SATINS

—The sheen of moonlight on still water—the velvety softness of flower petals—the glow of firelight in a dusky room—in a word, "satin."

Satin de Soie, $1.49
Satin Etoile at $2.25

—36-inches wide.

Satin Radiant, $2.00
"Moon-Glo" Satin $3.50

—40-inches wide.

—Four of the most popular dress satins of the season—and already we are cutting lengths for suits, street and evening dresses, and for evening coats and capes. This is to be a season of satin—and you will be delighted with the display at the Great White Store.

Costume Velvets

—Velvet vies with satin in popularity for autumn—and never has Hamburger's been so well prepared with rich, deep pile velvets in every conceivable color. Costume velvet is very serviceable and at the same time very elegant, $1.00 to $3.25.

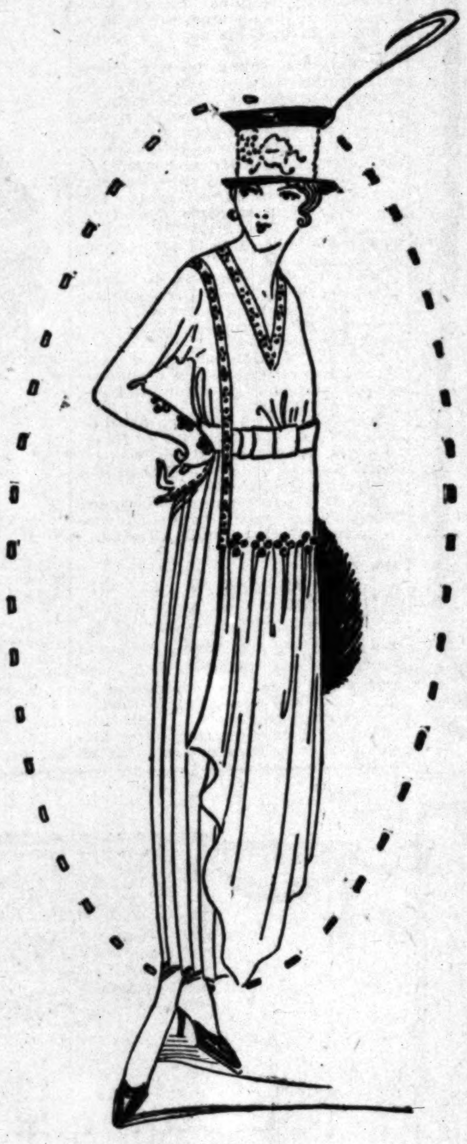
Scarf Plushes

—Shelton plushes, in black, already cut in lengths for the ultra-fashionable scarfs of autumn—all ready for the linings. The most inexpensive way to purchase a scarf—you can make it in an afternoon. $3.00, $3.25, $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00.

French Serges

—Serges, always good, have come into their own this season, for the great houses of Paris are making up one-piece frocks of serge, and every wireless bears the news. Every weight and width of serge is at Hamburger's—at every price—42 to 54-inch widths, $1.25 to $3.50.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor—Monday)



The mysterious moods of Fashion interpreted—the beautiful, the ultra-fashionable, the costly, the luxurious—the treasures of the world of style—gathered for you at Hamburger's—the Rue de la Paix of Los Angeles!

Dresses of Autumn!

For the American Riviera—Los Angeles

—Gowns that are glowing with beauty—frocks that sparkle with chic—dresses that are smartly serviceable—

—Developed in soft, lustrous satins, in silks, in serviceable serges, broadcloths, and the new wool weaves.

—Showing the Russian blouse and surplice effects, the long tunic, the hip draperies and the swinging panels.

—Brightened by Oriental trimmings, braid, many buttons, patent leather belts, vestees, swinging pockets, and other notes of the new—$19.75 to $65.00.

Coats of Parisian Charm!

—Coats of the type that are daily "seen in the Bois"—coats that strike the unmistakable note of the season just beginning——Of rich, warm, comfort-giving fabrics—velours, Bolivias, pom-pom, silvertone, Burella and broadcloths.

—Displaying the high, loose collars, wide, buckled belts, waistcoat fronts, and novelty sleeves set in a way to suggest the Chinese influence.

—Fur and fur-fabric trimmed coats — in colors of fuchsia, burgundy, tones of brown, dark purple, taupe, and in black—$19.75 to $110.00.

Suits a la Tailleur!

—Suits that incomparable tailleurs have built along the autumn lines—suits that reflect the latest whim of Madame la Mode—

—The length of Fall coats is more noticeable—skirts are narrowing—perfect tailoring is absolutely essential.

—Suits in belted styles, with vest effects, semi-fitted fronts, raised waist line, military pockets, and just scores of other autumn variations.

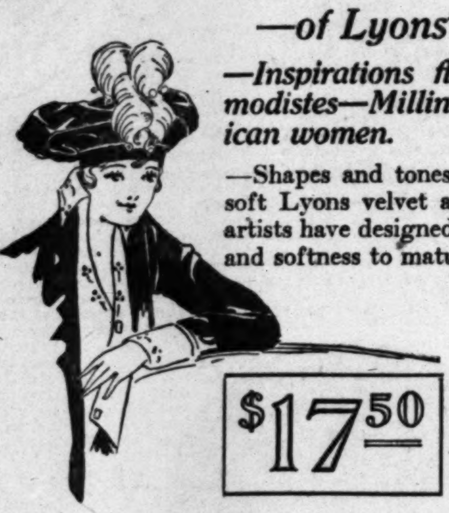
—Trimmed with buttons—and more buttons — Herculean braid, wool and tinsel trimming, stitching, inlaid velvet, fur, and fur fabrics—$25.00 to $95.00.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

Paris Inspirations

New Autumn Hats

—of Lyons' Velvet and Hatters' Plush



—Inspirations flashed across the sea from French modistes—Millinery fashioned for the delight of American women.

—Shapes and tones of color that are exclusive—interpreted in soft Lyons velvet and smooth-faced hatters plush. Hats that artists have designed to crown youth and beauty, and lend grace and softness to mature features.

The Beret — La Militaire
The Capeline — Fur-and-Twenty
The-Lass-That-Loved-A-Sailor

$17.50

—Here are just a few of the models we have named in this wonderful group of hats at $17.50. A striking model is pictured.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

Furs

—The great new republic at the eastern edge of Europe has turned the thoughts of the world to furs.

—Furs will be worn this fall wherever smart women are seen.

—Scarfs, long stoles, cape collars, collarettes—in Nutria, Kolinsky, Hudson Seal, Chinchilla, Squirrel, Mink, Natural and Dyed Fox, Lynx, and Wolf.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

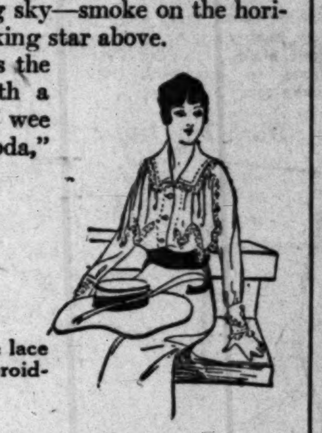
Dusk has Painted the Colors of the

AUTUMN BLOUSES

But the Charm of Them Comes from the French Capital

—Soft tones that make one think of the evening sky—smoke on the horizon—paling pinks—grayish blues—and one winking star above.

—One of the smartest of the new blouses shows the new, long, narrow collar, braided in silk, with a vestee suggestion of narrow tucks, and a row of wee buttons right down the front—the sleeve is "pagoda," braided like the collar. Prices, $5.00 to $25.00.



Fashion Decrees Silk Blouses for Autumn

The Model Illustrated at $5.95

—Of Georgette crepe and crepe de chine, with Venise lace medallions—trimmed with clusters of tucks and embroidered. In white, flesh, and the new suit shades, $5.95.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR WHY IT INCREASES

It has been proven by the world's greatest authorities that so-called hair removers stimulate and increase hair growth after each removal, because they only remove hair from the surface of the skin, just like a razor.

The only common-sense way to remove hair is to attack it under the skin. DeMiracle, the original sanitary liquid, operates on this principle. It alone contains certain ingredients which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. It does this by absorption.

DeMiracle works equally well for removing hair from face, neck, arms, under arms or limbs to prevent it from showing through stockings.

Insist on the genuine DeMiracle. It is the only depilatory that has a money-back guarantee in each package. In 60c, $1 and $2 bottles at all toilet counters, or direct from us in plain wrapper on receipt of price.

FREE booklet mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. Write for it today and read it before you make another application of any depilatory. DeMiracle Chemical Co., Dept., G52, Park ave. and 129th st., New York.

"Service" and "Value"

Careful, conscientious, uniform service, and honest values are basic factors in the growth of the house of Donavan & Seamans.

This business has steadily progressed year after year, for two and one-half decades—the logical and inevitable result of giving true service and utmost value.

Remember this when you contemplate the purchasing of diamonds, gold jewelry, watches, silverware, etc.—think of Service and Value.

Why We Can Make Ladies' Tailored Suits at $35 that are worth more

We occupy an inexpensive upstairs location, our place is simply furnished—no expensive fixtures, Turkish rugs or swell fol-de-rols. Because we omit these things we put full value in the suits we sell.

And here's another reason: The men who own the business actually make the garments from start to finish. Mr. Cohen does the selling, while Mr. Emelfarp (formerly with the Broadway Department Store's Ladies' Tailoring Department,) does the cutting, designing and fitting.

Let us show you the beautiful fabrics we put into these handsome $35 suits — and remember, they are Skinner Satin lined!

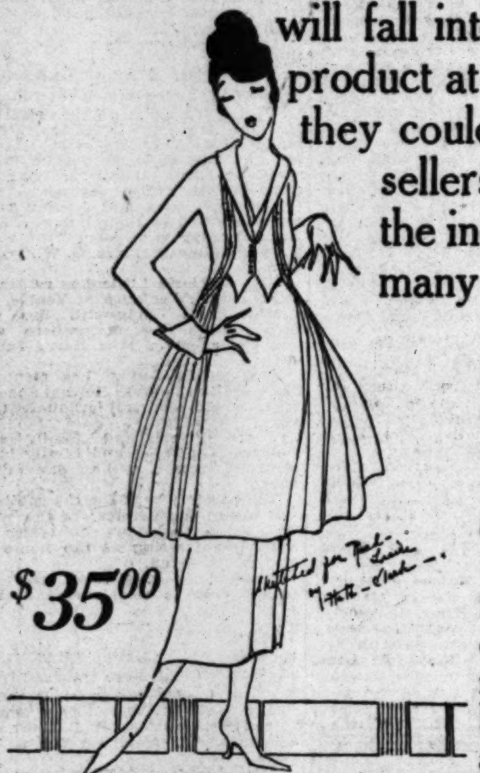
Quoting Ambassador Gerard!

"The German idea is that this one board will be able to force the sellers abroad to compete against each other in their eagerness to sell. The one German buyer will know about the lowest price at which the sellers can sell their product. By the buyer standing out alone with this great order the Germans believe that the sellers one by one will fall into his hands and sell their product at a price below that which they could obtain if the individual sellers of America were meeting the individual buyers of Germany in the open market."



$35.00

The Ambassador refers to a buying syndicate existing in Germany, which pools the demands of raw materials of certain industries. Thus, instead of one man going to the market to buy $1000's worth, the buyer for the syndicate will go and offer one big order, on which, naturally the seller can make a big profit although he figures on a smaller margin of profit.

The Ambassador recommends the adoption of this system to America. Reich and Lievre have discovered long ago, that by buying for eight stores instead of one many dollars can be saved which go into BETTER Values.

Alum Water for Gray Hair

Restores natural color in all shades, except black. Dissolve some ovelo powder in water, moisten the hair with the solution and, while wet, rinse the hair in alum water, then rinse in plain water, then dry the hair. It will stay always the same rich, natural color, fluffy, glossy, clean and odorless. Ovelo powder solution is absolutely harmless—a baby can drink it. Ask your druggist for one bottle of ovelo powder, with directions.

MISS FERN KEAN and L. Edward Gates were married Tuesday evening at a pretty autumn wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Kean, formerly of Redlands, at No. 430 Gaviota avenue. The service was read by Rev. J. Wesley Neely, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church, in the presence of a guest group of twenty-four relatives. Miss Kean wore a bridal gown of shimmery white with overdrape of filmy maline and trimmings of silver lace. She wore a long veil, arranged in cap effect and carried a shower of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her attendant was Miss Mildred Gibson of Bakersfield. Kelley E. Gates of Detroit, Mich., brother of the groom, was best man. Little Virginia Gates, niece of the groom, frocked in white, carried the ring in a tulle-tied basket. The nuptial music was played by Miss Gladys Bucklin of Los Angeles. The couple have left for Detroit, where they will reside.

A society affair of the week was the marriage of Miss Louise Antoinette Vignes, daughter of Mrs. Mary Kemp Vignes and the late J. L. Vignes, Southern California pioneers, and for many years resident of Los Cerritos, a suburb of Long Beach, to Edgar Allan Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Rowe of No. 332 East Twentieth street, this city. Rev. Arnold G. Bode, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony, reading the impressive marriage ritual of the church of Old England. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Vignes. Frederick San Souci was best man. A wedding supper was served following the ceremony at the Vignes Los Cerritos home. Only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe have left for San Diego, where they will make their home for the present. The bride is a graduate of Long Beach Polytechnic High School and the Los Angeles Normal School. Mr. Rowe is a civil engineer.

Miss Minnie Krick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Krick of No. 902 Elm avenue, entertained recently with a farewell dance for Miss Ruth Woodcock, her former room-mate at the Westlake Schools for Girls. BEAUTIFUL fall colors in dahlias were the fashion at the afternoon and evening assembly of members of the Monday Afternoon Club and their friends Friday. The choicest dahlias of the valley were on exhibition, with a liberal supply of roses and early chrysanthemums. The affair was presided over by Mrs. F. B. Gillett, chairman of general arrangements, and she was assisted by Mrs. A. I. Holly at the ice cream and tea booth. Mrs. Marion Coltrin and a bevy of young ladies assisted in serving. The card party in the evening, which was for the purpose of raising funds for a public purpose, was arranged by Mrs. J. R. Elliott and a corps of ladies. The ladies of the Monday Afternoon Club are planning a cafeteria dinner for Saturday, October 6, the profits to be used to go into the mess fund for local soldiers.

Every nationality was represented at Penjerrick ranch last Friday evening, when Edson Letchworth was host at a fancy dress ball at his parents' ranch home on Juanita avenue, given for the Red Cross. Very Effective Method for Banishing Hairs

(Modes of Today)

At very little cost any woman can rid her face of hairy growths if she will use the delatone treatment. This is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This paste is spread upon the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm results from this treatment, but care should be used to buy real delatone.

Face Peeling Easy—Blonde or Brunette

"The blonde's complexion fades early, because her skin is extraordinarily thin and fine," says Mme. Lina Cavalieri. "The brunette's, as a rule, is the reverse. The skin is thicker and has a tendency to an oily appearance."

For either the faded blonde's skin or the brunette's oily or sallow complexion, the best remedy is ordinary mercolized wax. Used every night, this will give one an entirely new complexion within about a week's time. The wax gradually peels off the worn-out surface skin, with all its defects, a little each day, without affecting the delicate underskin in the least. The latter will have the exquisitely beautiful glow of youth—indeed, one may readily lose ten or fifteen years from her age, so far as appearance goes, by a course of this simple treatment. The wax, procurable at any drug store, is applied like cold cream.

By reason of thorough distribution with the drug trade in the United States and lower selling costs, reduced prices are now possible for

Uncommon Rings for Men and Women

Rings beautiful, novel, light, lacy, ultra-decorative, quiet, sedate, heavy, somber, dignified—in a measure is descriptive of the magnificent array of new "circles of sentiment and ornamentation" now on display in our Department of Gold Jewelry.

There are handsome new seal or signet rings in gold—and some with stones suitable for seals or monograms.

There are exquisite rings set with beautifully cut cameos—others set with tourmalines, amethysts and aquamarines. There are also comparatively inexpensive rings set with combinations of sapphires and diamonds, with mountinings of platinum and gold. In fact, every ring requirement can be met here—and dollar for dollar, you can always obtain better value at Nordlinger's than at houses of lesser magnitude and limited merchandising ability.

Downey.

DOWNEY society was surprised the first of the week when word was received that two of the community's most popular young people were united in marriage at Riverside on August 27. The groom is Mr. Phillips, a son of Judge L. P. Phillips, who is well known throughout California as one of the remaining sons of a Revolutionary War soldier. The groom was admitted to the bar of California a year ago, and since has carried on a practice of law here, and left after the marriage ceremony for Calipatria, where he has opened a law office. The bride was Mrs. Helen Powers, who has for several years been a resident of Downey. Mrs. Phillips returned to Downey after the wedding, but will join her husband later in the fall.

A happy affair was a surprise on one of Downey's newly-wedded couples, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewis, when twenty-five members of the Eastern Star Lodge of El Monte paid them a visit Saturday evening. Mrs. Lewis was a popular member of this chapter before her marriage. Another similar surprise occurred Tuesday evening, when nine teachers of the El Monte High School, where Mrs. Lewis was a student last term, called on them, bringing dainty refreshments and the gift of a handsome oil painting.

Oxnard.

Interested Service

Many a large business has been built up from a small beginning by being careful of the little things. Few institutions have grown which did not treat the purchaser of modest means with the same care and consideration as was accorded the one whose purchases totaled more. We expect an interested service to be given every visitor whether they be a purchaser or not. Equal courtesy governs every transaction and we appreciate rendering even the smallest service.

The Fashion Show of Furniture

IT IS only logical and natural that the California Furniture Company should heartily co-operate in the Fashion Show idea, for this store is essentially Los Angeles' Fashion Headquarters in Home Furnishings.

And it must be recognized that Home Furnishings are susceptible to Fashion's changing whims just as is our apparel.

Those of us who wish to keep our homes attune to modern tendencies must necessarily keep fully informed as to what is new and correct for the home.

The "California's" contribution, therefore, to the Los Angeles United Fashion Show, which occurs on Thursday and Friday of this week, may be anticipated as of particular importance because it will reflect the most advanced ideas for the furnishing of our homes—the modest as well as the pretentious.

Our appreciation of the responsibility of leadership is perhaps best expressed in the extreme care with which every article that enters into the "California's" stocks is personally selected.

During Fashion Show days we will, as at all times, hold open house for all who are interested in the "Home Beautiful." While the windows will especially feature the newest ideas for the home, the displays on our seven floors will be equally interesting.

You are most cordially invited to come and enjoy these displays even though you may have no thought of buying.

Every article in the California's stocks is marked in plain figures—one right lowest possible price to everyone.

CAN YOU CONCENTRATE?

"The Actress and the Critic" Features this Claim to Genius—So Prepare.

Are you a concentrationist?

If not, then prepare yourself for the shock of being told that unless you make up your mind to become one, you might just as well abandon any claim to genius that now torments your soaring thoughts.

Constance Crawley, who comes to the Orpheum on Monday in the playlet "The Actress and the Critic," having proved out the above, is perfectly willing, possibly a trifle anxious, that you benefit by her knowledge imparted in this little article.

"Absolute concentration spells genius," said Miss Crawley. "What else can genius mean? Doesn't it mean that one has gone all in one direction, and that direction is one in which he excels to a possible 99 per cent?

"It is my terrific theory that you have to bring all the forces of yourself together and put them out in one direction to attain the big things in that particular direction. To be a genius means to rank highest in the special calling that is yours.

"For instance, if on the stage you are a murderer, it does not mean that you must have committed a murder in order correctly to depict the conduct of a murderer. BUT—you must have saturated yourself in the part thoroughly to give out to your audience the feeling and conduct of a murderer.

"And to become saturated in a particular role means that you must have concentrated upon it to the exclusion of almost everything else.

"Suffering gives depth of character and feeling. To know sorrow in one line makes it easier to portray the sorrows and emotions of almost any other variety.

"But I have found, all over the world, that there are very few who concentrate.

"During the seven years that I toured America in Shakespearean plays I took many girls into my company. Pretty girls, both blonde and brunette. Girls of figure, voice and beauty. But they did not know how to concentrate. It was a common thing, in the middle of a rehearsal, to have a girl pull up short in her part, give an investigating pat to her hair or a powdering one to her nose, for the simple reason that someone had come in at the back of the theater—some male—who she thought might be interested in her, or in whom she might be interested."

A PRAYER.

By Martha Ingersoll Robinson.

When will these dark days cease
And once again come gentle peace,
When streams shall not flow red
With blood of loved and valiant dead?

Why die our sons on foreign hill and plain
In anguish, thirst and pain?
It is the price they bravely pay
That there may come a greater day.

Why die our sons on land they never trod
Until, in love of fellow-man and God
They crossed the armed and hounded sea
That we and those to come might yet be free?
When will these dark days cease
And once again come gentle peace,
When streams shall not flow red
With blood of loved and valiant dead?

Why die our sons, "somewhere," somewhere
Beyond our tender touch and loving care?
Oh, with their blood they pave the way
For the coming of a greater day.

Great God, to whom we turn in prayer,
In love and mercy be Thou there,
Where'er our sons in anguish lie
Be near them with a father's love, a mother's too,
Where'er they die.

Great God, to whom we turn in prayer,
In love and mercy be Thou there,
Where'er our maimed ones struggling back to life
Most need Thy hope and courage in the strife.

Fathers, brothers, sweethearts and sons—
Great God—they are the ones
For whom we pray with deep bowed head,
Comfort the maimed ones living, and bless the dead.

The Whispering Winds of Autumn Praise All the New Fashions of Swelldom

It is not straining a simile to compare the fashionable Suits, Coats and Dresses at SWELLDOM with pictures at an exhibition.

Like the paintings, each garment represents the success of some artist.

SWELLDOM is the critic examining many works, but accepting few—the superior few.

SWELLDOM features both reproductions of costly French models and creations of clever American designers executed exclusively for SWELLDOM.

And, what is more, all are so reasonably priced that it simply is surprising what a small amount will do at SWELLDOM.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 29D Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

TRACTORS MAKING GREAT PROGRESS.

THE tractor will soon become as much a part of Sunny Southern California as our matchless climate. Where once we were known by our desert and our twenty-mule teams we are soon to be known for our unequaled productiveness and our snorting farm tractors, which are just as truly related one to the other as the mule team and the desert.

The intense heat of midsummer, especially in Imperial Valley and in the Bakersfield region, make it almost impossible to use a horse to any extent, and for that reason a great deal of potentially productive land went untilled and uncultivated simply because lack of power made extensive cultivation an impossibility.

With the sudden rise in favor of the farm tractor, however, these regions have prospered tremendously. The tractor works as well in hot weather as in any other kind and in addition is thoroughly capable of making a twenty-four-a-day job out of it by using two or three shifts of drivers and working by searchlight at night.

Two years ago Imperial Valley was slowly and painfully cultivated by horse power, the intense heat making it a process hard on man and beast. The tractor exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 brought home to the Imperial Valley agriculturists the opportunity presented by the small tractor and since that time the productiveness of each acre as well as the total of acreage under cultivation, has increased out of sight.

At the present time there are several thousand tractors in use in Southern California and with the big demonstration to be held this week at the Vail Ranch it seems certain that the number will be greatly increased in the course of the next year.

Biggest in History.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION OF TRACTORS IS READY.

Forty Different Types of Mechanical Farm Helps and Carloads of Implements on View.

AGRICULTUURE brought right down to the minute will be on exhibition Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at the Vail ranch on Telegraph road, when the second annual demonstration of the Southern California Tractor and Farm Implement Dealers' Association takes place.

MUCH INTEREST.

Last year some 15,000 practical farmers spent five days at Puente, viewing the first demonstration under these auspices, and this year the number of spectators is expected to get past the 50,000 mark. There will be more exhibits and better ones, and everything promises a wonderful educational exhibition.

A huge tract of ground 650 acres in size on the Vail ranch has been turned over to the association for the demonstration, and 350 acres will be plowed during the five days of the affair. There will be some sixty tents to house the many exhibits, and these will cover a space three-quarters of a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

One of the primary reasons for organizing the tractor demonstration is to give the rancher, farmer and orchardist a chance to see all of the different makes of tractors lined up side by side and see them go through every motion of practical power-farming.

There are all sorts of tractors now made from small, compact machines of small horse power for orchard and garden work, up to the dreadnoughts of the tractor world, seventy-six horse-power, and capable of taking the place of a dozen or more teams on a big ranch.

INSTRUCTIVE.

The programme planned by the association through its manager, R. M. O'Neill, calls for the maximum amount of demonstration that will be of practical value to the farmer. The gates of the field will be opened at sunrise, and from then until sundown it will be possible for all interested to see, absolutely without charge, the modern farm helps.

In the afternoons between 2 and 4 o'clock the big public demonstration will take place, in which forty snorting monsters will get on the job and plow, harrow and otherwise cultivate a special tract of ground designated for that particular day.

The association is making a special effort to see that none of the visitors at the demonstration are victimized, and for that reason have denied all applications for concessions. To show their good will they will have two lemonade stands at opposite ends of the field, at which young ladies will officiate—handing out the cooling fluid free of charge.

Everything possible is being done to bring crowds to the affair. The idea of it is to show the farmer what can be done by mechanical means to allow one man to cultivate more land and do it better than he could with the aid of horses and several farm hands.

SHOULD SEE THEM.

Unless the farmer sees these machines at work he has not seen enough to warrant him in buying a tractor. At the demonstration there will be expert drivers at the wheel of each machine to show exactly what it can do, and by the time the event is actually concluded the work done will be equal to a special college course in mechanical agriculture.

Every farmer of Southern California should be on hand all five days of the demonstration if possible. A year ago there was not the urgent necessity for producing the maximum amount of food that now faces this country. A year ago the supply of food was not so nearly exhausted, nor was there the prospect that many of the men depended upon to raise and harvest the food crop would be wearing uniforms in the army.

POWER NEEDED.

The government census is authority for the statement that the farms of this country require more power than is used in all our manufacturing industries. Based upon power furnished by the number of horses and mules on farms at the time the census was taken, together with the power furnished by windmills, steam tractors, gas tractors and gas engines, it is estimated that our farms were utilizing almost 24,000,000 horse power.

Such an enormous amount of power entails a corresponding great cost. The cost of power is one of the large items in the cost of producing crops. Consequently, it is of vital importance that the subject be given careful study by those who utilize power and that it be provided in the form that is most economical.

Here are two views of mechanical farm hands saving time, money and labor in Southern California's great agricultural community. Two years ago the small farm tractor was unknown in the valley, now farming has been revolutionized by the mechanical horse.

HORSE LEADS AN EASY LIFE

Tractor has Put Him Much on the Shelf.

Orange Growers Get Lots of Use for Machine.

Farm Hands Now Must Know About Motors.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 9.—During the past two years the tractor, in its various forms, has practically supplanted the horse for ranch and orchard work in Southern California.

The tractor invasion had its inception in the first instance from demand for rapid improvement of large tracts of land, where it was used in hauling grading machinery, digging irrigation canals and in later plowing. With its economy and convenience established in this work demand rapidly spread, and the tractor is very nearly universal in its application.

Grain ranchers, particularly, have found the tractor valuable. The larger machines of the caterpillar type are used for preparing the seed bed for wheat, and then the same machine is put into service for hauling the combined harvester, where it replaces the picturesque teams of twenty-four mules once in universal use, and still later for hauling wagon trains used for the delivery of grain to market. One of the principal grain raisers of the Woodville district, west of here, who kept careful records of his farm costs, reports that during the seven months just past his tractor has earned for him an average of $35 per day.

Orange growers have found the tractor a practical necessity, now that types of the machine have been built for especial utility in this class of work. Most Tulare county oranges are grown on soil of a heavy adobe type. Speed, therefore, is an essential in almost every case in putting the soil in the proper tilth after irrigation, and especially in the early spring. One man with an orchard tractor can cover as much orchard as can be handled with from three to five teams, when the additional hours possible in tractor work are taken into consideration. The tractor method, too, makes possible a much higher state of cultivation than can be reached with the old-fashioned methods. Some of the most careful orchard owners of this district believe the expense of orange orchard culture with tractors is not more than half that with horse-drawn implements.

Road-making machinery is practically all handled with tractors. While the gasoline type machine is almost exclusively used for ranching and orchard work, with the majority favoring the caterpillar design, road machinery is nearly always hauled with steam tractors equipped with oil burners. The road tractors, in addition to hauling road-shaping machinery, embody rollers of a heavy type, and it is declared tests have shown that for this class of work, where great flexibility is demanded, the steam type has shown itself more economical of operation.

The almost universal use of gasoline tractors for farm work has resulted in a new labor demand. Formerly ability to handle horses or mules was a prerequisite for a ranch hand. Now almost the first question asked is whether the applicant for a farm job can handle a caterpillar. This demand has also resulted in large numbers of younger men taking up farm work. There is less drudgery in handling a tractor, and when the day's work with the machine is done, it is run under cover and the work ends. There are no "chores" to occupy an hour or two where the tractor is used.

TRACTOR DRIVERS WILL BE TRAINED.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Sept. 11.—Capt. H. D. Herring of the United States Army is now in Peoria, establishing a tractor-driving training camp in East Peoria. Officers and men who are to handle the war tractors in France will be given instruction in handling the machines prior to service abroad. A tract of five acres was selected for the camp and fifty officers and 300 enlisted men will be on duty during the period thought necessary for the instruction. Capt. Herring formerly was Adjutant-General for the State of New Mexico and recently was commissioned by the War Department to act as one of the chiefs in the new tractor service.

Considerable Help.

TRACTORS REVOLUTIONIZE FARM METHODS IN VALLEY

Light Type Have Only Been in Use Two Years, but are Whole Show Now.

BY WAYNE COMPTON,
Commercial Secretary El Centro Chamber of Commerce.

WHEN Mr. F. T. Anderson decided to visit the Panama-Pacific International Exposition held at San Francisco in 1915 he little thought that he would bring back with him an idea destined to revolutionize farming in Imperial Valley, but he did that and more. Being naturally of a progressive temperament and therefore always quick to appreciate the possibilities of new ranching methods, he was not slow in recognizing that, if half the claims made by those in charge of the various tractor exhibits were true, he had better dispose of his many head of work stock and supplant them with a tractor or two.

FIRST PURCHASE.

After going over the tractor proposition thoroughly from top to bottom and witnessing many demonstrations on the exposition tractor field, Mr. Anderson finally decided to try the experiment of using a light tractor in Imperial Valley. Accordingly he purchased a 10-20 Titan, the identical tractor by the way that won the grand prize, shipped it to Brawley in the early part of the year 1916 and started in on his experiment.

It was a decided success from the first and won for Mr. Anderson the title of "the daddy of tractors" in Imperial Valley. Think of it! Only a little over a year ago the light tractor was an experiment. Today there are at least 200 in the valley, and Arthur Edgar, head of the big Edgar Bros. implement stores, who are perhaps the largest distributors of tractors in this section, gives as his opinion that in five years the light tractor will have entirely superceded the horse for farm work.

BIG FELLOWS.

It must not be understood that no tractors were used in the valley prior to 1916. Big types of track layers have been in operation here for ten years, but, due to their great weight, have not been as satisfactory or practical for general farm purposes as the lighter types.

The most popular type of tractor so far introduced into the valley is the ten-horse draw-bar power, and ranges in price from $1000 to $1600 f.o.b. Imperial Valley points. The rancher figures with one of these types he can pull a three-gang plow and break up on the average seven acres in a ten-hour day. Sometimes even better results are shown. E. D. Wilkerson of Weist made the excellent record of plowing 640 acres in sixty-five days, doing all the work himself. It has been demonstrated that one of these light tractors will do more work in ten hours than a ten-horse team, but, of course, cannot pull as heavy a load on a straight way.

MANY MAKES.

Within fifteen minutes' ride of El Centro one can find in operation practically all the makes of tractors used in the valley—the I.H.C. Titan and Mogul, the Case, Sandusky, Yuba, Holt, Best, Waterloo Boy, Rumley and Universal. The Universal is a new, exceptionally compact light type, which bids fair to become very popular for small ranch or tract work. A fair estimate of the cost of fuel and lubrication oil for the average light tractor in this section is $3.50 for ten hours.

New uses for the light tractor are being developed right along. One rancher enthusiastically calls it his "best hired man—always ready for business and not difficult to get up in the morning." While we think of tractors largely in connection with plowing, it is not an unusual thing here to see them pulling cultivators, mowing machines, headers, binders, irrigation ditch cleaners or operating hay presses, hay loaders, or ensilage cutters. By this it will be seen that the Imperial Valley rancher is forcing his tractor, like his Ford, to become sort of a jack-of-all-trades.

IN THE SUMMER.

When asked what he considers the chief advantage in using tractors in the valley, H. E. Zurcher, who probably knows tractors more thoroughly than any other man in Imperial, having spent four years apprenticeship in a tractor factory, stated that in his opinion it is the ability of the tractor to do a maximum amount of work in the summer time, something the best team of horses is incapable of during June, July, August and September. Without doubt the light tractor here is reaching a higher plane of efficiency than in many localities, due to the fact that in the irrigable section of the valley there is a total absence of stone and most of the land is comparatively level.

To show how the tractor is becoming more and more to be depended upon in emergencies, last year, when the State Highway was being built across the desert to El Centro, the contractors found themselves in midsummer with great quantities of gravel to be hauled and no teams, due to the heat, able to haul sufficiently large loads to keep the work going. Mr. Zurcher, hearing of their predicament, jumped in with a tractor and saved the day. So Imperial Valley can thank the light tractor for the early completion of her fine road and the road contractors, Mr. Zurcher, for preventing a great loss to them which at one time seemed inevitable.

NIGHT WORK.

During the busy periods of land preparation in the spring and fall—we are always preparing for some crop here—it is, indeed, a fascinating sight to drive through the valley at night and see the tractors working. All are equipped with automobile lighting systems and one can easily imagine as he sees in all directions the almost wierd flashes of the headlights and hears the rhythmic chug, chug, chug, of the engines, that he was about to witness a night attack "Somewhere in France."

The light tractor has come to the Imperial Valley to stay, and every farmer, be he big or little, is interested. This is evidenced by the fact that a large number are planning to go to Los Angeles to attend the tractor demonstration to be held there September 18 to 22, so many in fact, that the Southern Pacific may have to add an extra car to accommodate them.

If one should ask an Imperial Valley dealer the chief complaint heard from the ranchers in regard to tractors, he would promptly answer: "Their chief complaint is our inability to supply the number they demand."

Facts.

TWELVE TEAMS ARE DISPLACED.

ONE TRACTOR PUTS THEM OUT OF BUSINESS.

Prominent Idaho Rancher has it All Figured Out How His Lone Machine Does the Work Better than the Horses at Slightly Less than Half the Price.

One tractor of ancient vintage is doing for H. F. Samuels of Samuels, Idaho, all the work that twelve teams of horses could do and is making a better job of it. Mr. Samuels has a sixty-horse power tractor and has been preparing the seed bed for peas, the land having been recently cleared of stumps.

The tractor pulls three six-horse, eight-foot, right-hand plows, disc cutting twelve feet. Next to the plows are spring-tooth harrows cutting sixteen feet. Following is a common harrow sixteen feet wide, making plenty of lap so that no ground will be missed.

Mr. Samuels is exceedingly enthusiastic over the work of his machine and offers the following expense sheet as one of his reasons:

TEAMS.
12 teams per day, feed and upkeep each $2	$24.00
5 teamsters at $3 per day each	15.00
Repairs per day	1.00
Total	$40.00
TRACTOR.
3 men in operation	$10.00
25 gallons distillate at 26c gallon	6.50
Repairs per day	1.00
Total	$18.50

The saving of $21.50 every day made Mr. Samuels so enthusiastic that he has cleared 100 acres extra on his property and is adding more peas to his already large crop.

BEANS THRESHED WITH A TRACTOR.

A Sutter county farmer by the name of H. M. Thayer has for three years put his 20-40-horse-power to work for himself and his neighbors threshing beans. Stationary threshers were used turning out 500 to 600 sacks per ten hours. According to Mr. Thayer, this takes about thirty gallons of distillate and two gallons of cylinder oil.

FOREIGN BUYERS MUCH INTERESTED.

At the national tractor demonstration held at Fremont, Neb., last month, foreign buyers were very numerous. An English officer was present at the demonstration, as was a lieutenant of the Spanish army. Representatives of the Russian and French commissions and P. L. D. Perry, director of the agricultural machinery department of the Ministry of Munitions, London, were among those present.

Other foreign purchasers at the demonstration were J. F. Henrique of Paris, J. J. Marshall, European manager for Emerson-Brantingham Company; Blake Ozias of London, Nicholls Mirski, representing a number of Russian firms; A. F. McKee, representing Mexico City, and D. J. Johnston of a Toronto (Can.) firm.

THE Moreland Tractor
It Will Be Worth Waiting For

For five years Mr. Watt L. Moreland has been working on a small farm tractor, designing and redesigning, until he has reached a point where he is firmly of the belief that he has solved the small farm tractor problem, particularly as it relates to farm, orchard and grove use in the Western territory, just as the Moreland Distillate Motor Truck has solved many of the Western haulage difficulties that have been beyond the ordinary commercial vehicle.

This new Moreland Farm Tractor will shortly be ready for distribution and as it is far in advance of the present types now offered for sale it will pay prospective buyers to wait until Moreland deliveries can be made.

It will be a thirty horse-power tractor with a fifteen horse-power draw bar pull; is built low, and narrow, and will turn in its own length. Owing to the many different conditions under which a tractor must operate, it will be supplied in two forms of drive, the round wheel and the caterpillar types, and in addition to use in plowing and cultivating will be available for cutting ensilage, hauling to market and the many other uses around a ranch or orchard for which a power plant of this kind may be employed.

The Moreland Tractor will be built at the Moreland plants at Burbank, under the most advanced methods of supplying material and assembling, and a large production will keep costs down to a minimum so that the finished product may be kept within reasonable price bounds.

The Moreland Gasifier will become a part of the motor so the tractor will operate on distillate with as great a degree of success as the Moreland Distillate Motor Truck and this economy feature will greatly increase the appeal to the rancher of small and medium acreage.

Within a few days there will be issued a folder giving more complete specifications and details. If you are interested send your name to the address below and the folder will be mailed at an early date.

DEMONSTRATIONS HAVE BEEN HELP.

The tractor as a practical farm machine may be said to have dated from the first national power farming demonstration in 1913. The evolution of the tractor from that date to this is remarkable. The machines at the first demonstration were built somewhat along the lines of the railway locomotive. They were powerful, but heavy and inelastic. The tractor of the present day is comparatively small, compact, powerful without the excessive weight of the early day machine, and will do tricks like a circus horse. It climbs hills, turns sharp corners, changes speeds with ease, and, in fact, behaves itself almost like a live thing in the hands of the man who has ordinary ability in handling it.

It's time to begin thinking about non-skid tires.

ENGINE KNOCKS ARE DANGEROUS.

Too much cannot be said to emphasize the need for continual watchfulness for things that are not right with the engine. The tractioneer who can operate his machine year after year with the least expense is the man who is continually on the lookout for strange noises and peculiar actions in any part of the engine. Then he is very seldom surprised by finding anything wrong which will require a great deal of work and the replacement of a number of parts. Just as soon as a repair or adjustment is necessary he will notice it and will attend to the matter before it becomes serious.

No car should be judged by beauty alone, but that's about as far as some women go in making a purchase.

SYSTEMATIC WORK ALWAYS IS BEST.

The best way to the chores on a tractor is to do them in a regular order. For instance, each morning first fill all the grease cups, then oil all places needing oil from a hand oiler, then fill the oil reservoir, next fill the radiator, then fill the gasoline tank; afterward one can wipe off the machine and then he will be ready for a day's work. While one is doing this work he will naturally be watching the various parts of the machine and if anything is wrong or any part is broken the chances are he will notice it and repair it before any serious damage is done.

MANY USES OF TRACTOR MAKE IT VERY VALUABLE.

Farmer Gets His Money Back When He Buys a "Gasoline Horse."

IN ANSWER to the question, "What should a tractor do?" a well-known traction engineer stated his opinion in this way: "It should be to the farmer a more efficient and more economical source of power than the horse, not a mere plowing machine, not additional power, but a really acceptable substitute for the horse, capable of carrying on any important power-using activity of the farm."

STILL USE HORSE.

Whether or not the time is to come when the farmer can do away with horses entirely for farm work is a question that need give horse lovers and breeders no cause for worry, at least yet awhile. What concerns the men who are buying, or who want to buy, tractors, is to get something that will supplement horse power, not substitute for it. They need power that will relieve their horses of the heavy drudgery of farm work.

In this connection, the principal advantage they expect to gain with mechanical power is to be able to do such work as plowing, seeding, harvesting, etc., at the right time and under the most favorable conditions. In other words, to do his work at the right time is the main reason why the intelligent farmer invests his money in a tractor.

CUTS EXPENSE.

Your wise manager buys a tractor, not only to relieve his horses but to make it possible for him to use fewer horses. Ordinarily, a few must be kept anyway, but he usually aims to get rid of all he can in order to make the actual cost of the tractor as low as possible. A few farmers, however, keep as many horses as before buying the engine, which goes to show how badly they need the additional power.

Plowing is the hardest of all farm work for horses; it is the sort of drudgery for which the farmer most needs mechanical power. There is a very large percentage of farms in this country on which the tractor is an economical investment if used for plowing alone. So important is it to have spring and fall plowing done quickly and at the right time that tractor plowing has a great advantage over horse plowing.

MANY USES.

For the sake of the highest efficiency and economy, the farmer should not be satisfied to maintain a single-purpose machine or one for which he finds only a few uses at the most. In order to get the most value out of it, he will put it to work at as many different tasks as it will perform quicker and cheaper than horses. There will be many, of course, for which horses will be better adapted, and vice versa.

It is well before buying a tractor to make a study of the tractive and belt operations on your farm that require power for their performance and decide, as far as possible, how many of these can be done best with the tractor. With these different operations in mind, the prospective purchaser will be in better position to select a size and type of machine that will be suited to his needs.

SELECTION.

In the matter of selection, since it will be needed principally for plowing, the buyer should give first consideration to a tractor that is especially well suited to that kind of work. However, he should also bear in mind that of almost equal importance is to get one that is designed to do a variety of work—in other words, a general-purpose machine.

While the ultimate type or types of tractors have not yet been settled upon, there are many machines on the market today which are successfully adapted to a variety of work. One of the most gratifying things in this connection is the fact that, for the most part, the implements and machines designed for use with horses can, with a few minor changes, be used quite satisfactorily with the tractor.

EXPERIENCES.

Five years ago Raymond Olney, a writer contributing to the Successful Farming Magazine, spent six months, from March 1 to September 1, operating a tractor on an experimental farm in Iowa. That season it was used for all sorts of field work, even to plowing the garden, and only excepting such jobs as planting and cultivating corn, and mowing and raking hay. The last-named operations are relatively light work for horses and can ordinarily be done as well with them as with an engine, thus leaving the latter for the heavier work.

The first work to which the tractor was put was spring plowing. Following the plowing it was used for preparing the seed bed and seeding. For this work a ten-foot, double-throw disc harrow and a ten-foot single disc drill were hauled tandem, thus performing the two operations at the same time. On corn stubble ground, which was not previously plowed, a large "I" beam was used ahead of the disc to break up the corn stumps and level the ground.

OTHER JOBS.

After seeding, the engine was used for hauling manure. In this operation two spreaders were used, one being loaded at the barnyard while the other was being unloaded on the field. Following this job, the tractor was put to work grading and leveling roads. When haying time arrived the work of mowing and raking was done by the teams while the tractor was used for hauling the hay wagon and loader.

Nowadays these tasks would not seem such a great variety of work for the tractor, but five years ago they were. If the tractor in its primitive form could accomplish these feats, think of the possibilities of the tractor of today in its far more perfect form.

VERSATILE.

Such a record as this indicates that the farmer can find plenty of uses for the engine once he gets it. With some farmers, however, there is a tendency to save as much wear and tear as possible on an expensive machine and instead of getting all the work they can out of it they seem to think that it should be used only when absolutely necessary. This is not good economy or good management.

Farm work to which the tractor can be put is divided into two general classes (1) tractive or field operations, (2) belt or stationary operations.

Under the classification of field work tractors are now being used for hauling plows, disc, smoothing and spring-tooth harrows, land rollers, packers, crushers and levelers, drills and seeders, planter and listers, cultivators, straw, manure and lime spreaders, hay tools, such as mowers, rakes, tedders, wagons and loaders, grain and corn binders and corn pickers, grain headers and combined harvesters and threshers, potato diggers and many other uses of less importance. The tractor is also very largely used for hauling produce, supplies, etc., and for building and maintaining roads.

STANDING STILL.

Under the head of stationary or belt operations the tractor can be put to quite a variety of work, such as driving feed mills or grinders, fodder and silage cutters, corn shellers, corn shredders and huskers, grain separators and clover hullers, pea and bean threshers, baling presses, lime pulverizers, sawmills and buzz saws, pumping—these are the most common stationary operations.

With such a list of uses before him the average owner will have little difficulty in finding plenty of work for his tractor, work which it will do quicker, easier, cheaper and better than horses. And furthermore he should be able to keep it busy a considerable part of the time during the season of field work.

COLLEGES TEACH WORK OF TRACTOR.

The tractor has invaded the precincts of the university. In the latter part of August Perdue University at Lafayette, Ind., gave a course in tractors in connection with its course in farm mechanics, which is part of the curriculum of the school of agriculture. The instruction covered both lectures and actual demonstrations and was such a success that several other prominent agricultural schools plan to add a course in tractors to their regular list of studies.

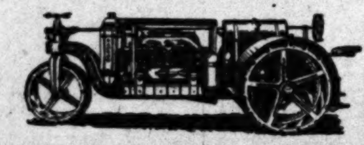
SAMSON SIEVE-GRIP



TRACTORS

BUILT IN CALIFORNIA TO SUIT CALIFORNIA CONDITIONS.

Will plow or cultivate your ground. The Sieve-Grip Wheels find good traction on plowed or cultivated ground and do not pack the soil. Substantially built. Every part of the Samson made of carefully selected material by experienced mechanics. Can be used to advantage on small tracts, as well on large farms. Over 350 in use in Southern California alone. Will do more work at less operating and upkeep expense than any other.

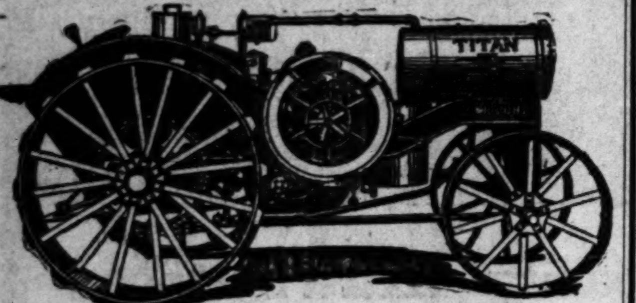
THE INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER TRACTORS DOING REAL PLOWING



There are many good reasons why you should see the International Harvester tractors doing actual work.

The Mogul and Titan line of tractors are all-the-year-'round, all-purpose tractors. Farmers and ranchers in all sections of the country are using them successfully. Why? Because they do all kinds of work. They do the plain harrowing, disking and drilling. They pull Binders, Mowers, Hay Loaders, etc. They do hauling, in fact, nearly everything that horses are used for.

So far, we have only told you the half. There is also the belt work—grinding feed, pumping water, threshing, filling the silo, shelling and shredding the corn, etc. They do all of these and more, too.

Be sure to see the International Harvester tractors use and burn cheap fuels "SUCCESSFULLY." This feature will cut your fuel bills nearly in half.

Our experts will be there to give you tractor information and knowledge that has resulted from many years of successful tractor experiments.

Tractor Expected to Halt Food Shortage

Relief.

TRACTOR MAY BE ONLY AID.

Age of Starvation Can be Changed to Plenty.

Yield of Acre in America Can be Increased.

With Machinery One Man Can Replace Three.

Will the tractor prevent another starvation age? This is a burning questions in view of the present high cost of food, with no signs of any relief. The question is discussed at some length in "A Tractor Analysis," a publication of Arthur Capper of Topeka, Kan.

There is some evidence in the present high price of foodstuffs that we are facing another period of starvation such as this nation had in the days of hand tools, during which the American farmer was not able to produce much more food than was sufficient for the needs of his own family.

The possibility is, of course, remote, but is not entirely impossible for there has been but a small increase in the world's production of foodstuffs in recent years, although there has been a heavy and a steady increase in population and in the amount of food consumed by each individual throughout the world.

The price of all food production has had a steady increase since 1897, when the period of overproduction came to an end. The European war is a contributing factor to the present high prices, but is not entirely responsible for them. With the coming of peace and a resumption of the normal population increase we can expect the high prices of food to continue.

As regards production in America, the shortage is not so much with the number of acres farmed, as with the yield secured. The acre yield in America under our extensive system is low, although the man yield is high. In Europe and Asiatic countries, under systems of intensive farming, the acre yield is high and the man yield is low.

For example, the acre yield of wheat in America is a little more than fourteen bushels, while in Germany it is thirty-one bushels; in France almost thirty bushels, in Japan twenty-four bushels. But the yearly income for each farm family in America is approximately $1000, as compared with $580 for Germany, $570 for France and $235 for Japan.

Today each person in the United States consumes on an average between five and six bushels of wheat per year, and each family consumes on an average of half a ton of meat per year. Under the new systems of farming fewer people are needed on the farm to produce a living for the world, and more people are engaged in nonproductive occupations in towns.

Formerly a farm supported a family and produced a small surplus to supply the needs of a few people who lived in town. Today the farms are required to support three families at home and then supply some foodstuffs to be shipped abroad.

Not so many years ago the farm hand could be hired for $15 a month with board and washing. The price soon rose to $20 and $25 and kept going up until now $30 to $40 is the average price and some farmers are paying as high as $50 and $60 for exceptionally good hands. Even at that farm hands are unobtainable in many districts.

Present methods on the large farms of the Central West are sufficient to feed, clothe and educate the farmer's family and give them many of the pleasures of life. Therefore he doesn't worry, but if it can be shown that by the use of tractors and other modern machinery he can double his income with the same effort, he gets busy at once.

The standard of intelligence of the people on the farm in any country is directly related to the income derived from farming as compared with that derived from other occupations. If farming is allowed to become less profitable per capita in comparison with other occupations the business will be given over to less efficient persons than are now on the farm.

The tendency, however, is now in the other direction. Great surprise was caused by the 1910 census, which showed that many of the rich western agricultural States had lost in farm population. An analysis of the change shows that it was due to modern inventions and improved farm machinery, enabling one man to do the work required of three men under the old system.

As time goes on it becomes more and more apparent that tractors and other modern farm implements, by doing away with extra help and saving time and labor, are bound to make our farms more and more productive with the same amount of actual work. The same number of farmers five years from now will probably turn out 50 per cent. more crops on the same amount of land as they can do now and will have time enough to cultivate more land without increasing their supply of human help.

The farm tractor and modern farm machinery seem to be the factors destined to turn a possible age of near-starvation into one of plenty.

COMMITTEE WILL CONSIDER PLANS.

A committee has been appointed by the National Implement and Vehicle Association to consider and make recommendations concerning the national tractor demonstration for 1918. Following are the members of the committee: E. J. Gittens, vice-president J. I. Case T. M. Co.; W. H. Haggard, Emerson-Brantingham Company; Finley P. Mounts, president Advance-Rumely Company; H. B. Dinneen, John Deere Plow Company, and Dent Parrett, president Parrett Tractor Company.

SHARP PLOWS MEAN A SAVING OF POWER.

Sharp plows require less power to pull and therefore mean a lower cost of operation and longer life for the tractor. Lengthening of hitches between engine and plow will often eliminate a large part of the side draft which is another good way of reducing the cost of the work.

Some types of tractors.

Here are a few of the various kinds of tractors which will be demonstrated at the big show this week on the Vail ranch. They vary from the small orchard tractors to the huge caterpillar type shown climbing a steep grade.

Tractors are Scarce.

FARMERS ANXIOUS THAT PRODUCTION BE FASTER.

Land that Could be Cultivated is Idle Because of Lack of Machines.

THERE must be millions of acres that easily could be put into cultivation this fall if tractors were available! Such is the indication of the reports coming from the farmers' conference at Kansas City, Mo., on increased grain production. The use of small tractors as an aid to the solution of the labor problem, growing worse all the time, received first consideration at the conference.

The first annual farm tractor demonstration of the agricultural department of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., attracted attention that indicated much the same belief among the farmers of the more northern section of the country. Such a large crowd of farmers from Indiana, Ohio and Illinois were attracted to Lafayette the members of the faculty who had charge of the demonstrations had to abandon their programme and separate the men into squads for instruction.

The farmers want tractors, but they also want someone to run them and they want to know more about them mechanically.

It had been expected that about seventy-five men interested in tractor farming would attend the demonstration at Lafayette, but more than 300 came. Classes in various phases of tractor plowing were conducted throughout the week. Tractors were assembled, and the men were taught the proper care of the machines. Plowing demonstrations were made under the direction of experts, and each man in attendance was given an opportunity to handle a tractor. The tractors represented at Lafayette were the Case, J. I. Case Plow Works, Emerson-Brantingham, Wallis Cub, Avery, Tital, International, Marshall and Heider.

In New Mexico the practice is to hire work done by tractors, the soil being turned, planted and dragged in one operation. In Oklahoma—as farmers from elsewhere report of their sections—repairs are sometimes slow in coming and tractor plowing is held up. This difficulty has been overcome by one Oklahoma farmer. Repairs failed to appear, and plowing had to go on, so the farmer had a car of coal sent to the farm for the traction engine that had been used in threshing, and the traction engine proceeded with the plowing at the rate of twenty-five acres a day, pulling the three plows of one tractor, the four of another and the three which mules had been pulling.

HAY HARVESTING MADE SIMPLE BY GASOLINE.

Hay harvesting by tractor was accomplished in a businesslike manner by an Illinois farmer named B. J. Morgan. He hitched his tractor to a side-delivery rake, hay-loader and rack at the same time and accomplished his harvesting in one operation instead of two. In addition to using his tractor in the hay harvesting, Mr. Morgan pulled his binder with it and also employed it on the road, hauling gravel, cement and lumber for a large barn being erected on his farm.

[illegible]

TRACTOR IS TIME SAVE

Enables Farmers to Pl[illegible] Right Time.

Average Land Owner [illegible] Very Late Start.

And then Tries to [illegible] the Weather.

Every farmer knows the [illegible] tance of time and season [illegible] the land and in planting [illegible] the crop. Success in farm[illegible] pends upon doing things at [illegible] time. The farm tractor is [illegible] of assisting the farmer to [illegible] work done at the time when [illegible] have the best effect.

USUALLY LATE.

Very few farmers make the [illegible] of being ahead of the season [illegible] their work; a great majority [illegible] often behind time in carrying [illegible] their farming operations [illegible] whether this is caused by [illegible] bad management or by [illegible] stances which the farmer [illegible] present equipment and [illegible] cannot control, the result [illegible] low yields or costly [illegible] which not only greatly reduce [illegible] profits and production of food[illegible] stuffs, but also decrease the [illegible] and comforts of country life.

The losses which may [illegible] doing simple kinds of work [illegible] farm, out of season are [illegible] fully realized by many farmers [illegible] plowing a field one week [illegible] after the ground had become [illegible] and cloddy, the labor and [illegible] preparing the seed bed [illegible] more than double and the [illegible] is not as good as it would [illegible] been had the plowing been [illegible] few days earlier. Many a [illegible] alfalfa or clover has failed [illegible] because of unfavorable [illegible] conditions, caused by wrong [illegible] timely preparation of the [illegible] dividual instances of loss [illegible] ing from untimely operations [illegible] farm could be multiplied [illegible] farmer can give experience of [illegible] kind.

GOOD [illegible]

Several years ago an [illegible] was made at the Kansas [illegible] Station in cultivating [illegible] "wrong time" and the [illegible] The "right time" [illegible] the rain, before the [illegible] hard crust and while [illegible] small and tender. The [illegible] means a few days [illegible] ground has become [illegible] the weeds larger. [illegible] an equal number of [illegible] ing the season with [illegible] vator, the time of [illegible] the only difference [illegible] a result of three [illegible] "right time" cultivation [illegible] the average six [illegible] per acre than the "wrong time" cul[illegible] tivation.

Failure to [illegible] farm work at the right time [illegible] no doubt, the fault of the [illegible] farmer who may have [illegible] habit of procrastination [illegible] be shiftless or ignorant [illegible] often the fault is due to [illegible] practice or system of [illegible] lack of efficient help [illegible] of unsuitable farm [illegible] farm-power equipment. [illegible] is commonly blamed for [illegible] and bad weather is a great [illegible] to timely farming, but [illegible] change the weather; we [illegible] range our plans and [illegible] ment so that we can do the [illegible] sary farm work quickly and [illegible] the right time in spite of the [illegible] er.

TWO FACTORS.

Horse power and man [illegible] two most important factors [illegible] operation of every farm. [illegible] two, horse power is the [illegible] influenced. We propose [illegible] untimely farm work and [illegible] farm production and farm [illegible] using more and cheaper [illegible] in the form of suitable [illegible] which will take the place of [illegible] the work horses, thus reducing [illegible] feeding and stabling [illegible] at the same time increasing [illegible] horse power required to [illegible] the farming operations [illegible] way and at the right time.

The horse is a low efficiency [illegible] tor. He delivers only [illegible] per cent. of the energy [illegible] in the feed he eats, and [illegible] only about one-tenth his [illegible] an average speed of 1.5 [illegible] per hour.

EFFICIENCY.

The efficiency of the [illegible] double that of the horse. [illegible] gine will deliver 15 to 18 [illegible] of the energy contained [illegible] burned, and the draft [illegible] tractor is equal to from [illegible] to two-fifths its own [illegible] cost of tractor horse power [illegible] drawbar is only about [illegible] much as animal horse power. If we add interest, [illegible] and depreciation [illegible] tractor days' work per [illegible] total cost averages 5 to [illegible] horse power, against 15 [illegible] hour, the present cost [illegible] horse power. Again the tractor [illegible] deliver nearly twice the [illegible] at the belt as at the drawbar [illegible] animal horse power [illegible] crease when used for [illegible] Relatively small units of [illegible] must be used at a slow [illegible] requires expensive man [illegible]

The efficiency of horse [illegible] lowest at the time the [illegible] is required, as in early [illegible] harvest season, and horses [illegible] to injury and disease, [illegible] natural depreciation [illegible] which often results in [illegible] to the farmer.

ONE MAN.

The tractor is a one-man [illegible] and it may take the place of [illegible] team units, each of which [illegible] a driver. It requires care [illegible] it is at work. The time [illegible] properly care for a tractor [illegible] little compared with horse [illegible] ments.

The tractor is always [illegible] a h[illegible] ull. Leave it in the [illegible] night, and it will be there [illegible] morning ready to start [illegible] load with a few minutes [illegible] tion. In the rush [illegible] work without rest twenty-four [illegible] per day. The hottest day [illegible] mer do not reduce its [illegible] requires no feed when [illegible] and the fuel and oil [illegible] when at work are not [illegible] the soil.

The tractor's fuel and [illegible] the first cost of [illegible] kerosene tractor [illegible] drawbar horse power [illegible]

War Brings out Efficiency of the Tractor.

TRACTOR PAYS WELL ON THE SMALLEST OF FARMS.

MANY people have asked if the tractor can be used economically on a farm of less than 100 acres. Jerry Landis of Ohio wrote to Successful Farming as follows: "I have a farm of seventy-nine acres and am 61 years old, with scarcely any help except from a 14-year-old grandchild. I bought a tractor last spring and plowed twenty acres of sod for myself and then much for my neighbors. When it came to planting time the boy ran the tractor with a four-horse disc and a heavy drag on behind and I took my two horses and planter and went to work, getting my corn out much quicker and better than at any time previously. I pulled my binder with it and when I made hay I hooked it to the wagon with hay-loader on behind. When I had a load I pulled to the barn, unhooked the tractor, turned and pulled the wagon into the barn by means of a rope running over a pulley, then hitched to the hay-fork rope and unloaded the hay. My tractor has certainly paid for itself many times."

Another Angle.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERT GIVES FARMERS' VIEWS.

Government Investigator Tells Uses of the Tractor on the Ranch.

A. P. YERKES of the Department of Agriculture Bureau of Farm Management was an interested spectator at the national tractor demonstration at Fremont, Neb., and gave an interesting talk at the Society of Automotive Engineers' meeting for tractor men during the demonstration. Mr. Yerkes told them that after a canvass of 32,000 tractor users throughout all parts of the United States, it was found that the three and four-plow sizes of tractors were available on the greater number of farms.

Another point which was new to most of the manufacturers is that belt power is of greater importance than any other one item of tractor work. This was embodied in Mr. Yerkes's statement that the farmer will use the tractor for driving other farm implements by belt, even to a greater extent than it will be used for plowing. This work includes such operations as silage cutting, threshing, corn shredding and shelling, wood sawing and other farm operations, where light power is needed.

The general impression, he said, that farms are growing smaller, is wrong; that while the intensive farming movement is spreading, it is more confined to truck farms and that while small farms under twenty acres have increased, the small farms of from twenty to fifty acres are decreasing in total number and in acreage. All the larger ones, however, are increasing. It is in this field that the tractor has its greatest use. These deductions were made from a government census which included the States of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, and the Department of Agriculture is certain that intensive cultivation in the shape of truck farming need not be considered in the tractor field at present.

In elaborating upon the finding of the Bureau of Farm Management that the three and four-plow sizes are available on a greater number of farms, Yerkes brought out the fact that the government census showed that the majority of farmers having tractors of larger size bought smaller ones when they got new equipment, and those with the smaller sizes got larger ones. This, of course, does not apply to the big ranches of the West, where the big ten and twelve-plow gangs are utilized.

MORE TRACTOR ATTACHMENTS.

Another feature which was brought out by Mr. Yerkes was the distinct and immediate need of more farm implements designed especially for tractor attachment. He said that the field of the tractor at the present time is limited to some extent by difficulties in applying horse-drawn equipment to the tractors. In many of these equipments the efficiency is low, as, for instance, in the mowing machine and binder, in which rotary motion is needed, and which in horse-drawn equipment is obtained by transforming the linear motion obtained from the horse into rotary motion. When applied to the tractor, where we start with rotary motion of the engine crankshaft, it must be transformed to the mower, and changed back into rotary motion for cutter operation—a very indirect way when we have rotary motion as a first motive effort.

Tractors are a success with mowers, provided they cut a large enough swath. Some tractor and agricultural implement concerns have brought out special mower equipment for the tractor, such as binders for oats, corn and wheat, corn pickers, etc.

Road hauling with a farm tractor is very little undertaken at the present, being about 4 per cent. of the total work. So far it has been found that the motor truck or motor car with trailers is better.

According to Yerkes, the service problem to the farmer is one of the most important features, and this takes three forms.

(1.) The tractor manufacturer must educate the farmer to the proper use of the tractor.

(2.) The tractor manufacturer must build a machine which will stand up under operating conditions and in unskilled hands.

(3.) Efficient and quick service organizations must be maintained, so that in case of a breakdown the tractor may be got into operation again with minimum delay.

FARMER WANTS SERVICE.

The farmer wants service from the machine rather than from the manufacturer. If the machine was perfect he would not need manufacturer's service.

To keep an imperfect machine running requires a perfect operator. The Department of Agriculture says the best way to take care of the tractor service problem is to educate the farmer to take care of it, and the best way to take care of the service problem is to eliminate it.

In the discussion Mr. Yerkes was asked how many tractors were in operation last year, and stated that the Bureau of Farm Management had 34,371 names of tractor owners on its list; that Kansas alone has 3900 tractors, including steamers.

As to the average size of the farm using tractors, Mr. Yerkes stated that this varies in different States; that many old tractors sold five or six years ago have gone out of use, most of these being the very large ones. Asked if other farm equipment now horse-drawn is keeping back the sales of tractors, the reply was: "No, but attempts of farmers to hitch horse-drawn apparatus to tractors often proved uneconomical."

In reply to the question as to the smallest size of tractor available for belt work, Mr. Yerkes stated that the two-plow tractor usually is too small for silage cutters and light threshing.

CANE PLANTATIONS WORKED BY TRACTOR.

Hawaii in 1912 had just three tractors, and these were looked upon with undisguised distrust. The 1917 report shows 104 tractors in use in the islands. They are utilized in plowing sugar plantations, as well as for road work. Loads of fifty tons of cane per trip are not at all unusual.

For furrowing small types are used, sometimes with two plows attached to one engine. Cane has been cultivated successfully on one plantation, the tractor pulling ten plows at one time, thus cultivating five rows per trip. A capacity of eleven acres per day has been recorded.

SMALL TRACTOR DOES GREAT DEAL OF WORK.

A farmer near Sheffield, Iowa used his tractor with telling effect this spring. He broke twenty-nine acres of tough blue grass and timothy sod, double disked 146 acres, harrowed 116 acres, drilled thirty-five acres, seeded thirty-five acres to small grain and planted 100 acres to corn, using a small tractor as motive power. Practically all of the labor was supplied by one hired man, the farmer himself pitching in and helping part of the time.

RAILROAD RENTS ITS TRACTORS TO FARMERS

To assist in the movement to encourage food production, the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company has bought several tractors and is assisting farmers who desire to cultivate more land than their teams can plow. The use of the tractor and an expert operator is given at a charge of $1.50 per acre for plowing and 75 cents per acre for harrowing.

Reports from the farms along the companies lines in New York and Pennsylvania show an increase for the former State of about 30 per cent. over last years land under cultivation and Pennsylvania shows an increase of 20 per cent. The tractors under ordinary conditions can plow six acres a day and are operated by kerosene using about three gallons to the acre.

GERMANS USE TRACTORS TO CULTIVATE CAPTURED LAND.

NO COUNTRY has taken the tractor quite so seriously as has Germany. With food from outside sources practically cut off, and farm labor consisting mostly of prisoners—women and wounded soldiers—it has been necessary for the German government to seek the method of farming that will be most economical in men and time.

It is interesting to note that of the several types of tractor now in use all have been designed along fundamentally American lines. There are three-wheel tractors of heavy capacity, as well as four-wheel creeper designs for both light and heavy work. The heavy types of tractors are used chiefly for the transportation of ordnance and large supply loads, especially over open fields.

The lighter tractors supplement this work, but are most extensively used in farming work. The troops not in active service at the front are used to cultivate any recently-conquered land such as that taken on the Rumanian and Russian frontiers. Every acre of land won from their enemies is immediately put under intensive cultivation by the Germans and they have found the farm tractor quite essential to the success of their efforts.

Need Help.

WAR DEMANDS AN INCREASE.

Food Must be Turned Out More Rapidly.

Horse has Reached Limit of Efficiency.

Tractor Alone Can Raise the Production.

Americans are not usually slow when it comes to the adoption of labor-saving machinery and yet, rapid as has been the growth in the tractor industry, the European nations are apparently considerably in advance of us at the present time. Perhaps it is because we, as a nation, have not yet grasped the necessity of getting quick action in response to the demand of our government for greater production.

DON'T REALIZE.

Undoubtedly it is true that the greater part of the people do not yet realize, to any extent, the fact that we are at war. War is always a great stimulator of industry. It is not all in the direction of arms, munitions, armament, men in field and on the ocean, although these factors are so spectacular that it is perhaps not to be wondered at that they eclipse other factors that are of fully as great importance. Manifestly, if all the able-bodied men of the country were to go to the front, the business of the nation would stop and the men in the field would very shortly be compelled to capitulate because of their lack of supplies.

It is necessary, if we maintain any reasonably-sized force in the field, to develop our resources of manufacture and supply to the utmost in order to keep up the equipment and the morale of our soldiers and sailors.

MUST HAVE IT.

There is no "bunk" whatever in the earnest and insistent demand of the government for the increase of our agricultural production, as we will find if we study the situation as it exists in Europe today. Furthermore, we must not only supply our own army and the armies and navies of the Allies, but their people as well. They are putting forth superhuman efforts and sacrificing millions of their producing men in the effort to save their lives and nationality, and are unable to produce anywhere near their normal output of supplies, let alone producing enough to keep their armies in the field.

The emergency, therefore, confronts us of at least doubling our own agricultural production. The implement and tractor manufacturers are the men who must save the day if it is to be saved. The demand from the farms is bound to come and it is going to be necessary to prepare for it.

LACK OF MATERIAL.

There has been much delay in securing material for the manufacture of tractors and it is not going to be possible to meet the full demand, no matter how much effort is being made on the part of the manufacturers to speed up their production. They may be depended upon to do their best, though not only materials, but men are scarce and difficult to get, and the cost of labor as well as material is constantly increasing.

The tractor is the only machine that can possibly meet the requirements of modern conditions. We cannot push the horse much farther. In the southwest, where the sun is merciless, the horse is impractical. And yet some of the best soil we have is lying idle. At present there is about 500,000,000 acres of tilled land in the United States, representing the cream of the agricultural resources that are now practicable. We need, indeed we must have, at least 50 per cent. more very shortly. A little can be gotten by gardening vacant lots, farming idle farms, clearing a small section here and there, but this cannot help over 2 per cent. at best, incredible as it may seem, and laudible as it certainly is.

THE TRACTOR.

Nothing but the tractor has ever attempted to relieve the horse. We have no other alternative. We must turn to it and the tractor must respond. With its ability to work through blinding heat, to plow deep and cover large areas, to pump water, saw lumber, to thresh grain—unceasingly, untiringly — always ready, never faltering, with the new responsibility of the world's food supply largely depending on him, the tractor must respond.

FARM LABOR TAKEN TO WORK IN AUTOS.

The Wisconsin State Council of Defense called upon the motor car owners of the State to assist in harvesting the 1917 grain crops of the Badger State. A flying squadron of motor cars was formed to rush farm laborers to and from the fields and thus save much time. Many women offered and drove their own cars in the work.

TRACTOR TRUCK HAS SOME NEW FEATURES.

A new tractor is being manufactured in Seattle, Wash., by the Kuhn Tractor Truck Company, which has several new features. Among these are a compound steering device which affords independent front and rear steering control, a backing device for differential geers to prevent wheel spinning, an improvement in gear transmission to avoid possibility of gear-stripping and a brake mechanism working on four wheels and adjustable.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE TRACTOR MOTOR.

Keep your eye on the motor of your tractor and see that it is well taken care of. The dusty and incessant work to which the average tractor is subject is calculated to lay low the mightiest engine ever made unless it is well taken care of. Compression in all cylinders should be the same, otherwise a disagreeable and injurious "knock" will be developed which will soon force your tractor to the shop for repairs. Plenty of oil is one of the most important things to keep your tractor going.

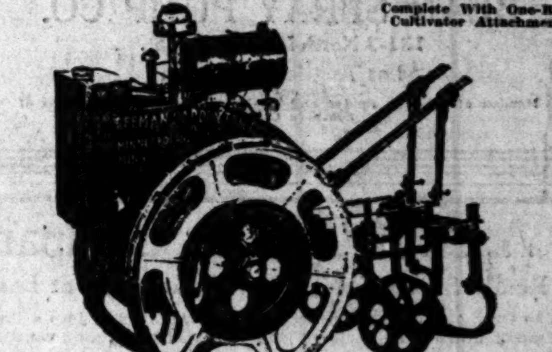
Beeman Garden Tractor

PRICE $260 F. O. B. LOS ANGELES

Complete With One-Row Cultivator Attachment



ONE-HORSE vs. THE BEEMAN GARDEN TRACTOR

The cost of the Beeman Garden Tractor is about the same as good horse. The expense of operating the Beeman Garden Tractor is much less than the cost of feeding one horse.

The Beeman Garden Tractor will do the work of a horse in field cultivation and many things a horse cannot do—for example, it will run the washing machine, the churn, the cream separator, the grindstone, the emery-wheel, the sickle grinder, the feed grinder, the fanning mill, the buzz saw; last, but not least, in sections where "water is golden," it will pump the water.

In cultivating rowed crops a horse in turning at the corners and ends of the row will tramp down many plants; the Beeman Garden Tractor saves them all.

You are invited to call and witness demonstration.

REASONS WHY SOME FARMERS DON'T BUY.

The modern tractor has almost as many handicaps to overcome as the first cotton gin or any other device tending to displace some form of labor in which the buyer already has confidence. Before the tractor reaches the maximum of appreciation it must overcome these handicaps.

Chief among these is the reluctance of the farmer to make himself independent of his horse. There is only one "horseless" farm in Kansas. An investigation covering 200 tractor owners in that State and in Illinois showed that after the purchase of the tractor the number of horses on the farms of the owners had not decreased to any appreciable extent.

The uncertainty in the minds of the farmers regarding the future price of fuel for the tractor is also making many of them hesitate before investing in a tractor. Nearly all prospects own automobiles and fear that their experience in the rise in price of gasoline will be duplicated with the fuel for the tractor.

GAS SUPPLY NOT TO BE TAKEN OVER.

It is stated on reliable authority that the food-control bill will not mean the taking over by the government of the gasoline supply. At one time a report to this effect was circulated as coming from Washington, but, while full power is given in the bill, there is no present purpose on the part of the administrator, Herbert C. Hoover, to commandeer gasoline or interfere in any way with the motor-car situation unless conditions as yet entirely unforeseen should develop.

DON'T FORGET TO WATCH SPEEDOMETER.

These are days of economy, and if you are keeping tab on the number of miles you are getting out of a gallon of fuel be sure your speedometer is in correct relation with the tires. That is, the road wheel, gear or sprocket, of the speedometer drive must have the correct number of teeth for the size of the tires with which the car is equipped. The number of teeth on the road wheel gear should be twice the diameter in inches of the tire.

Every Modern Farm Implement on Exhibition at the Big Demonstration this Week

On View.

FARM IMPLEMENTS OF ALL KINDS EXHIBITED.

Demonstrations and Exhibits will be Full of Interest to All.

MORE than twenty-five firms have contracted to demonstrate their products at the big tractor demonstration on the Vail ranch this week. All of these firms are members of the Tractor and Implement Dealers' Association, and have posted forfeits for their appearance.

In addition to this large number of firms which will have their products actually working, there will be probably fifty or more additional firms which will have exhibits either in the main exhibition tent in the center of the grounds or in private tents.

The products actually demonstrated on the grounds will be tractors and other farm utensils, such as plows, harrows, cultivators, etc., but inside they will cover a broader range, taking in everything of interest to the farmer, as well as to the general public.

There will be huge tractors torn down to show their innermost working parts; there will be all types of stationary farm engines and carburetors which handle all types of fuel; spark plugs, automobiles, tires, oils and gasoline; in short, everything the farmer ever thinks of about his property.

Following is a list, complete up to the time of going to press, of all exhibitors and demonstrators at the affair, with a brief list of the things that they will have on view:

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY—This organization will demonstrate daily three types of tractors and in addition something absolutely new in the way of a cultivator called the International Motor Cultivator. The tractors shown will be the Titan 10-20, the Mogul 12-25 and the Titan 15-30.

W. L. CLEVELAND COMPANY—The Waterloo Boy, a tractor which recently underwent an endurance test in which it operated for 312 hours continuously, will be both shown and demonstrated on all of the five days of the big affair at Vail ranch. This is a tractor of medium weight adapted to local conditions.

WM. GREGORY & SONS—The Lambert Chain Tread tractor, a Southern California machine made especially for conditions in this part of the country, will be demonstrated for the first time in public at the big Vail ranch session. In addition Gregory & Sons will give private demonstrations of other tractors.

SAMSON SALES COMPANY—The Samson Sieve-Grip tractor, of which there are already over 350 in daily use in Southern California, will demonstrate every day at the Vail ranch. The makers claim for their particular type of traction that it is especially adapted to the loose soil of orchards and bean and beet lands.

SMITH FORM-A-TRACTOR—One of the best known of the Ford attachments will be the Smith Form-a-Tractor, which is to be shown daily. This is claimed to be one of the most economical of all tractors and also one of the handiest for the small farmer because of its quick transformation from auto to tractor.

CALIFORNIA MOLINE PLOW COMPANY—The Moline Universal Tractor, which has the distinction of being manufactured in the largest tractor factory in the world, will be demonstrated daily at the Vail ranch. It is of the two-wheel type and will work in connection with a sulky plow, gang plow, disc-harrow and two-row cultivator.

CALIFORNIA IMPLEMENT COMPANY—This firm handles the same line of farm implements as the California Moline Plow Company and the two firms will demonstrate and exhibit as one, having no separate demonstrations.

DAUCH MANUFACTURING COMPANY—Two types of the Sandusky tractor will be demonstrated by this firm. The larger type is known as the 15-35 and the smaller machine travels under the name of the 10-20, the "little fellow with the big pull." This smaller tractor is equipped with the Timken-David Brown worm drive.

HOLT MANUFACTURING COMPANY—Four huge caterpillar tractors will be demonstrated by this firm, which is one of the pioneers in the tractor field. Two "45's" and two huge "75's" will be shown to the public each day and their peculiar method of locomotion, together with their size, will attract much interest.

C. S. ANTHONY—The Avery 5-10 tractor, which is just about the lightest and cheapest tractor made, will be demonstrated every day at the ranch. It is a machine especially adapted to orchard work and will do the labor of four teams without difficulty. It has been used with great success in Southern California.

BEAN SPRAY PUMP COMPANY—This firm will demonstrate the Bean tractor, a light orchard tractor especially adapted to work on the smaller farms of Southern California. It can turn in almost its own length and is being used on many close-in farms.

C. L. BEST GAS TRACTION COMPANY—Two big models of the Best Tracklayer, one of forty-five horse power and the other of seventy-five horse power, will be seen in action at the Vail ranch this week. This big machine is made on the Coast and will be performing right in its own element.

L. A. AUTO TRACTOR COMPANY—An attachment for Fords will be shown by this firm at Vail ranch. It is so arranged that it provides a three-point suspension at the rear and is quickly attachable and detachable. At present it is being manufactured in this city but plans an invasion of the Middle West this fall.

ARNOTT & CO.—This firm will have two carloads of implements, a good many of which will be demonstrated. Among these are Sanders and Imperial plows, Superior and Buckeye drills, Farquhar and American bean threshers, Ann Arbor and Wolverine Haypresses. Everyone visiting the exhibit will get a chance on a prize.

E. P. BOSBYSHELL COMPANY—Some twenty-five different lines of farm implements will be shown by this firm at the Vail ranch. Among them, the Rock Island plow, the Clark cutaway harrow and the Brenneis orchard cultivator will be publicly demonstrated. More than a carload of implements will be on exhibition.

DIXON & GRISWOLD—There will be several carloads of farm implements of all kinds shown by this firm in a big 50x160-foot tent. There will be outdoor demonstrations of the P and O Little Genius Engine plow, the P and O power lift disc plow, and P and O double acting disc harrow and the Forkner spring tiller.

A. F. GEORGE COMPANY—Four tractors will be publicly demonstrated by this firm at Vail ranch. They will show the 12-20 and 20-35 Yuba Ball Tread tractors and the 9-18 and 10-20 Case tractors. In addition to these machines this firm will exhibit a full line of the John Deere Company farm implements.

KILLEFER MANUFACTURING COMPANY—Heavy and extremely strong tractor tools will be shown by this local firm, the only one in the world making heavy implements. They will show a four-gang tractor plow, four sub-soil plows of different standards, two heavy tractor double disc harrows and two orchard cultivators, all in actual work.

FREEDLUND COMPANY—This firm will demonstrate a one-wheel tractor with the motor inside the single wheel. It is the smallest and most compact machine of its kind made and is specially adapted to work on farms of small dimensions. It created quite a furore when shown last year.

HUGHSON & MERTON—Four farm tractors, two of the Wallis Cub Junior and two Tracfords, will be demonstrated daily by this firm. These machines will also be on exhibition together with a full line of motor accessories for the farm.

LICHTENBERGER - FERGUSON COMPANY—Norwalk tires, tubes and accessories will be shown by the Lichtenberger-Ferguson Company.

CAMBRIA SPRING COMPANY—From this business establishment the exhibit will receive a display of wheels, springs and bumpers.

WEINSTOCK - NICHOLS COMPANY—A variegated display of accessories and necessities is being arranged by the W.-N. Company. There will be Schebler carburetors, Gould storage batteries, K. W. magnetos, Golden Giant spark plugs, Cleveland motorcycles, etc.

CALIFORNIT READY CUT BUNGALOW COMPANY—The fold-me-up-and-take-me-with-you type of bungalow built by this concern will be on exhibit.

FAIRBANKS-MORSE COMPANY—Type Y oil engines and such ultra-modern labor-saving devices as Reed grinders, washing and pumping machinery, etc., will be the contribution of the Fairbanks-Morse Company.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY—Things mechanical as well as a complete display of their oil products will be on hand from the Standard Oil Company.

VALVOLINE OIL COMPANY—A full line of oils for motors and tractors is to be exhibited by the Valvoline company.

PACIFIC AUTO SALES COMPANY—One of the interesting Ford attachment divisions will contain the L. & B. Ford truck attachment from the Pacific Auto Sales Company, and the Langbein four-speed transmission for Fords, from the same concern.

WHITING - MEAD COMPANY—The Whiting-Mead Company is preparing a display of building materials.

STARR PIANO COMPANY—From this house will come a setting of Starr pianos and Starr phonographs.

NELSON-PRICE COMPANY—A novel display will be a huge signboard advertising the auto tires and tubes sold by the Nelson-Price Company.

KEATON TIRE COMPANY—Keaton tires, with special emphasis on the nonskids, are due to come from this firm.

NICHOLS-LOOMIS COMPANY—Orange brand flour has been selected by this house as the article to be exhibited.

OLDSMOBILE COMPANY—Of interest to owners or prospective owners will be the space devoted to the new Oldsmobiles—a club roadster and a seven-passenger touring car on an eight-cylinder chassis and a five-passenger car equipped with the Olds light six motor.

REPUBLIC TRUCK COMPANY—An up-to-date Republic truck will be exhibited by this firm.

SPERRY FLOUR COMPANY—Drifter Snow flour, Germea pancake flour and a general line of all cereals not precooked or predigested will come from this factory. The exhibit will include such foodstuffs as corn-meal, split pea, rye flour, rolled oats, Sure-lay egg mash and Sure-milk dairy food for cattle.

M. S. BULKELY & CO.—An Autocar truck and Autocar chassis will be exhibited by the M. S. Bulkely company, agents for this popular truck.

STUDEBAKER CORPORATION From the manufacturer's branch of this motor company will come two touring cars and a one and one-half-ton truck.

PANAMA LUBRICATING OIL COMPANY—An exhibit of high-grade motor and tractor oils and greases for all uses will constitute the display of this concern.

SPLITDORF ELECTRICAL COMPANY—Regular tractor ignition, Dixie magnetos, Splitdorf cable ammeters, voltmeters, and Sumper impulse starter couplings are to be on view from this company.

MACK TRUCK COMPANY—One five and one-half-ton truck and one two-ton chassis will represent the manufacturers of the Mack.

PEARL MOTOR CAR COMPANY—Truxton-Hudford truck attachment is to be the contribution of this firm.

DUKES OIL ENGINE AND DISTILLATE COMPANY—This house will exhibit their Dynol oil engine.

C. S. ANTHONY—The Avery 5-10 light orchard tractor will be shown by this firm in addition to the Signal truck and Glide automobiles.

HOLT MANUFACTURING COMPANY—Several varieties of the Holt caterpillar tractor in addition to a full line of all other Holt farm implements will be shown in a big tent by this firm which has made special arrangements to have a full line of goods on exhibition.

CONSOLIDATED PACIFIC CEMENT PLASTER COMPANY—The uses of gypsum as a fertilizer are to be illustrated by this company as the feature of its exhibit.

GOLDEN STATE CEMENT COMPANY—Various cement products are to be shown by the Golden State Cement Company, with special emphasis laid upon a demonstration of what can be done with ground limestone for fertilizer purposes.

UNITED MOTORS COMPANY—The attachment for Ford cars, known as the Ford-Olson truck, is the selection of this concern for its space at the big exhibit.

FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE TRUCK COMPANY—The name of this firm is a full explanation of the nature of its display—a four-wheel drive truck.

GUY M. RUSH COMPANY—One of the interesting land exhibits will be that of the Guy M. Rush Company, which firm has completed plans for a picturesque display of Riverbank, Ariz., and local lands. It is highly probable that the Tuscon Chamber of Commerce will contribute to the exhibit with the cooperation of the Rush company.

WARREN OIL COMPANY—Tractor oils, motor oils, and greases of every density, suited to every purpose are to be on view from the Warren company.

DAMON SPECIALTY—That old Maxwell car with its paint brighter than new that you may have seen on the streets of some Southern California city will be at the exhibit bearing the name of the Damon Specialty Company. Attendants are to demonstrate the special polish and show what it will do.

DENBY TRUCK COMPANY—From this firm will come the well-known Denby-Winther trucks.

TROY MOTOR COMPANY—The Nash truck is to be displayed by this house.

ENSIGN CARBURETOR COMPANY—All types of Ensign carburetors, including the special tractor types fitted to burn kerosene, distillate, gasoline, or fuel with [illegible] gravity test as low as 38.

L. M. DAVENPORT [illegible] is to have a complete [illegible] of plows and farm [illegible] a special array of disc [illegible] hay balers of their own [illegible].

HOUSER PACKING COMPANY—This firm will give a demonstration of the uses of Violet shortening.

SAVAGE RUBBER COMPANY—Savage tires and the Thurston Motor Fuel Gasifier, a device to aid combustion, will be in the space secured by the Savage firm.

CAL HIRSCH AND SON MERCANTILE COMPANY—This house is to exhibit army and camping goods, including tents and supplies.

JOHNSON & HOWE of Ontario will exhibit a full line of implements.

PACIFIC RUBBER COMPANY—An exhibit of Horseshoe tires and tubes will feature the space taken by the Pacific Rubber Company.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WRECKING COMPANY—From this concern will come an exhibit of building materials, the details of which are now being completed.

UNION TOOL COMPANY—This company has in readiness a display of farm implements and tools for various uses.

UNION TOOL COMPANY—This firm will exhibit the Union Sure-Grip tractor, a heavy work machine which is doing great work on Southern California ranches. This company has made a remarkable record in a short time in the tractor field.

NORWALK TIRE COMPANY—A full line of the famous plain-tread and nonskid casings of this brand will be shown, as well as tubes and all tire accessories.

D. F. POYER COMPANY—The Republic truck, one of the best-known makes of truck in the country, will be shown at the demonstration. Mr. Poyer will have his big machine explained by expert truck men.

OWEN MAGNETIC SALES CORPORATION—The Beeman garden tractor, a small and very compact machine suited specially for work on small ranches and in gardens, will be shown by this firm.

TRACTOR STAMINA GIVEN REAL TEST.

A real test of tractor stamina was recently concluded at Paris, Ill. on the farm of U. G. Stewart. A tractor was started and then locked so that it could not be started again if once stopped. It then ran for seventy-two hours continuously plowing under forty-eight acres of alfalfa. Also thirty-two acres were double-disked. On the alfalfa land two and one-half gallons of fuel were used to each acre and one and three-fourths gallons for the other work. The consumption of lubricating oil was one-half gallon every twelve hours. It was a thorough and triumphant test of the endurance of the modern tractor.

MOTOR TRUCK HELPS ON HARVEST FIELD.

A motor truck as an aid to the farmer is being tried out on a big 15,000-acre ranch near Walla Walla, Wash. This time the truck is being used as an aid in harvesting. A truck hauls wheat from two combines, on each one of which has been built a 100-bushel bin. The truck takes the wheat from the two bins and dumps it into a concrete elevator while the combines are filling their bins for the next load.

TEXARKANA WILL GET HUGE TRACTOR PLANT.

Texarkana (Tex.) has been chosen as the site for a factory destined to be one of the largest plants in the country for the manufacture of tractors, motor trucks and farm implements of all kinds. A syndicate of Illinois men headed by G. M. Stone has already purchased a site and the initial buildings, which will cost $100,000, will be put up as soon as the plans have been perfected.

USE THE RIGHT OID.

The wrong kind of lubricating oil is liable to foul every working part and take lots of power from your motor. Get instructions from the builder as to the kind and quantity of oil and then stick to the instructions.

L. A. Auto Tractor Company
A Really Successful Tractor Attachment at Last.

The Only Attachment converting a Ford Automobile into a Practical Tractor utilizing an enclosed gear with pinions running constantly in oil.

A simplified, and perfected product, thoroughly proven.

Adapted to local conditions. Made and marketed and guaranteed bya Los Angeles Concern.

An Attachment which will operate with out overheating the engine. Will do the work of two to four horses continually.

Is quickly and easily attached and detached without dismantling the car.

An attachment which is mechanically correct and scientifically constructed from the best materials, and including the following features:

Enclosed driving gears, keeping out sand, dirt and water and holding in oil and grease. Oil reservoirs with drip tube on each gear. High efficiency radiator and fan with attachments for rapid installation, also Perfection water circulator.

The L. A. Auto Tractor is Licensed under U. S. Patent No. 1,218,388.

TESTIMONIAL.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Gentlemen:—Some months ago I purchased one of your attachments. As I had owned a tractor before that had proven a failure on my hilly land, no doubt, you will be interested to know how I have been getting along with your attachment on side hill orchard work. I will say that I have not been in a hurry to pass an opinion on the attachment until I had given it a thorough try out.

I have plowed with a three eight gang, pulled a four horse harrow, four horse cultivator and hauled hay and in every instance it did the work with ease and without using but about half the power of the engine.

Concerning the construction of the attachment, I want to say that I consider it one of the very few pieces of machinery that is sold to the farmer that is built to stand the work and not fall to pieces.

I am highly pleased with it and everyone you see fit to send and have a look at it, I will gladly show them all about it without any recompense from anyone. I certainly would not do this if I did not think pretty well of the outfit.

Yours Very Respectfully,
Dr. Carl W. Dewlaney.

the work of eight to twelve horses; on a 160 to 500-acre farm, of five to seven horses.

(13.) At harvest time there will be a saving of 30 per cent. of the time required to do the work with horses.

(14.) The tractor has many applications on the average farm in which it is far more efficient than the human hand. As time goes on the range of tractor activities on the farm increases. It can be used in cutting feed, sawing wood, driving threshing machines, road building and reaping harvests. Irrigating projects are made easy by the proper tractor application, as is the crushing of lime for the land in certain territories in which this useful element of the soil is found.

The tractor is turning the drudgery of the farm into a work of pleasure. The Department of Agriculture, through some 32,000 of its agents, made an investigation of the number of tractors in successful operation this spring and estimated that about 35,000 tractors would be in successful operation at the beginning of the spring plowing.

This represents only 4½ per cent. of the horse power used on farms for plowing. It is expected that by the end of the year 80,000 tractors will be in operation and even then 89 per cent. of the power on the farms will be furnished by horses.

If tractor manufacturers are assisted by methods that are possible under present circumstances the output can be increased so that by June 1, 1918, there will be in operation 150,000 tractors, which would represent 20 per cent. of the horse power used on the farms. It would be possible by the proper application of these tractors to increase the small grain crop to the extent of 1,000,000,000,000 bushels each year.

By proper government supervision the new tractors and the old can be made to produce over twice their normal output, owing to the fact that tractors can work twenty-three hours per day instead of their usual eight hours, and the season of useful work can be 150 instead of fifty days. There is no end to the increase of food production that could be brought about by the proper administration of tractor farming.

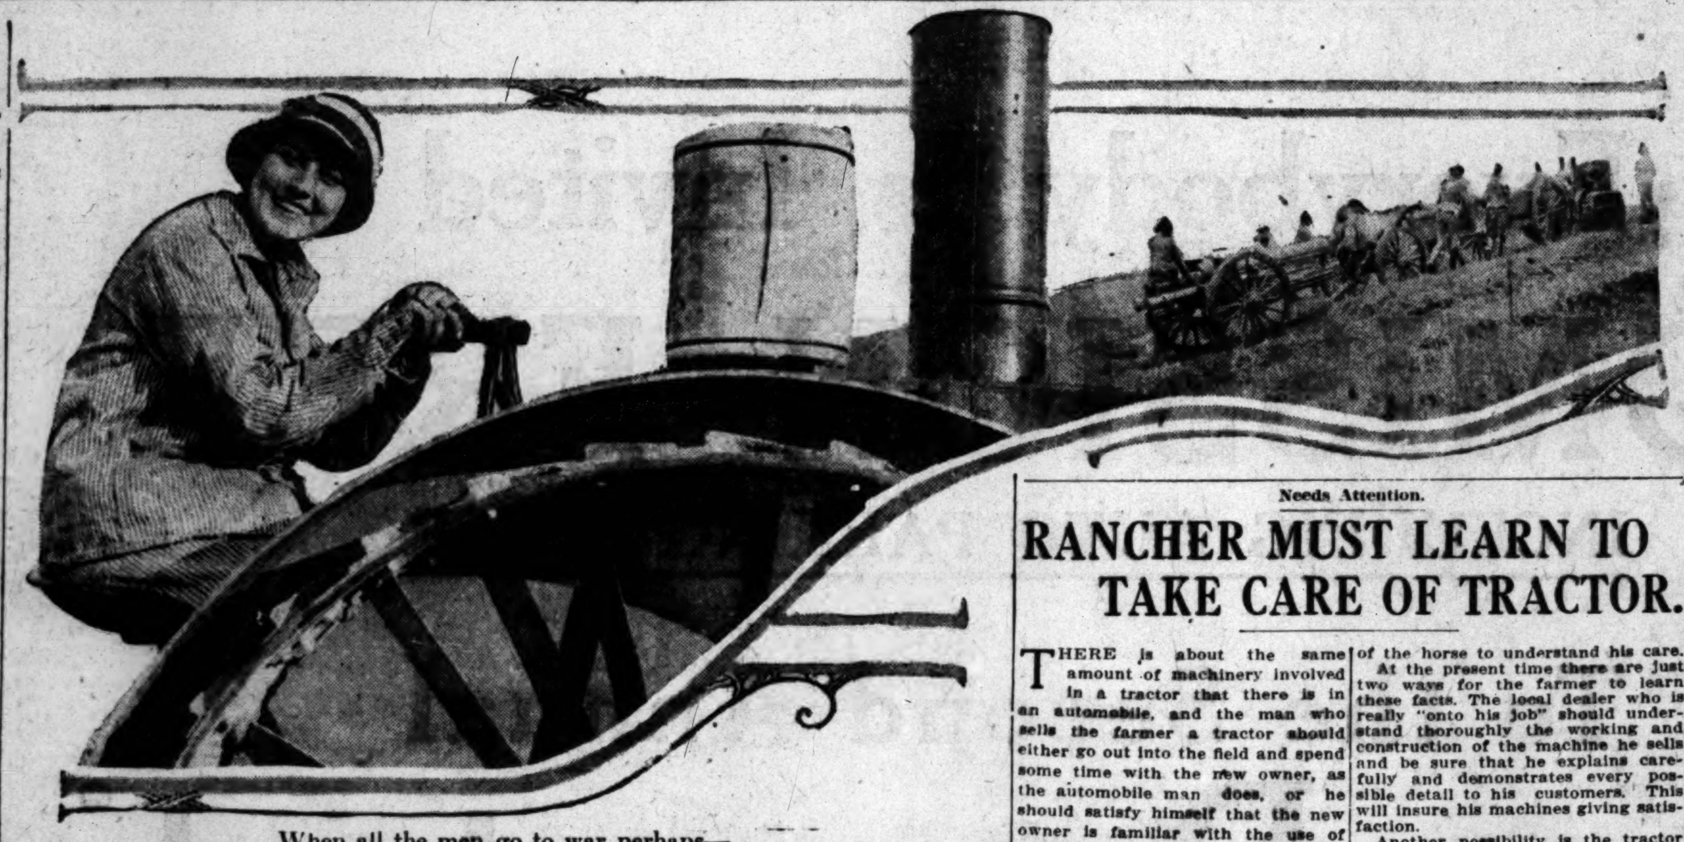
The food shortage for the coming year is only preliminary to the shortages of the coming seasons. Economic conditions that will exist throughout the world from this time until two years after the war will be such as to prevent the return to normal prices of food and other commodities.

The tractor industry is now hampered and cannot do its duty in solving the food problem because of conditions resulting from our national crisis. The production of tractors could be at least doubled with the present facilities if factories could be supplied with material and labor for the fulfillment of present demands.

The tractor, therefore, when exercising its full function, can revolutionize agricultural methods. It is time for something of the sort. The flood of population to the cities has gone on until a shortage of 2,000,000 men exists on the farm. Volumes have been written by economists and students of sociology on the migration of the rural population.

The new method of agriculture must go on through an evolution to the end that agriculture will not mean serfdom. There is no such oppression as chores; no prison term as irksome as the lot of the farmer's life without means of access to town; no serfdom so hard as the long hours and toil on the land by old methods. Farming must be made so pleasant, profitable, so close to the pleasures of the city, so near the markets, that it will be a vast business instead of a prison sentence.

The rural free delivery, the telephone, the automobile, the motor truck, are all bringing a new life to the country. The tractor must bring democracy to the sons and daughters of the soil. It must set them free to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.



When all the men go to war perhaps—

Here we have Miss Dorothy Dalton at the wheel of a big tractor, which she has purchased for her ranch, and at the right is shown the reason for her learning to run her own tractor. If all the men go to war it will be necessary for the women of this country, like those of Europe, to do a good deal of the work now done by male help.

WOMEN ARE TO RUN TRACTORS.

One of the features of the big demonstration this week will be the operation of tractors by women to show that there is nothing difficult or dangerous about the machines. A number of different makes of tractors will be operated by women during both public and private demonstrations.

NEW LOCAL TRACTOR SOON COMING OUT.

A locally-made tractor that will not be seen at the demonstration, but that will be turned out in large quantities shortly is the Moreland tractor, on which Watt Moreland and his associates have been working for several years. It will be equipped with the Moreland distillate gasifier, which is a feature of Moreland trucks, and folders regarding the new creation will soon be sent out. It will be manufactured at the big plant of this company at Burbank.

TRACTOR MADE GOOD JUST AT RIGHT TIME.

Nothing could have been more fortunate than the fact that the tractor was developed and made practical at just this time. It is badly needed. The great world war has drained this country and every country of its horses. The lighter animals have gone for cavalry horses. The heavy horses have been sold largely for artillery use. The great breeding farms of Belgium have been devastated and the horses used for war purposes and in many cases for meat. France, the home of the Percheron, and Great Britain, land of the Clydesdale and the Shire, have been otherwise occupied than in horse breeding, and the production of draft horses from these countries has greatly decreased. The tractor is needed to take the place of these horses. It would take years to replace them with other horses, and the world has important work to be done and could not afford to wait. It takes four years to produce a horse that is capable of doing heavy work. It takes much less time to produce a tractor that can do the work of several horses.

HERE ARE FACTS ON THE TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION.

TIME—The Second Annual Tractor Demonstration will be open from sunrise until sunset on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

PLACE—The Vail ranch is situated on the Telegraph (Downey) road which crosses the main Whittier road just beyond the Stephenson-avenue cemetery.

HOW TO GET THERE—For automobile drivers there is a splendid road leading right to the field as shown on the map on the opposite page. Those not having their own automobiles can take the Stephenson-avenue car on East Seventh street and ride to the end of the line, where a fast auto bus service will pick them up and take them to the demonstration.

ADMISSION—Absolutely free. Parking space is free. The Tractor Association will even give away lemonade free. There will be rest-rooms on the tract. A large up-to-date restaurant will be found on the grounds for those who wish to make an all-day session of it.

WHAT YOU WILL SEE—There will be some tents in which will be shown every farm accessory known to man. In addition there will be public demonstrations of tractors and farm implements between 2 and 4 o'clock each afternoon. Anyone wishing a private demonstration can arrange for it at any time except the two hours set apart for the public demonstrations. There will be shown everything useful to the farmer, demonstrated by expert manipulators and all visitors will have a day of genuine educational value.

which have been thrust upon us so suddenly have presented new problems and among other things are demanding an increase in farm power. The acreage of crops is being increased. That it will be necessary to handle this increased acreage with a less number of men is inevitable. For years there has been a shortage of farm labor.

The most effective method whereby farm operators have met this shortage has been by the purchase and use of larger implements and machines. It has been necessary for one man, by the aid of machines, to do the work formerly done by two or more men. More than ever will this be necessary during the next few years and for some years to come. Production of crops must be maintained and, if possible, increased, and at the same time immense numbers of men must devote themselves to duties which hitherto have been almost unknown in this country.

HUGE HELP.

The tractor is the machine to which farmers are turning in their endeavor to solve the problem of labor shortage and at the same time meet the tremendous responsibility of feeding this country and our allies during this world crisis. It is furnishing one of the means whereby one man is accomplishing the work formerly done by two or more men. It furnishes the required power for the operation of larger implements and machines of all kinds.

The fact that there are in the neighborhood of 50,000 tractors in use is conclusive evidence that they have been developed to a point where they are capable of performing farm work satisfactorily. They have successfully stood the test of actual use.

THE QUESTIONS.

The two questions uppermost in the minds of most farmers are, first, can I use a tractor with profit on my farm and with my type of farming, and, second, what size and make of tractor is best adapted to my needs.

A visit to a demonstration is the easiest and best way to answer both of these questions. They may be seen in action, actually performing some of the tasks which they are called upon to perform on every farm. The machines and their work can be studied and compared one with another.

The sole purpose of the coming tractor demonstration is to better acquaint farmers with tractors and the same is true of the demonstrations held in past years. There are no prizes or medals awarded by judges or officials of any kind. The aim is to give each demonstrator a fair and equal opportunity to exhibit his machine and its work and decision as to which size or type best meets the requirements for a certain farm is left entirely to the farmer himself.

UP TO FARMER.

It is up to him to decide whether or not any of the machines would prove a profitable investment upon his farm and which make and size best meets his needs. Of course, each manufacturer is going to the expense of exhibiting and demonstrating his tractor with the hope of selling his particular machine, but in order to do so he must convince the purchaser himself that his machine and its work are the best when considered from every standpoint and in close comparison with other machines and their work.

The exact location for this year's demonstration is the Vail property on Telegraph road, two miles east of the Stephenson-avenue car line from Los Angeles. Telegraph road is to the right of and parallels Whittier boulevard. The time for the opening day's demonstration is September 18, and it runs to and through September 22.

Besides the tractors, there will be many other interesting and valuable exhibits of farm implements, accessories pertaining to them, and other manufactured articles of great interest to the farmer.

IT PAYS TO TAKE CARE OF MACHINE.

The man who takes care of his tractor and who look it over every time before he puts it into service will find that he will get better service from it. He will have fewer breakdowns. His repair expense will be much less, and yet at the same time his tractor will last much longer than will the one belonging to his neighbor who will not look it over as long as the thing will run.

Needs Attention.

RANCHER MUST LEARN TO TAKE CARE OF TRACTOR.

THERE is about the same amount of machinery involved in a tractor that there is in an automobile, and the man who sells the farmer a tractor should either go out into the field and spend some time with the new owner, as the automobile man does, or he should satisfy himself that the new owner is familiar with the use of self-driven machinery. In the hands of a man who is not acquainted with the ways of a motor the best machine ever made may fail. Man has not yet learned to make machinery foolproof.

A DIFFICULTY.

One difficulty that confronts the dealer in tractors in this respect is that the tractor is not a traveling machine, as an auomobile is. It stays at home most of the time on its owner's place, and is not constantly darting in and out of the nearest town, like the motor car. This means that a trip to the farm is necessary every time there is a lesson to be given, and a consequent loss of considerable time on the part of the dealer.

If the tractor is to give the service it is intended to give, and which it is entirely capable of giving when properly handled, the man who buys it must learn how to operate it without abusing it, and how to remedy the small defects that will occur from time to time. When the horse is overworked, improperly fed or poorly cared for, he develops ailments and diseases. Most of those the farmer knows how to remedy from experience, or, if he does not happen to be able to put his hand on the proper remedy for the specific trouble, one of his neighbors can usually tell him. This is because the horse is an ancient institution, and rules for his care and use have been handed down from generation to generation until they are almost second nature to us.

SOMETHING NEW.

With the tractor it is different. It is new and its diseases and ailments are new. We must know how the machine is made before we know how to use it properly, or take care of it properly, or cure it when it develops ailments, just as we must know something of the construction of the horse to understand his care.

At the present time there are just two ways for the farmer to learn these facts. The local dealer who is really "onto his job" should understand thoroughly the working and construction of the machine he sells and be sure that he explains carefully and demonstrates every possible detail to his customers. This will insure his machines giving satisfaction.

Another possibility is the tractor school, where details of mechanical operation and instruction are comprehensively taught. When possible for the man who owns a motor car, a tractor or an engine of any kind to take a course in one of these schools is an excellent thing. There is no education a farmer can give his boy when he has finished the grade schools that will prove more valuable to him than one of these courses of instruction.

YOUNGSTERS.

In most neighborhoods there is some young man or boy who is inclined to be especially interested in mechanics. If he could be given such instruction he might become of great value to the whole neighborhood by helping the neighbors, acting as a "machinery surgeon" for a stated sum per call; and it would be an excellent way of keeping some of the bright, intelligent boys away from the cities, where the love of machinery is apt to lead them.

At all events, when one buys a tractor or any other machine, he should learn just as much as he possibly can about operating it. A perfectly good machine may be ruined by running it for a time without oil in some vital part or by allowing a burr to come off and let something drop into the moving parts. Not very long ago a man with whom we are well acquainted had a loose burr on his car and it dropped into the engine. Before he could stop his car he had suffered damage to it that cost over $80 to repair. This only goes to show what neglect and ignorance of the importance of various things about a piece of machinery can do to it.

EXAMPLE.

A man told recently of his experience in buying a tractor. His where this machine was made for son has been working in the factory several months and understood its workings perfectly. When bought, put on the farm and given this boy to run, he handled it perfectly well, and they found that it was a time-saver and a money-maker, and now they would not be without it for anything.

Another man told of buying a tractor and taking it out to his farm. He did not know much about machinery and no one told him anything, and the agent who sold the tractor was located at some distance from his farm. There was a slight defect in the machine, as is occasionally found in cars and other machinery. Not understanding the tractor, the man put it right to work without remedying this defect. It naturally failed to give satisfaction and the man who bought it believes that it is a delusion and a snare and that any man who buys a tractor is "stung."

"Know thyself" is a good admonition. "Know thy tractor" is another one. And while you are learning the principles of the tractor you are also learning things that will enable you to handle intelligently all the other machines you have on the farm or may buy to place there in the future. The day of the motorized farm has dawned and its sun is already pretty high. Farm help is scarce, and will be scarcer and scarcer as the years go on, and machinery will have to take the place of men. Already the man who can operate the tractor, the automobile and the stationary engine is in demand on the farm, and the time is coming when the farm hand will find it as necessary to know how to run these machines as it now is to know how to handle a team. You can learn on the new machine you buy if you want, but it is hard on the machine. It is cheaper to learn on some other person's machine and to have a competent instructor to show you how and why.

A Triumph in Tractor Construction

Will Be at the Demonstration
Watch It Tear Up the Earth

In Wallis Tractors are incorporated alloy steels, Hyatt roller bearings, steel castings, drop forgings, heat-treated cut gears, four-cylinder motors, sliding-gear selective transmissions, spring mounting, and other features that stand for the highest efficiency.

The Wallis Cub Junior has been designed not to take the place of the big tractor, but for the smaller farm that has not enough work to require a more powerful tractor. Its construction is rugged, compact and simple. It is very easy to handle, being driven like an automobile. It has the greatest drawbar pull for its weight of any tractor on the market.

It's a Long Way to Petrograd.

[New York Herald:] Russia is such a vast country that if the Prussians go on to Petrograd the eastern battle line, already nearly 900 miles long, will be extended to 1200. It will become so thinly manned that there will be great danger of its being pierced and a large proportion of the Prussian army being cut off. Even if the Russian forces continuously retreat the Prussians will find it impossible to chase them over a whole continent without disaster. Napoleon tried it, but his capture of Moscow was the forerunner of disasters that led to his downfall.

Gray Haired
Men and Women Need No Longer Hesitate

Entirely New, Clean, Easy, Harmless Treatment for Restoring Youthful Dark Color to Gray and Faded Hair Called "Canute Water"

All questions a gray-haired person first asks when urged to use "Canute Water for Gray Hair" are here plainly answered.

IS IT ABSOLUTELY SAFE TO USE? By all means,—Yes. You may use Canute Water for Gray Hair without the slighest fear of injury to the hair, scalp or eyes, as it contains none of the injurious elements of the ordinary hair dye. Being entirely FREE from acid, sugar of lead, sulphur, or coal tar products of any kind—making it as harmless to the hair and scalp as ordinary water. It is for external use only.

WILL IT SOIL THE HANDS OR SCALP? No, it will not. Our own patented process prevents it from staining the hands or scalp. Canute Water for Gray Hair is an especially clean, convenient treatment—not being sticky or greasy. It restores so naturally and evenly no one will be able to tell you are using anything.

IS IT A DYE? Positively not. That is just the thing it isn't. Canute Water is a simple and natural method of reviving the youthful color of hair that has turned gray from age, illness or other causes. Proof that Canute Water is not a dye is that it has no numbered shades — the same bottle is good for all shades of hair. While as the reader knows dyes are numbered 1, 2 or 3.

HOW IS IT APPLIED? Very easily. Just wet your hair with it and allow to dry in good, fresh air. Nothing hard about that, is there? Apply on hair once daily and day by day observe the hair becoming darker and darker. And by the time you have finished the first bottle the youthful color of your hair will be restored. It will then remain that way and simply require a retouching once every week or two as the hair grows.

CAN THE DARKENED COLOR WASH OR RUB OFF? The color will not wash off. Shampoo the hair all you like—you may even use a hot curling iron, as not even that will affect the color. On the contrary, the more you shampoo the hair the softer and fluffier the hair will become. Remember, it will only be necessary to use Canute Water for Gray Hair afterwards once every week or two on the new hair that grows.

NOTE: You are absolutely safe in trying a bottle, as after having been tried and proven successful by hundreds of their customers leading stores are recommending "Canute Water for Gray Hair" to those who wish the color of their hair restored. Believe us after a week you'll thank yourself for having tried it. Sold for $1. at such reliable dealers as Ruth.

She stood breast high amid the corn
Clasped by the golden light of morn,
Like the sweetheart of the sun
Who many a glowing kiss had won.

On her cheek an autumn flush
Deeply ripened—such a blush
In the midst of brown was born
Like red poppies grown with corn.

Round her eyes her tresses fell,
Which were blackest none could tell,
But long lashes veiled a light
That had else been all too bright.

And her hat with shady brim
Made her tressy forehead dim;
Thus she stood amid the stooks,
Praising God with sweetest looks.

"Sure," I said, "heaven did not mean
Where I reap thou should'st but glean;
Lay thy sheaf adown and come,
Share my harvest and my home."
—[Thomas Hood.

Symphonies of the Sea.

To the painter of outdoor nature two voices are ever calling—"each a mighty voice"—the voice of the sea and the voice of the mountains. In some of his moods he responds to the one, and again the tide of feeling sweeps him toward the other. He may not stay in one place for long, but follows the flux and change of his own soul.

Yet a few, when their souls, even more than their eyes, "have sight of that immortal sea," are constrained to furl their sails and cast anchor. They know that they have come to their own without cavil or question. Forever after, the mountains call to them in vain, and they listen with joy to the imperious summons of the sea. They listen and they obey, becoming the sea's aclytes and interpreters.

The moods and caprices of the sea are so many and so varied that the artist who would record them in words or colors need have no fear for his future. He will have plenty of "subjects." Rest and restlessness, calm and storm, seductive languor and wild fury—these moods and tenses follow one another from day to day and hour to hour, and every one of them is a picture or a poem. The man who declares that the sea is monotoneus must have seen it from a car window—and once only. He has not discovered that its spirit is more marvelous than a woman's. He does not know that sailors always speak of the sea as "she."

The painters of midocean are not many. Most artists are content to plant their white umbrellas in the gleaming sand of the shore, and to paint from coast line to horizon. "Leagues beyond those leagues there is more sea." Yet the wonders at hand are enough for all the canvases they will ever paint. I call their pictures shore marines, for lack of better words, and I think you will find "shore marines" sufficiently descriptive for the canvases I have particularly in mind today.

Those "canvases" are many of them pieces of paper, being water colors, but we'll let that pass. They are the recent works of John O'Shea, who has been spoken of before in this column—indeed, on several occasions; once when he exhibited in his studio in Pasadena, later when he exposed at the Friday Morning Club. He is not now holding an exhibition, but I recently took a trip to Pasadena to see the pictures he painted last year at Laguna Beach, where he spent six months.

I rejoice that at Laguna Beach he essayed the water-color medium, for the clarity of his colors, joined to his jewel-like placement of them, shows him to be triumphantly at his ease in aquarelle. The studies in oil are no less beautiful and interesting, though decidedly "different" in feeling. O'Shea, I understand, once illuminated books, which may account for the brilliant purity of his color schemes.

In oil he sought, as a rule, the sea's early morning moods, when it lay quiescent and at rest, not yet awake to the fervors of the sun. How exquisite and how subtle those moods often are I need not, perhaps, inform the sea's true lovers. Yet the aim of the artist is to bring us to a fuller realization of nature, for the most of us are but purblind observers even where our love is complete and unreserved. We miss a hundred subtleties and refinements till the etcher and the painter place them before us in line and color.

O'Shea's oils, the full score of them from Laguna Beach, are almost all given over to these morning hours, when faint and reluctant mists drift away, revealing the sea's translucent jade, or lazuli, or swirling strands of amethyst, and showing the pure white light of dawn stealing over its breast. Huge rocks give foreground solidity to these pictures of fleeting and ethereal loveliness. The handling is simplicity itself—wide sweeps of color that meet and melt into one another in perfect harmony.

Compared to the water colors, the oils are exceedingly quiet and restrained. Yet the aquarelles, rioting in color, are always in tune. They bring us farther from the shore than the oils do, or at any rate there are fewer foreground rocks. In one all the lambent hues of the opal—its flaming reds, its deep blues, its keen and living greens—are at play, and in another beryls and emeralds seem to have been flung into the sea's bubbling caldron, stirred with joyous zest by the huge fork of Neptune himself, the busiest and jolliest of all the gods of the out-of-doors.

The emotional meaning of the sea's hundred hues—this, I take it, is what John O'Shea has tried to express for us in his recent oils and water colors. This, at any rate, is what his pictures said to me.

Granville Redmond.

The other day I happened upon Granville Redmond in the gallery at Exposition Park. He had just come down, with Gottardo Piazzoni, from Belvedere, a suburb of San Francisco, where the two artists are neighbors. I had never met Piazzoni, though I had written in praise of some of his paintings and etchings, therefore the encounter with these artists gave me a twofold pleasure.

Piazzoni, who is president of the California Society of Etchers, had run down to see about the return shipment of the recently-exhibited works of the society's members, and also to "see the town." He has a great admiration for Southern California, and he spoke to me of the beauty of our shore line from Santa Monica Bay to Balboa. He regretted that in San Francisco the sea breezes are not, as with us, tempered to shorn lambs—or to painters with white umbrellas.

Granville Redmond's errand to Los Angeles is a very different one. He has come to be an actor in the movies. Though a landscape painter of distinguished merits, the owner of a remarkably brilliant and facile technique, he finds that landscape "doesn't pay" in the present state of the market, and he is anxious to fight shy of pot-boilers. He told me that he had done a little work for motion pictures, being the cook in "Fearless Fergusson's" play of "The Vigilant."

On first seeing Redmond at Exposition Park I was struck with his resemblance to the elder Dumas—his hair has turned gray—and I recalled with glee that Dumas had been a famous cook. I suggested that someone ought to write a scenario round him, making the great French novelist the hero. Such a play should make a big hit, for Redmond is a master of pantomime, as those of us who have seen his parlor performances of past days can testify, and his facial expression is wonderful—though perhaps not so wonderful when you recall that he has been a deaf mute all his life.

Granville Redmond will prove a "find" to some ambitious young director. Great success to our actor-painter! May he be enabled to return to his paint pots whenever the spirit moves him in that direction.

In the Grand Canyon.

Louis Hovey Sharp writes us as follows from El Tovar, Grand Canyon, Arizona:

"There is nothing that stirs me so deeply as this wonderful place. When one looks over into the canyon, with its beautiful pure cobalt shadows and high lights of molten copper, it seems almost a desecration to try reproducing these impressions with our all too crude pigments. We all realize our feeble attempts, and yet it draws us with irresistible power to try the impossible.

"This year I go to the bottom, at Hermit Canyon, and get it thoroughly into my system. If those who are stirring this old world with dissension and race hatred could go where I am going, they would bare their souls, no matter how shriveled with selfishness, and this great silent work of nature would humble them and make them feel that all the world should live in harmony as does all nature. There is a place for us all, and only when we get out of place or strive to crowd our neighbors do we stir up the quarrel.

"I wish you were here with me, then when next you saw my finished work you could see more clearly where I stumbled or where perhaps I saw and recorded clearly. I go on to Flagstaff to look about there before returning later in the month."

New Gallery.

Kanst's new gallery will open at No. 826 South Hill street some time during the present week. It has been built especially for him, and is in reality not one gallery, but three. The galleries are 20x100 feet, are hung with undyed burlap, and are entirely roofed by skylight. Pictures ought to show here to fine advantage.

One of the galleries—the one you enter as you climb the easy stairs from the lower salesroom—will be devoted to one-man shows, the first of which will open on October 1. This will be by C. A. Fries of San Diego. The successors of Fries are R. Clarkson Colman, William Swift Daniell, May Mott-Smith, Louis Hovey Sharp and Guy Rose. The exhibitions will follow one another rapidly, at no time leaving the gallery vacant.

The other galleries will be given up to pictures of good quality, eschewing the pot-boiler. Various things in arts and crafts will be shown as well as pictures.

Normal School Exhibit.

The art department of California State Normal School opens the school year with an exhibition of the work of the students. The exhibit will remain in place till the middle of October.

The Normal has been especially fortunate in obtaining the services of Eben F. Comins of Boston for the months of October and November. He will conduct classes in figure drawing, portrait and outdoor work. Comins's work as a painter, lecturer and instructor is well-known in the East, but this is his first visit to the Pacific Coast.

While in Los Angeles Comins will have an exhibition of his paintings, portraits and landscapes, and will deliver several lectures.

OFFICIAL CHAPERONES.

It's quite unusual for theatrical companies to carry official chaperones. "The Mimic World," which opens at the Pantages tomorrow, has three of them, however, because the members of the big chorus are below the average in age.

Turns 'Em Into Comedians.

Lions are not usually cons particularly comical beasts, Henry Lehrman is said to coaxed many funny affects o them in a recent Fox comedy his direction.

Although the creatures roam howl through a dozen scenes, Lehrman is being congratulated the fact he has just as many at the end of the picture as at the beginning.

Musses up the Script.

Actors and spectators were tr to a real thrill and a beautiful hibition of riding in one of scenes in "The Strange Wood now being made at the Trian ranch studio, Hartville, by Dir Raymond Wells.

This picture, in which W Desmond is being starred, call a steer to be ridden, and a cow known as Curley volunteered double for the star. Des wanted to ride his own "star," Director Wells refused to chance on his star being hurt. Curley drew the assignment.

A small, three-cornered pen constructed, the camera set the far end, and the longhorn died with care. After the close showing Desmond mounted steer, Curley vaulted into the dle and the fun began.

The steer had ideas of his He didn't think a small pen him a fair chance to show his ing ability and, like some mental artists, he changed the to suit himself.

Straight at the camera the longhorn, and only by work did the operator save able instrument. Through tore the animal and charged frightened crowd, Curley ing without "pulling leather."

To say that that steer putting it mildly. With snorts, leaps and plunges, the ened beast took to the hills, when the Triangle cowp finally corralled it, there was still holding his seat. And vows that not once did he leather."

Captain Can't Stop the Ship.

Here's the latest wail of angle-Keystone player. For week or more Lloyd Bacon appearing on the "lot" in a sea captain's outfit that kee constantly mopping the pers from his face. To further Ray Griffith asked him what was playing.

TO ABOLISH WASTE.

lication of the "Neighborhood Plan" will Save Time, Money and Effort for Various Societies Formed for War Purposes.

BY ELLERY C. STOWELL, Associate Professor of International Law, Columbia University; Secretary Adjoint, Second Hague Conference.

The concluding paragraph of the joint resolution of both houses of Congress of April 6, declaring war on Germany, reads: "And to bring the conflict to a successful termination all of the resources of the country are hereby pledged by the Congress of the United States."

To make a pledge is one thing; redeeming it is another. It is all very well for Congress to pledge "all of the resources of the country," but to get them together, or that part which will be needed to win this war, is a problem for the people themselves to solve; the greatest problem with which they have ever been faced. If our government were an autocracy it would not be nearly

It is vastly harder in a democracy than in an autocracy for the government to initiate and to get things done.

[illegible] our business at present, with no indication that it will be ended soon. The [illegible] hard is now. The sure [illegible] shorten the conflict, to lessen [illegible], is to organize all of [illegible] resources.

[illegible] the one big thing—organization. We must link ourselves, as a [illegible] body, to the Federal government. The really effective way to [illegible] is to revert to the original [illegible] town-meeting idea. [illegible] our complex population we [illegible] back to first principles and [illegible] that we are just neighbors [illegible] common purpose, and work [illegible] the old-fashioned neighborhood [illegible] accomplishment of that [illegible]

It is self evident that organization is necessary to defeat the [illegible] efficient bureaucracy of [illegible] Powers, the American [illegible] and can win only if it [illegible] true to its genius for self-[illegible] and depends upon that [illegible] initiative which is characteristic of Americans.

[illegible] of the numerous societies [illegible] for various war purposes, [illegible] think that we are already [illegible] In that sense it might [illegible] we are overorganized, [illegible] their duplicated appeals to [illegible] these societies often [illegible] purposes and cause [illegible] waste. That system, or [illegible] system, certainly is wasteful [illegible] each of a dozen organizations attempts to reach the same person through circularization, advertisement, etc. So there is need for organizing the efforts of organizations, and this can be accomplished best on local geographic lines—a return to the town-meeting, or to the social center if you please.

That is the aim of the Patriotic Service League, for instance—to provide the machinery by which the inhabitants of all Congressional districts may organize, first of all for the nonpartisan expression of a sound public opinion on questions of national policy, but also for the coordination of the efforts of other societies so that for their various objects they may find contact, through these local units of neighbors, with the individual men and women in every household by whose loyal service the nation's task will be accomplished.

Carried to its logical conclusion this will mean a wonderful saving in money and effort. The Central Bureau will be merely a medium of information and correlation by means of which the Congressional district "neighborhoods" can work effectively. Each will have its local officers and committees and the territories will be still further apportioned until each city block, for instance, will have its captain and each apartment building its lieutenant. A careful survey of the residents will be made in the course of the first canvass, for Red Cross subscriptions we will say. Within the section for which he will be responsible the local officer will meet personally every family, ascertain their ability to serve and the kind of service they can offer, their willingness or patriotism (also, perhaps, their disloyalty,) their own burdens and need of help in cases of poverty caused by war's hardships.

As each new need for a canvass arises, whether it be national or circumscribed in scope, instead of instituting an expensive independent campaign to reach every citizen, the central bureau will be notified. It in turn will notify the local officials who, by reference to their tabulated records or to their workers, can quickly select the list of persons whom it would be suitable and advantageous to approach for the particular object at hand.

Such neighborhood organization will make it possible to avoid the reduplication of effort expended in repeated campaigns and thus eliminate the great expense sustained at present by our various patriotic societies.

Not only will it obviate the waste incurred by repeated appeals to persons who are really unable to give, but it will facilitate the exercise of an intimate moral pressure upon those able to respond, but who are selfishly reluctant. It is as unfair that the civil burdens of the war should be borne by a few patriotic citizens as that all the fighting should be done by volunteers.

Work such as the Patriotic Service League's is really the making of volunteers out of the civil population, organizing men, women and even children by the neighborhoods in which they live for such service as may grow out of the war's demands. Through organizing to work where we live, elbow to elbow with our neighbors, unity will develop and become an irresistible national force carrying out our ideals and therefore really fighting at home for the men who are fighting for us on the front—what has been aptly termed The Nation's Third Line of Defense.

HER PUNCH THEORIES.

Constance Crawley Talks Brilliantly On Any Subject at the Orpheum Theater.

Give Constance Crawley any subject—or give her none—and for as much time as you can spare, and which is sure to be more than you had intended to spare at the beginning, she will talk brilliantly to you on that one subject, or on none. In any case, she is well worth listening to—she who is the featured player in "The Actress and the Critic" sketch at the Orpheum this week.

She is that interesting variety of person—a woman with theories. And never are her theories wishy-washy. Nor her adjectives either. If she has a theory it is a "terrific" one. If an effect is secured it is a "tremendous" one. If something is strange it is not just strange, it is "wierd and mystic." If she likes something she doesn't just like it, she "adores" it. She uses no superlatives. She simply picks out the strongest, simple-minded, descriptive words in the language and she wields them like an athlete does his oars.

The following are some of the "terrific" theories of Constance Crawley:

"Every artist must have suffered to become an artist, no matter what the art.

"The war is the world's spring house-cleaning.

"I love girls—but I have to admit that they think more of what is outside of their heads than what is within. The art of concentration is a lost one with them.

"There have been hundreds of books written on how to go on the stage, but not one on how to go off.

"Styles? I do not believe in a radical change of styles, ever. One should pick out the style that becomes her and, with slight variations, to conform at least to the contour of the year, the particular type of gown in which you look best should be the model for all your gowns.

"Dieting of the body has become a national pastime. But mental dieting, which is the more helpful kind, is being generally avoided.

"Show me a girl who can concentrate and I'll show you one who will attain her own highest ambition.

"In the present-day race between mind and matter the former is an entry running under handicap. But already the war influence is helping remedy this."

Altogether, Constance Crawley is an interesting personality. And, as she puts herself into her work, you will enjoy her in her twenty-minute playlet, "The Actress and the Critic."

Folly to Let a Man Drink, Says Druggist Brown, of Cleveland Who Gives a Home Remedy

A New Treatment Given Without the Consent or Knowledge of the Drinker.

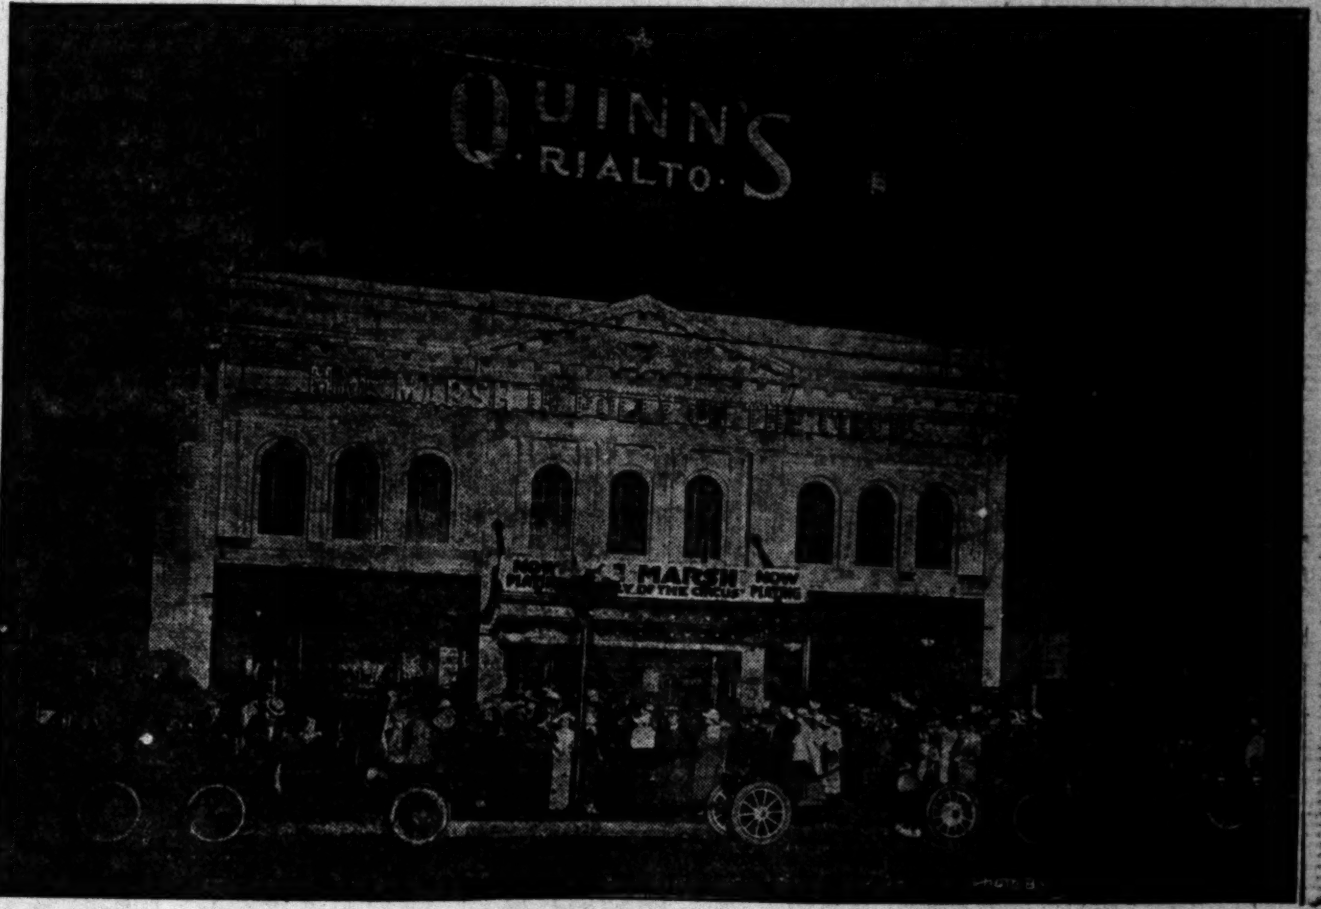
Cleveland, Ohio.—A woman who lets a man drink is foolish, says Druggist Brown, for no man who drinks even a little bit is safe. A woman can break the drink habit in a few weeks for half what a man spends on liquor in the same time, and the drinker need never know she did it. For the sake and safety of both stop the drink habit in its beginning. Let the first whiff of liquor on his breath be your danger signal, but even if he is rum-soaked through and through do not despair; he can be saved and it is your duty to save him. Druggist Brown knows the awful curse of strong drink because he himself has been a victim. A loving sister rescued him from the brink of a drunkard's grave and kept her secret ten years, then she told him how she did it. She saved him from the demon drink, rescued him from his own depraved self by means of a secret remedy, the formula of an old German chemist. To save other families from the curse of drink and to help other victims out of the murk and mire he now makes the formula public. Any druggist can help you if you long to save a loved one. Just ask your druggist for prepared tescum powders and drop a powder twice a day in tea, coffee, milk or any other drink. Liquor soon ceases to taste the same, the craving for it vanishes and, lo, one more drunkard is saved without knowing why he lost the taste for strong drink.

One woman who used this prescription on her husband says: "It is going on the fourth week since he has touched a drop of anything in the form of liquor or used tobacco of any kind. He seems already like a different man. Tescum has gained a wonderful enthusiast in me. I regard it as a Godsend. Just think, I have never seen my husband sober for more than 48 hours in years and now it is going on one month since he had his last drink."

Another one gratefully writes: "I have used tescum powders on my husband and find it one of the greatest cures in this world. He hasn't taken a drink for almost five weeks and says he never will. My home does not seem like the same place and life seems worth living. I hope thousands gain what I have. This has been a good new year for me without drink in my home."

Note: Prepared tescum, referred to above, should not be given except where it is desired to destroy all taste for alcoholic drinks. Women who approve of moderate drinking and believe moderate drinkers safe should give tescum only when they see, as most do in time, that the danger line is plainly near. You take no risk with Tescum as it is sold in this city under a steelbound money-refunded guarantee by Sun Drug Co. and other first-class druggists. They guarantee it to do the work or refund the money.

Quinn's Rialto Scores Great Success



Goldwyn feature pictures went over with a bang at Quinn's Rialto Theater last Monday, when J. A. Quinn inaugurated the Goldwyn programme at his house with the first production of Mae Marsh in "Polly of the Circus."

It has been several years since such crowds have lined up before a motion-picture house, and at every performance of the week "Polly of the Circus" played to absolute capacity houses.

It was a typical J. A. Quinn success, for this manager has been responsible for some of the biggest Broadway successes in the past and there is every indication that he will have the big Broadway successes of the future.

Mr. Quinn announces that there will be one more week of Mae Marsh in "Polly of the Circus" at Quinn's Rialto, and the second week will positively be the last, for his arrangement with Goldwyn Features provides for two weeks only for each production.

J. A. Quinn announces probably the most remarkable number of stars and important plays that have ever been secured for the photoplay production. Beginning on Monday, September 24, the second Goldwyn feature will be presented. It will be an elaborate photoplay production of Margaret Mayo's international comedy, "Baby Mine," a comedy that has made people laugh from one end of the world to the other. This production will feature Madge Kennedy as its star. Miss Kennedy is regarded as the most beautiful and lovable actress on the American stage. She has been in the West on but one or two occasions, because of the fact that she is in such tremendous demand in New York that she is rarely able to leave that city.

"Baby Mine" will be followed by a magnificent offering, "The Eternal Magdalene," with Maxine Elliott in the title role. Later on, Mae Marsh will be seen in a beautiful photoplay production of Oliver Morosco's famous success, "The Cinderella Man," which has just been bought by Goldwyn for photoplay production.

Following in rapid order will be Mary Garden in her greatest success, "Thais." Thereafter will be Geraldine Farrar, Jane Cowl, Mabel Normand and a list of stars of such magnitude and importance, coupled with plays of such wide success that patrons of Quinn's Rialto are assured of at least a year of the best that the motion-picture field has ever conceived.

In spite of the magnitude of these stars and productions, there will be no advance in prices, for Quinn has decided to give these features to the patrons at his regular popular price of 20 and 30 cents. All performances begin at 11 o'clock in the morning and continue at intervals of an hour and a half throughout the day, closing at 11 o'clock at night.

Miss Mae Marsh has sent a number of beautiful photographs of herself to Los Angeles for distribution among her friends. They will be given to patrons of the Rialto Theater during the second week of "Polly of the Circus" between four-thirty and six-thirty daily.

Quinn's Rialto will thus become the leading spirit in big photoplay productions and stars for the remainder of the year 1917 and during the year 1918, for the programme has been carefully mapped out and there can be no failure.

It will be well worth your while to watch the Quinn's Rialto advertisements closely, for you are bound to find there stars that you have been longing to see in plays that have attained the highest reputation in the theatrical field.

Church Discovers New Weapon for Battles for Civic Righteousness. Federations Enlist "Minute Men" in Defense of Morality in City Life and Government—Fight Vice in Louisville—Congress at Pittsburgh, October 1-4, Will Assemble Reports and Standardize Methods—Christian Statesmen to Speak.

WHEN the Commission on Interchurch Federations was organized two years ago at a notable conference of church leaders in Atlantic City, the dream of its promoters was the creation in every city and community of America an effective agency for the spread of Christian ideals in civic life.

At a congress in Pittsburgh, October 1-4, the commission will take inventory of the progress of the movement and measure to what extent the dream of two years ago has been realized.

It was the aim of the Atlantic City conference to co-ordinate in every city those moral forces which struggle for civic betterment, and which frequently fail in their purpose because their efforts are spasmodic and disconnected. The commission took as its model the men's federations formed in two or three cities, where noteworthy results had been accomplished.

To encourage similar organizations in other communities, to unite churchmen of all beliefs to combine the varied activities of the brotherhoods, the Young Men's Christian Associations, the men's Bible classes, into effective bodies of minute men, moral vigilance committees, was the avowed purpose of the commission.

Within these two years, the federation idea has spread to scores of cities, and the commission is fulfilling one of the original aims of the Federal Council of Churches with which it is affiliated: it is linking together the churches for action along lines in which the churches have too long been inactive. It is waking up the slumbering strength of the church amid conditions condoned or ignored because the church has not realized this strength. It is making the church and her allies factors in democratic government.

CONGRESS IN PITTSBURGH.

Conventions are not the forte, nor have constituted the principal activities of the Commission on Interchurch Federations. The commission was not organized to arrange symposiums and to pass resolutions. The Pittsburgh congress in October is to be more in the nature of a review of two years' endeavors, to hear reports from the federations which have been organized, to take stock of accomplishments and failure, "to standardize the methods of Christian co-operation in the service of the community and the state."

There may be brought to the attention of the congress for example, the recent efforts of the Men's Federation of Louisville, Ky., to enforce a moral clean-up in that city. The story is typical of the tasks and problems which these federations are ordained to solve.

In the autumn of 1915, a vice commission appointed by Mayor Buschemeyer made a report on conditions in Louisville, and supplemented its findings by a series of recommendations. Among these were the recommendations that the city's restricted vice zone be abolished within two years; that the inmates of the houses of vice be prohibited from moving to other sections of the city, except that they abandoned their business of sin; that all these houses be closed at midnight and that the sale of liquor therein be prohibited.

The commission's recommendations gained the approval of the citizens generally, and the indorsement of Mayor Buschemeyer, who pledged himself, as Mayor, to see that they were carried out. That was two years ago. Last spring it was plainly evident to those who had hoped for better things that the recommendations were being ignored.

MEN'S FEDERATION.

Failure of police to enforce laws, failure of administrators to redeem pledges has blocked municipal reform time and again in America. And time and again, the moral forces of the community which fought diligently for this reform have ceased fighting because they have had no effective organization to continue.

The policy of "What's the use?" so frequently the platform of Christian citizens in American municipalities, has wrecked the hopes of scores of reforms when patience and foresight would have carried them through to victory.

Fortunately for Louisville, the city had a Men's Federation, young, virile and courageous. It had the courage last spring to remind the Mayor of his quoted promise to redeem the city from vice, as his own commission had recommended. It had the organization to begin a probe, without the aid of the police, to show that these recommendations were being ignored.

The federation's investigators found that liquor was being sold in the dens of vice; that the inmates, in violation of the specific recommendation of the Mayor's vice commission, were permitted to move to sections of the city outside the restricted zone: that the dens were not being closed at midnight.

From the Federal revenue reports the investigators found that eighteen women, keepers of houses of prostitution in Louisville, had paid retail liquor license fees, although the Mayor's approved vice commission had recommended that no liquor should be sold in these places. They found that last June, within five months of the time when the commission decreed that the vice zone should be totally banished, the report of the city Chief of Police showed 103 registered houses of prostitution remaining in the city.

The Men's Federation, after publishing these findings, encountered the walls of the spineless churchmen, who, on such occasions, are always ready to deplore "mixing in politics." The federation braved the condemnation of the smug citizens who always cry that the city "is being maligned."

"We are not trying to give the old town a bad name," the federation replied. "We have been promised better things; we are entitled to better things, and we mean to have them."

AIDS THE FIGHT.

Moral forces in Louisville have discovered that they have a champion. The contagious courage of brave leaders has given new life to their endeavors. They will probably win their fight; but even if they lose, they will fight on. In the federation they have a permanent leader, a group of minute men armed and ready for battle whenever need for battle appears.

Publicity, another ally of the church, which only recently is being fully recognized, helps the Men's Federation present its case to the people of Louisville. In the federation's publication, the various phases of the controversy were bulletined far and wide to let citizens know why and how they were fighting. Through the same voice, the sincerity of their efforts to effect a moral clean-up was publicly manifested in the following:

"The men's Federation, backed by the churches of the city of Louisville, has proclaimed, and hereby reiterates the offer, that provision will be made for any woman of the city who, in good faith, desires to give up an immoral life and earn an honest living. A meeting of a number of the leading social workers of the city was held at the Y.W.C.A. and plans were formulated to make good this offer."

With equal courage the federation has attacked legalized betting on horse races in Kentucky. When the State was selected to furnish one of the sites for the army cantonments, the federation made a pledge "to the Secretary of War and to the men and women whose sons are shortly to be sent here as part of the army, that we will use our best endeavor to make this city meet the requirements of the Secretary of War as to the moral conditions which must surround the cantonments of the United States Army."

What the Men's Federation of Louisville is attempting and accomplishing, federations in other cities, under the Interchurch Commission, are attempting and accomplishing from the Atlantic to the Pacific, churchmen are being awakened and invigorated by these examples of what aroused men can bring to pass in battles against immorality, the saloon, breaches of the law and vicious legislation. They are discovering that their enemies are not the giants that they supposed them to be; that the kingdom is nearer than they had faith to believe.

The Pittsburg congress will further this awakening. Cities with experiences like those of Louisville will relate them to the encouragement and help of others. Eight commissions which have been making investigations along different lines for several months will present their reports on community evangelism, social service, religious education, religious publicity. The country will be interested, for example, in the present war crisis to hear what the commission headed by the Rev. Sidney L. Gulick will report on "international justice and good-will." It will listen to speakers such as Dr. John R. Mott, Prof. Edward A. Steiner, James A. McDonald, Daniel A. Poling, Dr. Robert E. Speer and other Christian statesmen who have agreed to address the congress.

Out of the deliberations of the Pittsburgh meeting will emerge a programme founded, not on theory, but on the experiences of men who, like those in Louisville, are not afraid to fight.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "What is the Bible list of a lady's wardrobe?" is answered in Isaiah, Chapter 3, Verses 18-23:

"In that day the Lord will take away the bravery of their tinkling ornaments about their feet, and their cauls, and their round tires like the moon,

"The chains, and the bracelets, and the mufflers,

"The bonnets, and the ornaments of the legs, and the headbands, and the tablets, and the earrings,

"The rings, and nose jewels,

"The changeable suits of apparel, and the mantles, and the wimples, and the crisping pins,

"The glasses, and the fine linen, and the hoods, and vails."

JAMES YOUNG'S IDEA.

Noted Director Pursues the "One Picture Contract" Policy as Best Solution of Problem.

James Young, now under an agreement to direct "Hawthorne of the U.S.A." for the Essenary company has reached the solution of the problem confronting directors who are forced by virtue of contract obligations to put on what they know to be bad stories. It is very simple. Don't have any contract. That is simple enough for a director like Jimmie, who has a record behind him that enables him to step in and get a job at any time.

According to Mr. Young, the greatest evil of the motion-picture game today is the "directed director." That is the man who is compelled to follow out the dictates of some efficiency man whose idea of love interest is a cash register making eyes at a double-entry loose-leaf ledger.

Everybody thinks they can write a motion-picture scenario and everyone also thinks they can direct a motion picture. When they are paying the salaries this is fatal. They then insist upon directing the picture and if the director doesn't like it he can look elsewhere for a job. As Jimmie can always look elsewhere and get one, he can afford to be independent. He is now working under the one-picture agreement plan. Already he has under this plan turned out a number of notable successes, the best of which was probably "On Trial," an adaptation of the famous play by Elmer Reizenstein. Mr. Young wrote the film version, acted a leading part and directed the production. It was the first picture purchased by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, the same organization which has contracted for all the Chaplin pictures made during the coming year.

A Prospective Optimist.

[Washington Star:] "I'm surprised to find you working over a farm," commented the gentle stranger in Crimson Gulch.

"Well," replied Bronco Bob, "Three-fingered Sam is on a rampage and he has dropped some hints that he is particularly irritated against me."

"But you ought to be an optimist."

"What's an optimist?"

"An optimist is a man who sees and believes everything will turn out for the best."

"Well, I ain't an optimist this minute. But I will be as soon as I get this automatic oiled an' some cartridges into her."

STREETS ARE SAFER NOW.

"Walk Right" Campaign a Success in Kansas City.

[Kansas City Star:] Fewer accidents in the downtown streets, greater ease in the handling of all classes of traffic and less work for the traffic squads are some of the results ascribed to the recent campaign against jay walkers in th shopping district by Lieut. Joseph McCormick, in charge of the police traffic squad of twenty-eight men. The campaign was carried on for five weeks. It ended about a month ago.

"The campaign was very beneficial in many ways," Lieut. McCormick said today. "The shopping crowds are much more readily handled. Women now stop at the curbings and look to see which way traffic is going, instead of trying to brush through and tangle up the maze of street cars, motor vehicles and lines of pedestrians.

"One of the most noticeable results is that there are fewer downtown accidents. People look before they step off the sidewalks and thus avoid stepping into motor vehicles, a form of carelessness which caused several very bad accidents here.

"The campaign was discontinued because it required too many men. One traffic patrolman at each corner, besides the man directing traffic in the center of the street, made five men at each street intersection in the busiest district. This took too many men for the size of the squad and we could not continue it indefinitely. Anyway, the results are so satisfactory to the traffic men that we feel they can be used in other work for a time."

HAPPY THOUGHT SYMPOSIUM

WHILST members of the Happy Thought Club were enjoying their annual outing their superb specimen of the piebald anteater escaped from the studio zoo. It was thought at first that it might have been taken by the circus people, but a search warrant failed to disclose the animal. The ant-eater was quite tame and companionable, and was a great favorite with Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes, the custodian. He would sometimes have it in bed with him when troubled by ants, and it had learned to drink milk out of his shaving mug. The animal had a lovely bushy tail, and answered to the name of Mike. If anyone has seen a stray anteater wandering around it would be an act of kindness to inform the professor, as he is mourning as one who would not be comforted.

Mike must certainly have lost his bearings, as he would surely return to his comfortable berth could he locate the same. It is presumed that the animal broke from his moorings and attempted to follow Prof. Hughes to the picnic, and then got lost in the maze of a great city.

Director David Oliver Tobasco has his sleeve full of ha-has as a result of the one he put over on the Mayor and Chief of Police. It will be recalled that the authorities stopped the fight between Hector and Ajax in the middle of the ninth round. This battle was a feature of the filming of "Helen of Troy, or The Vampire of the Laundry," and was to have gone twenty rounds. When the Mayor stopped the scrap the director intimated that he would take the bout over the Mexican border, where he would not be interfered with. That was only a bluff, however. The very next day he slipped his whole outfit into the Billy Sunday tabernacle after one of the regular meetings had closed, and then pulled off one of the dandiest mills that has ever been seen in these parts. The way the Greek demon and the Troy terrier mixed things made the fight fans stand up on their hind legs and yelp with joy.

And the camera caught it all.

Talk about your fight pictures! This mix-up of Hector and Ajax has 'em all whistling for wind. The merry part of it is that it was pulled off in the heart of a big town during the heat of the day.

The members of the Happy Thought Club all recovered nicely from the effects of their annual outing. The Old Resident had a slight scar on his cheek where he burned himself with his cigar while trying to kiss the secretary, but his spirits were not dulled. As chairman of the committee on refreshments he played the game without an error, and not a solitary instance of suffering from hunger or thirst was reported during the period of the outing. The members did pretty much as they pleased, but before parting they had a session on the silvery sands of the sea, where they had roll call and an exchange of happy thoughts—in verse and prose. That was about the only attempt at a programme during the reunion.

But set programmes were what they wanted to get away from.

That and the day's work.

The session yesterday was presided over by Harikari Shimose, the Nipponese nightingale, and it is believed to be the first instance in which an organization of American literary lights was under the leadership of an oriental. The Japanese bard was very enthusiastic over the honor and expressed his greeting in this way:

"Oh, brothers glorious of Glad Thinkso Assassination, I are so overheated by amaze I shall directly express it to you by sign of likeso. That Japanese boy aged about 47 should be of your insides it is to croak with gladsome. Oh, happy! Oh, mamma!"

After which he asked the blooming secretary to take care of the rest.

In connection with the prize contest for old songs in new dresses there was a little entry from the Faber of Marcus Lyons Anheuser as a flat-dweller's rearrangement of "Home, Sweet Home," of which this is a sample:

Home, Sweet Home.

When you're tired of paying taxes
For phones, laundry and light,
Just take a little apartment—
It's a little bit of alright.

'Midst bungalows and chalets,
No matter where you roam,
You'll find a cosy apartment
A jolly kind of home.

The same careless versemonger has a paraphrase of the "Hard Luck" ballad, illustrating what prohibition did to a widow. It rambles like this:

Hard Lines.

I once owned a nice flat building,
Filled full of good brewery folks,
But when the town went dry, you see,
There was no time for jokes.

For the kiddies and I lost all we had
And the mortgagee stepped in;
It seems to us not good, but bad,
When the drybones have a win.

Susanna O'Meara submits a little ballad along the lines of good old "Sweet Genevieve," a fragment from which rattles like this:

"Oh, gasoline, dear gasoline,
The days may come, the days may go,
But yet we can't run our machine
Unless we give John D. a show.

In the maverick metrical contest Phineas Grimshaw Rambo, whose first wife wrote verses for the Home Companion and who himself does things on a morning paper, briefs his fate as follows:

"The curfew tolls the knell of parting day
And warns the folks it's time to hit the hay—
But this is not for me.
Lo! I must toil far in the night,
It is my way of 'doing write'—
It has to be."

In connection with the contest in the realm of marriage verse there was the little matter of the King-Cole nuptials to be attended to. Esmerelda Hooligan reported the wedding at San Bernardino of Winfield A. King to Miss Carrie Cole. It sounded auspicious to the bards. Before anybody could get very far along the Cheerful Idiot had this fragment on the blackboard:

"A little lesson would I bring
To ease a restless soul:
If you should wish to Win. A. King
You'll have to Carrie Cole."

The publisher calls this a "story of the purest romantic type!"

"The Youth Plupy."

"The Youth Plupy" by Henry A. Shute (Houghton Mifflin Company) might seem more attractive if Mr. Tarkington had never written "Seventeen," for all other studies of male adolescence must inevitably be compared with that classic. Moreover, as a story "The Youth Plupy" is lacking in the vigor and humor of Judge Shute's other boys' books, of which "The Misadventures of Three Good Boys" is as good as any.

Plupy has a place of importance in that; but here he has reached the period of the changing voice and of love. It is not particularly interesting to read of Plupy's humiliations and accidents, of his burning sighs, of his fights, of his precious flute. For one thing, the author is obviously making fun of the boy all the way, doing it without subtlety, and perhaps feels himself modest in that attitude, for Plupy is identified as the undeveloped Judge Shute.

"Cousin Julia."

"Cousin Julia," by Grace Hodgson Flandrau (D. Appleton & Co.) is one of those slow-moving, thoroughgoing novels of considerable girth, about a rich matron of the Middle West who has ambitions of a social nature. She has, ostensibly, two daughters; but it later develops that Virginia is the "connection" of a sister, and Virginia is requested to marry one Tom Collingsworth, who has money.

But Virginia loves the French husband of her sister, who has been introduced to Cousin Julia's family with matrimonial forethought by the Tillinghursts—more of Cousin Julia's sponging "connections." There are so many spongers that the Collingsworth money is needed to keep up appearances. After fiddling around and saying "no" and "I won't" to Tom, Virginia at last believes she really loves him, and they are married.

The object of the book seems to have been to make out Cousin Julia as a competent and skillful manipulator of other people's destinies; but we wouldn't give it any great amount of laurel wreaths on that score.

"The Broken Gate."

Emerson Hough, writing for the ladies' magazines, reveals feet of clay. "The Broken Gate" (D. Appleton & Co.) is the story of a good woman who made a slip, and instead of drowning the baby gave out that he was dead and secretly raised and sent him to college. Don believes he is an orphan until he graduates; then the mother tells him "all," excepting the name of his father. Don gets into a fight with a drunken man and an idiot over his mother, is arrested, released, and later arrested for murder, but the girl who loves him sticks by him though she knows "all," too.

The story is meant to be quite sobbingly pathetic; with all sorts of sensational complications, including that of Don's father being lined up against him on the side of the prosecution; but he has a crimp put into him and at last kneels ashen-faced before the woman he "wronged." Quite exciting and tear-pulling, is "The Broken Gate," and Mr. Hough is to be congratulated that in this, his first attempt at that sort of thing, he has given the lady readers exactly what they want.

"The Little Gods Laugh."

It doesn't require much to make the little gods snicker, though Louise Maunsell Field says they sometimes laugh in amusement, sometimes in mockery, sometimes in derision; but why they laugh in this novel (Little, Brown & Co.) we fail to understand. It is quite commonplace. Nita Wynne, a lap-of-luxury girl in New York, is infatuated with a young man and about to marry him; but she accidentally discovers that he has lied to some old ladies about the safety of their investment, while to her own father he tells the truth and saves him much money. Then Nita falls in love (incidentally, complaining high-brows may here take notice that "fall in love" is a Shakespearean phrase) with the model young man who edits a magazine and has a vain, foolish wife.

Nita's father marries again and dies, leaving a pittance for her income. She goes to work. The war comes. She writes articles and visits Europe. The model young man's wife brings about a divorce and the road is clear for the two lovers.

No. We fail to understand why the little gods laughed.

"Four Days."

"Four Days" is a short story by Hetty Hemenway (Little, Brown & Co.) published at 50 cents. The story of a war marriage, it is called. It is simple, artistic and strong, with little of narrative and a great deal of what is called atmosphere—tense, vivid, impressive atmosphere.

Cosmo Hamilton.

An English officer comes from the front on a four-day furlough to marry an American girl. They are married. They have just four happy days together, then he leaves for the Dardanelles.

A very dramatic story is suggested rather than told when Leonard tells of a German officer that he killed, a big fellow, blond, distinctive; and Marjorie wonders if he could possibly have been the same whom she knew in Germany and who was the first man to love her. No definite identification is made, but one feels that the man is the same.

It is an artistic and distinctive story, one that may or may not be long remembered in war literature; but certainly one that is not soon forgotten after a reading.

A LITERARY JOKE.

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS. By Alexander Harvey. B. W. Huebsch, New York.

Alexander Harvey has discovered a new author, and he is quite elated with his perspicacity. The name of this author is William Dean Howells. Of Howells he says: "No literary artist of his rank has yet appeared in the Anglo-Saxon world to supersede him."

Mr. Harvey belongs to a younger group of intellectuals, each with some medium of personal expression, though it be—as his own is—a little broadside issued weekly, who are very devoted to one another, respect one another's opinions and speak well each of the others. Mr. Harvey is also associate editor of a magazine that frankly revamps what other magazines have written, collates newspaper comment, and plucks quotations from foreign publications. He is also the author of an introduction or two in the books of others, and has a bit between covers to represent his own achievements—a small volume of erotic short stories (which was conventionally praised by brother intellectuals as being comparable to some obscure but evidentally great Russian or Frenchman—we forget who) one of which is about a married woman on her way to keep an assignation with her lover. Her silk stockings are very tight fitting, and one of her big toes breaks through. Instantly she is virtuous: she knows her lover would want to kiss her feet and he would see the hole in the stocking. She can't bear to endure that shame.

We mention the story as illustrative of the literary work Mr. Harvey does; and we mention it for two reasons: one because he says "the criticism that comes to us in the name of a great writer is of value only when that writer is dealing with his particular specialty;" and so far as we are aware, Mr. Harvey's specialty is not the writing of such books as "The Rise of Silas Lapham." The other reason is that Mr. Harvey discloses some peevish pages in the present volume, dwelling acrimoniously over the stupidity of newspaper reviewers, and magazine reviewers, none of whom appreciates good literary stuff; and his insistence on this point is so great that it cannot be explained as else than a personal grievance.

As is usual with disappointed authors, he says reviewers praise only advertisers and English writers. He has a particular grudge against the English—a grudge that is entirely becoming to one whose stories appear almost exclusively in The International, which is owned and edited by one George Sylvester Viereck, chief of the German publicity bureau in this country.

Mr. Harvey has the true German viewpoint in argument. He must damn Howells's rivals in order to praise him. The Kaiser, for instance, called the English "a contemptible little army;" and so Mr. Harvey fails to see that Howells's glory would be greater if at least some degree of greatness were credited to at least a few Englishmen, and Howells yet overtopped them all. No. No English novelist has produced anything of value; as critics the English are laughed at on "the continent"—Mr. Harvey used the opinion of the "continent" as his criterion—and no poet equal to Poe. Mr. Harvey is obsessed with Poe, and has quite as much to say of him as of Howells. He also has a grudge against the Russians—newspaper critics do not dare condemn either Russians or English, according to Mr. Harvey.

In a general way Mr. Harvey praises Howells to the skies; but in detail he picks flaws. It is curious to find that (according to Mr. Harvey) the greatest novelist using or having used the English language should be "great when he is dealing in the trivial and trivial when he encounters the great;" and that "he, more than any other one writer, has rendered contemporary American literature a thin syrup, perfumed to a feminized taste;" that the Howells world "crumbles beneath our feet. His realism is without reality. His characters are ghosts;" and further along we find: "He has no large grasp of anything. He does not think. He merely observes and jots down impressions. . . . He has not made anything original even in the way of a mistake. He is like his whole school in assuming that whatever he cannot do is necessarily the wrong thing to do."

We are inclined to believe that Mr. Harvey, having started out to roast the English and the reviewers, thought to "discover" Howells as the greatest living author because he is ignored as an equal of the former and patronized by the latter; but that Mr. Harvey, having proceeded well on his way, grew tired of praising an author whose work, whose style, themes and treatment are so foreign to those that Mr. Harvey has disclosed in his "masterpieces," and turning about, vented the usual opinion of New York's young, self-conscious intellectuals on Mr. Howells. That is the only interpretation that can be made of this sophisticated jargon, unless it be that Mr. Harvey thought to play a great sardonic joke on his readers, and intended all of his praise as ironical. We doubt if his respect for literature is too great to keep him from doing that sort of thing, and no doubt he will snicker in his sleeve as he reads those newspaper reviews which have unsuspectingly taken him at his printed word anent the "greatness" of Howells.

CURRENT HISTORY.

The Pope's appeal for peace appears in official form in the September number of the Current History Magazine, the monthly periodical of the New York Times; and it is a fitting utterance to accompany the grouping of the official declarations on that subject by Lloyd George, Dr. Michaelis, Baron Sonnino, the Kaiser, and others, which also appear in textual form in the September issue of Current History Magazine.

A feature of the September issue is a complete official summary of America's preparations for war in army, navy, aviation, industry and finance; also a review of the food embargo legislation. The third year of war comes in for comprehensive review by competent writers, with official summaries by English and French experts. The brilliant address of Secretary Lansing on "Why We are at War" appears in complete form, and other important official documents include Gen. Maude's reports of the taking of Bagdad, Gen. Haig's report on the fighting in France and the English commission's report on the Mesopotamian disaster. T. G. Frothingham has an informing review of the three years of tactics of the war. There is a complete summary of the relations of German Socialists to the war and the story of the Socialists of all countries with relation to the Stockholm conference. Historic chapters treat of Japan's part in the war, the Arabs' war on the Turks, the Russian revolution, Serbia's plan for reorganization; there are also articles throwing new light on the battle of the Marne and on how Paris was saved, written by officers who took part in that historic crisis. Important studies are given of U-boat destruction, the casualties of all nations, the fighting forces of France. There are twenty full-page rotogravure illustrations, twenty pages of international cartoons. Fifty-three separate subjects are treated in the 220 pages.

LORNA DOONE'S SUCCESS.

The Harpers, who a hundred years ago this summer published their first book, brought out Blackmore's great novel, "Lorna Doone," in this country. Strangely enough, the novel first became popular here. It fairly went begging in England for some time, and it was not until after 1874, when Harper & Bros. published it in New York, that "Lorna Doone" appeared in the land of her birth.

Marston, the English publisher of the novel, said that it hung fire for some time with them, until the engagement of the Marquis of Lorne to Princess Louise was announced, and then it began to sell. In some unaccountable way, Marston said, the English public apparently associated the title with the name of the Marquis, and so began to read the book.

Blackmore was better known among his neighbors at Teddington on the Thames as a fruit man than as a novelist. The fact that he was a successful market gardener explains the wonderful knowledge he displayed in "Kit and Kitty" of the plagues and profits of a fruit-raiser's business. The pictures of Corney Orchardson's gardening experiences were evidently drawn from life.

LOVE LETTERS OF A SAINT.

THE LOVE LETTERS OF ST. JOHN. Mitchell Kennerley, New York.

M. I. A. makes use of a foreword to explain that they were given into her hands by a dying Italian priest. The purpose of the foreword being to create the impression that the letters are genuine. They may be. Written in a stilted imitation of the high-flown Greek they set forth alternately the cool, dispassionate love of John and Antione, and Antione is by far the better writer and more human personage. John has his head so high in the clouds that he doesn't know he has a heart, and talks about love that embraces everybody—a fine kind of love to write to a woman, even if one were a saint.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

"Militarism"

August 13 marked the forty-sixth birthday of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist member of the Reichstag, whose unswerving loyalty to his principles is responsible for his present imprisonment in Germany, an experience which is not new to him. The first important occasion on which he went to jail was when he published his book "Militarism," which the German government suppressed. An authorized translation of that work is announced for early publication by B. W. Huebsch. Nothing reveals so clearly and distinctly the implications of military rule and a large standing army as this volume, one of the greatest pleas for democracy that has come out of Germany.

Hetty Hemenway.

Hetty Hemenway, the new Boston author, who has written a war-inspired story, "Four Days," which Little, Brown & Co. published September 8, is a protege of Margaret Deland. "Four Days" is her first book.

Red Cross Girls.

"Red Cross Girls with the Italian Army," by Margaret Vandercook, is the fifth volume of the "Red Cross Girls" series. Previously issued volumes are "The Red Cross Girls in the British Trenches," "The Red Cross Girls on the French Firing Line," "The Red Cross Girls in Belgium" and "The Red Cross Girls with the Russian Army." Later in the season, there will be issued "The Red Cross Girls Under the Stars and Stripes." These stories deal with four American girls of widely different education, who enlisted as Red Cross nurses in the European war. In the development of these stories, the elements of heroism and self-sacrifice are most commendably employed.

Two Much Sweetness.

Kate Langley Bosher, the well-known writer, does not like to be known only as the writer of "sweet" stories, and for that reason, she says, she wrote her latest novel, "People Like That." "I feel very deeply," she remarked in a recent interview, "that every woman is her sister's keeper, or should be. I have come in touch with so many heart-breaking tragedies that I felt impelled to voice my protest against the complacent attitude of the good woman—to tell her, over and over again that, as her opportunities are greater, so are her responsibilities. It is only with her help that any permanent good along that line can be accomplished. She must no longer merely draw away her skirts, but with open eyes must seek to know and understand. She has no guarantee that, given the same temptations, she would not succumb as easily. It is my belief that she would. I have received a great many letters from my readers condemning and commending this last book. I remember that Dr. Lyman Abbot, in particular, wrote me a beautiful letter which expressed perfectly what I tried to do. 'You have simply stated your case,' he wrote, 'and left the readers to work out the solution for themselves.'"

Margaret Deland's Activities.

Margaret Deland, who is spending the summer at her country home on the Maine coast, is devoting much of her time to the American Authors' Fund for Relief of the Allied Wounded. She has not been writing much lately. "The Rising Tide" her latest novel, was published just a year ago, and her story appearing in the Ladies' Home Journal, was written some time before her husband's death.

Labor Reforms.

Bernard Shaw is reported to have said that he gets his economics from Sidney Webb. There is no person in England who can speak with greater authority about the facts and figures of labor than Sidney Webb unless it be his wife, Beatrice Webb. Mr. Webb has written a pamphlet entitled "The Restoration of Trade Union Conditions," published by B. W. Huebsch, New York. It deals with after-war conditions and the problems that will require vision and imagination to avoid disaster greater than even war itself. This book will keep the government from going on the rocks; its message is vital to our own well-being because a long war will mean the same labor restrictions in the United States as it has in England.

Amelia E. Barr.

Amelia E. Barr can never be accused of creating impossible situations in her novels. She is her own best critic and every story she has written has been gone over dozens of times least something creep in that will not ring true. Her heroines have been more human and more like real people than those of almost any other living writer, and "Christine" in her new story, "Christine, a Fife Fisher Girl," is the best of them all. As one of the characters in the story very well says, "A mon must ha' a wee bit o' the de'il in him to tak' care o' the de'il wi'out," so Mrs. Barr has put more than a wee bit of mischief in Christine and in doing so has created one of the best and most human characters in modern fiction. The story is full of the delightful atmosphere of the sea and contains vivid pictures of the life of the fisherfolk of the author's beloved Scotland. (Appleton.)

New Books.

To their list of published plays and works on the drama Little, Brown & Co. will add this autumn: "Three Short Plays" by Granville Barker, "The Unseen Host and Other War Plays" by Percival Wilde, "Anne Pedersdotter" translated from the Danish of H. Wiers-Jenssen by John Masefield, two Belgian plays, "Mother Nature" and "Progress," by Gustave Vanzype, "The Community Theater" by Louise Burleigh and "Plots and Playwrights" by Edward Massey.

"Your Part in Poverty."

George Lansbury, the chivalrous protagonist of every practical ideal in England, one of the most popular orators at Trafalgar Square meetings whether in the cause of labor, of suffrage or of the taxation of land values, requires no indorsement, yet the Bishop of Winchester has written an approving preface to Lansbury's new book, "Your Part in Poverty," just published by B. W. Huebsch. Mr. Lansbury points out how all classes suffer under the present social conflict and how each may plan a part in bringing about a reorganization of society mutually co-operative instead of mutually destructive. The book is the voice of the new public conscience evoked by the demand of thinking people to apprehend intelligently the life we live and so to order it toward large creative ends that the future will be forever free of the great errors of the past.

"Fragments From France."

Capt. Bruce Bairnsfather's sketches set all England chuckling, when they first appeared in the Bystander, and they have met with as hearty a welcome by Americans who have had the luck to see them. Even German prisoners have been known to become hilarious over these indescribable pictures of life in the trenches. Now, with their amusing captions, they have been gathered into a volume and will be published soon by the Putnams under the title of "Fragments from France."

"Mr." Hall Is Humorous.

Holworthy Hall's "Dormie One," a volume of short golfing stories, will appear during September. Mr. Hall writes of some of his experiences: "I have never yet beaten the man who did not afterward admit that he was not in good health. Since 1896, when I first succumbed to the game of golf, I had played over fifteen hundred rounds. On 1499 of these rounds I wasn't playing my game. The profanity I have used, placed end to end, would reach from the Garden City Golf Club to the moon, eight and one-half times. The best record I ever made on my course was 78 actual shots, five cuss words, three dollars and twenty-five cents profit, and five cigars."

"Unconquered."

This month the Putnams will publish a story entitled "Unconquered" by Maud Diver. In her new novel, Maud Diver proves that she needs no Indian background against which to work a powerful and emotional drama. This novel is called by the author "an episode of 1914," and is the story of a vigorous out-of-doors man who, severely wounded, is brought home in the early days of the war, and of the girl who is repelled by the physical imperfections of her one-time handsome and sturdy lover. The other sort of girl is also in this tale, the slacker and the pacifist. It is a strong story, admirably told by a master novelist.

Exporters' Directory of Japan.

Prefaced by a section giving general information of the Empire of Japan, its climate, cities, railways, banks, weights and measures, etc., the Exporters' Directory of Japan, 1917, published by the Imperial Commercial Museum of the Department of State for Agriculture and Commerce, Tokyo, Japan, gives a classified list with addresses of the exporters of Japan dealing in all varieties of produce and manufacture, from grains and seeds to metal and ceramic manufactures and miscellaneous articles. The majority of the groups are introduced by paragraphs of statistics and general information concerning the commodity. The book will be of great value to all business men and firms dealing in any product of Japan. It is issued by the Japan Times Press, Tokyo. Paul Elder & Co., San Francisco, are the publishers of the imported edition for the United States and Canada.

Alice Hegan Rice.

The original little heroine of Alice Hegan Rice's new book, "Cavalry Alley," which the Century Company will publish soon, will delight her readers with many swift flashes of humorous insight, recalling Mrs. Wiggs. Quite naturally Nance is most humorous when utterly unconscious. When, a pitiful little figure of eleven, she stands in the Juvenile Court, the judge concludes his rebuke with "I believe you can make good, but you'll have to fight for it." Nance's irregular features broke into a smile. It was a quick, wide smile, and very intimate. "Fight?" she repeated, with a quizzical look at the judge. "I thought that was what we was pinched fer."

AVIATION.

HOW TO FLY. By A. Frederick Collins. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Mr. Collins is the author of many books elucidating the obscurities of mechanics for the layman, and he handles the technicalities of aerial craft in a way calculated not to befuddle anybody. He goes into the principles of flying, describes the construction and parts of aircraft with the help of many illustrations, and explains fully how to become a pilot, what maneuvers must be executed, and pretty much all the other things that the novice may wish to know. He describes how airplanes are used in war, both in guarding and attacking, and has something to say about the various kinds of aerial craft.

In the appendices he takes up the requirements necessary to get into the aviation service, tells something of how to make airplane calculations and of the aviator's outfit.

SOCIOLOGY.

INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY. By Emory S. Bogardus. University of Southern California Press, Los Angeles.

This is, we understand, the first of a series of books that will be issued from the press of the University of Southern California; but as regards printing and binding the book has nothing in its appearance to suggest an experiment.

Dr. Bogardus, professor of sociology at the university, has designed "Introduction to Sociology" as a text-book; and it has the advantage of being clear, lucid, with each paragraph a co-ordinating muscle of the chapter. He approaches all the major phases of sociological questions, though sociology itself has spread out until it very nearly includes all that mankind thinks and does.

But the author has not forgotten that he is writing for unbaked minds, and he seems concerned in keeping those minds free from troublesome doubts. He seems to believe that religion could and may solve all of earth's ills.

The status of the sociological questions is a bit different from what the book implies. We would say that he is alarmingly optimistic. He sees the sunlight shining through the clouds and is inclined to ignore the thunders. For instance, when it comes to the labor question he disposes of the sinister conflict between employers and employees by confining himself largely to what he calls "the moderate trade union" composed of those who are "not Utopians," who "are generally willing to abide by the rule of reason," and he conveys the impression that I.W.W.'s alone plan strikes and use sabotage. He acknowledges that the family is in a "transitional stage," declares the divorce evil to be serious, and turns to religion for the solution. In speaking of industrial or vocational education, which is considered in some quarters as a menace of overshadowing proportions, he merely acknowledges that there is "danger, however, of forgetting the cultural values in learning a trade."

So it runs instance after instance; and while the error may be ours in asking for something more from a book frankly labelled an "introduction," we believe Dr. Bogardus may reasonably have been expected to reveal that the sociological problems are of greater magnitude than he has implied. But then if one gets into the bibliography appended to each chapter, one will get an intimate view of sociology's complex and perhaps unsolvable problems.

Valuable Lakes.

[Popular Science Monthly:] There are several lakes in the United States which contain sodium carbonate, borax, potash and common table salt. The longer the war continues the more valuable these chemical bodies become. Perhaps the best known of these is Great Salt Lake, Utah's ocean of salt. Others are Searles Lake, Owens Lake and Mono Lake, all in California. The origin of these lakes is doubtful. In some cases they are probably due to an arm of the ocean becoming landlocked. The most remarkable feature about them is the fact that they seem to be continuously fed from subterranean sources, since they maintain a uniform amount of salt.

"PUNCHY" PREACHMENTS

MORE POWER TO YOU. By Bruce Barton. The Century Company, New York.

We have long been more or less proud of an intense dislike for uplift stuff, the Marden-Crane-Walt Mason cheero gush, the effusions of the snappy optimist. But pride stumps its toe, says a good book we once read; and we have fallen for Mr. Barton's "More Power to You." The first chapter seemed about the usual thing—a gushy platitude; but being very short, we got into the second and read parts of it twice because they were interesting; then skipping to the middle of the book, found so much that was good we started all over again, and discovered that we hadn't been properly keyed to appreciate Chapter I.

"More Power to You" is a good title. The book is snappy, informal, humorous when humor seems needed, and—we never thought to use this word in complimentary sense—inspirational. It is preachy, perhaps, but also buoyant, enjoyable, full of vitality, original. It does what Herbert Kaufman seems trying to do with all the large type and great wastes of space given over to him.

ENTERTAINING WEE FOLK.

CHILDREN'S STORIES AND HOW TO TELL THEM. By J. Berg Esenwein and Marietta Stockard. The Home Correspondence School, Springfield, Mass.

This is a little book developed on the efficiency plan, and an addition to The Writer's Library. It begins with technical, elocutionary instruction, then discusses the place of the story in the life of the child, following with a chapter on how stories develop the personality of the children, after which comes information on the structural phases of a story and the way to lead to and leave off at the climax. It is really a comprehensive book, going at the subject from many angles, and including fifty stories suitable for children, with suggestions on how to develop stories from various sources.

The Worst is Yet to Come.

[Browning's Magazine:] "This raising of the price of bread by the bakers strikes me something fierce."

"Oh, I guess you can stand it."

"Yes, I know. But I was talking to my wife about it this morning and she said to never mind; she would bake our own bread hereafter!"

THE OBSERVATIONS OF A VETERAN.

BY TOM FITCH.

Past and Future of Silver.

During the Civil War gold and silver, coined and uncoined, disappeared—except on the Pacific Coast—as money, and became commodities which were sold for United States legal tender notes in the exchanges of eastern cities the same as stocks or bonds. When the Union forces achieved a victory the price of gold fell, when they experienced a defeat gold advanced in price. At one time $40 in gold would buy $100 in greenbacks in San Francisco. It was a picnic for the Front-street importing merchants, who visited with displeasure and loss of credit the Dutch Flat retailer who attempted to liquidate his account with greenbacks, but who themselves paid their eastern creditors with eastern exchange, $1000 of which could be bought for $400.

California in 1863 enacted a specific contract law to enforce contracts payable in gold. I was one of seven members of the Assembly who voted against it, and I figuratively patted my patriotism on the back when Supreme Justice Brosnan denounced a similar law enacted in Nevada as one that indorsed a policy "which practically pursued in many States, through the rayless period of the nation's travail, would have inflicted a wound upon constitutional liberty which the coming ages might not see healed."

A few months later I was shocked when Justice Brosnan concurred in a decision that made his own salary payable in gold.

After Appomatox gold and silver soon ceased to be commodities and national bank currency appreciated in value to a parity with gold and silver.

After the Civil War and prior to 1873 the silver producer could take the white metal to any United States mint and for a small charge have it coined, so that his silver netted him about $1.25 per ounce.

In 1873 Congress abolished free coinage of silver, and, as a result, bar silver rapidly deteriorated in value to 60 cents per ounce. The government continued to coin silver, but it purchased the white metal at market rates, and made a profit of the difference between the face value of the dollar and the price it had paid for the silver contained in the dollar. The silver dollars retained their face value of 100 cents in gold, for they could be exchanged at par for gold dollars at any United States subtreasury.

"A Mexican dollar contains as much silver as an American dollar, yet it sells for only 50 cents in gold. "Why is this?" queried an auditor at an anti-free coinage meeting. "Because," was my reply, "while the American dollar has only 50 cents worth of silver, it has also 50 cents worth of the honor of a nation that never broke its pledge."

The United States was not the first nation to discontinue the free coinage of silver. Germany inaugurated the movement in order to increase the value of the vast sum of gold which she had extorted from France as a war indemnity. England participated in it in order to stimulate production of wheat and cotton in India, and decrease the price of food and raw material in Liverpool. France and Italy acquiesced from necessity, and the United States joined Europe in closing its mints to free silver coinage in order to bring its financial system into harmony with that of Europe, and because it was apprehended that unless we did so we would be deluged with silver. The silver currency of Mexico, the rupees of India, yens of Japan, the taels of China and the spoons and forks of the world would have been unloaded upon our mints and the dollars into which they were made would be immediately presented to our treasuries for redemption in gold. In brief, the world would have unloaded its silver upon us at $1.25 per ounce, when its market price was 60 cents per ounce.

With free coinage of silver the silver mine owners of Nevada and Utah and Colorado rapidly accumulated enormous fortunes, and after the reduction of their revenues, caused by the abolition of free coinage, they struggled for years to procure re-enactment by Congress of a free coinage law. In 1896 they succeeded in incorporating a free coinage plank into the national Democratic platform, with Bryan as their leader.

The effort was futile, for even the friends of free coinage saw that the restoration of silver to its former gold value could only be accomplished by international co-operation, without which we would be swamped with a flood of the white metal, and the result would be exceedingly disastrous to the nation.

It was claimed in 1896 as a reason for the resumption of free coinage that the total production of gold and silver in the world was not sufficient to meet the increasing demands of commerce for more metallic money.

"They have such beautiful things at Barker's!"

One of our salesmen, after extending the ordinary courtesy of showing a couple through our store, felt amply repaid by the remark dropped when they were leaving: "We have a better conception of what we want, through your courtesy. Thank you."

Our visitors were pleased for the time spent here.

The salesman was pleased at the customers' appreciation.

Barker Bros. was pleased to receive sincere consideration of their needs and of their ideas.

This is all we ask—leaving it to the self-interest of our visitors to determine whether a business transaction is to follow.

(Signed) W. A. Barker.

—you hear it here, there, everywhere—"They have such beautiful things at Barker's"—and true, indeed, it is!

—things that awaken new interest in your home; a wonderful collection—beautiful, useful—things that lend new color—that gratify the eye—that refresh the mind—that make your home artistic and distinctive—things that give you a NEW IDEA of home—that make home an INSPIRATION to happier, better living!

—beautiful furniture, beautiful rugs, beautiful draperies and decorative fabrics; beautiful lamps, pictures, art wares; beautiful china wares, beautiful linens—a thousand-and-one things for the appointment, adornment and BEAUTIFICATION of your home. —Come see them—to know what is new, and beautiful, and in style—WELCOME, if only to see!

The rule of treating everybody as you would like to be treated is beautiful in business, just as it is in religion. And it is feasible also. And we have found it pays, too.

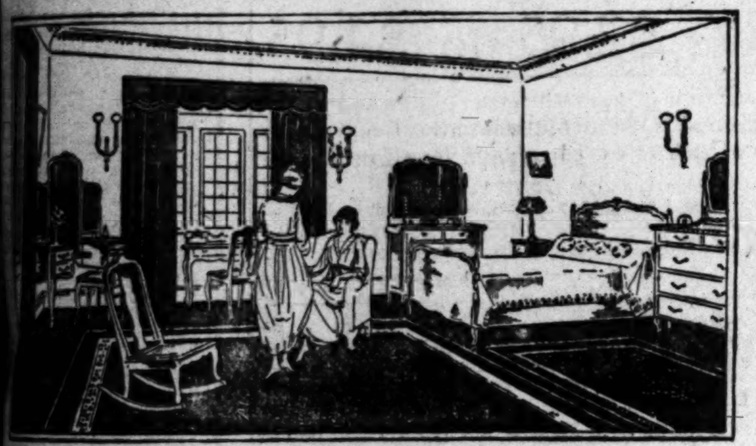
That is why we anticipate payments to the manufacturer for our goods, getting inside figures and making our account valuable to them.

That is why we have painstaking adjustors to take care of our customers in every transaction, thereby guaranteeing satisfaction in every sale, which is highly pleasing to them.

That is why we have formed the "Help the Other Fellow" association among our employees, giving them a share in the profits of the business and a merited recognition for making a success of our corporation.

And this old, old truth—the GOLDEN RULE—is ever new and operative, bringing contentment and profit to all concerned.

(Signed) Chas. H. Barker



The Beautiful in Bedroom Furniture:

One of the specially attractive new suites in Queen Anne style, in antique mahogany.

The beauty of this handsome suite is, in its extreme simplicity with the introduction of the well-known carved shell, combined with the graceful outlines so illustrative of this particular period.

The Beautiful in Living-room Furniture

Living-room furniture of today is not the type of ten years—or five—or even one year ago.

The furniture of TODAY is the most beautiful of all the times and periods. It is not only beautiful, but PRACTICAL furniture.

It is the kind of furniture that makes possible the result that we are all striving for in our homes TODAY—to make them BETTER, more comfortable, more satisfying.

The living-room is an important one.

It is the one conveying first impressions of your home and character. Here you receive your guests and entertain them.

It is the room in which you and your family really live. It is the room in which you should spend the most enjoyable part of your home hours.

Our living-room furniture sections are overflowing with new and smart furnishings—which cost no more than commonplace and unsatisfying kinds elsewhere.

Fall and winter days are approaching—the stay-in-door times—and season of fireside evenings. NOW is the time to prepare for them.

A visit to our store will well repay you.

THE NEW RED CROSS LIVERY.

Co-ordinating Relief Work has Advantages, but Military Titles and Army Uniforms of Doubtful Value, If Not Dangerous.

BY WILLIAM MacDONALD,
Lecturer on Government at the U versity of California, and American Historian.

Precisely what is the status day of the American Red Cross? The question has been asked of of late by thousands of persons are interested in the seventy or war relief societies whose work American Red Cross proposes to over, absorb, or destroy. It is ing asked now by other thou who read that officials of the can Red Cross who serve in will hearafter bear military and will wear the uniform of can army officers of corres rank.

Ex-President Taft, as head organization, becomes a m eral; Henry P. Davison, of Morgan & Co., who reorgani society at President Wilson's is similarly honored; and there be ample provision of brigad erals, adjutants, colonels, the rest. All that is lacking, from the trifling matter of training, to complete the to the regular army is the of drawing salaries and both of which emoluments specifically denied the holders the new dignities.

What is the Red Cross? As relief organization in Europe, dates from the time of the Crim War. In the several countries which it exists; comprising the leading nations of the world, a private organization mainly by private contributions. primary work is to aid wounded soldiers in time of and because its work is perform off the battlefield or in war it has been officially recognized governments to the practical sion of other societies doing work, has been made the recip of special privileges and by international agreement, and casionally has received public money.

The American Red Cross, other organizations of the in other countries, has had of small things, its petty its personal incompetencies. theless, it has grown in public and has performed useful of a non-military character, of flood, earthquake, fire, or calamity. Now it has been ized in personnel and plan, received a huge public subscrip of over $100,000,000, and has tered actively upon its appointed task of, apparently, nopolizing American war relief in Europe. It has already out the War Relief Clearinghouse Paris, has dispatched to Italy, Russia and has served notice upon the sentatives of more than relief organizations, vened in New York to situation, that unless they to act hereafter through it cannot guarantee cargo which it would appear to have trol in advance, for the which the individual societies wish to continue to send to

One may regret the brusque and cavalier disregard for wishes of donors, unhappily characteristic of the methods of business and high finance, which the American Red Cross announced its monopoly gramme. But there was need of co-ordination. Of the numerable societies formed country for war relief worthy, some have become ous, some should be expose indiscriminate calls for money, tags and boxes and buttonhole rations which are thrust face at every turn, ought abated as social nuisances. The business of war relief, so far as United States is to have a hand it, has become too huge and plicated to be left to the inter the prejudices or the varying ties of numerous independent izations. Har Margaret Mayo, Laurette Taylor and one of the most wel that came to the local who will return to coming week in "The at the Mason Mr. Evans's confidential adviser in completing the organization and laying out its work and is now a head of the organization's traveling committee. Miss Buckley is all enthusiasm and believes that she and her co-workers are going to be a great stimulant to the local Red Cross in the cities they will visit this season.

"We have 3,000,000 Red Cross workers in America," said Miss Buckley, "but we want 10,000,000. We need every mother and daughter to work for the Red Cross. Our boys are just beginning to go to the front and every woman should make some sacrifice if necessary to alleviate their suffering and pain that is bound to come. Let every woman be as noble in her effort to help as our young men are in giving their services to their country, for we will be well repaid for any sacrifice we make."

The Stage Women's War Relief is working out a system with the New York producers whereby the concentration camps will be provided with entertainment. The first was given at Fort Meyer and turned out to be a brilliant success. Entertainments of various kinds have been given in and around New York this summer, and, with the personal donations of the society, a substantial amount has already been collected.

Miss Buckley believes that she can create a better interest in the Red Cross by a personal exchange of ideas than by advancing theories, and will call personally on many of the Red Cross members during her stay in this city.

"THE MIMIC WORLD."

It requires a special section of four cars to carry "The Mimic World" company, which opens at the Pantages tomorrow. Two Pullmans, a baggage car and a day coach are used to transport the thirty members of the company, their retinue of servants, stage hands, wardrobe woman, electricians and three chaperones. Two porters and two maids attend the wants of the troupe while traveling.

RUTH ROLAND'S HIT.

Reports from Seattle, where Ruth Roland, the screen queen, has opened a limited engagement on the Pantages circuit, indicate that Miss Roland is going to be as big a star in vaudeville as she has been in pictures. Miss Roland's efforts as a vocalist have been accorded hearty approval in the north. She will be in Los Angeles about the first of October.

GET GERMAN SPIES.

Latest Fox Feature at Miller's Reveals Astonishing and Bitter Truths.

The astonishing thing about the newly-discovered plots to smuggle military information out of the United States to Germany is that there should be astonishment.

For three years the United States has been honeycombed with German spies, many of them of non-Germanic origin, but all of them working for German money. Nobody in his right mind could have believed that this system collapsed with the entrance of the United States into the war or that the energies of the German spy machine would fail to respond to the new needs of Berlin.

Great Britain has not yet succeeded in ridding itself of the German secret agents who were established there at the beginning of the war, and the United States can hope for even less success owing to the long operations of the German propaganda.

"The Spy," William Fox's picturization of George Bronson Howard's tremendous drama of German intrigue now entering its second week at Miller's Theater is declared by critics to be the most convincing expose of Prussian methods of securing information ever produced, and also one of the most entertaining film plays of the year.

Dustin Farnum is the star and Mark Quaintance, the hero, becomes a vibrant character under his fine portrayal.

"WATCH YOUR STEP."

Irving Berlin's Musical Success is Coming to the Mason Operahouse Soon.

Irving Berlin's international syncopated musical success, entitled "Watch Your Step," which broke all of last season's touring records for musical entertainment, will be presented at the Mason Operahouse the week of September 24 for one week only.

Everyone associated with the production of "Watch Your Step" has won an enviable fame in their particular field, and this musical play is described as their joint masterpiece.

Mr. Berlin, who has given the public some of the most prolific song hits the modern stage has known, formed an idea that a musical show, written wholly in syncopated time, would catch the popular fancy of theatergoers. He seized upon the idea with enthusiasm and not long after completed the score and lyrics. Then the book was intrusted to Harry B. Smith, and none could have made a better selection. Then came the selection of men and women to stage the play. The most noted were secured. Mr. Dillingham commissioned Leon Bakst to paint the production, R. H. Burnside of the New York Hippodrome to produce it and Helen Dryden, designer of all the covers for Vogue, to design and furnish the costumes. The trio were given carte blanche. The result was sufficient to give theatergoers a distinct surprise.

It was the first time that a ragtime musical play had ever been offered for public approval. That it was a genuine success is proven by the fact that it played in New York nearly an entire season, in Chicago for three months, in Philadelphia for three months, in Boston for three months. There are seventy-five in the cast, including the famous English pony ballet and the Levidski Russian dancers.

ELSIE JANIS IS NEXT.

The engagement of Elsie Janis, long expected at the Orpheum, will open at that theater Monday matinee, September 24, when this remarkable star will be seen in Los Angeles for the first time in years. Miss Janis will do a constantly changing series of imitations, in her own inimitable way, and will wear stunning gowns and be seen at her very best. Seats for the Janis engagement will go on sale next Monday, one week in advance, and mail orders, accompanied by bank draft or money order (no personal checks) will be honored in order of their receipt, if stamped and addressed envelope is inclosed. Miss Janis is by far the biggest of the Orpheum's fall stars and interest in her coming has been exceedingly keen since her engagement was first announced some time back.

HERE'S CARMEL MYERS.

Rabbi's Daughter Stars in "Sirens of the Sea" at the Superba This Week.

To leap from the simple frocks of a Los Angeles high school girl into the decollete dresses of a picture star almost overnight has been the fortune of pretty Carmel Myers, well known locally as the daughter of Rabbi Isadore Myers.

Today at the Superba she makes her debut as a full-fledged star in her own right in "Sirens of the Sea," the $250,000 water spectacle being exploited by Jewel Productions, Inc., the sponsors of "Pay Me" and "Come Through."

She last appeared in support of Harold Lockwood in "The Haunted Pajamas," but in "Sirens of the Sea" she is supporting nobody, being supported herself by such well-known stars as Louise Lovely and Jack Mulhall. Allen Holubar directed the picture, which is replete with scenic splendor, diving Venuses, water nymphs, sprites, elves and other fairyland folk.

"Sirens of the Sea" is an intensely modern story with a thrilling twentieth century plot, but woven in with it is the famous old legend of the Lorelei, which gives the producer ample opportunities for spectacular water display.

In these scenes the draperies are somewhat scanty, but in every instance the reviewers have maintained that it is entirely consistent with good taste, and will not offend even the most fastidious.

All three of the stars are well known locally, and Manager Al Nathan of the Superba plans to have them appear in person at some performance during the engagement.

A special musical score was written for the production, based largely on Wagner's famous opera, "Die Lorelei." Mr. Nathan plans a slight advance in prices in order to cover the exorbitant rental fee, and the fact that because it is seven reels, fewer exhibitions can be given.

THREE PRETTY GIRLS IN "THE COLD DECK."

A peculiarity in construction of the latest Hart drama, "The Cold Deck," by J. G. Hawks, in which William S. Hart stars, is that it demands three almost equally important feminine actresses. And the three are strongly contrasted types.

Technically, the leading part is given to Sylvia Bremer. Miss Bremer is a new arrival in the screen world, having appeared in but two productions. She is an Australian of the pronounced English rose type of beauty, and all the oceans have not been able to wash away traces of British ancestry and a delightful accent.

Mildred Harris a blonde yet in her 'teens and a girl graduate of the best companies.

Alma Rubens, who has fluttered in and out of several Ince-Triangle productions, is a brunette of the exotic variety, with a suggestion of Spain or some sun-kissed Latin country.

This is the rare combination of "The Cold Deck," and it is hard to beat.

ALASKA CRAVES EXPLOITATION.

Richest of All Our Lands is Red-tape Tied.

Visitor Laments the Loss of Rich Resources.

Coal, Gold, Copper Needed in Present Crisis.

"Alaska is our last frontier, and the greatest and richest of them all," said S. Kendall Paul, a New York attorney who is visiting W. H. Saxman at Thirty-eighth street and Budlong avenue after a several months' visit to the land of the Yukon.

"No country in the world is so rich in minerals and other natural resources; no land under the sun can be made to pay so handsomely on investments as Alaska," continued Mr. Paul. "And yet the government is practically neglecting this great country and its opportunities at a time when Alaskan products are most needed."

Mr. Paul represents an eastern corporation which is anxious, with others, to assist in developing Alaska, yet the land has been so tied up by the government, he says, that capital finds no way of getting an opportunity of opening up the country. His trip to Alaska was largely to study conditions and report thereon.

"At the risk of being considered a critic of the government at a time when we should all uphold it, I will say that the policies of the Interior Department have been dilatory in the extreme," said Mr. Paul. "I believe, however, that delays are due largely to circumstances and because officials are overwhelmed with problems closer home.

STOREHOUSE OF COAL.

"If Alaska were exploited at this time many of our material difficulties would disappear. The world is crying for coal, and in Alaska there are untold supplies close at hand ready to be mined and shipped at comparatively small cost. Gold, and yet more gold, is needed, and in Alaska there are untold quantities of it—enough perhaps to pay all war debts. Copper is there in huge quantities and of a superior grade.

"All this belongs to America, and all could be made available if the government would remove its restrictions and give opportunities for capital to put investments to work.

"This restricted condition was brought about during Mr. Roosevelt's administration, and resulted in the famous Ballinger fight. The coal lands are thus unavailable for exploitation unless the government permits capital to take hold of them or operates them officially.

"The government should immediately rush the completion of the railroad it is building, which would then tap the rich coal lands and permit the shipping of fuel either to Europe via the Suez Canal, or to West Coast points for trans-shipment by rail to the places in the United States most needed, or via the Panama Canal to our fleets in the Atlantic.

"Stated in terms of waste energy, the loss to the United States by reason of failure to utilize the resources of Alaska, particularly the coal resources, is appalling. By conservative estimate as much as 5,000,000 tons of coal could be taken out of the country in one year. Nothing is being done to accomplish this end. If 5,000,000 tons of coal were dumped into the bottom of the sea by the government, the people of this country would rise in indignation and demand immediate stoppage of such waste. The effect of neglecting to take out coal where it might be mined is tantamount to throwing so much away.

"This condition must be corrected, and it is my purpose to persuade the government of the importance of more definite and efficient work in the way of opening to the world this great and unutilized storehouse of gold, copper and coal.

WASTE IN SOUTHLAND.

But every section has its own particular problem of conservation. Southern California, rich in fruits, vegetables and agricultural supplies, seems not entirely imbued with the necessity of preserving and conserving everything that it produces, and I have been surprised at the large number of orchards in which ripening fruit is going to waste on the ground, the large number of gardens in which quantities of beans and other vegetables are going to seed. Every ounce should be saved.

"Californians, wake up! Don't think that because there is but a little waste it is not worth bothering with. The thousands of little savings in the aggregate mean the feeding of thousands of mouths for days, weeks and even months, and it is only by individual and collective effort—eternal vigilance—that the great storehouse of Southern California will furnish to the country all of which it is capable at a time when the government and people are in such urgent need."

PENCILS FROM FENCES.

Manufacturers are Replacing Cedar Rails with Woven Wire.

[Boston Globe:] Poor Aladdin was decidedly peeved when his well-meaning mother exchanged an old brass lamp she found kicking about the house for a brand new shiny one. Naturally, since the old lamp was worth many times as much as the new one, as everyone who has read of Aladdin's lamp knows.

Down in Tennessee—and in many other localities now—they are exchanging brand new shiny wire fences for disreputable old rail, zigzag Virginia fences which were laboriously split and put up by honest sons of toil generations ago. And the best part of it is that no one objects to the trade. The people who give away the brand new and expensive woven wire fences are delighted to take the old rail fences in exchange and the farmers are proud and happy to get the wire fences, so everyone is glad.

The answer is "lead pencils."

More than two years ago we had stripped our cedar lands of practically all the old growth, and since then of all the rest of the cedars, except the mere saplings. Then the pencil manufacturers started to bring cedar from abroad and then the war came along—the crowned heads of Europe should worry about lead pencil shortage in America—and it began to look as though lead pencils would become as costly as eggs or coal or other commodities until certain agents discovered that throughout many sections of the country there were miles and miles of the very best sort of cedar, thoroughly dried and seasoned, serving as fences along highways and [illegible] fields and pastures.

The Ivy Corset

—a little better liked by so many women—

—Manufactured by a woman for women "Out of her heart, as well as her hand"—

—At Bullock's—4th floor.

Silver

—doing its bit.

—In the cleverest trick of a "Fag" Holder—

—"Fag" is "cigarette" in soldier language—

—The holder,—of sterling with amber mouthpiece,—folds into a sterling case small enough to hide under a coat button—

—A practical bit—$2.00.

Another—a Photo Identification Case—

—Room for four photos and registration card—in case of postage stamp size—
—Of silver (sterling) at $2.50.
—Both fastenable on chains—
—Other "bits"—practical and fine in the Jewelry Store—

48 inch Broadcloth at $1.95 yard

—48-in. Broadcloth $1.95 yard—we repeat it so that you will NOT think that it is a misprint—much as it may seem so.

—Colors and black—the woolen of woolens—the quality choice of all the years—and of this year—and of this Fall—

—Almost an impossibility—yet true, at $1.95 yard—52 inches wide at $3.00; 54 inches wide at $3.50.

The New Coatings—An Exhibit that —will be of delightful interest to many women—Velours, $3.50 and $4.50; Silver Cloth $5.75 and $6.50; Burellas $3.75 and $4.00; Bolivias $7.00 yard—

Among the Many Woolens—2nd floor.

Mistress Silk and Lisle Coquette

—of the dancing eyes and the happy heart. A first love of Fall time.

—An exquisite of the loom—this charming silk and lisle faille brocade at $1.00 yard—in Fall colorings. Another delight, silk and lisle poplin also 36 inches wide in light and dark effects for evening and street wear—$1.00 yard. Women are wooing them—and winning them for the beauty frocks of Autumn—

Reps Cord—a 36 inch corded silk and lisle—at 75c yard.

Peru Silk—a plain silk and lisle weave—36 inch, 85c.

—And other silk and lisles in brilliant display—

Please! Thank You!

—The Velvet Looms that were so happy weaving these Velvets just a bit ago—IF THEY KNEW WHAT IS HAPPENING.

—For velvet looms know that silks are becoming more precious as the days go by—They may have overheard men talking, as this man did to another yesterday—in this wise: "Silks have not commenced to advance yet—and you know they have been advancing—Take this number, now $1.50 yard—I firmly believe it will be $3.00 yard by Spring—if obtainable at all—" and so on—and so on—and so on—

Silks are advancing—Velvets are silks!—In the face of which fact, here are —10 Pieces 42-in. Black Chiffon Velvet of excellent weight at $4.50 yd.

—And another 10 pieces—notably fine in texture priced—$5.75 yd.

—And the Velvet Looms do not know—and Bullock's is not telling them—but YOU—so that you may share them at the threshold of this wonderful velvet winter—the door of which is about to open—$4.50 and $5.75 yard.

400 yds. Costume Velvet at $1.95

—Not silk—36 inches wide—For the buyers that Monday will bring—$1.95 yard.

—At Bullock's—2nd floor.

A Beautiful Autumn $25.00 Day for Misses and Women —of slight and slender figure—a day radiant with the sunlight from surprises—that are the New Fashions.

—At this wonderfully interesting price—

—$25.00 for Fall Suits! $25.00 for Fall Dresses! $25.00 for Fall Coats!

$25 for Style and Super Value

—if you will—The most delightful section of its kind in the whole West has fairly outdone itself—

—There are Navy Serge Frocks at $25—the vogue pre-eminent for tailored and semi dress wear—The straight line silhouette, of course, and the new "peggy" side draped skirts—

—There are tailored suits and semi tailored suits at $25—notably of Gabardine and Burella cloth—in the new Fall shades—with the new long coats—

—There are Motor Coats—and Travel Coats—and Utility Coats—Full length models—with wide, sweeping collars—and the broader belts—(of velour and Burette)—at $25.00.

—And there are other Frocks and Suits, and Coats—Every one with a good deal of "that something" that words can't tell—and that is Style and Personality Plus—and that, even more than the very evident quality of material and character of workmanship makes for SUPER-VALUE.

—See them, Monday—in this big, beautiful new section —$25.00. Then see the other new suits and coats and frocks up to—but just see—

N. E. Section—3rd Floor.

Yes! New Irish Linens

—Imported directly by Bullock's, cleared through the Los Angeles Customs Office—THIS IS NEWS!

—In the first place there is the SCARCITY of Flax to consider—and the limited loomage of linen that is the result——In the next THE DANGERS of the war zone—and the consequent shipping contraction.

—And there are other reasons why Real Irish Damasks are not only rare—but in many cases MINUS—

—So, it is fine in many ways that the Linen Store at Bullock's can make this announcement of this New Importation—

—Irish Satin Damask Cloths and Napkins—in conventional patterns around plain centers—satin stripe, snow drop—rose and scroll—ivy and Arabesque designs—

—Cloths 68x68 in., $5.00; 68x86 in., $6.25; 68x104 in. and 81x81 in., $7.50.

RESOLVED:
THAT THERE I HAVE GONE AND DONE A THING WHICH IS DIRECTLY AGAINST MY PRINCIPLES - I'VE ALWAYS CONSIDERED THE PRACTICAL JOKER THE MEANEST PERSON IN THE WORLD. HE LAUGHS AT THE DISCOMFORT AND PAIN OF PEOPLE WHO TRUSTED HIM. HE ACTED A LIE AND DECEIVED SOME ONE, INSTEAD OF MAKING SOME ONE HAPPY. HE GLOATS OVER SEEING THEM HURT. IT IS FINE TO SEE THE PRACTICAL JOKER GET THE DOSE THAT HE FIXED FOR SOME ONE ELSE. I DID. AND I'M NOT BLAMING ANY BODY ELSE FOR IT. BOYS, PLEASE DON'T PLAY A MEAN JOKE ON PEOPLE, IT EMBARRASSES THEM EVEN IF THEY ARE NOT HURT - AND THEY WONT EVER LIKE YOU AGAIN. THEY WILL LAY FOR YOU AND SOME DAY - OH. BOY, YOU'LL GET YOURS AND YOU'LL GET IT WITH INTEREST - IT PAYS TO BE GOOD IT PAYS TO BE KIND. IF YOU DO RIGHT, IT PAYS, EVEN IF YOU DONT WANT TO. THE RAIN FALLS ALIKE ON THE JUST AND THE UNJUST. BY CLYDE LUDWICK

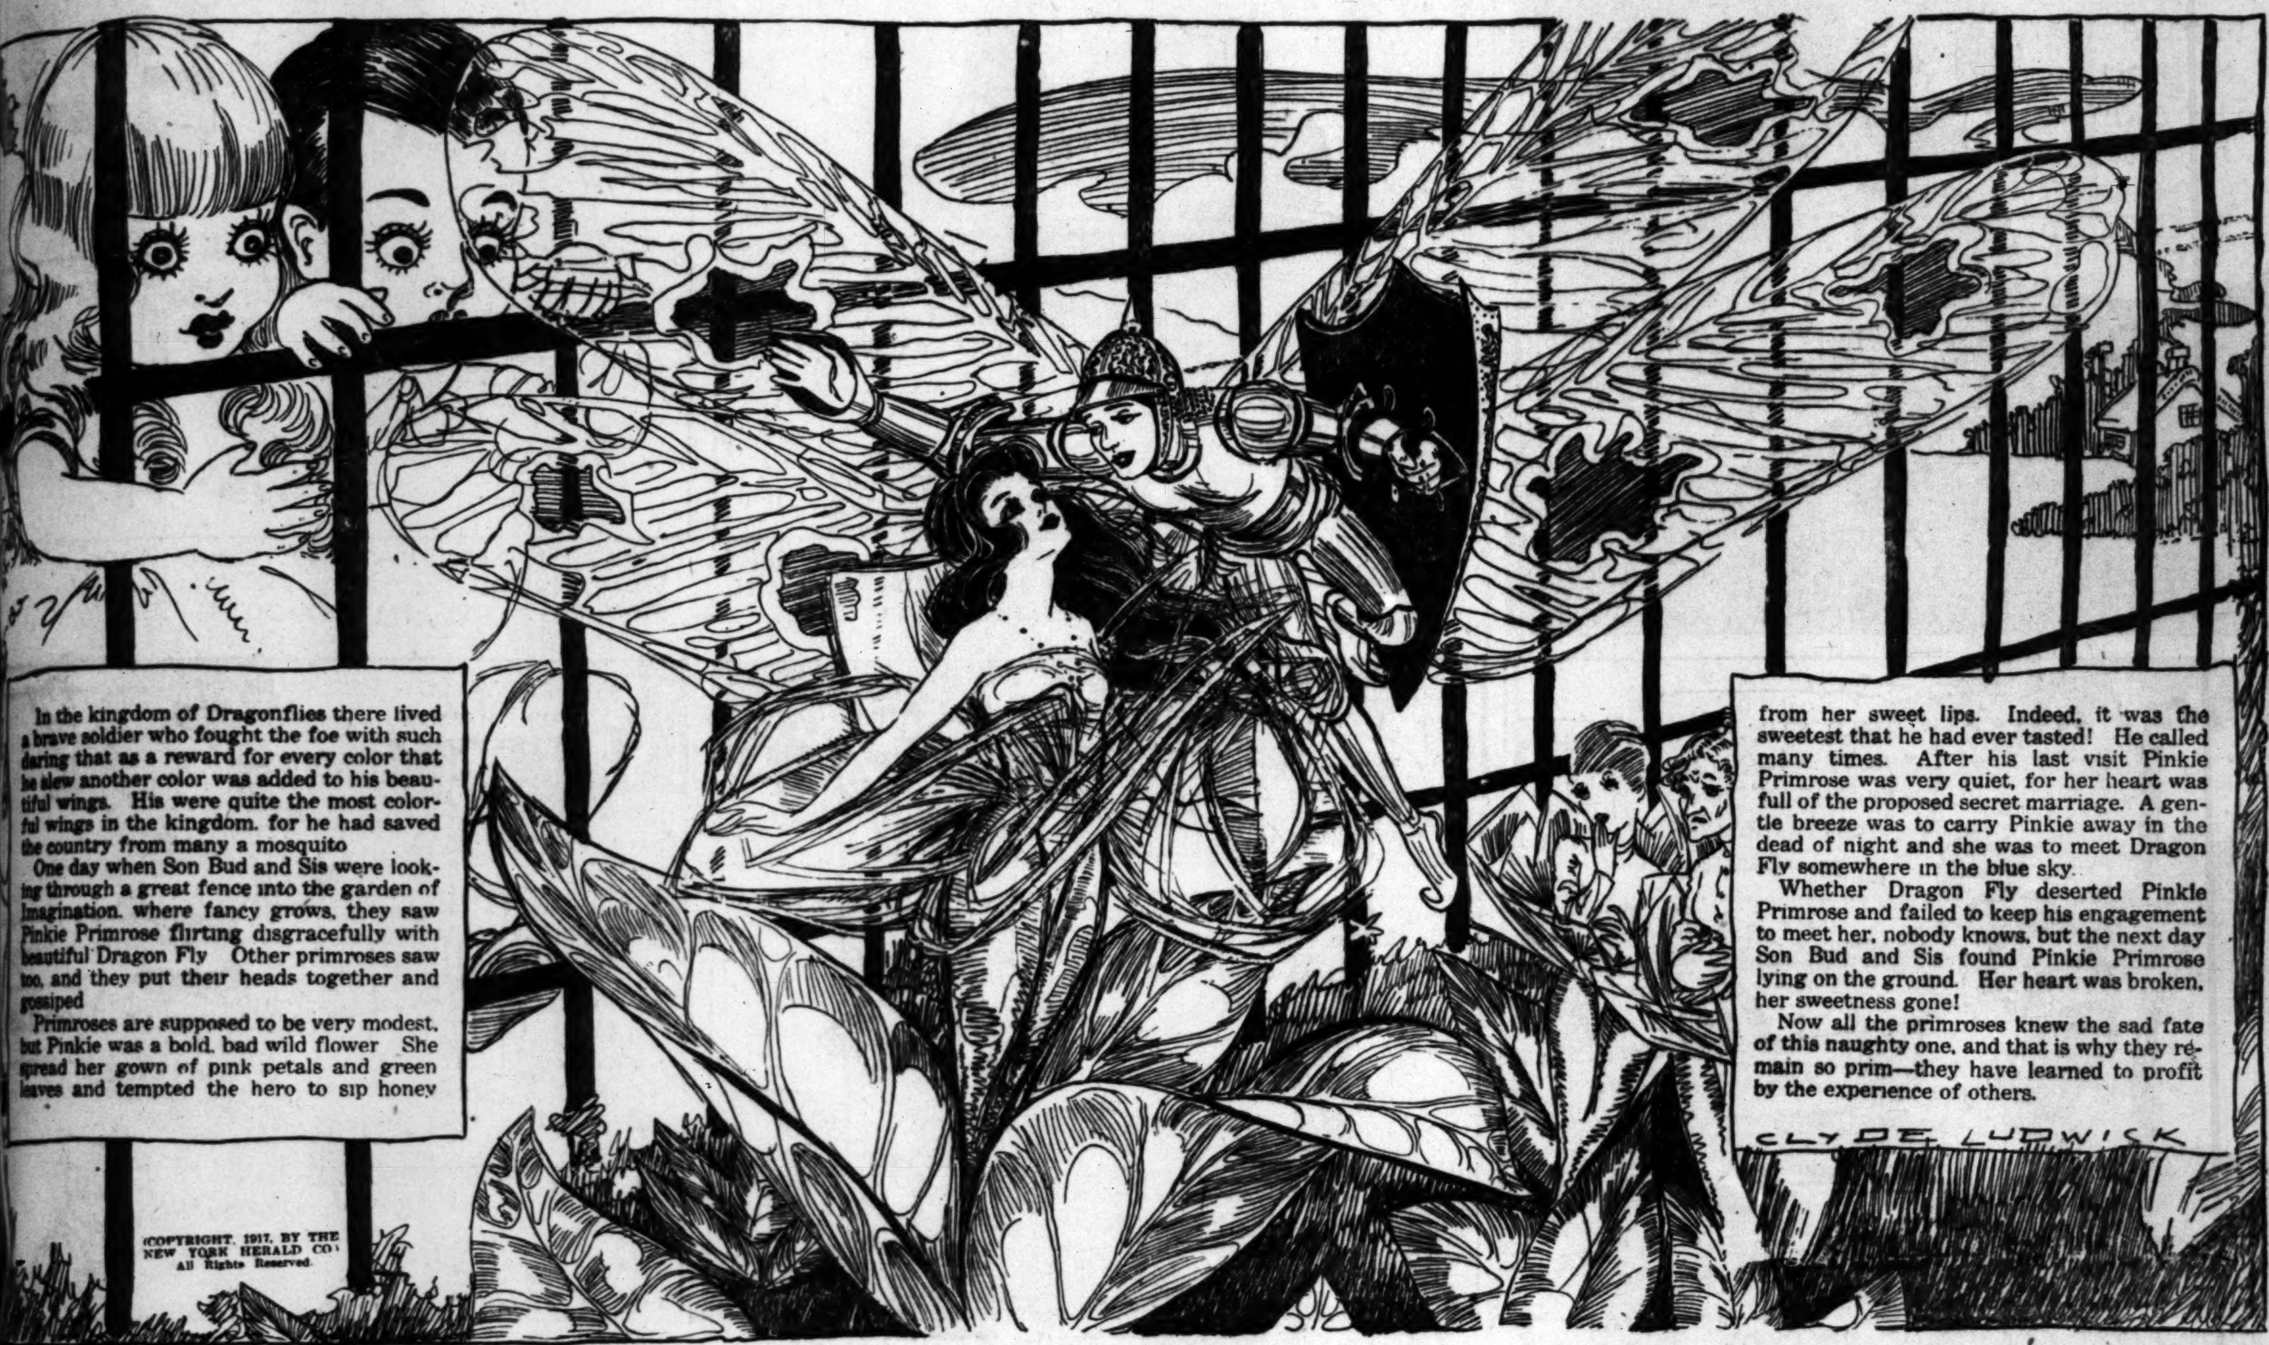
THE CHILDREN LEARNED TO PROFIT BY THE EXPERIENCE OF OTHERS



In the kingdom of Dragonflies there lived a brave soldier who fought the foe with such daring that as a reward for every color that he slew another color was added to his beautiful wings. His were quite the most colorful wings in the kingdom. for he had saved the country from many a mosquito

One day when Son Bud and Sis were looking through a great fence into the garden of Imagination. where fancy grows, they saw Pinkie Primrose flirting disgracefully with beautiful Dragon Fly Other primroses saw too, and they put their heads together and gossiped

Primroses are supposed to be very modest, but Pinkie was a bold, bad wild flower She spread her gown of pink petals and green leaves and tempted the hero to sip honey from her sweet lips. Indeed, it was the sweetest that he had ever tasted! He called many times. After his last visit Pinkie Primrose was very quiet, for her heart was full of the proposed secret marriage. A gentle breeze was to carry Pinkie away in the dead of night and she was to meet Dragon Fly somewhere in the blue sky.

Whether Dragon Fly deserted Pinkie Primrose and failed to keep his engagement to meet her, nobody knows, but the next day Son Bud and Sis found Pinkie Primrose lying on the ground. Her heart was broken, her sweetness gone!

Now all the primroses knew the sad fate of this naughty one, and that is why they remain so prim—they have learned to profit by the experience of others.

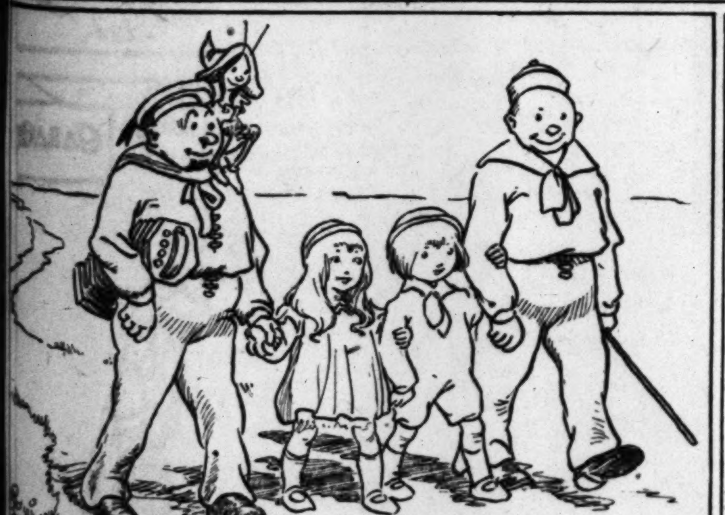
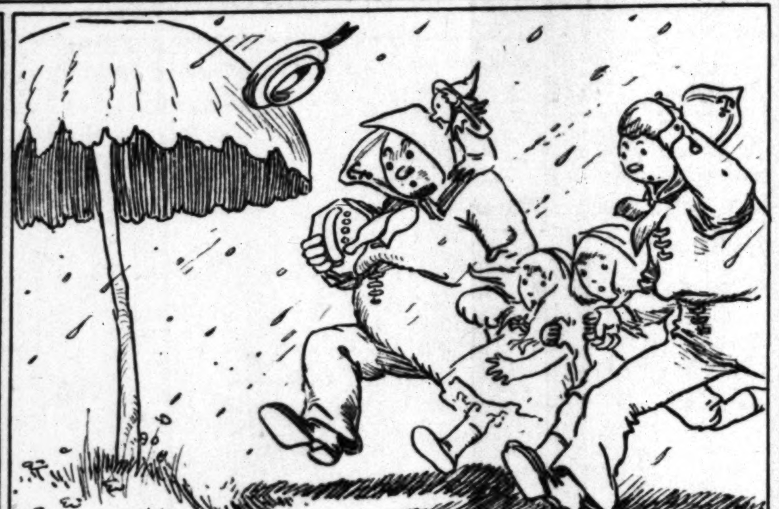
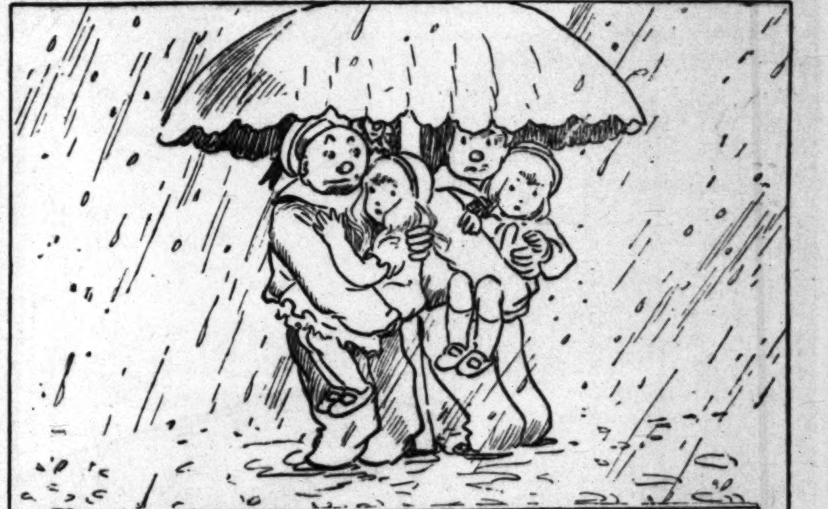
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



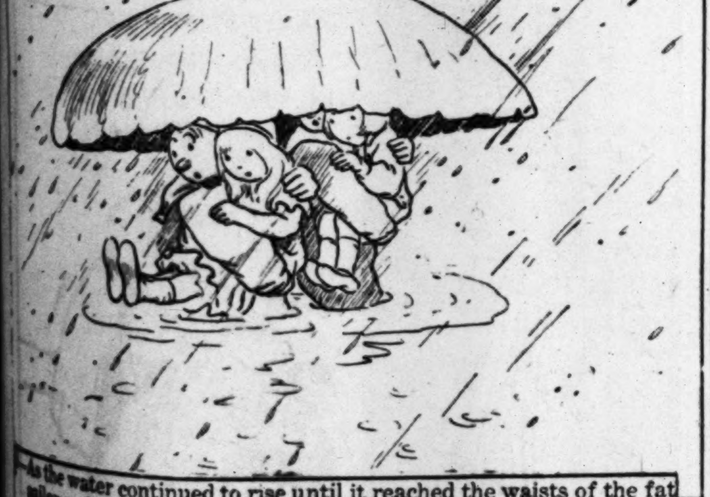
1—When our friends left the Witchess' house they felt so lonely they held hands as they walked down the road. Katinka and the queer little man had promised they would come in the magic umbrella some day to see them all, but they had had so many adventures with the two that they hated to part company.



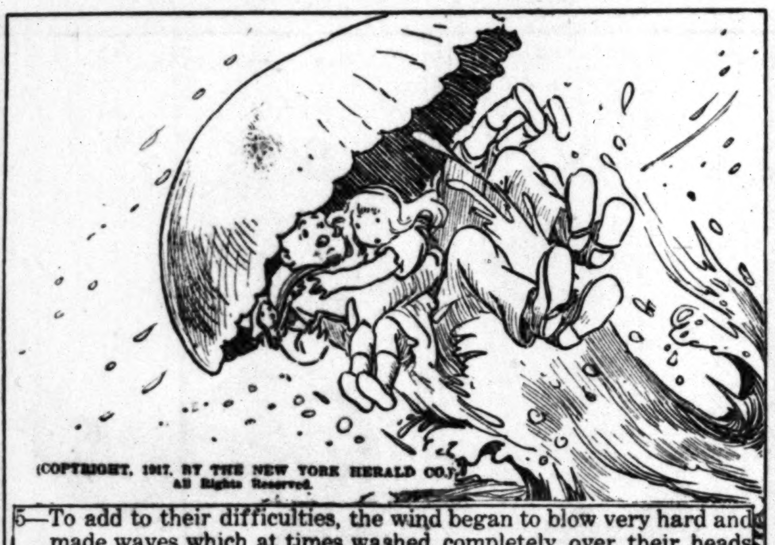
2—They had walked perhaps three miles when it suddenly began to rain. They ran for the shelter of an umbrella palm tree. "We'll rest here until the shower blows over," said the fat sailor "Yes," replied Mr. Twee Deedle, "the shower will cool things off and make walking a pleasure."



3—But the shower did not pass over; instead, it seemed to hang right over them. It poured until the ground was covered with water as far as they could see. It rained and rained until the water reached their knees The fat sailor held Dolly up out of the wet and Cousin Jim held Dickie. Mr Twee Deedle was perched upon the fat sailor's shoulder, high and dry.

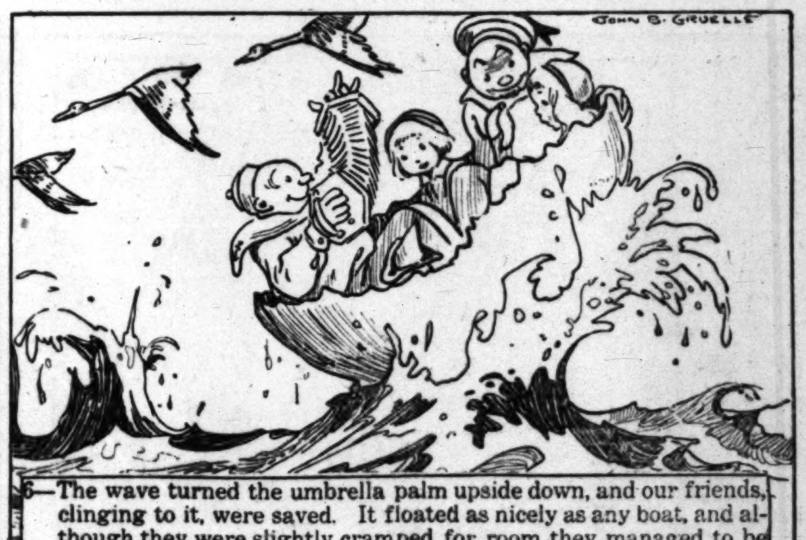


—As the water continued to rise until it reached the waists of the fat sailor and Cousin Jim they began to feel worried. "Perhaps this is the end of our adventures!" cried the fat sailor. "There must be some way out of the difficulty," replied Cousin Jim. "If the Witchess would only look into her magic glass and see our trouble she would help us!"



(COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO.) All Rights Reserved.

5—To add to their difficulties, the wind began to blow very hard and made waves which at times washed completely over their heads and almost choked them. One wave, a great deal larger than any of the others, came rolling toward them, so that they thought they would be buried; but instead it was the means of saving them. The wave washed the umbrella palm up by the roots and tossed it high in the air.



6—The wave turned the umbrella palm upside down, and our friends, clinging to it, were saved. It floated as nicely as any boat, and although they were slightly cramped for room they managed to be quite comfortable. The sun came out and dried their clothes, and Cousin Jim played lively tunes upon the concertina as they drifted high upon the crest of the waves or slid down into the "valleys." "It just goes to show," said Mr. Twee Deedle, as they talked over their experiences, "that it is useless to worry!" And with that he started a song, in which the others joined.

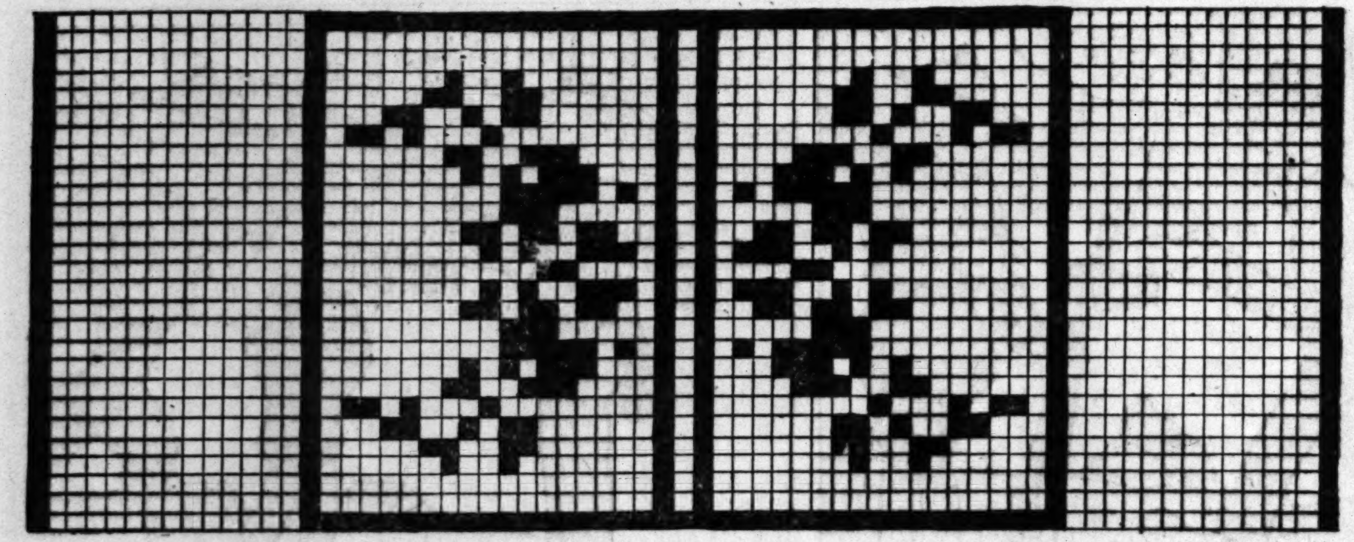
SMALL FILET SUGGESTIONS for the FALL BAZAAR

Designed by Elizabeth Miller



PERHAPS your church is giving an old-fashioned cake and apron sale, or maybe the local branch of your Red Cross Society is going to give a benefit bazaar. In any event, you will welcome these new patterns in filet which will make a decided hit at the fancy table. None of them requires very much time to make, and when finished the articles are not only dainty and attractive, but have as well a highly practical value.

The handkerchief case in the popular conventional rose design, is begun by making the first row of solid squares. Any weight floss may be used as desired, but it is suggested that too fine a stitch would reduce the size of the case. When completed, the whole is lined with delicate white China silk—white because that is sure to suit every taste, and at a bazaar that is the essential thing. Then the case is folded together along the line of solid work in the center, the edges slip-stitched together and the triangular piece at the end serves for a turn-over flap. This may be fastened with a snap or not, just as the individual taste dictates. When completed, this little case makes a very practical gift for the traveler. It will hold all her handkerchiefs safely tucked away in one corner of her traveling bag, just where she'll know where to find them at a moment's notice.

The same traveler will appreciate the little match box cover, for even with the new device of the electric pocket light, there are occasions on which only a match will serve. The two large conventional flower designs cover the top and bottom of the box respectively; the strips of plaid effect fold over the sides, and the flap of plain open work and the little strap secure the ends. The latter may be fastened with a small loop and a crocheted button. If the matches carried are of the genuine safety variety, it will be necessary either to draw the box out of the case each time one is struck, or to leave enough open mesh along one side to permit a match to be ignited. In the latter case, care must be taken not to burn the cover. If the filet is daintily lined in white, the nature of the contents will be effectively concealed, and the case will appear just like a little jewel or change box such as all travelers carry. Not only would it prove a welcome gift for the traveler, but it will receive warm welcome on the dressing table of any gas-lit bedroom. Are any of your friends or your friends' daughters going to college? They'd adore a matchcase like this for their chafing dish or their little alcohol tea kettle.

The sachets illustrated are in novel shapes and designs. They may either be given satin backs or the designs may be repeated, making a plain silk lining, all that is necessary. The square is finished with a jaunty bow of ribbon on one corner. The heart-shaped one is provided with two large loops finished in a bow, so that it may be hung on a hanger inside a dress. The oblong sachet is to be tied thru the middle with a perky little bow. Any one of these dainty accessories will make a delightful gift for the person to whom one wants to give "just something." And, they're sure to attract the kindly disposed person with the slender purse at the bazaar.

The design of the filet card case is identical with the match box cover—which means they should never be separated. It is very simply and quickly made, for after the filet portion is made and lined the plain portions at both ends are turned back and sewed along each side, making the pockets of the card case. And there it is, ready for use! Just the thing in which to keep one's cards from becoming soiled. And it can be made at such a minimum of labor and expense that it will attract the eye of the careful woman who finds it economical to do her Christmas shopping early.

Economical Millinery Hints

EVERYBODY knows that felt and velour hats in the more or less tailored shapes are to be the favorites for fall and early winter wear. And everybody knows, or can dimly remember having heard sometime, that variety is the spice of life—even the life of a new fall hat. True economy consists in using the materials at hand so cleverly that no one will suspect the finished product is not an entirely new article.

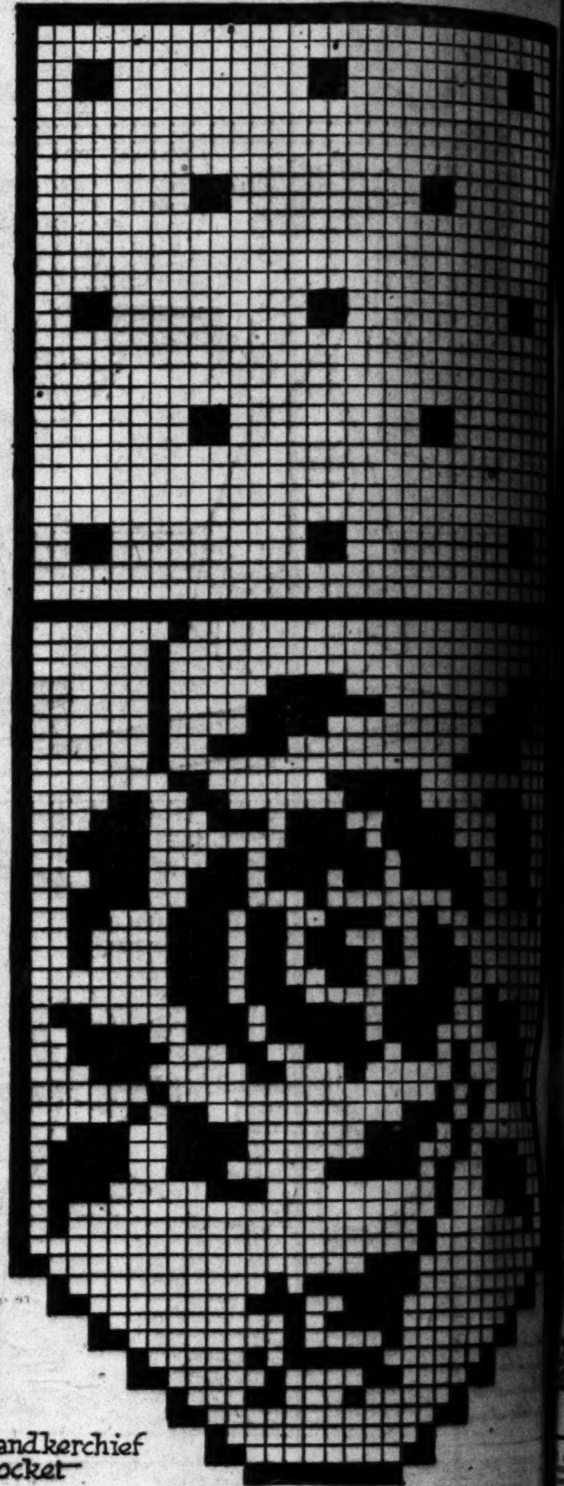
Undoubtedly you have been knitting more or less steadily all summer—every one has. And if such has been the case, you have a number of odds and ends of yarn, floss and worsted in various colors for which you have no specific use. After you have worn your new felt or velour hat for a while, you will probably get extremely tired of it—one has a habit of getting tired of one's hats after a time. Now all it needs is just a little rejuvenation to make it as good as new in your eyes, and this is easily accomplished by the clever use of those odds and ends of worsted.

Crocheted motifs in flower designs are very popular, appliqued flat against the crown of a small felt hat. Or the horticulturally impossible fruit which has been pressed into such a number of decorative uses. Squares and circles and triangles in brilliantly contrasting shades make very effective trimming when put against a black or sombre-toned velour.

Another variation of the worsted trimming is accomplished by embroidering pieces of velvet cut in butterfly or flower patterns, and appliqued on the hat with the long-and-short stitch.

The very latest idea which has occurred to those millinery interested, is the cross-stitch design done in floss or worsted. This may be applied all the way around the crown, giving a banded effect, or the design may be more elaborately developed in the front or at the sides, as desired. Excellent effects may be procured in this way by a judicious choice and combination of colors.

Whichever of the above suggestions you adopt, or if you evolve an even better one of your own, you are sure to be delighted with the rejuvenation. For with the expenditure of a little time and energy, you can make your felt or velour hat match any costume you are planning to wear.



Handkerchief Pocket

Bed Linen a la Mode

COUNTERPANES and bolster and pillow shams are being developed in a variety of new materials and designs. Some are made up in fine corded gabardines, finished along the edges with wide scallops. A big bow of satin ribbon, corresponding in color to the decorations of the room, is tacked in the center of the shams and cover. In other instances, three initial monograms occupy this place of honor. In the latter cases, large eyelets are often embroidered around the edges, and colored ribbon run thru.

Heavier coverings are developed in fine white pique in broad ribs. The edges are turned back with wide [illegible] at the corners. In the center of [illegible] cover and shams, large [illegible] with different colored flowers [illegible] broidered in heavy [illegible] ed in cross-stitch patterns [illegible] Mother Goose characters and [illegible] these last are particularly [illegible] for the youngster's room.

The woman who is fond of [illegible] and has plenty of leisure may [illegible] very lovely linen set for her bed [illegible] strips of heavy white [illegible] gether with pieces of fine [illegible] edged with lace. If more [illegible] desired, the linen may be [illegible] in a fine running design.

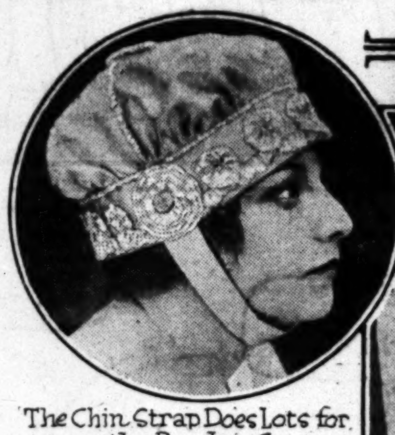
A LOT OF RIBBON AND TEN CLEVER FINGERS

WE HAVE always used ribbon to decorate our blouses, hats and dresses. Indeed, ribbon trimming has been a prime favorite for as long as any one can remember. But recently fashion has decreed that ribbon shall not only adorn garments, but that yards and yards of ribbon, cleverly cut and tacked and sewed, shall constitute whole articles of wearing apparel. These ribbon dainties will have an especial appeal on the fancywork table at the bazaar.

The unique hat for afternoon or informal evening wear, tho it looks so complicated is in reality the simplest contrivance possible. A buckram foundation of desirable or becoming shape may be procured at any of the popular two-priced stores. The hat illustrated is developed in blue with a delicate flesh-color facing. Wide satin ribbon is tacked around the brim for the lining and fulled into the head size of the crown. Narrower satin ribbon in a pale Belgian blue shade is fastened in succeeding rows to cover the top of the crown and brim. The stiff little roses which encircle the hat are made of folds and turns of two shades of blue satin, the darker in the center. These are mounted on a plain band of ribbon the same hue as the center of the flowers. You see, it is really very simple to make, and yet how charming is the result! It may be developed in any shade or combination of colors according to the individual taste. All white would be lovely tho not very practical: graduating shades of rose or pale green would be delightful with light frocks.

The fascinating little vanity bag is just the thing the girl who wears the hat will want to add as the finishing touch. The bag proper is a circular affair of the darker shade of satin ribbon. All over the bottom and up the sides are fastened the stiff little satin flowers in two shades. When the bag is drawn together at the top with the satin ribbons, one sees the delicate lining of thin silk corresponding in tone to the outside petals of the flowers. Two loops and a long end of ribbon at the side complete the bag. It is not only very smart and dainty, but capacious enough to hold milady's gloves, card case or handkerchief, as well as the essential and ever-present powder puff.

More things can be done with a piece of ribbon than you ever dreamed of. For, behold, here is an entire petticoat made of rows and rows of satin ribbon sewed on a net foundation. Almost too pretty to wear underneath. Never fear, it will not hide its light under a bushel, for it can be worn in the boudoir with a dainty chiffon or Georgette crepe negligee or as a frilly accompaniment to a thin evening frock.



The Chin Strap Does Lots for the Boudoir Cap

The boudoir pillow is a sort of half-rounded affair, very soft and comfy as well as ornamental. The deep yellow square of satin ribbon forming the center is fulled into a large covered button. The edges and sides are made of silk ribbon in a Persian design in dull blue and old gold. The knobs at each corner are a novelty.

You've seen knitting bags like this one illustrated in shop windows and you've looked at them longingly. But you never expected to really own one. Yet here is one all made of lovely rose-colored satin ribbon sewed together with cording and gathered into big covered buttons at each end. The rosettes and handles are shirred ribbon over heavy cord and the three silk apples, which add so materially to the decorative effect, may be purchased at almost any art needlework shop. The bag may be made up in any color or combination of colors; the size and details are matters of individual taste.

Do you ever remember seeing in the family album at home a picture of your grandmother in her best silk dress? It was a stiff taffeta with a tight waist and a very full skirt, and all around the bottom of the skirt there were several rows of "pinked" ribbon, and more around the neck and sleeves. Well, in the dainty brassiere-camisole is a revival of that old-fashioned pinking. Rectangular pieces of white brocaded silk are fagotted together with heavy white embroidery floss, giving the effect of wide hemstitching. Plain white satin ribbon with narrower ribbon pinked on each edge is used for shoulder straps. The pinking is repeated around the top of the garment.

But milady's costume for her boudoir would be incomplete without this adorable little boudoir cap. It is so different from the general run of boudoir caps that one would scarcely recognize it as such were it not for the materials of which it is made. A fairly tight foundation band covered with pink satin fits firmly over the hair, and into this the crown of the cap proper is fulled. This crown is composed of two distinct pieces of material joined with a row of pinking and finished at the top with a flat rosette of shirred ribbon. Three-quarter-inch ribbon is shirred, tacked in festoons around the foundation band and finished in a rosette over each ear. The fold of pink ribbon under the chin is the very newest thing.

Embroidery Suggestions for the Man's Room

WITH so many of our boys going into the trenches or the ambulance and aviation corps, we are so busy sometimes knitting and sewing and packing kits for them that we are in a little danger of slighting those who are remaining at home. Now the son who is sallying forth to college this fall, or the brother in his bachelor quarters will appreciate the expenditure of a little time and thought just as much as the boy somewhere in France, even tho he may not need it so badly.

So why not make him an owl set for his bedroom? It isn't as gloomy and nocturnal as it sounds. It consists of a big square pillow, a telephone screen, a collar bag, tie rack and whisk broom holder all made of ecru linen and embroidered with the wisest owl in Christendom.

The cushion is square and very soft, with a big owl sitting on a branch in the middle. The owl is done in outline stitch with black floss. The most striking part of his anatomy is his eyes, which are perfectly circular, with outstanding rays like the beams of the rising sun.

The telephone screen is a piece of cardboard covered with linen, just the shape of the owl's body. The collar bag has a stiff circular bottom and stiff sides about two inches up; the soft fulness at the top is drawn in by a brown cord, and the first cousin of the telephone screen owl reposes on one side. A long oval rack fitted with pegs for holding ties with an owl in the center, and a whisk broom holder similarly embroidered complete the set.

It is the simplest thing imaginable to make any or all of these articles, and each is of practical use in a man's room.

GOOD FORM, HEALTH AND BEAUTY

DON'T BE A SLOUCH—BE A SOLDIER

②

IF YOU are not in the habit of buying $100 gowns and were unexpectedly given a gown of that value, wouldn't you take the best of care of it? You may never have such a gift bestowed upon you, but you have been given one that is of greater value and that is your body. And yet ten chances to one you abuse that gift to such an extent that it loses all its beauty and grace. Now why would you take better care of the gown when it could be duplicated, and why are you so unkind to your body which cannot be duplicated. Perhaps one of the greatest injuries done to the body is the holding of it in incorrect and harmful positions.

When you see a soldier march by with his head erect, chest high and agile step, do you not admire his force and his vitality? Good posture indicates not only good health but also readiness for action. It is a military essential and a business asset of the highest value. (Fig. 1).

You have never seen a slouch in the army, have you? What is a slouch? A slouch is a person whose shoulders fall forward of their own weight, whose back is round, bending outward from the neck to the waist, whose chest is flat and narrow and whose head is bent forward. When a slouch puts her arms above her head she cannot hold her abdomen in, she cannot hold her head back, she cannot expand her chest, and she cannot keep her back straight. Are you a slouch (Fig. 2)? Don't be a slouch; be a soldier.

A slouch carries her burdens on her hips. Hips were not made for carrying burdens and this practice raises one shoulder higher than the other (Fig. 3). The soldier carries his burdens with the strength of his entire arm. His shoulders are equal and his hips are equal. He stands erect (Fig. 4). Don't be a slouch; be a soldier.

Don't bend over and make yourself a football when you read. This position is injurious for your eyes, making you near-sighted; injurious for your feet, making you subject to cramps; injurious for your chest, impeding respiration and the other activities of the heart and lungs; and injurious for your back which it rounds until it resembles a football (Fig. 5). The soldier is careful of his back. He supports it at the shoulders and at the hips whenever he can possibly do so, to protect that straight back which you and I admire so much (Fig. 6). Don't be a slouch; be a soldier.

You never saw a soldier with one leg curled up under him, did you? You never saw any man sitting in such an unhygienic position, did you? Then why do you so frequently assume this attitude? It is not restful; it is distinctly uncomfortable to sit on one foot. It is not aesthetic; a high shoulder, a high hip, and a round back do not give an attractive appearance. It is not even coquettish; it gives you a vulgar appearance (Fig. 7). Rest yourself by stretching your legs straight in front of you and keeping your back straight at all times (Fig. 8). Don't be a slouch; be a soldier.

ANSWERS TO BEAUTY QUERIES

REPLIES to letters to the writer of this department will be printed in regular order; but no replies in print may be expected in less than three or four weeks.

Correspondents desiring immediate replies to queries may get them by inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Personal inquiries will receive prompt attention if accompanied by a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Treatment for Whiteheads

My dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you please recommend something for small bumps on the face; my face is just full of small and large ones, and my back is affected in the same way.

Also, how long does it take cocoa butter to fatten the legs?

Thanking you in adavnce for your information, I am, WORRIED.

The small bumps that you speak of are probably whiteheads. Treatment of them consists first of all in getting at the cause; constipation or indigestion, perhaps both, are at the root of the trouble. It is advisable that you eat only simple, nourishing foods, abstaining from sweets, pastries and indigestibles generally. Drink plenty of water, sleep nine or ten hours out of the twenty-four, and exercise two hours daily in the open.

Local treatment consists of applying hot cloths to the face to soften the whiteheads and so make the removal of the pus easier. Then the little "bumps" may be punctured with a sterilized cambric needle to emit the pus. Cold water should be dashed on the face to close the pores.

After six months of regular exercise and massage with cocoa butter, visible results ought to be apparent.

A Hair Bleach

My dear Mrs. Symes:

Will you please print a harmless bleach for the hair? I do not care to use peroxide of hydrogen. Also, will you please give me something to make the hair brown; I do not desire a stain.

Could you tell where I may obtain—; is it reliable? Sincerely thanking you for the information, I am, HOPEFUL.

Peroxide is the most widely used bleach for the hair. But it never pays to oppose nature, you know, therefore I am slow to advise such artificiality.

Below I am printing a brown hair stain, and a formula for making sage tea. The latter is sometimes effectual in darkening the hair; but the former gives quickest results. But give the sage tea an honest trial before you resort to a stain.

Since I have never heard of the preparation you mention, I regret that I can tell you nothing about it.

Brown Hair Stain

Green walnut shells	2 ounces
Alum	¼ ounce
Pure oil	4 ounces

Heat together in a water bath until the water has been completely evaporated. Then express, filter and perfume.

Sage tea may be used to darken the hair. Make a strong brew of dried leaves, strain the liquid carefully thru muslin, and to each pint, add two teaspoonfuls of alcohol. This should be rubbed on the hair every night before retiring.

Sage Tea

Alcohol	2 ounces
Green tea	2 ounces
Garden sage	2 ounces

To make this liquid, take 1 ounce of tea to 4 ounces of water; 1 ounce of sage to 4 ounces of water.

Let each stand for several hours, then strain and take 2 ounces of the liquid of each, and mix with 2 ounces of alcohol.

Keep the mixture tightly corked, to prevent evaporation.

Acquiring Heavy Eyelashes

My dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you please print something for increasing the growth of eyelashes?

Also, do you advise using the tweezers on the eyebrows to make them more slender?

If you please, print a formula for a good pure face powder. Thanking you for your help, I am, MABEL.

Below I am printing a lotion for promoting the growth of the eyelashes. Visible results ought to be apparent within six months.

If the eyebrows are shaped by a professional, and well done, they are a big asset to good grooming. One may "go over" them now and then with the tweezers, applying peroxide to prevent infection.

Below I am printing a formula for a good face powder:

Eyebrow and Eyelash Grower

Vaseline	2 ounces
Tincture of cantharides	⅛ ounce
Oil of lavender	15 drops
Oil of rosemary	15 drops

Mix thoroly and apply to the eyebrows with a tiny toothbrush once a day until the growth is sufficiently stimulated; then less often.

The ointment may be used for the eyelashes also. In this case it should be very carefully applied. It will inflame the eyes if it gets into them.

Powder of White Geranium

(A Toilet Powder)

Starch powder	½ pound
Powdered orris root	1 ounce
Oil of geranium	15 drops

Crush free from lumps. Add the perfume a drop at a time.

To make a pink powder for the face, add carmine to above recipe. It is best to mix the carmine with alcohol first and then add to the toilet powder.

Various Questions

My dear Mrs. Symes.

I am a young girl, 18 years of age; I am five feet tall and weigh ninety-eight pounds. How much should a girl of my height and age weigh? Please give me some idea of how to gain weight.

Also, my skin is somewhat yellow in color and I am troubled with open pores. Can you give me any advice on remedying these conditions?

What would you suggest for fattening the legs? Is cocoa butter good? Thanking you in advance for any information that you may give me, I am, H. E.

A girl of your height and age should weigh about 113 pounds. Below I am printing suggestions for gaining weight, which, if you follow faithfully, ought to produce results.

The color of your skin is probably due to a sluggish liver. Plenty of out-door exercise, plenty of water, nine or ten hours' sleep, and wholesome, nourishing food, together with a cheerful state of mind ought to effect some good results. Below I am printing a lotion which may benefit the other condition.

Plenty of exercise and the regular massage of the limbs with cocoa butter are the most effective means of fattening the legs.

Suggestions for Gaining Flesh

To gain flesh take plenty of olive oil, eat eggs, butter, cereals and fatty broths, potatoes, peas, beans, corn, carrots and parsnips, figs, dates, nuts, bananas, underdone beefsteak and roast beef. Drink plenty of milk, cream and cocoa. Avoid food that will not digest easily, and be careful to masticate thoroly what you do eat. Give up pickles, vinegar and all acids. Exercise freely in the open air, and take plenty of sleep. Don't fret or worry; this will keep one thin more than anything else. Cultivate an easy-going disposition, if you possibly can.

Lotion for Enlarged Pores

Boric acid	1 dram
Distilled witch hazel	4 ounces

Apply with a piece of old linen or a bit of absorbent cotton.

For Superflous Hair

My dear Mrs. Symes.

I am a man 30 years of age, and I am greatly embarrassed by superfluous hair on my hands. Will you please recommend something reliable for its removel? Thanking you sincerely for your attention, I am, G. H. L.

Below I am printing a depilatory which will give you temporary relief from the superfluous growth. But the treatment must be repeated at intervals:

Depilatories

Sulphide of soda	100 grains
Slaked lime	80 grains
Starch	20 grains
Lime water	4 fluid drams

Barium sulphide is also used as a paste for depilatories. The standard formula is:

Barium sulphide	40 grains
Powdered chalk	400 grains

Mix with water. The barium sulphide must be absolutely dry to be effective when it is mixed with the chalk. Enough water should be afterward added to make a thin paste. Sulphide of strontium makes also an efficient depilatory. It is made as follows:

Sulphide of strontium	2 drams
Oxide of zinc	3 drams
Powdered starch	3 drams

For Freckles

My dear Mrs. Symes.

My face is just covered with "summer" freckles. Will you please advise something for their removal.

Also, what can I do for an excessively oily scalp? My hair is continually damp and oily; and I find it difficult to make it look at all presentable. Thanking you for any advice that you may give me, I am,

DISCOURAGED.

Below I am printing a lotion for freckles; I am quite sure that it will help you, somewhat, at least:

I am printing also a lotion for damp oily hair. Do not neglect to give the hair plenty of air and sunlight:

Doctor Wilson's Treatment for Obstinate Freckles

(Recommended by Erasmus Wilson, and, tho excellent in obstinate cases, does not suit all complexions equally well.)

Elderflower ointment	1 ounce
Sulphate of zinc	20 grains

Mix well and rub the affected skin at night. In the morning wash the cerate off with soap and soft water, and afterward apply a lotion thus composed:

Citric acid	30 grains
Infusion of rose	½ pint

All local discolorations, Doctor Wilson affirms, will disappear under this treatment; or, if the freckles do not yield, they will at least be greatly ameliorated.

The length of time it takes to effect a cure varies with different persons.

Lotion for Oily, Damp Hair

Powdered bicarbonate of soda	¼ ounce
Borate of soda, powdered	¼ ounce
Eau de cologne	1 fluid ounce
Distilled water	18 fluid ounces
Alcohol	2 fluid ounces

Mix and agitate until solution is complete. If used daily, it tends to produce a crispy condition.

exactly what we make make the best of it what life will be. You have little saying that we thing exactly what we put is exactly true. For if we worrying and fretting into all we will get out of it.

And if we put into life a large share of hope and joy and optimism, it will all return to us a thousand fold. Happiness is an investment which draws compound interest.

Putting the best of yourself into life and drawing out the best life has to offer is never an operation which could be performed with a long face and a scowl. There is a little jingle to the effect that if one person would but smile awhile, soon there would be miles of smiles started by that single smile. Looking at the world thru rose-colored glasses is largely a matter of habit, and a habit, which, when formed, is even more difficult to break than the habit of having a continual grouch. But it is a habit which must be acquired early in life and those of you who already possess the optimistic habit of mind should cultivate and enlarge it by constant practice.

The worries which we have about people are the very best things on which to practice the habit of making the best of things. Relations, for instance, offer a large field for optimistic effort. The first thing to do is get a new point of perspective, and you will be surprised how different your familiar family with their familiar little oddities and idiosyncrasies will look. First try the perspective of the person who has no family at all and you will see what a cherished possession yours really is. Then get the point of view of the person who is separated from his or her family, and you will more nearly appreciate the comradeship and intimacy which you have too frequently looked upon as a bore. Oh, there are plenty of new angles from which to look at your relations if you only search for them, and you'll be surprised how becoming the new light is to them.

The next thing to do is to apply your optimistic lenses to the people you meet in a business way. Try to make allowances for their shortness of temper and see how long yours will grow in consequence. This matter of looking on the bright side of things is purely a selfish proposition, for the returns to yourself and happiness, contentment and good health will more than repay the effort made.

You are skeptical about the good health part? But then you must know that worry causes more cases of dyspepsia and indigestion than all the over-eating in the world. How can you expect to digest your food properly when you are in a constant state of irritation at the table because grandfather will eat his peas with a knife, whether there is company or not?

Stop worrying and your worries will automatically disappear. It sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it? And yet it's true. For people rarely worry over a big trouble. If its in their power, they set about to put it right, and if it is beyond their control, they generally settle down to make the best of it. No; it isn't the big troubles that shorten the life of the average business man, and make the average American woman a nervous wreck before she is 35. Its the little trivial annoyances that people allow themselves to be absorbed by that bring with them the wrinkles and the taut nerves and the irritable tempers. Learn to make the best of your job and your life and it will make the best of you.

SOLUTIONS TO SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Desires an Introduction

MY DEAR Mrs. Adams.

I am deeply in love with a very nice-appearing young gentleman of a very respectable family, with whom I am not yet acquainted. Could you tell me which would be the best way to become acquainted with him? I am 18 years of age.

Thanking you very much for any advice which you may think proper to give.

PATTY.

My first bit of advice to you is to determine very carefully whether you are really in love with the young man. I hardly see how you can have any very deep affection for him, as you admit that you do not know him. If you are really determined to meet him, the only way it can be done is thru a mutual friend.

She Desires Popularity

My dear Mrs. Adams.

All of my girl friends have their beaux and boy friends, but I have none. I always try to be as polite and nice to the boys as I can, but none ever seems to care for me. Could you tell me what to do?

Not very long ago a young man called on me three times. After that he never came back. I don't know what I did that he should stay away.

Could you also tell me what one should do to entertain a young man in the evening? Of course, visiting is the main thing, but if the young man and you do not have the same interests, then it is hard to carry on a conversation for the whole evening. I thank you in advance for all the advice you may give me. CONSTANCE.

So many young girls come to me with exactly the same trouble you describe, and I have to tell them all practically what I am telling you. The best thing for you is to develop an interest outside of yourself. Adopt a hobby and ride it hard, and you will be sure to find some people who will prove extremely congenial to you because they are interested in the same thing.

If you find yourself at a loss when talking to men, try to broaden the horizon of your interests by reading the best new books, the current magazines, and going to see the best plays. Men are sure to be interested in a girl who can talk intelligently on either sports or politics.

If you are diffident about entertaining a young man alone during a whole evening, why not invite several young people in? Music and dancing or cards are sure to make the time pass pleasantly.

Shall She Try to Forget?

My dear Mrs. Adams.

I am coming to you for advice. I know a young man of whom I think a great deal, and I also think he cares for me. There is a young girl with whom he used to keep company, and who still thinks a lot of him, altho he does not care to see her. I know he still cares a little for her. Whenever we meet she always seems to have a few words with him alone. This hurts me very much, as he says he cares for nobody but me. Do you think it wise for me to try to forget him, which would be a very hard task, and leave him to his old friend?

WORRIED.

As long as you are not actually engaged to the young man, you have no right to complain of the number or intimacy of his girl friends. And if you are engaged to him, even secretly, and he assures you that you are the only one for whom he cares, you must take him at his word. As he no longer goes with the young girl you mention, and as he continues to go with you, you must be the person for whom he really cares. Try to rise above petty jealousies. It is perfectly possible that the man has an excellent friend in the girl, without any sentimental feeling on either side.

The Proper Apparel

My dear Mrs. Adams.

Please tell me the correct dress for a man for an afternoon wedding, and whether or not a Prince Albert could be worn with good taste at a morning ceremony.

G. C. L.

The correct wear for men at either an afternoon or a morning wedding, is a cut-away or Prince Albert coat, light gray trousers and a vest to match the coat. If the ceremony is solemnized after 6 o'clock, full evening dress is the only correct thing to wear.

Shall She Marry?

My dear Mrs. Adams.

You help so many people that I am writing to you for advice. I am a young girl of 17 and I am considered good-looking. I am keeping company with a young man just my age. He has asked me to marry him and my mother is opposed to it. He has a good position and comes from a good family. He is always at our house and is constantly asking me to marry him. If I get married secretly I should not feel that I was doing right. I have everything I can wish for in my own home, but yet I am not contented. I have one more year yet to go in high school. My girl friends all tell me I am foolish. What shall I tell the boy I love? Yours truly,

B. V. R.

My dear little friend, you seem to have left one very important factor entirely out of your calculations, and that is the law. Do you not realize that neither of you is of legal age, and that therefore you could not be legally married? And even if the boy were older, and your parents were not opposed to the match, still you are too young to even consider such a thing. Marriage can only be happy when both the man and the woman are perfectly sure that they are absolutely and finally in love. And you yourself call your young lover a "boy." What mature, fully developed woman could love a boy? No, your friends who tell you that you are foolish are right. Stay right on at school, and get vitally interested in any one of the great number of things which occupy girls your age. Tell the boy that you are ready and willing to be his very good friend, but that for a long time yet you are not even capable of being more to anyone.

A Variety of Tons

FOR this game only a pencil and a sheet of paper are needed. See that every player is provided with one of each. Tell the company that there are thirty questions, and have them number their papers. The answer to the first question may be given as an illustration to show them how to proceed. The person having the greatest number of answers correct is awarded a prize. The game may also be called "Geographic Tons," as each one is the name of a town or city

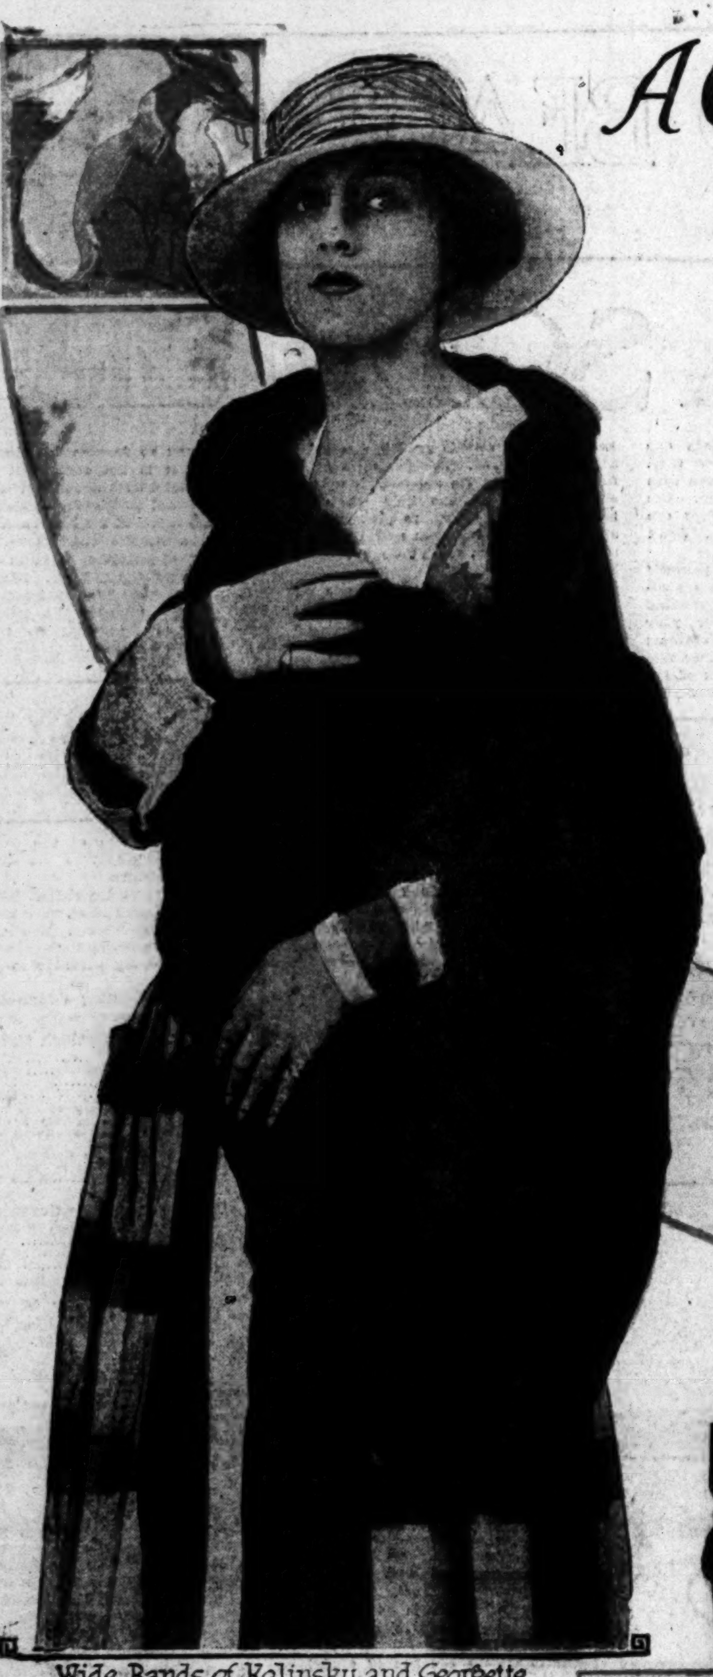
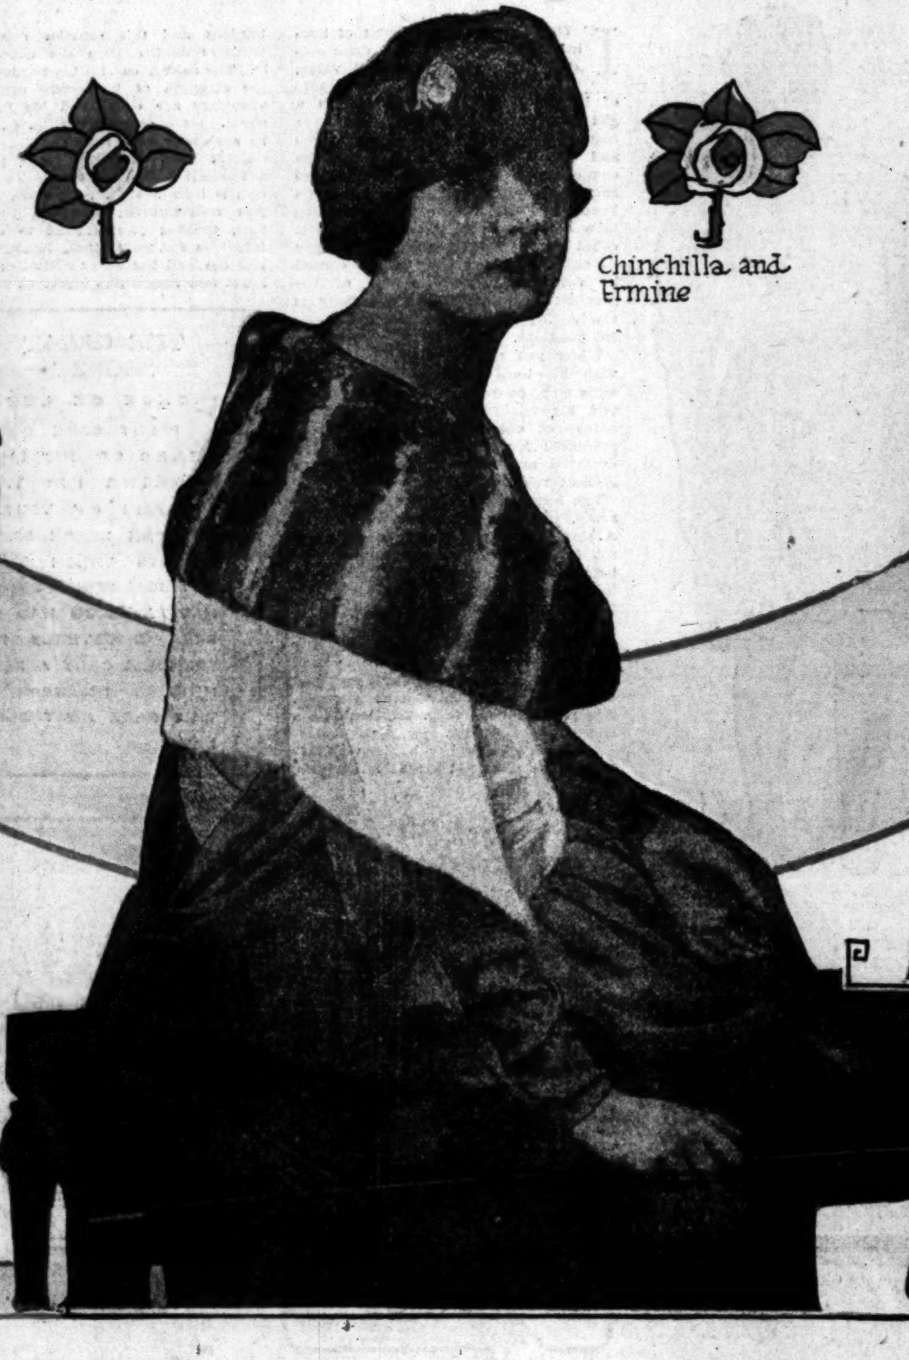
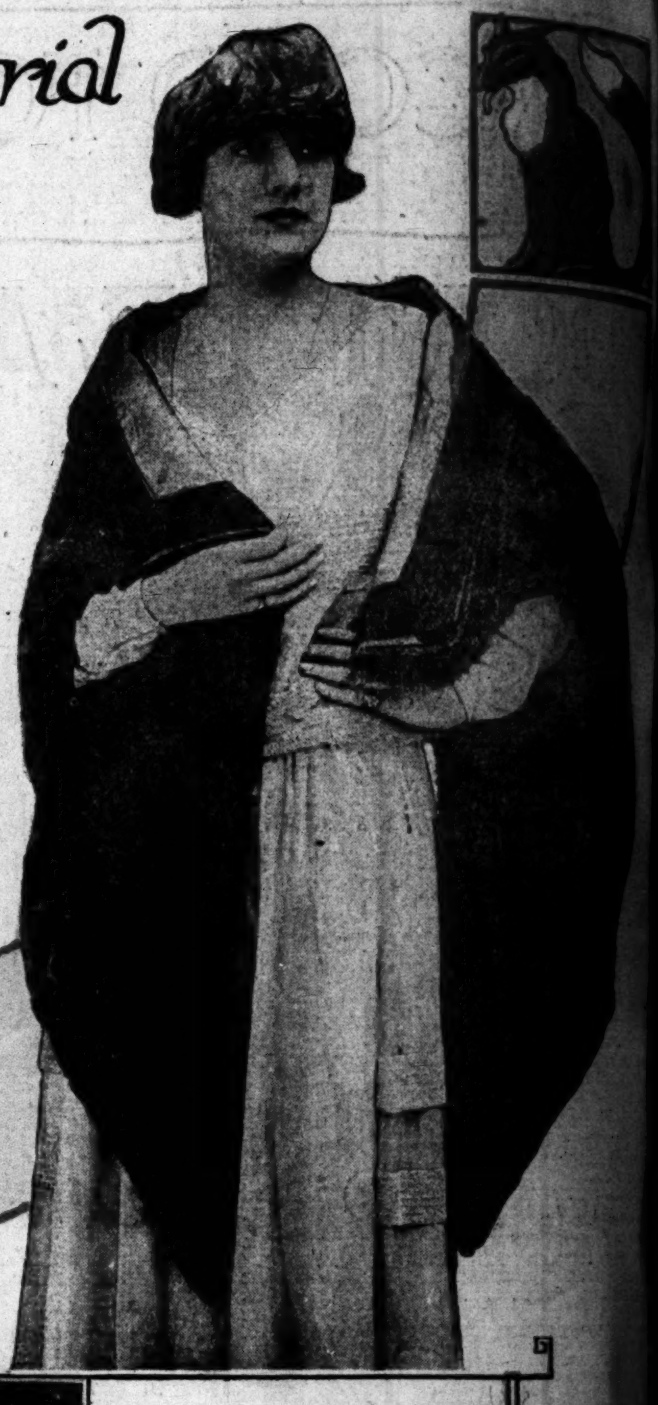
A Combination of Material Results in Graceful Wraps



Wide Bands of Kolinsky and Georgette



Chinchilla and Ermine



A Charming Development of Moleskin

WOMEN wait with bated breath until it is propitious to wear furs. They realize that an elegant fur has the effect that a beautiful landscape has on a beautiful residence. A graceful neckpiece not only adds a charming complement to a gown or a suit, but it goes much further—it softens one's features and it has a kindly influence on one's complexion. All of these points go to make a woman fare forth feeling that she is capable of success no matter whether she is to solicit donations for war funds or to combat with a rival in fashiondom. Is it any wonder that furs mean so much to womankind? While it is still too warm to wear winter furs there are quite a number of handsome models that will be bearable until crisp weather sets in. These are lighter in weight and the majority of them are combined with flimsy Georgettes and chiffon.

One model that is minus the thin material is the scarf made of chinchilla and ermine. This lacks the heavy linings that will be found in the neckpieces for later days, and is, therefore, as comfortable as one could desire.

A very handsome long, broad scarf is the one of brown Georgette banded with broad pieces of kolinsky.

Indicative of the style that will prove a favorite for winter furs is the cape model. This is a novelty that a majority of women will like because it allows the use of an animal scarf as well as the clever introduction of the modish cape. Here again brown Georgette lined with silk is used in combination with kolinsky.

A very sumptuous wrap is the chiffon-lined moleskin. Like many of the leading models, it is provided with sleeve pockets, which allow the arms to be thrust thru. At the back it falls only to the waistline and as it nears the front it increases its length in a graceful manner until the points extend beneath the knees. Surely this is the right style for the woman who craves long lines. The manner in which the cape may be thrown back at the neckline to form a collar is a feature worthy of notice.

Proving that the short scarf is just as graceful as the long one, the gray model is built on the square. Gray chiffon over satin forms the middle section and the whole thing is finished off with a binding of wide bands of moleskin.
